NAME 5 TO TRY DAUGHERTY

40 KILLED BY TNT EXPLOSION; TOWN WRECKED

100 Hurt by Blast Felt 60 Miles.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 1.—Forty persons dead and a hundred or more injured was estimated tonight as the toll of an explosion in the T.N.T. plant of the Nixon Nitration works. Flames showered through forty buildings of an adjoining celluloid works and demolished the little industrial towns of Nixon. An accurate check on the number killed was impossible.

As many of the victims, dead and dying, as could be removed from the blazing ruins were taken to a half dozen hospitals and hastily equipped emergency morgues. Their bodies were so mutilated and burned that only a few were identified.

Twelve Bodies Recovered.

By nightfall twelve bodies were reported recovered and seven had been identified tentatively. Spurred by reports of survivors that a score still lay buried beneath the burning debris, soldiers joined firemen, state police, and citizen volunteers in hoisting arc lights and beginning an all night attack upon the twisted masses of wreckage.

The explosion occurred at 11:30 a. m. in the ordnance salvaging plant. The building, two stories high, and of hollow tile construction, was literally [illegible] from the earth along with the [illegible] believed to have been within it. The shock was felt for sixty miles, shattering windows, lifting roofs and toppling chimneys in many cities. On Staten Island buildings rocked as if in an earthquake.

Forty Buildings Crushed.

The single destructive blast crushed forty buildings of the celluloid works which surrounded the T. N. T. plant and razed as if by shell fire the encircling dwellings of 200 employés whose little settlement was known as the town of Nixon.

Through shattered roofs and crumbled walls—upon piles of flimsy celluloid sheets in every one of the Nixon buildings—showered embers, blazing T. N. T. and boiling acid broadcast by the explosion. The blue flames of the highly inflamable celluloid with which all the structures were filled burst forth on the heels of the blast, like a huge blow torch, cutting down every one and everything within a radius of several hundred feet.

Screams of Injured.

The screams of men and girls pinned down by steel girders, crushed by falling walls of tile or caught beneath severed pipe lines which showered them with nitric acid, mingled with the cries of housewives and children whose dwellings only a few feet from the celluloid works, came tumbling down upon them.

Men, wounded and frenzied, with clothes burned off and bodies scorched black, ran out upon the road to New Brunswick, two miles away.

A hundred soldiers, hastily mobilized at the Raritan arsenal, were speeded by automobiles to the scene. Accompanied by the arsenal's ambulances and hospital corps, they were the first to attack the flames and start rescue work.

Arsenal Powder Threatened.

Later it was discovered that four of the arsenal high explosives magazines had been crushed by the explosion and the roofs of two others blown in. Fourteen companies of firemen helped check the flames, which for a time threatened to spread to the arsenal's acres of powder warehouses.

Doctors and nurses from hospitals in nearby cities were early on the scene. Numerous heroic rescues were recorded, nurses and soldiers working side by side amid the smoke and dense yellow fumes which all day rolled up from the ruins as tank after tank of nitric acid and amonia burst.

An hour after the explosion the village of Nixon and the twenty acres or more of buildings which had housed the explosive works looked like a sector of battlefront.

Carry Out Bodies.

For two miles the narrow road leading from the main highway was lined with automobiles hub deep in mud, past which rushed fire apparatus, ambulances, hearses, police and army cars, and people running and crying. Stretcher bearers carried the dead and injured through cars of relatives of the victims who besieged the gates of the plant.

It was said the T. N. T. was part of [illegible],000,000 pounds that had been purchased from the government's Raritan [illegible] and removed from big shells at the arsenal magazines.

PUBLIC RALLIES TO "LOST LEGION"

Medinah Temple Meeting at 2:30 P. M. Today.

Resolutions demanding a full civilian review of all cases of military prisoners—soldiers who fought and are still behind Leavenworth's bars, while the slackers and spies have been set free—will be sent tonight to President Coolidge and to every member of congress, following a massmeeting at Medinah temple, Cass and Ohio streets. The meeting will start at 2:30 but the doors will be opened earlier.

Members of half a hundred veterans' and patriotic organizations have drafted the resolutions. They are not satisfied with the review by the military board that just finished its work, though that review, going to Washington, may be of some effect.

Foubare Explains Purpose.

Claude L. Foubare, chairman of the committee to review the cases of military prisoners, as the new organization of organizations calls itself, stated the position of the veterans.

"We are not fighting for any wholesale release of these prisoners," he said. "All we ask is a fair and impartial civilian review of each individual case, and clemency and release where they are due."

Speakers at the meeting today will be Hanford MacNider, past national commander of the American Legion; Attorney Frank Comerford, and several others.

Urge Public to Attend.

Medinah temple seats 5,000 persons, and the veterans have urged all patriotic citizens to attend, so that the meeting may represent a force which will be felt in official Washington.

The Shriners, who have given the temple for the meeting, also have arranged for music.

In the evening all the town of Harvey, Ill., is expected to turn out at the First Methodist Episcopal church there at the call of the Rev. Charles D. Wilson. Martin Walsh of Austin post, American Legion, will go to Harvey to speak at that meeting, from which resolutions also will be forwarded to Washington.

MAN KILLED; YOUTH AND GIRL HURT IN CRASH

James J. McDonald, 31 years old, 5116 South Wood street, was killed, and Lillian Thideau, 18 years old, 5116 South Wood street, and Stephen Johannes, 24 years old, 4874 South Lawndale avenue, were severely injured in an automobile crash early today.

The three in a closed car crashed headlong into a freight train at 111th street and 54th avenue, Blue Island.

Real estate news will be found on pages 13 and 14 of part 2.

7 GERMANS DIE IN EXPERIMENTS ON NEW WAR GAS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, March 1.—An accident in a Dresden military laboratory, which cost the lives of seven men, has revealed the discovery of a new poison gas developed during the last few months for the German army. This new weapon is more destructive than anything of its kind used in the war.

WHY LA FOLLETTE ISN'T CANDIDATE

Senate Calls; And There's That "Steam Roller."

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], leader of the radical bloc in congress, is not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

In a letter today to C. J. Olson, chairman of the La Follette campaign committee of North Dakota, explaining the withdrawal of his name from the North Dakota primaries, the Wisconsin senator said the Cleveland convention would run a steam roller operated by the same forces that controlled in 1912 and other years. The letter is interpreted by party leaders here as marking a step in a well defined La Follette program for a third party.

"I greatly appreciate," wrote Senator La Follette, "the splendid messages that have come from you and numerous other friends urging me to restore my name to the North Dakota presidential primary ballot and assuring me of your strong support. I feel that I should state to you frankly the reasons for my action.

His Duty in Senate.

"I did not ask to have my name placed on the ballot, and I have now withdrawn from the primary for the same reasons that have controlled me in refusing to be a candidate in the primaries of other states.

"I feel that my present duty lies in the senate of the United States, where events of far reaching importance are occurring. I cannot leave my post here, where my voice and my vote may be of some service to the nation, in order to promote my personal interests elsewhere. At the same time, I am unwilling now, as I have always been, to permit my name to stand in a campaign where I cannot personally participate in placing the issues before the people.

Those "Steam Roller Blues."

"I have no illusions about the Cleveland convention. The steam roller will be operated there by the same forces that controlled it in 1912 and other years. The arbitrary increase of the unrepresentative southern delegations is sufficient proof of this.

"Wisconsin will send a strong progressive delegation to Cleveland to fight for fundamental principles, and I earnestly hope that North Dakota will send you and other tried and true progressives as delegates to support them in voicing the demand of the people that the government of the United States shall serve them and not the monopolists and exploiters, whose sinister activities in Teapot Dome and elsewhere are now being disclosed."

FINGER PRINTS POINT SLAYER IN DUFFY CASE

Quiz Hortons, Hunt Vice King.

Finger prints early today told a silent story of another man besides Engelke who stood by when John Duffy killed his wife, Maybelle, only to be murdered himself a few hours later.

Where Engelke had insisted that only he and the two Duffys were present in the drinking bout in Duffy's flat which ended in the first of the two murders, Edward Evans, finger print expert for the state's attorney, found four sets of finger marks on glasses and bottles.

One matched with Mrs. Duffy's, one with her husband's and one with Engelke's fingers. But thus far no finger has been found to match the fourth set of prints.

Another Police Theory.

Early this morning police ordered a search for Jerry Agnew. He was named last night by Jack Horton as the mysterious "Jerry" frequently mentioned by Engelke as telling Duffy other men were running around with Mrs. Duffy. His finger prints, if he is found, also will be taken and compared with those found in the Duffy flat.

One theory of the police was that the prints were those of a Philadelphia gunman possibly imported to kill Duffy or possibly friendly to Duffy at first, but his slayer through some later quarrel.

Search for murderers of Duffy, alias John Dougherty, also swung into the toughest sections of Chicago's underworld when police started looking for Al Brown, manager of the "Four Deuces," known as the most disorderly of houses.

Hortons Are Back.

A squad of detectives started looking for Brown shortly after officials got back in the city from New Orleans with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horton and Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Curtis. It was in the Norton flat, 1612 Carmen avenue, Duffy killed his wife, according to the story of William Engelke.

Brown was sought as a result of development of clews which brought Julian Kaufman, son of a wealthy commission merchant; "Yankee" Schwartz, and Earl Weiss into the case.

Follows Engelke Story.

William Engelke, who told of seeing Duffy murder his wife, told of seeing Duffy and others walk to an automobile near the "Four Deuces" at 2222 South Wabash. This is the last known time Duffy was seen alive.

Investigation showed that Brown has a large car which generally is parked opposite the resort—near the identical spot where Engelke says Duffy got into a car which he described as "about the size and general appearance of a Cadillac."

The entrance to the "Four Deuces" is a saloon.

Cusick's Case Recalled.

Farther south—near 145th street—is another vice stockade where seekers after dissipation may enter and pay the price. This place, it was learned, is managed by Harry Cusick and his wife, Alma, associates of Brown. The Cusicks seem to have even more powerful associates, for recently, after being sent to state's prison at Joliet for pandering, they were pardoned by Gov. Small.

"Yankee" Schwartz, from whom Kaufman says he bought the stolen jewelry found on his wife, and numerous other associates of Duffy are hangers-on at those places.

Jewel Robbery Another Clew.

Development of these clews came partly as a result of a police theory that Duffy's death was due to a quarrel among thieves. In support of it they were informed by Philadelphia police that the murdered man is believed to have taken part in a $105,000 jewelry robbery in Atlantic City a few weeks ago and that recently five ex-convicts, also believed to have been in the gang, came to Chicago, their hands figuratively on their bulging hips.

Duffy, it is thought, met death through one of two motives:

Either he had failed properly to divvy the swag collected by the gang.

Or else he was breaking with at least some of the members and they feared he would "squawk."

Whether the five Philadelphia gangmen came before the murder and killed Duffy or afterwards to avenge his death was not clear to the police, but every police station was ordered to be on the lookout. Names and descriptions of the five were broadcast to every precinct.

HORTONS STICK TO STORY

The arrival of the Curtises and the Hortons from New Orleans, in custody of detectives, revealed some new police theories; but so far as was announced failed to point a finger at the slayer.

Mrs. Horton was the first of the four questioned. She gave a chronological account of the trip from Chicago to New Orleans — essentially the same

Take Vacation of Year from Married Life

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Twelve years steady on any one job deserves a good vacation, in the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. John Seymour Winslow. And that's why he is going to take a year's vacation from the job of being a husband and she will take the same time off from the job of being a wife. They were married on Feb. 29, 1912.

MRS. J. S. WINSLOW
[Moffett Photo.]

Mr. Winslow is in the advertising business, while his wife, as Thyra Samter Winslow, is a well known short story writer.

"This may sound like a new fangled idea," Mrs. Winslow said today, "but I want to assure you that it has an old fashioned basis. We just want a vacation. We are as much in love with each other as we ever were. This is to be a true vacation, not a separation.

Fear Loss of Individuality.

"For twelve years we have been together so much that we are afraid of losing our individuality. Our marriage has so far been childless, and in studying other couples we have seen husband and wife lose individuality and each become half of a little pair.

"Each of us has a profession. Each of us is really an individual, though we have the same likes and interests and the same group of friends. But each of us is becoming submerged in the other until Seymour feels that he is less himself than he is I, and I feel that I am as much Seymour as I am myself.

See Each Other Occasionally.

"Of course, we'll see each other once in a while. He'll take me out to dinner occasionally and I'll expect to have him up for tea or maybe breakfast, but we'll act toward each other like we do toward our other friends. At the end of the year we'll go to Europe."

The Winslows came to New York from Chicago six years ago. Both had been reporters there, on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Mr. Winslow is originally from Madison, Wis., where his father was a noted member of the Wisconsin state Supreme court.

The vacation officially starts next Sunday, after a "vacation party" to their friends in their Kew Gardens home.

HIRAM OUT OF CAMPAIGN FOR N. Y. DELEGATES

New York, March 1.—Formal announcement was made today by Arthur B. Murtha, New York manager of Senator Hiram W. Johnson, that the Californian had abandoned his campaign for delegates from New York to the Republican national convention and "will depend upon the force of public opinion to make the party bosses recognize the sentiment of the people."

Coincident with the announcement were reports that William Wrigley Jr. and Albert D. Lasker have withdrawn their financial support from Senator Johnson.

[Mr. Wrigley is not at his Chicago home, and Mr. Lasker is en route to New York. The report that they had withdrawn financial aid from Johnson is rather generally believed among Chicago politicians.]

Petitions for the spring primary will not be filed, Mr. Murtha announced, chiefly because the state law does not permit a preferential presidential vote, and to obtain the delegates at large through the state party convention "an independent candidate will be under the necessity of spending huge sums of money," because "the primary cards are so stacked."

SENATE PICKS 'RADICALS' FOR QUIZ; HOT ROW

May Ask Coolidge if He Wired McLean.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The senate today, by a vote of 66 to 1, adopted the Wheeler resolution ordering a sweeping investigation into the official conduct of Attorney General Daugherty. The only vote against the resolution was cast by Senator Davis Elkins [Rep., W. Va.].

The overwhelming majority in favor of the resolution was something of a surprise in view of the days of bitter partisan debate which preceded the roll call. Even Senator Willis [Rep., Ohio] and his colleague, Senator Fess [Rep., Ohio], the only two senators who defended the attorney general in the debate, cast their votes for the resolution after some of the strong language of the preamble condemning Daugherty had been eliminated.

Members of New Committee.

The expected fight over the selection of the committee failed to materialize, and the committee was named by senate vote as follows:

Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], chairman; Senator Moses [Rep., N. H.], Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.], Senator Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.], and Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.].

The Republican regulars who had protested against the appointment of Senator Brookhart as chairman because he was too radical, yielded when it became apparent that the coalition of Democrats and insurgents had votes enough to elect him. The vote for the investigation and the personnel of the committee—the very men he named—constitute an overwhelming triumph for Mr. Wheeler over the "old guard."

Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.], insurgent leader, placed Senator Brookhart in nomination. Senator Curtis [Rep., Kas.], assistant Republican leader, nominated Moses and Jones, while Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Democratic leader, nominated Ashurst and Wheeler. This "slate" was ratified with only one or two dissenting voices.

OIL AND STORMY WATERS

Other outstanding developments of the day were:

1. Senator Brookhart announced the committee would meet Monday to decide on procedure, and indications are that hearings will begin at once.

2. Former Senator George E. Chamberlain and Paul Howland, counsel for Daugherty, offered Chairman Brookhart every facility of the department of justice to aid the investigation; asked the right to attend all hearings and meetings, to interrogate witnesses and to introduce testimony on their own motion, and called for the definite charges.

3. The Teapot Dome committee took a recess until Tuesday, at which time William J. Burns will be called to explain the use of the department of justice secret code to tip off Edward B. McLean in Palm Beach, concerning moves in the investigation. Burns denied communicating with McLean.

4. Disclosure was made that McLean for some time has been a duly accredited agent of the department of justice, being known as "a dollar a year man" and possessing a shield and an operative's credentials.

5. The Teapot Dome committee, beginning the cross-examination of McLean's employés and agents, learned from John Major that all messages over the private leased wire from Washington into McLean's cottage at Palm Beach were destroyed as soon as they were sent or received.

Text of the Resolution.

The text of the resolution as finally adopted by the senate was as follows:

"Resolved, That a committee of five senators, consisting of three of the majority and two of the minority, be authorized and directed to investigate circumstances and facts, and report the same to the senate, concerning the alleged failure of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States, to prosecute properly violators of the Sherman anti-trust act and the Clayton act against monopolies and unlawful restraint of trade; the alleged neglect and failure of the said Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States, to arrest and prosecute Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, E. L. Doheny, C. R. Forbes, and their co-conspirators, in defrauding the government; as well as the alleged neglect and failure of the said attorney general to arrest and prosecute many others for violations of federal statutes, and his alleged failure to prosecute properly, efficiently and promptly,

Representing a victory for Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), the senate yesterday selected five of its members to investigate Attorney General Daugherty's record in office. Mr. Wheeler named the five against the Republican regulars' wishes. The Republicans on the committee are Brookhart (Iowa), Moses (N. H.), and Jones (Wash.), and the Democrats are Wheeler and Ashurst (Ariz.). The inquiry will start this week.

and defend all manner of civil and criminal actions wherein the government of the United States is interested as party plaintiff or defendant; and said committee is further directed to inquire into, investigate, and report to the senate the activities of said Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general, and any of his assistants in the department of justice, which would in any manner tend to impair their efficiency or influence as representatives of the government of the United States. The said committee above referred to and the chairman thereof shall be elected by the senate of the United States."

AIM PROBE AT W. J. BURNS

William J. Burns, chief of the department of justice secret service, will be a target for the fire of the oil lease investigating committee next week as a result of telegraphic disclosures. Burns today denounced as "a damn lie" a telegram in which his name was used as tipping E. B. McLean off to the course of the investigation concerning him.

He will be called as a witness, nevertheless, and will be asked to explain whether code messages sent to Mr. McLean were transmitted in cipher used by secret service agents; whether Mr. McLean is carried on the official list of the department of justice as a secret agent at a nominal salary and why, and whether he, as chief of the government secret agents attached to the attorney general's office, had communicated information to McLean while senate investigators were working on evidence in the oil scandal involving Albert B. Fall.

Calls It an Old Code, Anyhow.

Burns said today he believed the code employed in some of the McLean messages was once used in the department of justice, but had been discarded. He denied emphatically that he ever had communicated with the Washington publisher in Florida and said he had no knowledge whatever of facts on which Mary Duckstein, an employé of the department of justice and former secretary to Burns, based a message to her husband, McLean's employé, mentioning Burns as interested in McLean's affairs.

Burns did not deny that Publisher McLean wears a secret agent's badge, but he said that names of secret agents of the department never are revealed.

MAY QUESTION COOLIDGE

President Coolidge was called on in the senate today to tell whether he had any communication with McLean, while McLean was in Palm Beach.

Senator Caraway [Dem., Ark.], in a speech on the Wheeler resolution for investigation of Attorney General Daugherty, said:

"I'd like the President to say whether or not he entered into communication with McLean in Florida. One hundred million people would like to know."

Caraway then referred to one of the mysterious McLean telegrams, which notified McLean that one of his employés had seen "the principal" and delivered a message from McLean; that the "principal" was gratified at the message and was glad to know there would be no resignations and "no rocking of the boat."

Who Is "the Principal"?

"Who is the principal?" Caraway asked. "Who knows whether there were to be more resignations from the cabinet? Who could have been the principal?"

Mr. Caraway accused Daugherty of using the department of justice code in the telegrams sent to McLean.

"Daugherty," he said, "did nothing to help expose the crookedness of public officials. On the contrary, he lent a positive hand by turning over the secret code of the department of justice so that criminals in Florida might communicate with criminals in his department."

"It makes me happy," the Arkansas senator continued, "to know that Cautious Cal will not be swept away by the prevailing hysteria, but will not even announce what action he intends to take."

It was officially stated tonight at the White House that President Coolidge will make "no comment" or reply to Caraway's remarks.

Ohioan Assails Senators.

Senator Fess bitterly assailed the conduct of the senate.

"It strikes me, my colleagues," he said, "that the senate is reaching rather a low level. I hope this is not the school of scandal. I hope it is not the sluiceway through which fall all sorts of charges, supported and unsupported, to bring discredit in the minds of the public against public men.

"I sincerely hope that this distinguished body is not today on trial before the public mind, wondering whether, after all, everybody connected with the government is not crooked, because of irresponsible statements that are bandied first from one to another and then vice versa.

"I say, Mr. President, that this proceeding for the last two months has been a shame and a disgrace to America, and we ought to be ashamed of such a performance. But I want to let it be known that the attitude of the senior senator from Montana, Mr. Walsh, is most admirable. He has done service to the country."

This Makes Democrats Angry.

Senator Fess said he would not be surprised if the courts upheld the oil leases.

Senator Fess' remarks aroused the ire of Democratic senators, and Senator Caraway hastened to reply in characteristic fashion. He declared it was noteworthy that Mr. Fess' first speech in the senate should be a defense of the attorney general.

"It may be the senate is hysterical, as he says, but, if it is, it is hysterical in trying to see that crime shall be punished and the people's property protected," he went on. "When two senators on the other side are hysterical, like the senators from Ohio, in seeing that nobody is punished and no public property restored, then we get the assertion that the contract was legal and that Doheny and Sinclair were rightfully in possession of Teapot Dome and reserve No. 1."

It Was News to Caraway.

Senator Wheeler asked Senator Caraway whether he did not know that Duckstein "is the private and confidential secretary of McLean."

"No, I did not know that," Caraway replied.

"Does the senator know," asked Senator Wheeler, "that Mrs. Duckstein was, up until about December, the confidential secretary for William J. Burns and is now an operative in the department of justice?"

"I hope the senator from Montana," Senator Caraway replied, "is not trying to sweep me into hysteria." [Laughter.]

"Mr. Rochester is the private secretary and publicity agent for the attorney general, is he not?" Mr. Caraway asked.

"I think so," said Senator Wheeler.

"And he sends messages," said Caraway. "Of course, now, that is entirely proper; we have never heard the senator from Ohio object to that at all. There is no hysteria in the department protecting crooks. It is only hysteria when people try to regain their property and to punish criminals."

Ohioans Didn't Try to Help.

Senator Caraway said the two senators from Ohio were not hysterical, but were "certainly agitated when there is an effort made to find out what Daugherty's connection is with this matter."

"I defy either one of them," he continued, "to put his hands on a single act of theirs, or to call attention to a single word that he ever uttered, that helped in any way to uncover the sale of public property or to forward in any manner the investigation to ascertain, first, to what extent the corruption extends, and, secondly, to punish the people who are guilty of the offense."

WOMEN DRAWN INTO QUIZ

A woman was drawn into the investigation when Senator Walsh announced as the oil committee began its day's session that he would summon Mrs. Duckstein to testify regarding the code telegrams.

Duckstein today stated his wife's name is Jessie, but that she had used the name Mary on occasions. One of the code telegrams to Duckstein, signed "Mary," informed him that Burns had sent for Mary and said to tell McLean he was being investigated by the justice department.

Walsh wants Mrs. Duckstein to tell whether she sent this message and whether Burns had given her such instructions. He also wants to know how McLean got the obsolete department of justice code.

Francis McAdoo, son of William G. McAdoo and counsel for McLean, will refuse to testify on the ground that the relations of counsel and client are confidential, he said today. He added that he would ask Senator Walsh to excuse him and that, if Walsh would not do so, he would claim his privilege as counsel and refuse to disclose what McLean hired him to do.

McAdoo's name figures in several of the telegrams between McLean and his employés, and A. Mitchell Palmer told the committee yesterday he suggested to McAdoo a letter from McLean telling of the $100,000 loan to Fall.

New Telegrams Submitted.

H. F. Taff, general superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company, submitted an additional batch of messages to the committee when the hearings were resumed today.

John Spurgeon, managing editor of the Washington Post, was first called to the stand. Senator Walsh asked him to testify concerning the private leased wire established between Washington and McLean's Palm Beach cottage.

Q.—What company did you lease it from? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Who does know? A.—I'm sure I don't know.

Q.—Who has custody of the messages sent over the private wire? A.—I don't know.

John Major, reporter on the Post, who sent most of the telegrams to McLean, was next called to the stand. He described himself as "confidential agent to Mr. McLean."

"What did you have to do about installing McLean's leased wire?" Senator Walsh asked him.

"I just put in the order for installation," Major answered.

Q.—Who paid for the service? A.—I have not the slightest idea.

Q.—Where are the copies of the messages sent over this wire? A.—They were destroyed.

Q.—When were they destroyed? A.—Every night after the wire closed.

Q.—Why were they destroyed. A.—We didn't think they were anyobdy's business, so we destroyed them.

Q.—Who did the destruction? A.—I did.

Nothing Was Saved.

Q.—You destroyed everything relating to his business affairs as well as his personal relations? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—So that's the way you discharge your duties as confidential man, is it? A.—That's correct.

Q.—Who was the operator? A.—Mr. Smithers.

Q.—What other service did Mr. Smithers perform during the day? A.—I suppose he went home and went to bed.

Q.—Well, he was also the operator at the White House, wasn't he? A.—That's right.

Q.—Who suggested employment of Mr. Smithers? A.—I imagine that Mr. Duckstein did.

Major lounged easily in the witness chair, smoking a cork tipped cigaret. He chewed gum and leaned back with his hands in his pockets as Walsh shot questions at him.

Q.—What was the purpose of putting in this leased wire? A.—To keep Mr. McLean in daily touch with events in this country and European countries.

Q.—You had been using the commercial wires for that purpose? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you ever put in a leased wire before when Mr. McLean went to Florida? A.—No, sir.

THAT "WHITE HOUSE" WIRE

"Who is Mr. Homer?" Walsh asked.

"He is Francis Homer, one of Mr. McLean's and his father's advisers. He lives in Baltimore."

One of the messages between Major and McLean given the committee by the Western Union, mentioned that "Homer" urged installation of the private leased wire to "give easy access to the White House."

Major handed Senator Walsh a letter, saying: "I think that may help to clear up the situation."

"You saw Smithers, the telegrapher, at the White House for Mr. McLean?" Senator Dill asked.

"I just talked about installation of the wire. Mr. McLean told me to."

Walsh then read the letter Major had handed him. It was from Francis T. Homer to Edward B. McLean, denying that Homer had ever telephoned Major urging installation of the private wire "to give easy and quick access to the White House."

"As I did not know your relations with the present administration, I could not have stated that," Homer wrote. "Telephone connections were very bad. What I said was that 'with Wiley at your house it would also give you easy and quick access to him.'"

Walsh then asked Major when Homer told him to send the message about "easy access to the White House."

"That same day."

Q.—Well, what do you say now about what Homer told you? A.—I don't know what to say.

Q.—Did you misquote Homer? A.—I quoted what I thought he said.

Q.—What did you understand Homer meant by "quick and easy access to the White House"? A.—I don't know what Mr. Homer thinks about.

Q.—Well, what access did it give to the White House? A.—I don't know.

DAUGHERTY WILL NOT COMMENT ON SENATE ATTACK

Jacksonville, Fla., March 1.—[United Press.]—Attorney General Daugherty plans to make no reply to the attack of Senator Stanley [Dem., Ky.] that he is "going to Miami to hide behind a woman's skirts," Daugherty said on reaching Jacksonville today. Although he feels wounded by the remarks, he indicated he felt he should pay no attention to the attack.

Daugherty and his party proceeded by motor to St. Augustine this morning, where the attorney general will have a brief visit with his brother, Neal Daugherty, before catching a train for Miami, where Mrs. Daugherty is ill.

OIL GIVES HOPE TO DARK HORSES OF DEMOCRACY

Field Widens as Leaders Count McAdoo Out.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The managers of the Democratic party are now proceeding on the theory that the oil scandal has ruined the Republican régime and made the election of a Democratic President this year a foregone conclusion.

All the Democrats need to do, say the Jeffersonian leaders, is to nominate a candidate who never has owned any oil stock, never has accepted any retainers from oil interests, and never has been acquainted with an oil magnate—the people will do the rest at the ballot box.

Consequently, the various possibilities for the Democratic nomination are being subjected to the oil test. The result in the case of William Gibbs McAdoo was startling. Before taking he was the leading candidate for the nomination. Indications were he would have a majority of the delegates, with a fair chance of winning the two-thirds of the convention necessary to a choice. After taking he shriveled to just an ordinary contender, with probably not as much chance of winning as any one of half a dozen others.

"McAdoo Is Through."

The general opinion among the big men in the party is that "McAdoo is through," as a result of his $150,000 fees received from Doheny, the oil millionaire, the $1,000,000 fee he was to have received from Doheny for performing an undefined service in Mexico, and the fees he received for handling transactions with government departments in the last two years of the Wilson administration.

The former secretary of the interior, John Barton Payne, has been brought forward as a candidate. The oil test was promptly applied. It was charged he had leased lands adjoining the navy oil reserves to private oil concerns, which proceeded to drain off navy oil.

Senator Oscar Underwood [Ala.], who was second only to McAdoo in the Democratic lists, and is now possibly the leading candidate, has not been involved in the oil affair, and is profiting from the sudden change in the situation.

With the McAdoo movement disintegrating it is not unlikely Underwood will go to the convention with the largest single block of delegates.

In the discussion of compromise candidates among Democratic politicians, who were satisfied that neither McAdoo nor Underwood could be nominated, the name of Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana has been foremost. Mr. Ralston has been governor of Indiana, and in 1922 he was elected to the senate over Albert J. Beveridge, who has possessed great popularity among Indiana voters.

Gov. Smith's Chances.

Another leading figure in the preconvention lineup is Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York. Most politicians are saying he cannot be nominated, but there is no overlooking the fact that his potential strength is considerable. In addition to the 90 delegates from New York, or more of them, he is credited with the prospect of an initial strength in the nominating convention of 12 votes of Maine, 8 of Vermont, 10 of Rhode Island, 6 of Delaware, 16 of Maryland, 20 of Louisiana, and 58 of Illinois—these last through the grace of George Brennan, head of the Illinois Democratic organization, who is on intimate terms with Charles E. Murphy.

It is claimed also that Smith will be able to command some votes from Pennsylvania and has a chance of getting 8 from New Hampshire, 36 from Massachusetts, 14 from Connecticut, 28 from New Jersey, and 48 from Ohio.

But opinion in Democratic circles inclines toward regarding Smith's strength as a cover for Underwood, for whom much sentiment has developed in the states named.

The name of John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, has come in for mention as a Democratic presidential possibility since Mr. McAdoo's boom has suffered deflation.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana has sidestepped an effort to bring him forward as a candidate, this effort being born of the services of Senator Walsh in uncovering the Teapot Dome oil scandal.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is seeking to control the delegation of his state with a view to having it support him for the presidential nomination.

To The Public:

ON last Wednesday morning the lighting and power wires of our store were accidentally put out of service, following which many rumors were circulated throughout the city to the effect that several casualties resulted and that our building had been damaged.

WE wish to state most emphatically that no one was injured even slightly, and that the building was affected only to the extent of being temporarily deprived of light and elevator service. Business was resumed in twenty-four hours, since which time it is being carried on as usual.

CURTISES AND HORTONS STAND "SHOW UP" TODAY

Scores of Bandit Victims Asked to View Them.

Every victim of a holdup in the last few months—especially of those robberies committed in the vestibules of their homes or in the vicinity of their residences—have been notified to appear at the detective bureau at 3 o'clock this afternoon to view the Hortons and the Curtises. They were brought back to Chicago from New Orleans last night for questioning in the Duffy murder case. Goldberg and Engelke also will be lined up at the "showup." Horton and Curtis are suspected of being implicated in a number of stickups in which the victims were trailed from theaters or downtown cafés.

These Were Notified.

Among those who have been notified to view the prisoners this afternoon are:

[illegible] P. LEE, 5109 Kenmore avenue; robbed of an $800 fur coat at Ridge and [illegible] avenues on Feb. 4.

MISS ANNA SLAIN, 3312 West Madison street, who, with the assistance of a Miss [illegible], fought off two holdup men who trailed them from a theater at West Madison street and Kedzie avenue on Feb. 8.

MISS HELEN DENT, 4436 Berkeley avenue; robbed of $175 on Feb. 10.

DOHENY IS FIRED OFF COMMITTEE BY DEMOCRATS

San Francisco, Cal., March 1.—A motion removing E. L. Doheny as second vice president of the organization was adopted today by the Democratic state central committee in meeting here. The motion also included a request to Doheny that he resign from the committee.

The committee, by an overwhelming viva voce vote, passed a motion "requesting" the removal from the committee of Doheny, oil magnate concerned in the Teapot Dome. The motion ordered Doheny removed from the second vice presidency of the committee, and directed that the committee issue no more stationery bearing Doheny's name as an officer in the organization.

The Doheny motion was made by Sydney Van Wyck Jr., a San Francisco attorney, who said in reference to the oil inquiry, "If we are to purge this country of corruption we should start at home."

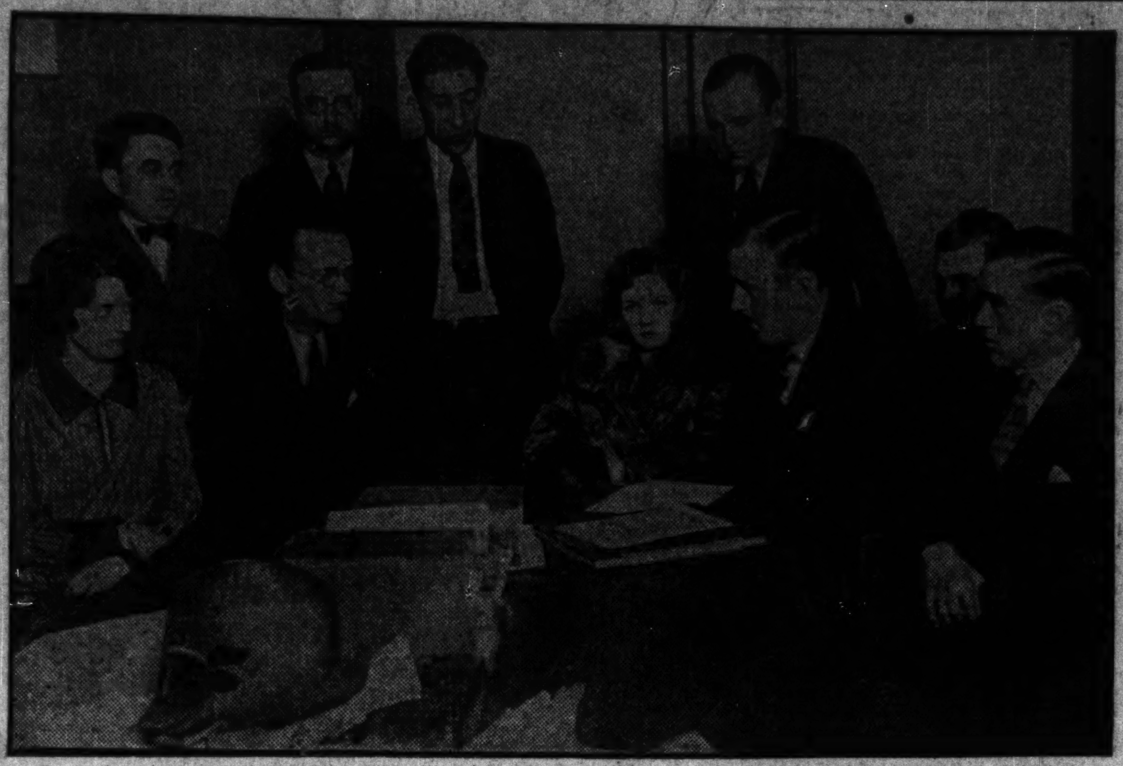
DRAWING THE NET IN DUFFY DOUBLE MURDER



This is how the Curtises and Hortons looked while being cross examined last night at the state's attorney's office. Left to right (seated): Mrs. Horton, Emmett Byrne, assistant state's attorney; Mrs. Curtis, Assistant State's Attorney Robert O'Connell and Maurice Curtis. Standing: Assistant State's Attorneys R. E. McMillen and Harold Levy, Jack Horton and Assistant State's Attorney W. A. Smith.

Julian ("Potatoes") Kaufman and Mrs. Kaufman have been figuring in the Duffy murder mystery. Julian is out on bond on two charges, one murder, the other the receiving of stolen property. Kaufman was accused in the story of William Engelke of having assembled the group of men that took John Duffy on an auto ride, after which Duffy's body was found in the snow at 63d street and Archer avenue early on Friday morning, Feb. 22.

story she told when first arrested in the southern city.

"We left Chicago Feb. 15," she said, "driving to Indianapolis to visit my mother. The following Thursday—that seems to be the day Mrs. Duffy was killed—we drove to Terre Haute, Ind. Then we shipped the car to New Orleans and went there by rail."

Mrs. Horton was questioned closely as to enmity between her husband and Duffy, that line of examination revealing for the first time that the police had been investigating a fight some time ago between the two.

"Sure, they had an argument, but it didn't amount to anything," she explained. "One night Jack and I were staying with the Duffys at 216 Carmen avenue—Duffy came in drunk. It was about 5 o'clock in the morning. Maybelle—that's Mrs. Duffy—wasn't home and Duffy got pretty sore.

Duffy Hit Mrs. Horton.

"'You go get her,' he shouted at Jack, but Jack wouldn't go. I sat up in bed and chimed in with a few suggestions that Duffy keep quiet, and finally he clipped me on the jaw. His fist just barely grazed by chin.

"No, Jack didn't resent it—not with his fists, that is. He knew Duffy was drunk, and just warned him to behave himself. That's the only time they ever had anything approaching blows that I know of."

Quiz of Horton.

Questioned by Assistant State's Attorney William W. Smith at the state's attorney's office, Horton denied knowledge of either of the Duffy killings. He said he had come to Chicago from Indianapolis in September and gone to work as a switchman for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. He met Duffy for the first time shortly after that, he said. He was introduced to him in the Friars' inn by "Yankee" Schwartz.

"Schwartz told me he was a pretty good man from down east and he had brought him here to do some work for him," Horton said.

"Did you know Duffy was a gunman?" he was askde.

Duffy Shows Gun.

"Not until three weeks later," the prisoner replied. "We were over in front of Potts' restaurant in Clark street. Duffy showed me a .45 automatic. [Mrs. Duffy was killed with a .45 caliber gun.] He wanted me to buy it. He said he was waiting there for Abe Mendelson [alleged booze runner]. He said 'Yankee' had gone east on some business and had left a lot of good stuff in his care and he wanted me to buy some of it."

Getting down to the murder, Horton declared he had left Chicago Feb. 15.

Q.—Duffy had a half interest in that car, did he not? The Cadillac you were driving? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know Earl Weiss? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know Dean O'Bannion? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you kill Mrs. Duffy. A.—No.

Q.—Did you hear of any arrangement for the killing of Mrs. Duffy? A.—No.

Q.—Did you talk with anybody or hear of any arrangement to kill Duffy? A.—No.

EMIL J. BRODY.

SAM DOUGHERTY.

JAMES R. BROWN.

GEORGE BROWN.

JAMES WILLIAMS.

LEO CALLAHAN.

These men, one of them, Sam Dougherty, a brother of the slain man, are ex-convicts from the east. Whether they fell out with Duffy, alias Dougherty, over the spoils of $105,000 gem theft at Atlantic City or had some other motive, the Chicago police suspect them of knowing all about the Duffy killing. The police believe Duffy's brother may plan to avenge him.

MRS. CURTIS' VERSION

Mrs. Curtis followed Mrs. Horton. Where Mrs. Horton had appeared nonchalant and disinterested, Mrs Curtis, a baby doll blonde, seemed a bit frightened. Her eyes dropped—whether from the fatigue of travel, from a few tears or misplaced cosmetics could not be said.

The essential points of her statement, however, tallied with the other woman's and preliminary questioning brought nothing conflicting from the husbands. While sitting to be questioned their conversation turned mostly to the New Orleans horse races.

The questioning of the Hortons and of other witnesses earlier in the day apparently gave the police little headway, for everywhere they turned they found a stone wall in the form of the refusal of Kaufman to confirm statements involving him or to tell of events involving others — events of which he is supposed to know.

Kaufman Out Again.

He and his wife were surrendered during the day by their attorneys. They were placed under heavy bonds for receiving stolen property and released again.

Stewart Allen, a north side cabaret entertainer, was taken into custody when police were informed that he was intimate with the Duffys and the Hortons, but he denied knowledge of any angle of the double killing.

The search for Jean Mason, another of the many girls whose names have figured in the case, seemed about to be successful when an anonymous phone call informed the detective bureau that she was in a drug store at Paulina and Madison street and that her auto was in front. A flivver squad arrived just too late, for the girl—supposedly Jean—had left.

SEEK EASTERN GANG

The five men sought on the tip from Philadelphia are:

EMIL J. BRADY, alias John Brody and Emil Bradman, 41; 5 feet 8 inches tall; weighs 163 pounds; dark complexion; imprisoned for burglary.

GEORGE BROWN, alias Irwin Barber, 28; 5 feet 6 inches tall; weighs about 200 pounds; scar on index finger of left hand; imprisoned for larceny.

JAMES WILLIAMS, alias Howard Martin, 29; 5 feet 9 inches tall; weighs 130 pounds; imprisoned for larceny.

LEO CALLAHAN, alias James Leo Malone, 25; 5 feet 7 inches tall; weighs 140 pounds; dagger piercing a heart, incircled by the inscription, "Death before dishonor," tattooed on his right arm; imprisoned for robbery and attempted murder.

JAMES ROWLAND BROWN, 26; 5 feet 9 inches tall; weighs 140 pounds; two scars on right hand; imprisoned for robbery.

Besides these men, the police were on the lookout for Samuel Dougherty, brother of Duffy, who used both Duffy and Dougherty as his name. Dougherty, a Philadelphia gangman, is believed to be here for one purpose—to avenge his brother's death. He and several pals are said to be traveling well "heeled."

These names and descriptions were telegraphed from the Philadelphia police and with them came considerable secret information which may lead to their capture.

At the same time the police took James Monahan into custody as the driver of the automobile believed to have been used as the funeral car for Duffy in carrying him to the point where his body later was found, at 63d street and Archer avenue.

Monahan gave the names and addresses of places he said he was visiting at the time of the murders. Inquiry substantiated his story.

Assistant state's attorneys also questioned Mrs. Jean Goldberg. She is the wife of Philip Goldberg, in whose rooms Engelke remained hidden between the hour of the murder and the time of his arrest.

Her story merely substantiated that of her husband—that Engelke came to their rooms and stayed there. She told of frequent whispered conversations between Engelke and her husband, but insisted she had not overheard any of them.

Five Katy Train Robbers Sentenced for 25 Years

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 1.—Twenty-five years' imprisonment in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth was the punishment assessed against five alleged members of the Al Spencer bandit gang, charged with the robbery of mail from an M., K. & T. passenger train near Okesa last August. The jury in federal court returned its verdict tonight.

RUM TIDE ROLLS 100,000 CASES A MONTH INTO U. S.

Coast Guard Reveals Vast Booze Network.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—One hundred thousand cases of liquor are smuggled into the United States monthly by rum runners off the Atlantic and gulf coasts, according to coast guard officials charged with preventing the traffic.

This estimate was given to the house appropriations subcommittee, which drafted the deficiency bill reported today alloting an additional $13,853,989 for the coast guard service.

Big Fleet of Ships.

In testimony before the subcommittee Feb. 25 Commander Root of the service, who had made a special investigation of rum running activities, said:

"The smugglers' high sea force at present consists of 34 steamers and 132 sailing vessels, ranging in size from 35 to 2,000 tons. Some of these vessels are capable of speeds up to nineteen knots. The majority fly foreign flags. The auxiliary crafts for making shore contacts consist of several hundred gasoline driven craft, about 30 per cent of which are good for twenty-five knots.

153 Vessels Captured.

"With our present force, during the last twenty-two months we have been able to put out of business, by capture or otherwise, 153 vessels. We have captured the equivalent of 31,000 cases of liquor and caused to be jettisoned under fire an amount estimated at 20,000 cases.

"The so-called 'rum row' off New York is maintained principally as a diversion to hold to that point the attention of as many coast guard vessels as possible."

Commander Root said the smugglers maintained advance stations at St. Johns, Newfoundland; St. Pierre, Miquelon, the Azores, Bermuda, and the Bahamas.

Bribery Fund Part of It.

"The smugglers maintain a bribery fund," he added, "and have a short organization for obtaining supplies and making contacts."

Commander Root said a report from Havana showed that from 7,000 to 10,000 cases of liquor were shipped weekly to Baltimore and New York concealed in cargoes of sugar. Extensive smuggling activities also exist in the Puget sound country, he said, adding:

"Not only is the traffic increasing, but also the audacity, skill, and courage of the enemy."

GAS VICTIM IS REVIVED.

Mrs. Louise Brown, 69 years old, 3144 South Oakley avenue, was revived by Squad 7 of the fire department yesterday after she had been overcome by illuminating gas in her home.

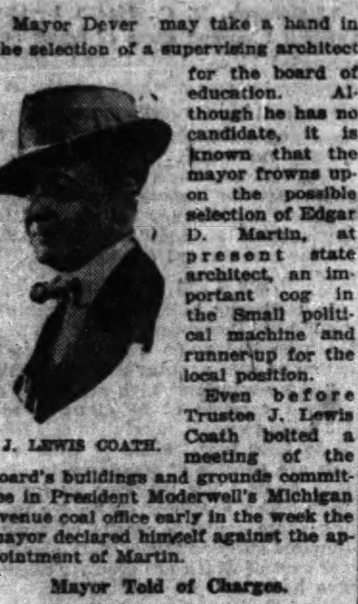
SCHOOL BOARD ARCHITECT ROW REACHES MAYOR

Would Oppose Martin for Job, He Says.



J. LEWIS COATH.

Mayor Dever may take a hand in the selection of a supervising architect for the board of education. Although he has no candidate, it is known that the mayor frowns upon the possible selection of Edgar D. Martin, at present state architect, an important cog in the Small political machine and runner-up for the local position.

Even before Trustee J. Lewis Coath bolted a meeting of the board's buildings and grounds committee in President Moderwell's Michigan avenue coal office early in the week the mayor declared himself against the appointment of Martin.

Mayor Told of Charges.

Since that meeting which was to have smoothed out objections to Martin's nomination, the mayor has been told of the fifty-four charges which Coath proposes to have the architect answer in an open meeting of the committee in the board of oeducation offices.

"There isn't room in Chicago's school system for any member of the present state administration" the mayor is reported to have told President Moderwell.

Martin's candidacy is warmly supported as well by local Small-Thompson partisans, who are bringing heavy pressure to bear in his behalf, it is said.

$17,000,000 Building Program.

The school board has appropriated nearly $17,000,000 for a building program this year. Most of the expenditures from this huge fund would be made under the direction of the supervising architect.

Mayor Dever was told that Trustee Coath charges Martin with having thrown lucrative state business to his firm of architects, Schmidt, Garden & Martin. Nearly 80 per cent of all the plans and specifications drawn for the state were prepared by Martin's firm, it is charged.

The questionnaire to be submitted to Martin charges that a "Mr. Deutcher" of the Schmidt, Garden & Martin firm was also carried as an employé of the state architect's office. Martin will be asked to explain the inclusion of "Messrs. Lindstrom, Claie, Smith, Kozeny and Silver" on the state pay roll.

It is alleged by Coath that Martin assigned state employés ot remodel, paint and repair his apartment building at 76 East Walton place.

To Quiz on Dixon Bridge.

Martin will also be asked "How much and why" the Dixon, Ill., bridge sagged during construction, and if roads and driveways at the Dixon state hospital, laid according to his plans and specifications, were later taken up and relaid.

Coath charges that Martin drew plans for a storage building at the Pontiac reformatory calling for a reinforced, self-supporting roof. Before the superstructure was removed, it is charged, it was necessary to install concrete columns to hold the roof up.

Under Martin's direction the state research hospital at Lincoln, Wood, and Taylor streets, in Chicago, was built. As a result of Martin's planning, according to Coath, the building will not be serviceable for eighteen months or more because Martin located the central heatig plant 500 feet away from the main building.

In planning the state industrial building at Jacksonville, Martin planned a building that would have projected twenty feet into a reservoir.

M'ANDREW GIVEN 2 ASSISTANTS IN BUDGET INCREASE

Other Gains Reverse Expected Slashes.

Instead of slashing the tentative budget presented to it yesterday the board of education added to it. An increase of $25,000 in the appropriation for the office of the superintendent of schools, which included the addition of two assistant superintendents at $7,800 a year and an added district superintendent at $6,500, was placed in the budget.

McAndrew Asks Addition.

The superintendent's staff has been undermanned for some time and proper supervision of the educational activities in schools is not possible with the present staff, Supt. McAndrew said. Although Mr. McAndrew asked for but one assistant, the board set aside an appropriation for two.

The addition to the superintendent's staff has been contemplated for several months by members of the board in a plan of general reorganization of the educational department in an effort to secure an efficient administration.

One assistant probably will be put in charge of high schools, Supt. McAndrew said, and the other may be connected with the proposed committee to prepare a building program for the next few years. At present there are three assistant superintendents.

Asks Twelve Visiting Teachers.

Miss Anne Davis, director of vocational guidance, asked twelve additional visiting teachers in her department. It was then proposed by Dr. John Dill Robertson, former president of the board, that three departments, the truant officers, the visiting teachers, and the visiting nurses, be consolidated.

It was also suggested that truant officers be done away with, and in their place substituted the visiting teachers, inasmuch as the duties of the two departments overlap at times. The board suggested that the superintendent investigate the possibility of consolidation and report later to the board. It authorized the appropriation for the twelve visiting teachers, thereby adding about $20,000 to the budget.

A large item in the budget which caused comment is the $950,000 appropriation for interest on money borrowed. Already, it was brought out, the board has borrowed $19,000,000 in anticipation of the taxes to be collected this year. This money, collected by the county treasurer, is not received by the school board until later in the year. For several years, according to H. H. Brackett, auditor of the board, the educational expenses have increased nearly $2,000,000 annually in excess of the revenue.

SENATORS HELP POLISH JEWS TO ENTER AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

WARSAW, Feb. 29.—According to an investigation made by THE TRIBUNE during the last week approximately one out of every three would-be Jewish immigrants to America in Warsaw have letters signed by American congressmen or senators asking that special consideration be given them, and that their names be placed at the top of the list of the next quota, which opens in July.

Even presidential possibilities, such as Hiram Johnson, write letters on lavish government stationery asking privileges for Jewish immigrants. Senator David I. Walsh, Mass.; Congressman M. A. Michaelson, Ill., and Samuel Dickstein, New York, also work to enlarge the number of their Jewish constituents by asking special favors for European branches of "American" families. The requests come from practically every member of congress, however.

The American consulate in Warsaw mails some 5,000 letters monthly to congressmen, senators and others, informing them that "their communication has been received," but still hundreds of letters continue to arrive in Warsaw weekly, arousing false hopes among the Jews here, and causing the Polish government endless trouble, since the recipients of these letters immediately request a foreign passport.

JAP STATESMAN, THOUGHT DEAD, COMES TO LIFE

TOKIO, March 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—Prince Masayoshi Matsukata, one of the two surviving genro, elder statesmen, whose death was announced yesterday and for whom the entire nation went into mourning, is alive today and has a bare chance for recovery, according to statements made by his physicians this morning.

The prince was pronounced dead at 11:15 o'clock yesterday morning when his heart and respiration stopped. Shortly thereafter, however, he began to show faint signs of life.

This morning he took some nourishment and slept for a time. All the Tokio newspapers, but two, carried stories of the prince's death, together with lengthy obituaries.

SO. WATER ST. FIRE CAUSES $40,000 DAMAGE

Hundreds of homeward-bound loop workers and shoppers were discomforted at 5 o'clock yesterday by dense clouds of smoke from a fire in a four story building at 57 West South Water street.

The fire started on the third floor of the vegetable commission house, occupied by C. A. Watson & Co. and quickly spread to the other floors. Several companies of firemen arrived in time to prevent the fire spreading to adjoining buildings. The damage was estimated at $40,000.

Scholle's Semi-Annual Sale of Good Furniture

Hepplewhite Bedroom Suite in Mahogany and Fiddleback Maple, Hand Decorated.

Twin Beds, Bureau, Chest of Drawers, Toilet Mirror, Dressing Table, Stand, Chair and Bench.

9 Pieces, Sale Price, $880.00

YOU'D probably enjoy a bedroom furnished with a suite like this—nice to sleep in, and pleasant to look at when you're awake.

It's a good example of the way Hepplewhite designed furniture; he departed from the elaboration of Chippendale to the simpler, more graceful forms. They look rather fragile; but they're not. The graceful simplicity and beauty portrayed in this suite are typical of all the work of that master craftsman. It's priced exceptionally low—a real value.

We can show you furniture in all the periods—we have a large variety. There is one fact which is of great importance to you—all of the furniture in this store is "Scholle-quality"—made of high grade materials, by manufacturers who know how. We give you the assurance of this in our guarantee of complete satisfaction or money back.

Our guarantee, added to the greatly reduced prices, now, during our semi-annual sale, presents an opportunity you can't afford to miss.

Our sale, which includes all of the goods in the store, has been running for some time—we've sold a lot of furniture. We can't list all of the items in this advertisement—the list below is only a few of them. It's quite possible that there is only one of a kind of many of the pieces. To lessen the possibility of your being disappointed, we advise you to make your choice as early as possible.

START TRIAL OF FORBES HERE IN APRIL, U. S. PLAN

Coolidge to Be Told What Grand Jury Learned.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Trial of Col. Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States veterans' bureau, and Col. John W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, who were indicted Friday on charges of bribery and corruption in connection with the administration of the veterans' funds, will be held in Chicago early in April, it was announced yesterday.

Attorney John W. H. Crim, special assistant to the attorney general, who directed the inquiry, left for Washington yesterday. His staff will remain here until the trial. They refused to comment upon the special report of the grand jury, which outlines vague charges of graft against "two members of congress," government officials, and other unnamed individuals. The evidence in their possession will be laid before the President, it was promised here. Further revelations are expected in Washington.

Inquiry to Continue.

The veterans' bureau inquiry is not ended with the indictment of Forbes and Thompson. The suggestion made in the grand jury report that "Livermore," "Tupper Lake," and "Perryville" contracts be investigated with a view to other indictments will be carried out, according to Mr. Crim. He would not state just where he would strike next.

The case as it is presented in Chicago rests largely upon the testimony of Elias H. Mortimer, contractors' agent, who induced Forbes to give bids for hospital construction to certain favored firms. Mortimer is still in Chicago and will be taken care of by the government as their star witness.

His testimony has been buttressed at every available point, it is stated, by documentary evidence in the nature of checks, bank accounts, telegrams, hotel bills, and letters. All the time he was dealing with Forbes as a briber, according to his own testimony, he was keeping notes of dates and putting away papers in evident preparation for a possible scandal.

What Caused the Break.

His break with Forbes was caused primarily because of the attentions which Forbes paid to Mrs. Mortimer, who has begun a divorce suit against Mortimer. She was a witness before the grand jury.

Mrs. Heber H. Votaw, sister of the late President Harding, is expected to be a witness in the case. According to Col. Forbes' counsel, she may be for the defense. She was at one time an intimate friend of Mrs. Mortimer and is said to have been the one who first introduced Mortimer to Forbes.

The Tupper Lake, New York, hospital contract, which is to be investigated further, centers around the relations of the Sutherland Building and Construction company of St. Louis with Mortimer. Mortimer testified that he was approached by William McCauley, Washington agent for the company, and asked to use his influence wtih Forbes to get the foundation contracts for the Sutherland company. He succeeded. According to his testimony, McCauley paid him $1,000 for the first contract and $2,500 for inducing Forbes to give an additional contract. The work totaled about $92,000. An exhibit in the case is a check for $1,000 to the order of Mortimer, signed by McCauley, dated Aug. 11, 1922, on the Riggs National bank of Washington.

Plans Figure in Scandal.

The chief scandal in the Livermore, California, hospital contract, concerns the employment of Matthew O'Brien of San Francisco as special architect for the veterans' bureau in preparing the plans. It is said that O'Brien in all got $97,000 in fees for plans which were all rejected, that the war department could have furnished all the necessary plans, and that this O'Brien payment was rushed through in unaccountable haste, both in the veterans' bureau and the controller's office in Washington.

The selection of the Livermore site also has aroused much suspicion. Lucien B. Johnson and Thomas O'Day of San Francisco figure in this. O'Day, it is stated, got $20,000 from Johnson for promoting the sale of the site, an old vineyard, for $105,000. Charles F. Cramer, former general counsel for the bureau, who is named in the indictments as a conspirator, engineered this deal.

The Perryville Case.

The Perryville, Md., supply depot furnished the scandal that brought about the intervention of Brig. Gen. Sawyer, President Harding, and finally forced the retirement of Col. Forbes. It is charged here that $3,000,000 worth of supplies, many of which were needed by the public health service and other government departments, were sold to a Boston firm for about $600,000. One instance of graft is given in the sale of thousands of pairs of new pajamas at 30 cents a pair, pajamas that were made by American women and given to the army during the war. Another instance is the sale of new bed sheets at 16 cents each when the bureau was buying sheets of poorer quality at the same time for $1.03 each.

CONGRESS IS STIRRED

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Mach 1.—[Special.]—An explosion is due in congress on Monday over the report of the federal grand jury in Chicago containing the statement that evidence before it showed that two members of congress have received sums of money in connection with the scandal in the veterans' bureau.

The indictment of former Director Charles R. Forbes was no surprise, but congress was jarred considerably by that portion of the report which involved members of congress and other high officials.

Some senators think that the special committee which investigated the veterans' bureau should be reconvened with instructions to inquire into the statements of the Chicago grand jury in order that the guilty members of congress might be expelled and prosecuted.

President Coolidge has been aroused by the grand jury report and a White House spokesman said he would insist that the Veterans' bureau investigation be widened to extend to every phase that can be developed from the grand jury testimony. The President insists that names of congressmen, if they are really involved, be disclosed. The grand jury report may be turned over to the President within a few days.

Forbes Promises Disclosures.

Following the disclosure of his indictment, Forbes broke his silence and promised to disclose sensational charges. Welcoming the opportunity afforded him by the indictment to reveal a "hell engendered conspiracy" against "his honor and integrity," Col. Forbes made sweeping denials of the charges of bribery and conspiracy, condemned the senate committee which investigated the veterans' bureau, and said he would give details to the public regarding attempted political corruption in Washington which will involve men in high places.

Col. Forbes and his legal advisers are preparing a list of about forty witnesses to be called in his defense. Among them is Mrs. Caroline Votaw, a sister of the late President Harding. What evidence Mrs. Votaw is expected to give has not been disclosed.

Forbes accused "a high individual unofficially connected" with the government of responsibility for the indictment against him. He claims a "frameup."

Col. Forbes' Statement.

Col. Forbes in his statement, issued from the office of his attorney, Col. J. Easby-Smith, said:

"I welcome these indictments with a clear conscience because they will permit me to present my case before a fair court of justice and a jury of my peers.

"Throughout the senate investigation I was not permitted to present the facts of the case and, as I told the committee, my destruction was sought by perjury, subornation of perjury, and the suppression of documentary and other evidence which would have fully exonerated me. The federal grand jury at Chicago has seen fit to exclude from indictment Elias H. Mortimer, a confessed criminal, who is the only witness against me.

"I am firm in the faith that these indictments will give me an opportunity to reveal before an impartial court, a fair jury, and a just press, a hell engendered conspiracy against my honor and integrity. I shall interpose no technical objection to a trial there under these conditions, but on the contrary shall go to Chicago voluntarily as the first step toward my complete vindication.

"There was not one iota of truth in any of the testimony given the senate committee which reflected upon my honor or integrity. Evidence taken before the committee late at night on Nov. 7, 1923, tended to show that one of the committee's counsel (now an assistant director of the bureau at a salary of $7,200 a year) attempted to bribe a witness to commit perjury. Thereupon this testimony was suppressed by the committee.

"By most despicable and dishonorable means, witnesses were subjected to browbeating and unfair treatment.

"These same forces were at work on the grand jury which returned the indictments in Chicago.

"False as Mortimer Lies."

"These indictments are as false as the lies of Mortimer, as vindictive as the villainous conduct of O'Ryan and Arnold, as cowardly as the so-called second preliminary report of the senate committee who had not the courage nor the fairness to hear my defense, who shirked the duty of formulating an honest report, and who have attempted to escape deserved criticism by scurrying behind the barricade of O'Ryan's malignant verbosity and by meekly crying out, 'Some of it we believe, some of it we don't believe; please take your choice,' knowing all the time that the charges against me are as false as hell's own brood."

NOTED PORTRAITS OF PRESIDENTS

Here, left to right, are photographs of the portraits of Washington, Jackson, and Jefferson which Mrs. Arthur Meeker has offered to bring from her home at 3030 Lake Shore drive to the Art institute for a public exhibition. The Washington has been adjudged at times as Gilbert Stuart's most famous portrait; the Jackson is a miniature done on ivory by Anna Claypoole Peale in 1819 which won the young artist fame; the Jefferson is one of the early works of Charles Willson Peale, the uncle of Anna Peale, a famous portrait painter of Washington and Jefferson's time.

FALSELY HELD AS INSANE 9 YEARS; GETS $107,500

LONDON, March 1.—The question of the lunacy law is soon to be raised in parliament as a result of a sensational case which was settled in court this week.

W. Harnett, a Kentish farmer who had been confined as a lunatic for nine years, obtained a verdict for £25,000 [roughly $107,500] damages against two doctors who were instrumental in keeping him shut up. There was no suggestion that the doctors were actiated by an improper motive.

The judge in the course of the trial used strong language as to the state of the present law, saying, "Nothing ever astonished me more in the course of this serious case than to know that when a man is shut up, although he may be perfectly sane, he is never allowed to know why he is shut up. It amazed me."

OAK PARK FOLLIES FEATURES WICKED DITTY ABOUT HELL

"The Grace Church Follies of 1923," presented last night by the Men's club of Grace church at their parish house in Oak Park, was designed for the intellect rather than the eye or ear.

They may have profited by the mayor's suggestion to "Innocent Eyes"; at any rate, the most wicked eyes on earth would have to confess that the costumes were all that could be desired—and more, much more. Those who expected a duplication of "The Pink Lady," given two years ago when the Rev. F. R. Godolphin stopped the performance, were disappointed.

The casual observer might feel that a revue of Oak Park for 1923 could appropriately contain some slight reference to a certain Case, but the book contented itself with a takeoff on church activities. In the first episode the vestry adjourn for a quiet evening with good brew—empty mugs!—and pipes. The Fundamentalists score when the devil, with most realistic horns, comes after the Modernist, "Rank Views," who sings the wicked ditty: "I'm a modern churchman, and I don't believe in hell."

Denmark May Pay Debts by Setting Up Tobacco Trust

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 1.—[Tribune Radio.]—Establishment of a state monopoly on tobacco, the profits of which, it is figured, will pay the national debt, is being planned by the Danish government.

SUGGESTS TAG DAY TO RAISE PORTRAIT FUND

Recruits Join Drive for Washington Picture.

The possibility of a tag day to raise funds for the purchase of the Gilbert Stuart portrait of George Washington now hanging in the Art institute was suggested yesterday by C. L. Ricketts, who sent to the institute a $25 contribution.

"This enterprise is certainly a citywide project," Mr. Ricketts said in his letter to the institute, "and I would suggest that the mayor designate one day as 'tag day' to solicit contributions for the picture." Mayor Dever has taken the question under advisement.

The public schools are still receiving contributions for the picture. THE TRIBUNE yesterday received a letter from the eighth grade pupils of St. Ambrose school, 1014 East 47th street, inclosing a portrait donation of $9.10.

An Appropriate Act.

Ernest M. Hunt, vice president of the Martha Washington Candies company, sent in a contribution of $100. "It is particularly appropriate that the Martha Washington company should contribute to this 'worthy enterprise," Mr. Hunt said.

Meanwhile contributions from private citizens, clubs, lodges, schools, and other organizations came into the Art institute, THE TRIBUNE, and the Herald-Examiner.

THE TRIBUNE will acknowledge and turn over to the Art institute all contributions. Letters may be sent to the editor of THE TRIBUNE or to Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute.

List of Gifts.

Three Policemen Rescue Three Boys from Ice

Policemen McMahon, Kelly, and Lawler pushed out over the ice from the foot of 75th street at dusk yesterday to bring in two boys who were taking a stroll three-fourths of a mile off shore. Just before they reached the youngsters 10 year old Eddie Sober of 2503 East 74th street broke through the ice. He was dragged out and brought to shore—a soberer and wetter young man.

PASTOR SHOOTS SALESMAN, BUT WON'T TELL WHY

Mexico, Mo., March 1.—The Rev. Asa Q. Burns today shot and seriously wounded H. D. Conger, a traveling salesman of Lincoln, Neb.

Conger and Dr. Burns met on the main street and the minister opened fire, one bullet striking Conger in a lung, inflicting a serious wound, and another hitting him in the hand.

The Rev. Burns surrendered to officers, but refused to give an explanation. Mrs. Burns and her son have been making their home with Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Henderson. Conger had also been staying with the Hendersons.

Shortly after the shooting Dr. Burns was arraigned on charges of "felonious assault with intent to kill" and pleaded not guilty. He was released on $5,000 bond.

The minister had just returned from studying at the University of Chicago.

MAN SLAIN WITH SON AT FATHER'S GRAVE; WIFE HELD

McAlester, Okla., March 1.—J. T. Daugherty of Haileyville, Okla., a railroad employé, and his 4 year old son were shot and killed today as they stood by the grave of Daugherty's father in a cemetery here while the father discussed with Mrs. Bertha Armour Daugherty of Cement, Okla., his divorced wife, the question of which of the parents should retain custody of the boy.

Mrs. Daugherty was arrested as she ran from the scene. No charges have been preferred pending an investigation.

She declared that her husband shot and killed the child and then turned the weapon on himself.

In Daugherty's pocket was found a statement which declared his intention of killing the woman and child and then taking his own life should the conference not terminate as he desired.

HUNT PRETTY WOMAN AS MAN DIES IN MYSTERY

Cries Warning as She Flees Death Room.

Laura Maeger was young enough to have been his daughter; but pretty enough to have been his sweetheart.

At any rate Mrs. Minnie Glander, 2214 Lewis street, his landlady ever since 65 year old Emil Swanson came over from Sweden five years ago, was positive the girl who persisted in visiting the old man at unconventional hours, was neither his daughter-in-law nor his stepdaughter, as he alternately introduced her.

So today Officers Fred Mundt and Daniel E. Bennet of the Hudson avenue police station, are looking for Mrs. Laura Maeger who disappeared from Swanson's room early yesterday morning after screaming out to Mrs. Glander.

Finds Him Dead.

"Better look after Emil, I think he's dead." Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Glander went into his room and found her roomer lying on the bed with a hose attached to an open gas jet in his mouth.

Near by was a note penciled to Laura, and a post card picture of the girl, evidently taken from the back of a watch.

"Dear Laura," the note read, in stiff, foreign handwriting:

"You know and I know that you did your best for me. That I am sick—well, I think I never will get well. It is better for you and me that we part. Dear Laura, a thousand thanks to you. Yours sincerely, EMIL."

A postscript urged her to "Take all what belongs to me."

The Landlady's Story.

At the inquest conducted yesterday afternoon at William Eisfeldt's undertaking rooms, 2216 Southport avenue, Mrs. Glander told Deputy Coroner R. C. Schutt that she had been compelled to have her son order Mrs. Maeger out of the house more than two months ago because of her undesirable actions.

"But early this morning, about 2 o'clock," Mrs. Glander said, "this Laura rushed to my room in the front of the cottage and said, 'O, I think Emil's dead! Go tell somebody!'"

The inquest yesterday afternoon was continued to March 7 at 2 o'clock at the Hudson avenue station, pending the possible return of Laura.

McAdoo's Name Entered for Wisconsin Primary

Madison, Wis., March 1.—Nomination papers for placing William G. McAdoo's name on the Wisconsin preferential presidential primary ballots were filed with the secretary of state today by Miles C. Riley, McAdoo's manager. This is the first presidential nomination to be filed in the two major political parties.

SOUGHT

Mrs. Laura Maeger, who fled after telling landlady that Emil Swanson was dead. Police are hunting for her.

WITHDRAWS HIT AT M'CORMICK IN DRAINAGE MIXUP

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Representative Michaelson [Rep., Ill.], who had printed in the Congressional Record yesterday a speech, which he did not deliver in the house, attacking Senator Medill McCormick [Rep., Ill.] in connection with legislation affecting withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan for the sanitary district of Chicago, today withdrew his remarks with the privilege of reinserting them after the objectionable parts have been eliminated.

On Friday evening Representative Longworth [Rep., O.], the majority leader, demanded that Michaelson's remarks be expunged as a violation of the house rule prohibiting a member of one house of congress criticising a member of the other house. Representative Michaelson pleaded ignorance of the rule. Adjournment was taken while the point was being argued.

When the house met today the Illinois member announced withdrawal of the speech inserted by "leave to print." He said:

"I have been informed that the address I inserted yesterday in the Record under leave to extend remarks violates the rules of the house. I had no intention to violate the rules of the house, particularly through the privilege of 'leave to print.' I therefore ask unanimous consent to withdraw my remarks, to revise them, omitting the parts which are in violation of the rule, and to reinsert them in the revised form."

FISH HATCHERY MEETING USED TO AID DENEEN

Politics Is Chief Topic of "Bureau Conference."

One of a series of "fish hatchery" meetings now under way throughout the state was held in Galesburg on Friday, and at the meeting strong indications were shown that the Len Small forces were lining up for Charles S. Deneen for senator.

Small's Editor Speaks.

S. B. Roach of Springfield, an aid in the game warden division and for thirty years editor of Small's paper at Kankakee, had charge of the meeting, which, according to Roach, was a political one, although it was desired to give it the color of a meeting called to consider the location of fish propagation plants.

Roach wanted to know first how Knox county (Galesburg) stood and whether it would be for Small. He said it was one of a number of similar meetings to be held at various points throughout the state.

He was especially desirous of defeating Medill McCormick for senator and said that they would rather bury McCormick than any living man. He declared that every Small man in the state would vote for Deneen, and that one of the purposes of the meetings of Small officials was to pass the word along. He represented that he had talked recently with the governor, who indicated his preference for Deneen and also his desire that the Small appointees should work for Deneen.

Meetings Cost Taxpayers.

He went so far as to ask that Deneen, who appeared in Galesburg Friday, be acquainted with the effort that the governor is making in his behalf.

It is said the taxpayers of the state are paying for these political meetings, held under the guise of "bureau conferences."

2 WOMEN WAR ON SMALL FOR SENATE SEATS

Both Back Essington for Governor.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—Two Republican state senators, Frank O. Hanson [McLean], and Nathan E. Smith [Edwards], will contest for renomination in the April 8 primary with women in straightaway tilts in which there are no third candidates.

Hanson's opponent is Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington, daughter of ex-Gov. Joseph W. [Private Joe] Fifer. Smith is opposed by Mrs. May Gaddis Seiler of Mount Carmel.

Both of these women, according to reports from their districts, have splendid chances to capture the nomination as Hanson and Smith are compelled to defend their support of Gov. Len Small in two legislative sessions. Mrs. Bohrer and Mrs. Seiler both are supporting State Senator Thurlow G. Essington for governor.

Mrs. Bohrer's Chances Bright.

Hanson's district is strongly Republican and, should Mrs. Fifer win, her prospects for election next November are bright because the Democratic nomination will go to former State Representative George Dooley, uncontested, and he is not regarded a strong candidate. Republicans who do not relish the idea of supporting women for political offices would probably vote for Mrs. Fifer more readily than they would for Dooley.

Mrs. Seiler will have a hard fight on her hands, even if she wins the nomination, as her district casts a heavy Democratic vote.

Mrs. O'Neil Again in Race.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neil [Republican, Dupage], the first woman to sit in the lower house, has filed for renomination, and several other women are seeking house seats.

In the governor's home district, the Twentieth, State Representative L. S. Holderman [Republican, Grundy] is in a straightaway fight for the senate against Senator Richard R. Meents [Republican, Iroquois], administration spokesman. Mayor A. R. Buckner, Gilman, who refused to sit on the same platform with Small at a public meeting recently, withdrew from the senate race and has filed for the house.

Al Smith to Withdraw.

Withdrawal of candidacies started today. The last day for withdrawal of petitions is March 4. Gov. Al Smith of New York, whose name was filed as a Democratic candidate for president in the Illinois primaries without his permission, is expected to have his withdrawal in Monday.

Edgar J. Cook of Chicago, who filed early as a Johnson delegate and was later placed on the full Johnson slate, withdrew his first petition today. State Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Jackson], who was on the regular Republican slate as an uninstructed delegate at large, withdrew and is filed as a Coolidge delegate from the Twenty-fifth district.

WOMAN SOUGHT FOR SMUGGLING GEMS INTO U. S.

New York, March 1.—Every woman who went aboard the White Star liner Olympia today was scrutinized by a special squad of customs officers. The treasury department, it was explained, has learned that a woman who rents a $5,000 apartment as her New York headquarters has been traveling back and forth between Monte Carlo and New York, each time under a different name.

The federal officers believe she converts her Monte Carlo winnings into jewels, and they want to know whether any of the stones are smuggled into the United States and whether the woman pays an income tax. The expensive apartment, it is said, is used only as a place for her to stay between the steamer sailings.

SENATE TINKERS PREPARE TO TOY WITH TAX BILL

3 Amendments to House Bill Already Appear.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Preparation for hearings on the tax bill were made by Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the senate finance committee, today, following the passage of the compromise measure yesterday in the house.

Senator Smoot announced that as soon as the house bill is printed the finance committee will hold public hearings. Many requests have been received from persons desiring to be heard.

Report Bill in April.

It was indicated that the hearings will commence within a week or ten days. The finance committee is expected to report a bill to the senate early in April, and its passage by June 1 is the purpose of the Republican leaders.

Three amendments were offered to the bill after it reached the senate. One, by Senator King [Dem., Utah], provides a scale of surtaxes ranging from 1 per cent between $5,000 and $6,000 to 35 per cent above $75,000. Another, by Senator Shields [Dem., Tenn.], permits deduction of amounts paid for medical services from net income. The third, by Senator Curtis [Rep., Kas.], provides for an admission tax of 5 cents on each 25 cents.

An unofficial estimate was that the bill as passed by the house will mean a net loss in revenue of $460,000,000 annually. This would mean a deficit of $65,000,000 on the basis of an estimated surplus of $395,000,000 in the fiscal year 1925.

Democrats Claim Credit.

The Democratic national campaign issued a statement claiming credit for having forced the house to accept a bill similar to the Garner plan.

"The outcome shows the Democrats pointed the way to tax reduction by offering a bill along the lines of which any measure at all possible to pass must be framed," the statement said. "The Longworth-La Follette compromise, finally adopted, is almost identical with the Democratic proposal as to certain of its principles, while the principle underlying the higher surtax provisions of the Longworth-La Follette measure are a repudiation of the principle underlying the Mellon surtax proposals."

WHO GOT THE MONEY?

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Who got the $226,540,269 of taxes refunded to certain individuals and corporations and who persuaded or convinced officials in the treasury department that these taxes should be returned, is causing considerable excitement in both house and senate tonight.

First information that this amount of money had been paid back to certain taxpayers was revealed today. By some coincidence the amount covers the period asked for by the Norris resolution, passed by the senate last week, calling for a full disclosure of the amounts of taxes refunded, of who secured them and of who received them.

Madden Makes Report.

The figures which the Norris measure seeks in its attempt to uncover what former cabinet members, congressmen and other government officials are participating in this rich harvest was made public today by Chairman Madden [Rep., Ill.] of the house appropriations committee. This body, it was revealed, made an off-side inquiry of its own before, including in the first deficiency bill, which it reported today, an item for $105,467,000 to meet the deficiency of treasury funds for such tax returns, which average $11,000,000 a month, it was stated.

Recognition of the senate's action, as well as an effort to head off a similar storm in the house, are seen in the last column written into the bill by the appropriations committee. It requires an accounting to congress of the disposition of the $105,467,000 fund.

LOW AND MIGHTY PAY LAST HONOR TO PRINDIVILLE

The State street hobo and government official were in attendance yesterday at the funeral services conducted for Judge John K. Prindiville of the Circuit court.

Many of those who called to pay their respects to the jurist had passed before his judicial bench in the South Clark street court where for years he served as Municipal judge. These men and women of all nationalities, who had learned respect for law from Judge Prindiville, brushed sleeves with Mayor Dever, Chief Justice Harry Olson, and dozens of lawyers, judges, and influential city leaders.

After brief services Judge Prindiville's body was placed on a train to be taken to its burial place in South Bend, Ind.

Truckload of Beer Taken by the Hegewisch Police

Hegewisch police seized a five ton truck loaded with forty barrels of alleged beer at 100th street and Ewing avenue yesterday. Three men were taken from the truck and held for questioning by federal prohibition officers.

FALLS TO DEATH

MISS RUTH ETHEL HILLMAN.
[Moffett Photo.]

BLAME DIZZINESS FOR DEATH FALL OF RUTH HILLMAN

Death by an accidental fall caused through dizziness was the verdict yesterday of a coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of 25 year old Ruth Ethel Hillman, daughter of Edward Hillman, owner of Hillman's department store, who died early yesterday morning following a fall from the seventh floor of the Belmont hotel, Belmont avenue and Sheridan road.

State Senator Samuel Ettelson, whose wife is the sister-in-law of Mrs. Jennie Hillman, the girl's mother, speaking on behalf of the family, explained that Miss Hillman returned a week ago with her traveling companion, Miss Merle Hammond of Milwaukee, from a trip through the south in an effort to regain her health. She had been subject to fainting spells and the family believe she went to the window for some air, fainted, and fell down to her death.

Miss Hammond, asleep in the same room, told the authorities she did not hear Miss Hillman rise from her bed, but was first awakened by the girl's loud cry as her body plunged through the open window. Miss Hammond telephoned to Kelly Reed, the hotel's night clerk, who carried Miss Hillman up to her parents' apartment. Dr. Carl B. Shipley found the girl dead upon his arrival.

WITH 20 CENTS IN HIS POCKET HE HUNTS A JOB

Is It Enough to Tide Him Over Week?

Several days ago a young stranger in Chicago wrote a letter to The Tribune relating his experiences in hunting in vain for a job. In order to learn the actual experiences of a job hunter, The Tribune gave the youth a $10 bill, but asked him to see how long he could go without breaking it. His latest exploits are narrated below.

Shades of Jack London! That famous author of "The Call of the Wild," "The Sea-Wolf," "Martin Eden" and hundreds of other tales of adventure has nothing on me.

His adventures with a sovereign sewed in the inside lining of his coat, on one of his exploits in England, resolving not to use that coin until absolutely necessary, are going to be tame compared to my attempts at securing a means of livelihood amidst the hustle and bustle of modern Chicago, with 20 cents in cash and a "forbidden" $10 note in my pocket

That $10 bill was not to be touched except in case of absolute necessity, and with the 20 cents I was to find some kind of employment or means whereby I could tide myself over for an entire week!

Starts Out for a Job.

An absolute stranger in Chicago, not a penny in the world but what I had with me, not a thing to "hock" but a $1.65 Ingersoll, and my weekly rent of $5 due on Tuesday, I started out in search of work with the change in my pocket and the "caser" tucked away securely in the inside of a pocket notebook.

The world wide famous stock yards of Chicago first came to my mind as I started on my hunt for a job and I figured that Armour & Co. or some of the other large plants with thousands of employés on their payroll, would most likely have some sort of a position for me.

I arrived at Armour's rather late in the afternoon and sat down on a bench with a few others who had come there presumably with a similar purpose. I struck up a conversation with a young chap sitting next to me, who suggested that I go down to the C-J Railroad company the next morning and apply for a job at the freight house, if there was nothing open at the desk.

Willing to Take Anything.

"I am willing to work at anything," I told a pleasant-faced young man at the employer's desk, "and will appreciate anything you can do for me." He suggested that there might be a possibility of my landing something if I would report Monday morning at 7 a. m., ready for work. I thanked him and left.

It was too late to apply at any of the other houses, so I took a car downtown, meanwhile resolving to report at the railroad in the morning.

A resumé of my finances showed a balance of six pennies. The fare to the freight house in the morning would be 7 cents and I had had no supper. Would I have to delve into that tenspot already?

The story of the young stranger's search for a job will be continued in tomorrow's issue of The Tribune.

Dies Having Teeth Pulled After Taking Chloroform

Harry Biever, 40, of 6944 South Peoria street, died under anesthesia in a dentist's chair yesterday after eight out of eighteen teeth to be pulled had been extracted. The operation was being performed in the office of Dr. William S. McDowell, 6319 South Halsted street. Dr. Rodney Marks, 5457 Ashland avenue, was called in to do the extracting. Chloroform was used.

HOUSE LAUNCHES DRIVE FOR BONUS; 3 BILLS IN SIGHT

Committee Report Is Expected Saturday.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Soldier bonus legislation was started on its way today, the house ways and means committee voting to begin consideration of such a measure immediately.

Three days of hearings on proposals for payment of adjusted compensation to world war veterans, beginning Monday, were decided upon after which, Chairman Green announced, a bill would be whipped into shape. He expects the committee to report a measure to the house by next Saturday.

Program Not Outlined.

The program for the bill after it has reached the house has not been outlined, while several appropriation bills, Muscle Shoals and immigration measures, already are on the calendar.

Several bonus bills have been introduced, including the McKenzie measure, similar to the one vetoed by President Harding. Representatives Fish of New York and Andrew of Massachusetts, Republicans, have submitted bills recently, both making paid up insurance policies of twenty and twenty-five years, respectively, the principal feature. Payments of cash sums would be allowed where the veteran would not be entitled to more than $50.

Bill Cuts Officers.

The Andrew bill would allow compensation only to enlisted men while the Fish proposal would include officers up to the rank of captain in the army and lieutenant in the navy, the same as provided by the McKenzie bill.

Four options of payments would be allowed under the McKenzie bill: Adjusted service pay, vocational training aid, farm or home aid and adjusted service certificates. The latter plan would provide for insurance policies.

The committee authorized by a Democratic conference to appear before the ways and means committee and explain the views of the party on bonus legislation was appointed today by Representative Hayden of Arizona, ranking Democrat on the world war veterans' legislation committee. It includes Representatives Jeffers of Alabama, Rankin of Mississippi, Milligan of Missouri, Connery of Massachusetts and Browning of Tennessee.

EVERYBODY BUT HONOR GUEST IS AT SCHOOL FEAST

Practically every one was present at the public school engineers' banquet last night for John E. Byrnes, business manager of the school board, except the guest of honor. He was suffering, it seems, from acute propaganda based on the sequel of a former banquet.

Although he sent his regrets more than a week ago—about the same time that Mayor Dever declined acceptance of the engineers' invitation — Mr. Byrnes' absence didn't deter the guests at all. Some 800 of them were present in the gold room of the Congress when the waiters brought in the soup. Among the guests at the speakers' table were Supt. William McAndrew, Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch, Dr. John Dill Robertson, Charles E. Driscoll, and James J. Spain.

At a former banquet of the engineers tendered Albert H. Severinghaus, vice president of the school board under the Thompson-Lundin rule, the guest of honor was given a $2,500 silver service, including a teapot. The mysterious contents of this teapot were the subject of a special grand jury investigation of bribery, and Messrs. Driscoll and Spain were sent to jail for contempt of court for refusing to tell who finally got the contents.

ON BREAKING UP FORTUNES.

The majority in the house of representatives which has adopted an amendment to the proposed new federal tax bill increasing maximum federal taxes on estates and inheritances from 25 to 40 per cent is working upon a correct principle. But it is not for that reason correct in the application of the principle.

The question of how large private fortunes should be allowed to grow is a matter for reasonable debate. Most men seek to accumulate such fortunes for themselves and for their offspring. Whether, when such fortunes become huge, their possession and control is a good thing for their owner, or for the children to whom they may be bequeathed, is open to question. It has been the observation of many highly intelligent persons that such fortunes frequently are a bad thing in their influence upon the lives and characters of their possessors, and especially upon children to whom they are handed without effort. To the extent that it is bad it may properly be corrected, but there is a reasonable doubt as to whether congress is making the right decision.

Apparently that is not what it is trying to do. It is trying to raise federal revenues by penalizing wealth and the accumulation of wealth. Such purpose is open to suspicion, and the means taken to that end must submit to examination.

A federal inheritance tax of 40 per cent upon fortunes in excess of $10,000,000 must lead inevitably to severe economic disruption. Virtually all of such huge fortunes are invested in productive business, as the Rockefeller fortune lies largely in Standard Oil, the Ford fortune in the motor business, and the Mellon fortune in the aluminum business. If 40 per cent of such fortunes is to be taken by the government upon the death of the owners it means either that the government must take over a material interest in the business, that the heirs must sell the business to pay the tax, or that a 40 per cent mortgage must be put upon it. Any one of those three developments is bad and must inevitably prove demoralizing to industry.

Such demoralization is increasingly likely when such huge federal taxes are added to state inheritance taxes which are already large in such states as New York and Illinois. That is an end to which such legislation, based upon a popular belief that no man has a right to more than $1,000,000, or $10,000,000 property, as the case may be, is leading. It is a levy upon capital. It contains possibilities of extreme danger to the whole modern industrial and economic system. Big fortunes are already being broken up without that. Not one out of a thousand, probably, holds together beyond the third generation.

THE TEAPOT AT MUSCLE SHOALS.

While congress is working itself and the country at large into a frenzy of excitement—perhaps quite properly—over the Teapot Dome and attendant oil scandals, it will be wise to take precautions in time to prevent the development of similar scandals through action contemplated with reference to the disposal of Muscle Shoals. In the event that it fails to take such precautions it is proper now to put into the record the names of the members of the house committee on military affairs, which has formally approved turning over the great property to Henry Ford, and the names of the minority of the committee opposing what "amounts to a gift of enormous property and industrial advantage to a private citizen from the resources of the United States."

The minority, opposed to the gift, includes Representatives Hull, Morin, Ransley, Hill of Maryland, Frothingham, and Wainwright. The majority includes Kahn, McKenzie of Illinois, James of Michigan, Wurzbach, Reece, Speaks, Sutherland, Quin, Fisher, Wright, Garrett, McSwain, Sherwood, Boylan, Hill of Alabama, and Geran. Of these the last nine named are Democrats and the first seven are Republicans. So much for the record. It will be of more interest when the country understands what is being done about Muscle Shoals as well as it now understands what was done about Teapot Dome.

It takes the majority, in favor of the acceptance of the Ford offer, sixty-two pages in report No. 143, to tell the official reasons for such decision. Two items especially interest us. A comparison of outgo and income under the proposal of Henry Ford for lease of Muscle Shoals, on page 40, prepared in the office of the chief of finance, shows a total outgo of $2,640,397,451 in the 100 years of the proposed lease, against income of $2,098,417,203 to the government, or an estimated advantage of $541,980,247 to the Ford company in that period.

The second item of special interest is Sec. 25 of H. R. 518, the bill to accept the Ford proposal. That section says "that all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be, and the same are hereby, repealed." But Sec. 3 provides that the lease shall be for a period of 100 years. The federal water power act, which was hailed at the time of its passage as one of the most constructive pieces of legislation ever written into our statute books, limits water power leases to fifty years. Shall that legislation be repealed in order to give Henry Ford what he wants?

The minority report, which requires only twenty-seven pages to show up the Ford proposal in its true light, says no. It also says—something that is absolutely undisputed—that Ford proposes to pay $5,000,000 for what he would buy outright, namely, nitrate plant No. 2, costing $66,252,392.21; nitrate plant No. 1, costing $12,887,941.31; Waco quarry, costing $1,302,962.88, and reinvested cash from sale of Gorgas plant amounting to $3,472,487.25. In short, in addition to the leases, to be paid for as they are used, Ford would get property which represents an outlay of $83,915,783.65 for a cash payment of $5,000,000. That property has an immediate salvage value estimated by the chief of ordnance at $11,000,000 more than Ford offers for it.

It may be left to the public to decide whether the minority report is right when it says: "In our opinion it amounts to a gift of enormous property and industrial advantage to a private citizen from the resources of the United States. No government, and especially no democracy, can single out for special favor any individual or group of individuals without grave wrong, injustice, and scandal." The last word may properly be emphasized. It is as inevitable as the scandal which has developed out of Teapot Dome. And in this instance it is being promoted by Democrats.

CHILD LABOR AND OTHER PROHIBITIONS.

Reports of the children's bureau at Washington reveal that over a million children between the ages of 10 and 15 are at work in this country, and that the first six months of last year showed an apparent increase of 38 per cent. Some states have a social conscience and some have not.

The Tribune is against the spread of federal government. It is opposed to the paternalistic centralization of new functions in Washington. It believes that a pervasive bureaucracy is bad for a republic composed as this one is and diversified as it is. It does not believe that the state should watch all the individual's steps, hand him his books, watch him at the theater door, send him to church, keep him from amusements, sit at his dinner table, take away his children, interfere with what he thinks is right and proper, or dog him in everything he does to make a living.

All people will agree on some of these things and disagree on others. All may have a hard time to preserve their consistency. Even on the question of prohibition we'll defy either wet or dry to maintain a perfect consistency. The wet will be confronted with the question of the free sale of opium and other drugs, and he'll say he's against it. The dry will be asked if many items of daily diet and use other than alcoholic beverages may not be damaging and injurious. He will say they may be, but he will not ask for prohibition. It may be tobacco. It might be too much coffee.

There is a difference of opinion as to the line at which people should be allowed to take a chance and where it is their right in a free country to decide for themselves and do as they please.

When it comes to child labor that is the spot where we say that the chance shall not be taken and where we advocate the federal prohibition of employment of children in other than the usual tasks of the family. The child cannot protect itself, and it needs these growing years for its proper development, for study and play. If it grows up dwarfed mentally and physically through no fault of its own, but because of the economic conditions permitted by law it is to the detriment of the nation and it is the nation's fault.

Some people will say that the family has a right to decide whether the work of the children is needed for the sustenance of the group. Others will say that the states should be allowed to regulate themselves as they please. With both these views on other subjects we'd agree. The children cannot vote. They cannot protect themselves, even against their parents, and it requires the interposition of authority from without if they are abused or deprived of rights. Therefore we are for the McCormick child labor amendment, and if it is an inconsistency it is a weakness in behalf of the childhood of the nation. When people are old enough to decide for themselves our feeling is for the development of responsibility in the individual. Protection of childhood is necessary for adult responsibility.

BACKING ORDER IN MEXICO.

Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the American woman whose ranch was sacked by Obregon troops, says that Secretary Hughes backed the wrong horse and gave arms to an outfit of bolos whose policy is confiscation and nationalization of property, who are as red as a Garibaldi shirt, and who do not represent order as we know it, but a schemed disorder.

She says that the revolution was to prevent Obregon from handing over the presidency to Calles, a Red, and that we backed the Reds, with arms and munitions.

Americans in Mexico are generally partisan and sometimes forcibly so, probably as they get decent treatment from one side and bad treatment from another. The American government investigated Obregon and his methods and intentions before he was given recognition. We know there are Reds in Mexico. Calles is called a radical and may be one.

Our government after its investigation decided that Obregon was the best bet for order and security. He must now know that if the American policy had been reversed and if his revolutionary opponents had been supported he would have had a hard time maintaining himself even if he had a chance of doing so.

This lesson if taught by a continuous American policy ought to have its effect. The government in Mexico which maintains order, means security, stability, and production, will be supported and with that support may continue as a government.

When the Mexicans see a well stocked, well managed, productive ranch their desire is to seize it, enjoy it, and ruin it. They don't want to work. They will if they must, but it is pleasanter to sit in the shade or the sun, fight chickens, drink a little, and have a good time, with an occasional rustling raid for meat and excitement. A scheme of life in which agriculture, mining, etc., are conducted by raiding might soon get the Mexicans back to purely Indian status with the tomahawk as the best friend of the family, but it will not get North America anything.

Mexico may have a ruler who tries to make himself secure by promising the people everything for nothing and allowing them to have it if they can get it. Then Mexico will be unsettled, undeveloped, and uncivilized. The country may have a ruler who promotes development and maintains order, by force if necessary and by successful force when necessary. We do not see what good it does this part of the world to have a garden spot made a waste. The United States has backed Obregon. That was the best judgment of the administration, which has not shown any fondness for Reds. He has succeeded with this backing. We are pointing out that respect for order means support and that support may mean success.

That is good policy. It needs only the right man in Mexico.

THE COMMUTER'S TICKET.

Now March, with a procession of days bringing little gifts, off the top of the horn of plenty, to be freely emptied in other months. These are small, elusive gifts, various in nature, and some may be withdrawn in the very act of giving. A day offering a smile of sunshine, one a south wind, one a spring song, another melting icicles. A day of freely running streams, one of soft banks from which the snow has melted except in pockets. Gifts of coloring stems and swelling buds, a day which brings a lark to the meadow, a robin to the lawn, a hermit thrush to the dead leaves of last year's horn of plenty, a grackle in the oaks, a wedge of geese overhead. Days also with cold rains, another gust of snow, a freezing wind, but with them days with little gifts which promise great benevolence.

JUST SOME MORE.

The house of representatives has amended the federal tax bill to provide for partial publicity of tax returns. To be sure, it rejected an amendment offered by the insurgent Frear of Wisconsin for full publicity, but it demonstrated its tendency very clearly. That tendency is toward legislation which would rap every head in the United States which lifts itself above a level of mediocrity. It is toward democracy so complete as to be paralyzing.

The purpose of the amendment is, theoretically, to make things hard for the tax dodger. No complaint could be made against that purpose if it exhausted the possibilities of the proposed change of law. In justice to the man who pays his full taxes without evasion, the dodger ought to be made to pay. But this method of doing it is dangerous.

It opens the way to almost unlimited persecution of any large and successful business corporation or of any man who has won his way up through economic struggle to a large income. And evidence and experience are ample to prove that if there is a legal possibility of such persecution it will be undertaken. The next logical step, merely a little more of the same, would be further action to penalize industrial, professional, or commercial success to such an extent as to avoid any possibility of tax evasion by bringing all incomes to one level, regardless of services rendered to society.

We do not believe that will come. There is an undercurrent of common sense and individual ambition and initiative in the United States, fortunately, which will prevent it. But that undercurrent is not showing itself very effectively in the present house of representatives.

ADVANCING EDUCATION.

Since education is coming more and more to be recognized as the harmonious development of all our faculties rather than as the accumulation of specific knowledge, it is proper to recognize such institutions as aim at development rather than accumulation. The making of the human brain into a productive piece of mechanism rather than into a well filled filing cabinet is one of the things which distinguishes progress from stagnation in education. The best type of education nowadays is that which prepares its beneficiary to meet and successfully solve life's problems, both for his own benefit and for the advancement of society.

That means practical training for thought and action as well as the stuffing of the mind with information. It is attained by confronting the student with practical problems. An important feature of such a course is the selection of such problems as are open to argument and difference of opinion, but still are susceptible to reasonably definite conclusion. We know of no better illustration of such a problem than the "Pittsburgh Plus" trade practice of quoting prices of rolled steel on the Pittsburgh base, plus the freight from Pittsburgh to the point of delivery, whether the steel is actually shipped from Pittsburgh or from Gary.

There are innumerable arguments both for and against that practice. The best economic minds in the country have been studying it and analyzing it for several years. It is a tremendous and important question, both in itself and because of the business precedent which its settlement will set.

And now fifty-seven colleges and universities in this country have taken up this subject for the practical consideration of economics and marketing which it will afford their students. That is progressive education. Among the institutions which are taking this forward step are Amherst, Washington university, Boston university, City college of New York, Princeton, Yale, Monmouth, Loyola, Indiana, Cornell, Oberlin, Oklahoma, Vermont, Beloit, Columbia, Montana, Michigan, Millikin, Nevada, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Out of such studies, we predict, will come not only great good for their students, and for the cause of education in general, but the ultimate elimination of all such artificial trade practices as "Pittsburgh Plus."

The Other Side

THE DANGEROUS LAWBREAKERS.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes of Washington is in Chicago on an inspection trip, and in an address Monday before the citizenship conference he had the courage to place the blame for the frequent violations of the prohibition law where it properly belongs. He characterized the well to do and influential citizens as the most dangerous of nonobservers.

He was not so much concerned about the problem of liquor consumption among the other classes, since the bootleggers boast that their clientèle is from the élite. "If these so-called leaders feel themselves above the law," he added, "they become just as dangerous to the life of the nation as the most undesirable types which burrow from beneath and seek to undermine it from below."

True, every word of it. The assault of wealth and aristocracy upon the government and against the enforcement of its laws is immeasurably more dangerous to its existence than is the threat of anarchy and revolution. To a large extent wealth and position set the example and the pace for others to follow. It is wealth, not poverty, that makes bootlegging profitable and that makes drinking fashionable. The poor devil found drunk on the streets excuses his plight by claiming the same privileges that wealth enjoys. When he is sent to jail he feels that his government is not giving him a square deal, and rightly so.

Wherever raids have been made in the larger cities the large supplies of liquors were invariably found in the cellars of the rich. It was the poisonous moonshine that was found in the pantries of the poor.

CEREBRAL SYPHILIS.

Dr. W. L. HARTMAN, chief surgeon of the Michigan Central railroad, does not think big business enterprises pay enough attention to the health, mental or physical, of their presidents and other high priced administrative officers. In a recent report he refers to five men in very responsible positions, each of whom came very near wrecking the business that he influenced because he had syphilis of the brain.

A production manager developed paresis. He made gross mistakes which cost his concern more than a quarter of a million dollars before his associates recognized that he was a sick man and retired him. The head of a large corporation was noticed to be acting peculiarly. Nevertheless, no action was taken until after he had called a meeting of his board of directors and during the meeting had arisen at the head of the table and preached a sermon. Another business was almost wrecked by a purchasing agent who developed cerebral syphilis, but who kept on the job some time after his malady was manifest to those well qualified to judge.

Dr. Hartman says: "Nations have been wrecked by cerebral syphilis of rulers." Before the world can be made safe for democracy, the league of nations will have to require that all kings and potentates be examined for cerebral syphilis once a year.

In a family of executives, such as the administration board of a big business, or a board of directors, an officer might go along for a couple of years or more, showing the effects of cerebral syphilis without having his associates recognize either the trouble or that there was any serious trouble. They might notice that an associate was peculiar, but beyond that they would not be liable to go.

The behavior of a man with cerebral syphilis makes it dangerous to have him in a position of authority. Notions of grandeur are very apt to show themselves. The tendency to overbuy and to overspend generally is marked. One of the first effects noted is a deterioration in the quality of the judgment. On the other hand, as the judgment gets poorer the man's confidence in his judgment becomes stronger.

Most of us are guilty of bad judgment at times, but we escape the consequences because we are cautious or even timid or afraid. The man with syphilis of the brain has none of the caution which fear hedges us with. A requisite for a high executive is high standards of probity, at least in all matters that affect the business life of his concern. The man who has syphilis of the brain tends early in the course of his malady to lose his probity. Oftentimes the change is subtle.

The idea of requiring all men in positions of great responsibility to be periodically examined is a good one.

CHLORINE KILLS BACTERIA.

J. F. H. writes: Soon after the recent announcement of typhoid cases in Chicago we noticed that the amount of chlorine in the drinking water became excessive.

Is there not some danger that this great amount of chlorine may kill the friendly flora of the digestive tract and injure the health of people in this way?

REPLY.

I do not think so. When chlorine has a chance it combines with organic matter. When it is added to water that is fairly free from organic matter it combines with the bacteria and kills them. When such water is drunk the excess of chlorine combines with food in the stomach and intestines. None of it reaches the large intestines as free chlorine. The bacteria, friend and foe, live in the large intestine.

TOO MUCH TROUBLE.

Mrs. J. D. B. writes: I have seen several times about what to do for cramps in one's legs. Now, I have never seen anything as good as this, and it is very simple, too. As soon as the cramps start, have a good, strong string under your pillow, get it out quickly and tie it tight around the leg and let it stay there until the leg is through cramping. A good string, torn off a flour sack, about an inch wide is good, but any good string will do. This does the business. I am writing this because I am sorry for people who have night cramps and I know what it is. Carry a string in your pocket. It is claimed this will cure them, too.

A good constipation bread is: 1 cup bran, 2 cups graham, 2 cups buttermilk, a little salt and saleratus stirred up good, and a tablespoonful sugar.

Bake it. It is good.

I will ring off for fear the doctor won't let me come again.

REPLY.

Your string remedy is too much trouble. Otherwise, it is all right.

Thanks for the recipe for bran bread.

Will be glad to have you come again.

Have you heard about trader rats? To get something they bring something.

You brought two suggestions for needy folks.

CLEANUP EFFECTED.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please inform the proper authorities that the alley between Hastings and 14th streets from Racine avenue to Throop street is in great need of a cleanup? A garage dumps ashes and cinders there in great quantities Then another offender is a stable which accumulates a load of manure and dumps it in the alley for removal. D. B.

Ashes are collected in this district on an average every sixth day. The proprietor of garage at the address complained of has been notified to make arrangements for the regular removal of ashes from his premises by private scavenger, which arrangement he states has been made.

Owner of stable has been notified to keep manure in barn or on his own premises pending removal, which the complainant states is once a week.

THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

REBATES ON PAVING.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—Has any rebate been declared on warrant 42872, on the street paving? How long does it take to get a rebate on these assessments? T. M.

Rebates have not yet been declared on warrant No. 42872, and it is difficult to say when they will be. Over $2,500 is still uncollected, due to property being forfeited to state because tax buyers refused to buy. It may take two or three years to clear this up.

FRANK D. GLEESON, Chief Accountant,
Board of Local Improvements.

TERMINATING THE TENANCY.

Waukesha, Wis., Feb. 26.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I leased a store to A and B. A clause in the lease reads that the lease will be void if the rent is not paid the first of each month. We were lenient at first, as they were just starting in business. Last month it was the 15th before they paid. Will the fact that we were lenient and accepted the rent at a later date affect this part of the lease? Could we tell them that the lease is canceled and that we want more rent? Many have told us that we should get higher rent for the place. E. A. H.

In order to terminate the lease for nonpayment of rent the landlord must first serve notice giving the tenant opportunity to pay up. He could not terminate their tenancy by surprise.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 2, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—The senate ratified the treaty with the Chippewa Indians.

NEW YORK.—A letter states that Gen. Logan's cavalry from Huntsville, Ala., joined Gen. Sherman at Selma.

CINCINNATI.—A dispatch says that Gen. Thomas has advanced on the enemy at Dalton, Ga. A severe engagement is expected soon.

DECATUR, Ill. — The Democrats elected their candidate for mayor as a result of the large number of soldiers who are away at war. The copperheads stay at home and vote.

NEW YORK.—Details of the Florida battle have arrived. The Union force was 4,500 infantry, 400 cavalry, and 20 cannons. The rebels under Gen. Gardner numbered 13,000, entrenched in swamps. After its defeat the Union force retreated in order.

CHICAGO.—"It gives us pleasure to announce the continued and increased success of the Chicago Daily Record. We pleasurably hail our contemporary and predict for it a long career of prosperity, due to the energy and enterprise of its proprietor, Mr. O'Donoghue."

CHICAGO.—The veteran 44th Illinois regiment, among the first to reenlist, came home on furlough. It numbers about 400 men under Col. W. W. Barrett. It was organized in Chicago and went into service with 960 men in September, 1861. It participated in severe fighting under Gen. Sheridan at Stone River. It also fought at Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, and Mission Ridge.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 2, 1899.

LONDON. — Ambassador Joseph H. Choate arrived at Southampton to take up his duties as envoy to England.

WASHINGTON. — Baron Farrar Herschell, president of the joint high commission to adjust differences between the United States and Canada, died suddenly here.

WASHINGTON. — Senator Mark Hanna made his maiden speech in the senate. He spoke on the naval bill and scored a success as a debater.

PARIS.—Premier Dupuy's trial revision bill passed the senate. It gives the Court of Cassation the right to say whether Dreyfus shall be tried again by court-martial. It is believed it gives no hope for the prisoner because the case will be kept in the hands of his enemies in the army.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago and Alton railroad has been sold for $74,505,675 to a syndicate, making it a link in a transcontinental system. The purchasers include George Gould, Jacob Schiff, James Stillman, E. H. Harriman, and the Rockefellers. Chief among the sellers are T. B. Blackstone, Marshall Field, A. C. Bartlett, A. A. Sprague, and John J. Mitchell.

CHICAGO. — Augustus A. Becker, the sausage maker, confessed the murder of his wife by pushing her off the Randolph street viaduct into the lake. His story of how he killed her is doubted by the police.

CHICAGO.—Frederick Mandel and Miss Blanche Rosenbaum, 2239 Calumet avenue, were married at the Standard club. Robert Mandel was master of ceremonies.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 2, 1914.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal.—Lincoln Beachey, the aviator, while "looping the loop" here, fell 1,600 feet, but righted himself 400 feet from the ground and escaped injury.

WASHINGTON.—Official Washington expresses the belief that Carranza, Villa & Co. have made President Wilson and Secretary Bryan ridiculous by the latter's backing up on his demand for inquiry into the W. S. Benton murder when Carranza protested.

NEW YORK.—A blizzard from the northeast has practically cut New York off from the rest of the country.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—Said Pasha, former grand vizier, is dead at the age of 82.

WASHINGTON.—John Callan O'Laughlin says President Wilson's first year in office, which ends on Wednesday, has a record of achievement gratifying to Democrats.

CHICAGO.—The Committee of Fifteen makes public a list of seventy-two vice resorts outside the old "red light" district with the names of the owners of record.

CHICAGO.—Cassius M. Fairman, wealthy grain broker, was found dead on railroad tracks and it is believed he was slain. He had drawn $500 to defray expenses to Springfield, Neb., where he was to wed Miss Elizabeth Davidson on March 31. The money is missing.

"TRACTION TOPICS."

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Having lived on the northwest side for the last twenty-six years (twenty-four of the twenty-six in the same ward), I feel qualified to write on the service furnished that side of the city by the Irving Park boulevard line, service that is conspicuous by its absence. There is no need to submit a blue print of Irving Park boulevard. It is one of the widest streets on which there is a car track. I'll be more explicit. I should have said there are two lines of track, one for eastbound and one for westbound cars, although it has never been definitely proven that both are used, as it seems to us in this neck of the woods that the cars are always running in the wrong direction. From a physical standpoint there is absolutely no sane reason why a schedule cannot be maintained. Years ago when cows were wont to browse on the clover that appeared in quantity between the tracks the car crew had a legitimate excuse for being tardy, but today instead of cows they have the busses to blame, saying they cause other traffic to seek the car track, thereby delaying the cars. What in the world have the busses to do with the delays to cars on Irving Park boulevard?

The Milwaukee avenue line discharges more passengers transferring to Irving Park boulevard than any other, and the ratio of cars on the two lines is about five to two; the five of course are Milwaukee avenue cars. This is a conservative figure, mind you, and is not counting the Cicero avenue line. Last evening, for example, the size of the crowd awaiting the arrival of one of the seagoing (but not seaworthy) hacks at that intersection would have gladdened the heart of many a picture theater owner. For a time we had a supervisor at the intersection just mentioned. He is not there now and is probably following a more peaceful vocation. G. SOTT.

LAKE DIVERSION; BY ONE OPPOSED TO IT.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—In a recent issue of The Tribune, Mr. De Blois discussed at length the rights of Chicago to withdraw at least 10,000 feet of water from Lake Michigan to be used for sewage dilution. He argues the question as it is related to Canada and lake power companies and concludes that Chicago's rights are unassailable from any point of view, and yet conceded that efforts are being made to install sewage disposal plants, but that these are costly investments.

It has always been a matter of peculiar interest to the residents and land owners of the entire Illinois river valley as to just why Chicago has focused so much attention upon these outside parties and has sent up such a despairing cry about its sanitation problems. Chicago has always acted in this matter as if her interests were paramount to those of all the other people involved in the situation. Have not the citizens of the entire river valley a right to a clean river? Must all these lower cities and towns take all of Chicago's filth and be exposed to all possible infections in order to make Chicago's people safe? Must the property owners and farmers for 350 miles be willing to have their farm lands and their homes jeopardized and ruined in order to save some money for Chicago? Are all these unfortunate river people under moral obligation to suffer untold losses in order to provide a cheap sewage disposal for Chicago? Must these people have their properties depreciated a half to make possible a perpetual flow of 10,000 feet of water for the power interests of upper Illinois, who are so deeply interested in this water diversion? Why refer to any law? Has the sanitary district observed this law legalizing this diversion when it specified that all damages caused on the Illinois river should be promptly and equitably paid? Why obey the law just in part? Has it given heed to the advices of the war department of our federal government about this water diversion? What was done when the federal government issued an injunction against the withdrawal of more than 4,167 feet? Just who kept that injunction in the court for fourteen years? Has not the sanitary district defied the war department for almost twenty years? Why talk about legal rights?

J. P. KERR,
President, Drainage and Levee District of Illinois.

ABUSE OF STATISTICS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The letter appearing in today's Voice of the People signed by one "Italo Emilio Canini" concerning the foreign born in our public institutions is a glaring example of the misuse, or rather the abuse, in quoting statistics in support of a one sided point of view instead of presenting the figures in their true relation to the matter as a whole. For instance, Mr. Canini, quoting the census of 1910, shows that per 100,000 foreign born persons of the various nationalities living in the United States, of those committed to penal institutions only 527 were born in Italy and 537 in Poland, as against 1,196 in Scotland and 1,983 in Ireland. Now assuming these figures to be correct where Mr. Canini's logic fails to pieces is the indisputable fact that at this particular period, 1910, there were from seven to ten times more foreign born Scotch and Irish living in the United States than foreign born Italians and Poles. In other words, in proportion to the number of foreign born Italians living in the United States in 1910, the figures should read only 198 instead of 527 foreign born Italians committed to penal institutions, which is more than 200 per cent above the average quota. The same comparison applies to his other examples as to the number of foreign born enumerated in the almshouses and the insane asylums of the United States, only that in the latter case the percentage of foreign born Italians is greater. M. J. FLEMING.

JUSTICE FOR THE SOLDIER PRISONERS.

Chicago, Feb. 27. — Without accepting what The Tribune says in regard to the release from federal prisons of the political prisoners, I want to join in its movement to free the soldier prisoners, of which I heartily approve. Among them may be individuals undeserving of freedom, but even these are probably entitled to hospitalization rather than incarceration. As to the rest every doubt as to their guilt or the justness of their sentence and any possibility or hope that if freed they may make good should be resolved in their favor. Times of war are notorious for moral disturbance and ineffectiveness of usual inhibitions, for quick judgments and drastic action. These men's sentences are unduly severe. These men have undergone five years' imprisonment, no light punishment. Freed, they will have to prove their right to life, freedom, and the fullness thereof. Give them their chance.

The war was pleasant to few of us. Let us remove all possible scars remaining and get on with life.

WM. BROSS LLOYD.

KEEP THE U. S. AMERICAN.

Chicago, Feb. 26. — "Keep the U. S. American." The editorial under above heading, regarding the stand of Secretary Hughes on pending immigration legislation, is a fine article, but too mild by far. Why not insist that he state very clearly just what his reasons are, for going against the expressed wish of the people, instead of forwarding protests from foreign governments.

JOHN McGILLEN, LONG LEADER OF DEMOCRATS, DIES

Served in the Council for Eight Years.

John McGillen, a leader in Democratic politics in Cook county for some thirty-five years, died yesterday morning at his home, 623 Arlington place, after a lingering illness of six months. The funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. from St. Vincent's church, Sheffield and Webster avenues, with burial at Calvary.

Mr. McGillen's father, Edward, was chief lieutenant for Senator Stephen A. Douglas in all the "Little Giant's" notable battles, including the celebrated senatorial battle of 1858, in which Abraham Lincoln lost, only to win the presidency two years later.

John McGillen's birthplace was the site of Hibbard, Spencer & Bartlett's building at State and South Water streets. He was born on Nov. 13, 1861. Born of a political father, he entered politics at an early age. Even then he was a personal friend of John P. Hopkins.

Served in Council.

Mr. McGillen was an alderman of Chicago for eight years, during the administration of Mayors Hempstead A. Washburne, Carter H. Harrison the elder, George B. Swift, and Mr. Hopkins. He was Democratic leader and chairman of the finance committee and mayor pro tem for a time following the assassination of Mr. Harrison, and was considered the finest parliamentarian who ever sat in the council.

In 1893-4 he was chairman of the Democratic county committee.

Following the Democratic sweep of 1930, Mr. McGillen was elected clerk of the sanitary district, and so capable was his administration that when the Republicans regained control he was reelected clerk.

Once a Contractor.

In the World's fair days of 1893, Mr. McGillen was a partner in the contracting firm of Agnew & Co., who built the manufacturer's building, the largest in the exposition. For the last fifteen years he was head of the surety insurance corporation known as John McGillen & Co., 105 South La Salle street.

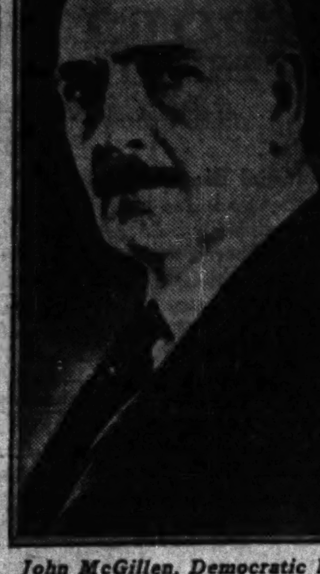
Mr. McGillen leaves a widow, Eliza P., daughter of M. A. Devine, a Chicago pioneer; a daughter, Mrs. James T. (Rosalie) Bristol; two brothers, James V. of Chicago, and Richard E., secretary of state of Arizona; and two sisters, the Misses Elizabeth A. and Josephine McGillen of Chicago.

OBITUARY.

EARL H. TAYLOR, 1250 Bryn Mawr avenue, died suddenly last Tuesday, after a short illness. He was connected with Greenebaum Sons Investment company. His widow, Marguerite Cleary Taylor, and his father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Taylor, and his sister, Mrs. T. A. Lowery, survive him.

LOUISA BARNET LAMBE, one of the first alumnae of Dearborn seminary, died at her residence, 1435 East 60th street, on Thursday. She came to Illinois before the days of railroads, traveling with her parents from St. Catherine's, Canada, in a sleigh.

CALLED BY DEATH



John McGillen, Democratic leader, who died yesterday.

Hold Funeral Tomorrow for Mrs. L. B. Cardwell

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Cardwell, who died yesterday after an illness of three weeks, will be held tomorrow morning from Our Lady of Mercy church. Mrs. Cardwell, who was 50 years old, was the wife of Capt. Louis B. Cardwell and mother of Lieut. Louis B. Cardwell Jr., both officers of the 132d infantry, I. N. G. She has lived in Chicago all of her life. Mrs. Cardwell is survived by her husband, her son, and three daughters, Miss Jane Cardwell, Mrs. Margaret Corlin, and Mrs. Tillie Overmeyer. She died at the family home, 3741 Leland avenue.

No Matter Where You Live, Call "Hursen"

You may be 1 mile or 20 miles away from the nearest Hursen "funeral-home." It actually takes less time for Hursen to answer your call, no matter what your distance, than is usually required by others who may be situated close by.

This is because of Hursen's perfected organization, which is ready like an army, for instant, expert, personal service. Hursen never makes any added charge for distance covered. There is no other institution of the kind in America whose services are in such great demand, at such great distances.

Calls 20 miles away, from the North Shore towns, from Maywood and west of it, from South Chicago and south of it—these are everyday occurrences at Hursen's. This shows what over 3,000,000 people think of Hursen, who has loosened the shackles of Funeral-Trust-price-extortion from as many citizens, and who has built up the greatest institution of its kind in America.

Hursen's invariable rule is that his prices are always far less than those exacted anywhere else, without a single exception. Hursen elegance and Hursen service are beyond competition. You may telephone the Hursen establishment nearest you, if you prefer. Call Hursen, of course!

ALDERMEN BALK AT EXILE FROM RAIL MEETING

Name Envoys to Attend Terminal Parley.

ALD. ARTHUR ALBERT. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Another council committee fell out of step with the city administration yesterday when the aldermanic railway terminals group demanded that it be allowed to participate in Mayor Dever's conference with railroad officials next Thursday. The conference will discuss a consolidation of near south side stations.

For several weeks a break has been imminent between the council and the administration. Members of the finance committee a few days ago received the mayor's "economy budget" suggestions with a hint that "budget making is the committee's work and we will function as usual." It then refused to consider the mayor's program until every item was supported by "sustaining data."

Ask Share in Conference.

In the council it was urged recently by several aldermen that a study be undertaken of the possibility of digging subways at once. This move was interpreted even by administration leaders as an indirect protest against purported "secret" negotiations with the surface and elevated lines.

"It is only proper that the council should be represented in this conference with the railroad presidents on March 6," declared Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th]. "Members of the terminals committee eventually will be expected to report some plan for approval."

"But you can't discuss problems like this in a 'town meeting,' protested Corporation Counsel F. X. Busch. "The railroads are loath to discuss any public improvement before a large gathering."

"Too Much Star Chamber."

"If you can't discuss public problems in 'a town meeting,' as you call it, why have a council?" demanded Ald. Arthur Albert [43d]. "The administration is assuming too much authority. The council will have to approve or disapprove anything you do. How can we do it if we don't know what is being talked about? There's been altogether too much 'star chamber' work in the attempt to solve the people's problems."

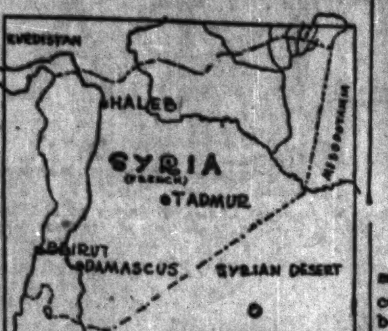
"It seems to me," said Ald. Donald McKinlay [19th], "that members of this committee should be present at all terminal conferences."

Aldermen Name Errors.

Aldermen McKinlay, Nelsen, and Albert, together with Ald. Joseph Cepak [22d], and Ald. Joseph Petlak [33d], were named by Chairman E. J. Kaindl [34th] as a subcommittee to meet with the mayor and the railroad presidents. Whether they will be admitted neither the mayor nor Mr. Busch revealed.

Seven of the fifteen railroads now using the La Salle, Dearborn street, and Grand Central stations have promised to coöperate in a project to consolidate their terminals, permitting the city to straighten the river from Harrison to 16th street, as well as to open four streets from the loop to the south side.

REVOLT IN SYRIA



CONSTANTINOPLE, March 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—The newspapers here say a fierce encounter has occurred in Hadjiler, a village on the Syrian frontier, between French troops and the Krafakili tribe, with many killed and wounded on both sides. It is said the French had thirty casualties.

SEEK THOMAS FOLEY JR.

His father, Thomas Foley, 84 Newton avenue, Astoria, Long Island, N. Y., is appealing to papers throughout the country for aid in locating Thomas Foley Jr., 15 years old, a student at De La Salle institute, who has been missing since Jan. 2.

"LIBERTY CRADLE STATES" PROFIT BY CHILD LABOR

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

New England, which still prides itself upon the remnants of a Puritan conscience, still is sweating 5 year old boys and girls on factory work in homes.

On the child labor map, the inkiest spots for child exploitation in industry and manufacturing are in some of the "cradle of liberty" states, and blackest of all is Rhode Island.

Baby bondage? Infant thralldom? Five year old tots were found put to work to earn less than a cent an hour. And this in a city named Providence. Enough to make Roger Williams, founder of the colony, turn in his grave.

Humanitarian groups use it as a "horrible example" argument in favor of a constitutional amendment, giving congress power to regulate child labor as sponsored in congress by Senator Medill McCormick.

Considering Backward Peoples.

If left to the states, they maintain, the protection of children's rights will take until doomsday to reach its goal, and meantime certain spots in America will be on as low a plane as India, China, Dahomey, and Patagonia.

Of the million and more children 10 to 15 years of age "gainfully employed," more than 60 per cent are in agriculture, forestry, and animal husbandry. In the mills and factories 185,000 children under 16 are working; they are 17 per cent of the total. When all types of employment, including agriculture, are considered, the south is more backward than other sections, due to child work in the cotton fields—Mississippi is worst of the forty-eight states, one child in every four there being a worker.

What may surprise many, however, is that when non-agricultural occupations alone are considered, the proportion of children at work is highest in some of the New England states rather than in the textile regions of the south, where marked improvement has taken place during the last ten years in most of the states.

New England's Preëminence.

Here are a few figures demonstrating this: In the whole United States 3.3 per cent of the 10 to 15 year old children are employed in nonagricultural pursuits. In Rhode Island the ratio is four times greater than in the country as a whole and no less than 13.3 per cent of the children work in nonagricultural lines.

That figure may be compared with 4.5 per cent in Illinois, 3.7 per cent in Indiana, 3.2 per cent in Wisconsin, and only 2.5 per cent in Michigan, now one of the great manufacturing states. The South Atlantic states average 3.1 per cent.

Massachusetts is next in inkiness to Rhode Island, 8.3 per cent of its children working at nonagricultural jobs; Connecticut comes third with 7.7 per cent, so that all told New England looms up pretty badly. New Jersey ranks fourth in darkness with 7.2 per cent. All these figures are based on the 1920 census.

Since then there has been some improvement, but not much. Child exploitation reaches its largest volume in the great manufacturing districts of the east.

A few years ago a survey of industrial home work of boys and girls was made in Providence, Pawtucket, and Central Falls, R. I., by the children's bureau at Washington.

It showed that in many lesser industries in New England conditions were found not at all unlike the ancient family sweatshops in the garment trade before it became highly industrialized. The study showed that in Providence and Pawtucket twenty-one industries use home work as part of their system of production.

The children, many of them 5 and 6 years and upwards, worked at their homes in the kitchen, generally after school, at carding dress snaps, wiring beads, carding jewelry, finishing underwear, setting stones, thread drawing on lace, and wiring rosary beads, and similar home occupations.

Industrious and Still Poor.

With a whole family on the job, the older members doing the harder tasks and the toddlers the easier ones, the average earnings per hour were only 3 cents per person

The home work, the child welfare agencies point out, is a means of getting around the existing child labor laws. By giving the work out, they argue, the factories thwarted the purpose of the law regulating hours of employment of women and minors in factories, for there is no eight or ten hour day in the home.

It was found that almost three-tenths of the home working children were retarded in their school work, while physical ailments ran high.

Out of 2,336 children investigated in these three cities, 39 were under 5 years of age, 1,069 were under 11, and 2,016 were under 14.

The linking and wiring of rosary beads took the time of about one-sixth of the children canvassed. A screw wedged into a clothespin served as the mechanism for opening and closing the links, and a pair of pliers formed the rest of the tools. A manufacturer said he paid from 21 to 75 cents a dozen for the children's work on rosaries.

BYFIELD-CANDLER $100,000 SUIT TO TRIAL TUESDAY

Woman Charges Attack on Ocean Liner.

Decatur, Ga., March 1.—Attorneys for both sides today completed plans for the trial of the suit of Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield of Atlanta for $100,000 against Walter T. Candler, son of Asa G. Candler Sr. The trial is to begin in the De Kalb county Superior court on Tuesday.

Mrs. Byfield alleges that Mr. Candler attacked her in a stateroom on the liner Berengaria in July, 1922, when Mr. Candler, his two young daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Byfield were en route to Europe. The petition declared that, as a result, Mrs. Byfield suffered "intense humiliation and chagrin and became seriously ill."

Mr. Candler denied any improper conduct, according to a suit filed by him against Byfield, the husband of the plaintiff, in which he sought to recover $25,000 alleged to have been obtained from him by the husband the morning following the alleged incident on shipboard.

Tells of Berengaria Incident.

While his wife was on a trip to the Pacific isles, Mr. Candler decided to take a trip to France with his daughters, and, according to Mrs. Byfield, she and her husband were persuaded by him to make the journey, he "wishing her to aid in looking after the children."

According to Mrs. Byfield's petition, the incident which became the grounds for the $100,000 damage suit occurred when the Berengaria was on her sixth day out at 2:30 on the morning of July 17.

She had put the children to bed and, with Mr. Byfield, retired to their stateroom. Her husband went on deck, she alleged, but she did not accompany him. It was at this juncture, the petition continued, that Candler entered her stateroom. Her screams, she asserted, brought her husband, who engaged in a fist fight with Mr. Candler.

Candler Denies Charges.

In Mr. Candler's answer he denied persuading the Byfields to accompany him on the trip to France. He described events of the evening, maintaining he "committed no wrong."

Mr. Candler set out that he "became intoxicated" while a member of a dinner party which included the Byfields and three other persons. He said he does not remember how he came to be in the stateroom with Mrs. Byfield and alleged that almost immediately after he entered the room Mr. Byfield rushed in and shouted:

"Now I've caught you! I have been suspecting this for six months. You must pay me $25,000."

Mr. Candler admitted he and Mr. Byfield exchanged blows and stated that Mr. Byfield struck his wife also. He said he submitted to Mr. Byfield's demand and wrote him a check for $25,000 while he was in a dazed condition.

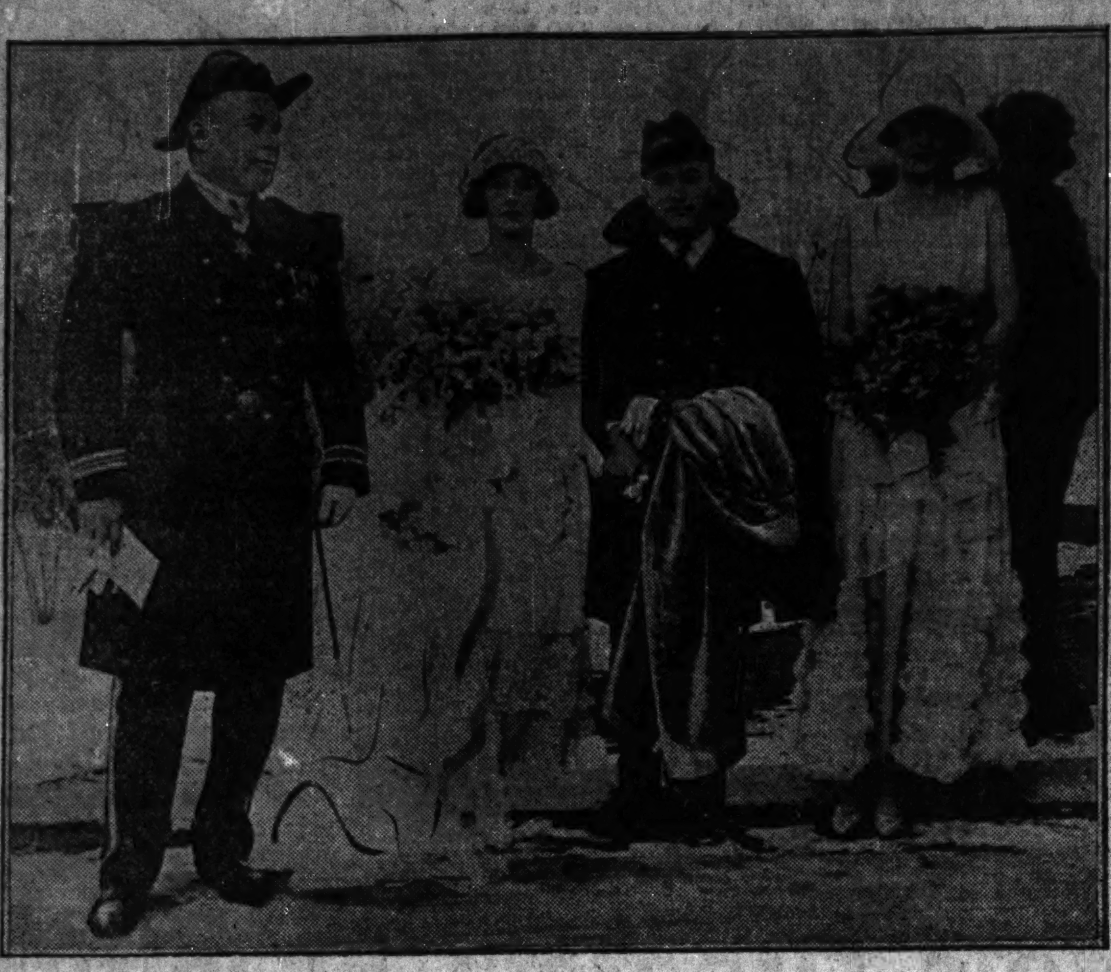
Candler is a member of one of Atlanta's wealthiest families and son of the aged soft drink magnate who recently won the decision in the $500,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel of New Orleans.

Mrs. Candler's Trial Tomorrow.

The woman who rents the apartment in which Mrs. Asa G. Candler Sr., young wife of the Atlanta capitalist, was arrested on Feb. 9, in company with W. J. Stoddard and G. W. Keeling, Atlanta business man, will be called into police court as a witness at the trial of the cases pending against Mrs. Candler and her two companions, it was announced tonight.

Police Chief James L. Beavers, in making this announcement, also stated that the trial plans had been changed and that the cases would be called Monday morning. The case had been set for Tuesday morning, but was changed because the attorney for the two men is counsel in another case Tuesday.

THE BLATCHFORD-BERRY WEDDING



In the center of the picture are Miss Marion Blatchford and Lieut. Albert Gleaves Berry Jr., who were married yesterday at the home of the bride in Winnetka. On the left is Lieut. Commander Jonas Ingram of the Great Lakes Training station, and on the right Miss Elsie Blatchford, who was maid of honor.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MISS BLATCHFORD IS MARRIED TO LIEUT. BERRY

Ceremony at Home of Bride in Winnetka.

Naval officers, resplendent in their dress uniforms, crossed swords above the heads of Miss Marion Blatchford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Blatchford of Winnetka, and her bridal party as she walked to the altar yesterday afternoon to become the bride of Lieut. Albert Gleaves Berry, son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Albert Gleaves Berry. The ceremony was read by the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard at 4 o'clock in Christ church, Winnetka, and was followed by a reception at the Blatchford residence.

Wears Mother's Lace.

Miss Blatchford's bridal gown was of white satin, trimmed in the same rose point lace worn by her mother at her wedding. A tulle veil was gathered to the bride's head with a crown of lace and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley, white roses, and sweet peas. The maid of honor, Miss Elsie Blatchford, wore orchid satin with turquoise blue tulle, and a matching hat of the tulle trimmed with silver lace. The gowns of the bridesmaids, Miss Virginia Fitzhugh, Miss Margaret Forgan, Miss Margaret Mercer, and Miss Helen Rushton, were of turquoise chiffon with orchid tulle, and their hats, of the same shade and materials as the frocks, had long streamers of orchid tulle. The maid of honor carried sunburst roses and sweet peas, and the maids' bouquets were of variegated colored sweet peas.

Lieut. Nelson Is Best Man.

Lieut. Gordon W. Nelson, construction corps, United States navy, came from Washington to be Lieut. Berry's best man, and the ushers were Lieut. Thomas Warner, Lieutenant Commander Jonas Ingram, and Lieut. George Marvel of Great Lakes, and Dr. E. J. Stelter, lieutenant medical corps, United States navy.

Lieut. and Mrs. Berry will go to California for their wedding trip, and will make their residence on the west coast when Lieut. Berry receives his final orders.

The bride was to have made her debut last winter, but instead announced her engagement to Lieut. Berry.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY.

Julius Block, 31 years old, 6106 South Campbell avenue, a teamster, was fatally injured at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when his team ran away and threw him from his seat at Lyman and Throop streets.

VACANT FLATS, NO RENT BOOST, SEEN BY REALTOR

There is no shortage of apartments in Chicago. In the majority of cases there will be no increase in rentals this spring.

Such were statements made yesterday by A. F. Kramer, a member of the real estate firm of Draper & Kramer and a past president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

"I have gone over most of the districts in Chicago and I do not find any cause for alarm in the renting situation," he said. "I find that in 75 per cent of apartments there will be no increase. At the present time in Rogers Park and along the south shore there are hundreds of vacant apartments.

"Of course, if you go into a district where there is keen competition between real estate dealers or landlords you may find high prices and raises in rents. Too, if you go into buildings that have been put up at enormous expense you will find high prices.

"I believe that the various tenants' leagues and associations are bad for the tenants. These leagues are constantly complaining about the increase in rents. Now, such complaints printed freely in the newspapers do nothing that they are supposed to do—in fact, they do exactly the opposite. The landlords seeing these stories about high rentals commence to wonder if their own prices are high enough and immediately up goes the price."

53 POLICEMEN, FAILING MEDICAL TEST, RETIRED

Fifty-three police veterans, five lieutenants, nine sergeants and thirty-nine patrolmen, judged physically unfit in recent medical tests by the civil service commission, were retired yesterday to the pension list.

Inability to name a successor at this time prevented Chief Collins from accepting the resignation tendered by Capt. Joseph Smith, commander of the Woodlawn station, who failed to meet the physical requirements in the same examinations.

The lieutenants who surrendered their stars to Si Mayer, secretary of the department, are: Michael J. Crotty, Hyde Park; Timothy Cullinan, Shakespeare; John E. Egan, New City; Michael T. Morrissey, South Chicago, east side, and Jacob Reich, Irving Park.

DENY QUITTING LEGION BECAUSE OF BONUS POLICY

Three of the four wealthy members of Alexander McKinlock post of the American Legion in Lake Forest, who were reported to have resigned because they disagreed with the post's stand in favor of the bonus, denied yesterday the bonus question had anything to do with their resignations.

Paul Wilder, broker, declared he resigned because he was unable to participate actively in the post's affairs. He favors a bonus, he said.

Russell Lord and Lawrence B. Robbins said they resigned because they were not in sympathy with the methods employed by the organization on any question.

Kent Clow, manufacturer, the fourth to resign, could not be reached.

STREET CAR STRIKES AGED MAN.

Samuel Mullins, 75 years old, 1147 Jackson boulevard, was injured, probably fatally, yesterday when he was struck by a south bound Cottage Grove avenue car as he was crossing South Wabash avenue at East Adams street.

AS Richardson's merchandise has always been noted for its excellence, and because it is lasting and beautiful, there are people in the city who have imagined that Richardson's is beyond the reach of the average income. That isn't true.

OUR prices have always been reasonable, as they are based on cost to our wholesale house and on an unusually large volume of trade. They've simply got to be reasonable. In consequence, we serve more people of modest income than those of great wealth.

Will you come here, you folks who are "in between," and see what we have, how we operate and how very true this advertisement is?

FEDERAL TAB ON ROADS REVEALS COST TO STATE

Exceeded $30,000 Mile, Figures Show.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Gov. Len Small has been flooding the state with propaganda to convince the public that roads built under contracts awarded by his administration have cost less than $30,000 a mile. In his message to the last legislature the governor says that he directed his commissioner of public works "not to award any contracts at a price exceeding $30,000 a mile for standard eighteen foot durable hard surfaced pavement, including average grading, culverts, bridges, and all materials."

In this same message he says: "During the year 1921 there were awarded contracts for 638 miles of standard pavement at an average figure of $28,550 a mile, and in 1922, 475 miles at an average of $36,360 a mile."

U. S. Keeps Tab on Roads.

On several hundred miles of roads constructed in Illinois federal aid was given, and therefore the federal government kept close account of the total expenditures on those roads. To those roads only the following information applies:

Ninety-eight per cent of these roads in mileage and 98.6 per cent in cost were concrete pavements. On the roads completed and payments made to Oct. 31 last, the government has issued this information.

Up to that date 580.5 miles were finished at a total cost of $20,588,608 for the pavement alone. For grading and draining, exclusive of certain bridges, $3,365,854 was paid on 134.9 miles of roads.

The Real Cost.

Therefore 580.5 miles cost an average of $35,467.02 per mile for pavement alone, and the grading and draining of 134.9 cost an average of $24,950.74 per mile. It may be contended that the grading and draining was not done in connection with the 580.5 miles completed. If so, the average of $24,950 must be added to the cost of pavements yet to be laid. But if the grading and draining was in connection with the work completed, then 445.6 miles cost an average of $35,467 per mile, while 134.9 miles cost an average of $60,417 per mile. These average figures date back to the time when federal aid was first given in Illinois up to Oct. 31 last.

Gov. Small came into office in January, 1921. He was probably busy all of that year building roads for which contracts had been awarded before he was inaugurated. Probably the cost of federal aid roads up to March 31, 1922, are properly chargeable to former Gov. Lowden.

Costs Under Lowden.

Before that date the federal government shows that 325.7 of pavement was built and paid for at a cost of $11,692,039. That is an average of $33,150.10 a mile under contracts that were probably awarded by the Lowden administration.

Since March 31, 1922, the federal government reports the contruction of 227.8 miles at a cost of $8,896,568. That is an average a mile of $39,054.29. This figure is comparable with $33,150 a mile for the pavement alone. The increase in cost since March 31, 1922, makes the average for all the federal aid pavements constructed to October 31 last $35,467 a mile.

In addition there are the millions paid out for grading and draining the roads. The federal government reports that before March 31, 1922, 121.2 miles of this work had been completed and paid for at a cost of $2,909,080. That is an average of $24,002.31 a mile.

A Few Comparisons.

Since March 31, 1922, 13.7 miles of grading and draining have been done and paid for at a cost of $456,773. The average a mile is therefore, $33,341.

By combining the average cost for paving with that for grading and draining several interesting comparisons result. Before March 31 1922, there was 231.5 miles of federal aid roads built at an average cost of $33,150.10 a mile; and 121.2 other miles built at an average cost of $57,152.41 a mile.

Since March 31, 1922, by exactly the same method of reckoning 214.1 miles of roads have been built at an average cost of $39,054.29 a mile, and 13.7 other miles have been constructed at an average cost of $72,395.44 a mile.

The basic figures, upon which all the above representations have been made, were compiled by the bureau of roads of the United States department of agriculture. They were procured in Washington at the bureau office in photostatic form.

Masons Deeded Property for New Temple

Harry J. Powers, owner of the Colonial theater; Harry J. Powers Jr.; Elmer E. Beach, leader in the Masonic temple $5,000,000 drive, and Attorney Henry Goldstein are shown here when Masons were deeded the Colonial theater property, where the new Masonic temple building will be erected.

PROPERTY FOR NEW TEMPLE IS DEEDED MASONS

All traces of the Iroquois disaster twenty years ago will be wiped out forever when the corner stone of the new Masonic temple, on the site of the Colonial theater, is laid May 1.

Yesterday the papers were signed deeding the land to the Masons for their new building.

One hundred and fifty thousand Masons in Chicago and 70,000 Eastern Stars are congratulating themselves today on the realization of their dreams and aspirations.

Elmer E. Beach, past grand master of Masons in Illinois, has been one of the principal leaders in the drive the Masons have made for $5,000,000.

GRAND CROSSING PAYS HONORS TO POLICE VETERANS

Citizens of the Grand Crossing police district last night gave a farewell banquet to Sergt. Thomas C. Fitzgerald, who during the day completed a tour of duty that extended over a period of thirty-five years. The party was held in the Fitzgerald home at 7047 Prairie avenue.

"Thirty-five years in the business—that's a long time," said Sergt. Fitzgerald, after he had been presented with a gold watch and chain. "But they were busy, happy years. I'm ready now to turn the police work of the Fitzgeralds over to my two sons."

His sons—Sergt. Thomas C. Fitzgerald Jr. and Sergt. James D. Fitzgerald—both are assigned to south side districts and have made good records as policemen.

WAR TRAINING SUMMER PLAN FOR ILLINOISANS

Guard Division to Camp Aug. 9.

Announcement of the program for the summer camp of the Illinois National guard was made by Col. L. C. Grieves, chief of staff of the 33rd division, yesterday. Instead of two weeks in camp by regiments as in the past, the whole division, less artillery units which go to Camp Custer by regiments, will be assembled as a unit.

The staff of instructors and members of the school for noncommissioned officers of the Illinois National guard, now being conducted at Chicago, have been assigned duties well in advance in order that the division may function as such from the very day of arrival at camp.

Eight Thousand to Assemble.

Eight thousand guardsmen will report at Camp Grant, Illinois, for two weeks of intensive field training on Saturday, Aug. 9. Sunday will be spent in drawing supplies and general cleaning up. The schedule calls for regimental instruction on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of the first week with rehearsal of a battalion in attack on Friday.

The next five week days will be devoted to problems, and a two day hike and maneuver culminating at the end of the first day with the establishment of a camp for the night with regular outposts, sentries and other wartime safeguards.

Will "Simulate War."

Advance guards, patrols, airplanes, march discipline and, in fact, all details connected with an actual march in the face of an enemy will be enforced.

The second Sunday in camp will be featured by a field day participated in by members of the command.

100 Boys Study How Best to Make Their Lives Count

Yesterday was their day for boys between 15 and 21 at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., where the second annual Older Boys' conference was held. The theme of the conference, attended by more than one hundred delegates, was, "Am I Making My Life Count?" The speakers were Ted Thelander, the Rev. Alfred H. Barr, "Red" Grange, All-American half back of the University of Illinois; Arthur M. Millard, and the Rev. E. L. Eaton.

MARCONI SAYS HE STOPS RADIO WAVE RAMPAGES

Perfects Method to Send in One Direction.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 1.—Sig. Guglielmo Marconi announced today that finally he has succeeded in harnessing the waves set in motion by radio energy.

G. MARCONI.

The inventor of wireless communication after two years of research can concentrate and direct these electrical waves much as light is controlled and directed in a searchlight.

With certain new controls at the sending station Sig. Marconi can direct his message towards a specific country and none other can listen in. So far he has not been able to confine the waves to one station, but he is confident that he will achieve this. His discovery, he believes, will give greater speed in transmission and more secrecy, with less expensive stations operating at smaller cost.

May Revolutionize Wireless.

The discovery may revolutionize wireless and the horrors of modern warfare may be increased by the use of intensive waves to blow up warships and forts and to work destruction generally.

Sig. Marconi's announcement followed the government's report on imperial wireless communications, which if adopted means the restriction of private radio enterprise.

"I think that with a rapidly developing science like wireless it would not be to the public interest for the state to take it over at a stage when further discoveries may make earlier methods obsolete," he said. "I have been experimenting for the past two years in new methods of transmission by which energy instead of being scattered all around is concentrated in one direction.

Succeeds with 2,200 Mile Radio.

"By my device waves would go in a straight line from one station to another. One advantage is that a smaller amount of power is necessary and the stations would be less expensive to construct and to operate.

"I have made successful experiments in sending messages from Cape Verde to Cornwall on a beam, a distance of 2,200 miles, and I am about to experiment with messages from here to South America, 5,000 miles.

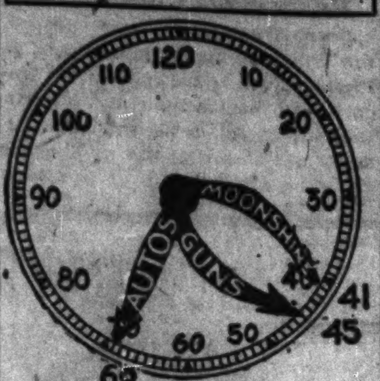
"The new method would enable stations to be directed and worked much more efficiently and economically than now. It allows much greater speed in transmission, and the secrecy of the wireless would be greatly increased.

May Bring Wireless Secrecy.

"You could have a station in the United States broadcasting to England, and only to England, with much more efficiency and clearness than at present. In time we might send messages to Canada and elsewhere in the empire without any danger of their being received by other nations."

Sig. Marconi recognizes that there may be fearful possibilities in his new control of waves. He admits that no one knows what would happen if excessively high power were put behind one of these radio beams and directed at a powder magazine.

HANDS OF DEATH



The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1 last.

FEBRUARY GOES ON RECORD FOR FEW AUTO DEATHS

The month of February goes down in Cook county's history of speed fatalities as a record month of safety. Only thirty deaths were caused by automobiles. The figure is lower than in any month in the last four years.

ANTHONY BARCH.
[Victim of speed.]

The two months of this year also showed a substantial decrease over last year. The total number of deaths this year is 68, as compared with 98 in the same months of 1923—a decrease of 30 per cent.

March, however, began its record of motor deaths yesterday, when the body of Richard Pratt, 58 years old, who lived at the Savoy hotel, was found on the car tracks at State and 58th streets. Physician said he had been struck by an automobile whose driver failed to stop.

Arnold Jeschle, 1209 Melrose street, whose automobile on Friday fatally injured Anthony Barch, 8 years old, 3602 Parnell avenue, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury.

Coolidges at Wedding of Sen. Wadsworth Daughter

Washington, D. C., March 1.—President and Mrs. Coolidge today attended the wedding of Miss Evelyn Wadsworth, daughter of Senator Wadsworth of New York and Mrs. Wadsworth and granddaughter of the late John Hay, and W. Stuart Symington, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stuart Symington Jr. of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed at St. John's Episcopal church by the Rev. Gardner Murray, bishop of Maryland. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge also were among the guests at a reception at the bride's home after the ceremony.

PILGRIMS VOW TO DIE; MARCH ANEW IN INDIA

British Rule Menaced as Sikh Revolt Grows.

BY THOMAS RYAN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AMRITSAR, India, March 1.—A native maharajah, priests, officials who watch over sacred books in a golden temple on an island in a large green tank of water, intrigues in dark evil smelling streets against the white man's rule and a white man's orders—all these make up the strange story of the Akali Sikhs which has developed afresh during the last eight days.

The background of this drama can be easily reviewed. The Sikhs are disciples of the ten Guru, four of whom preached an exceptionally pure religion in the Punjab while the six others attempted to free the region from Mogul rule.

Mohammedan persecution welded the Sikhs into a military brotherhood. One Garu is said to have hurled defiance at the native rulers. "I look overseas towards the Europeans who will come to tear down their purdahs and palaces," he said. And the Sikhs became the readiest recruits of the British army.

Lose Control of Shrines.

Though their creed itself retained its purity, loose living Hindu abbots gained control of the Sikh shrines as the Sikhs had no priestly class. To suppress these Hindu priests, the Akali organization began about two years ago to seize the shrines. The government unable to stop violence in this connection arrested large numbers of Akalis, while at the same time promising them justice against the Hindu priests in the courts.

The Maharajah of the independent state of Nabha, outside the British Punjab, was a friend to the Akalis. Last summer the British charged him with misgovernment, caused him to abdicate and place Nabha under the nominal rule of his young son. However, actual control was placed in the hands of a British administrator.

Last September the Akalis began sending "jathas," pilgrim bands, to Jaitu where is situated the Sikh shrine called the Gungsar. Jaitu is an isolated spot in the territory of Nabha.

Briton Arrests Pilgrims.

Believing the pilgrims came for political agitation connected with the ousting of the maharajah, Wilson Johnston, the British administrator, arrested some of them outside the shrine. Inside the Akalis were performing "Akhan's path"—reading the whole of the Sikh scripture which requires forty-eight hours to complete and necessitates relays of readers.

Mr. Johnston sent in a high born Sikh, who, having prepared himself by purification, arrested the reader and took his place. Thus Mr. Johnstone maintained that the path was never interrupted, while the Sikhs considered the act as an affront to their faith.

Ever since "jathas" numbering seventy-five persons have been leaving Amritsar daily for Jaitu, where they invite arrest in efforts to enter the shrine. Mr. Johnston arrests them and ships them to the most remote corner of Nabha state whence they return to Armitsar as best they can.

Worried by Eclipse.

On Feb. 25, a "jatha" numbering 500, arrived at the Nabha frontier after a fortnight's march from Amritsar. Its name, Shahdi Jatha, proclaimed its readiness to die. Hence its appeal to the Sikh communities enroute was enormous. As it passed through the plains of the British Punjab, it found wagonloads of provisions supplied by the villagers. Crowds pressed on the heels of the marchers.

Gloomy forebodings settled over the 500 pilgrims during an eclipse of the moon on Feb. 20, for to the Sikh an eclipse of the moon is a bad omen for a journey. But when they sighted their Mecca they set off fireworks to bolster up their courage and chanted hymns saying "God is truth, God is one." They carried the daggers which their religion enjoins. Ahead was borne the Grand Sahib—"Our Lord, the Book"—written by Guru Arjan.

Elaborate preparations had been made at Jaitu by Mr. Johnston for the "jatha's" reception. Mr. Johnston ordered the railway in the vicinity of the temple garrisoned and before this shrine he had barricades erected. Sikh villagers in Jaitu resented the Akalis' interference and volunteered to resist. These Mr. Johnston stationed before the temple and along the road leading to it.

Looking northward Mr. Johnston sighted the host, perhaps 100,000 strong, advancing on a half mile front. A scout had reported that there were only 500. Mr. Johnston went to meet the crowd, calling them to halt. But the leaders carrying the scriptures and banners of the "jatha" came on and Mr. Johnston, who is 50, retired quickly across a ploughed field.

Troops Fire on Crowd.

The infantry fired a volley which shook the advance of the Akalis. The British state that the fire was returned from the rear of the crowd but no firearms were ever found on any of the pilgrims. The crowd trickled around the flanks of the troops.

When I visited the Tibbi Sahib, the nearby field was strewn with yellow garlands carried by the pilgrims and with shreds of the yellow gabardines worn by the "jatha." Many wild peacocks invaded the quiet spot.

Nineteen Akali dead were counted. When I arrived at Jaitu I saw 450 members of the "jatha" in the mud-walled cattle pens which Mr. Johnston had prepared for their reception. The remaining fifty had mingled with their followers in the confusion, some escaping and others swelling the casualties, which finally reached sixty wounded.

Delhi Assembly Angered.

Stormy sessions ensued in the assembly at Delhi following the riot, for it was the first incident of its kind since Gen. Dwyer mowed down crowds in Amritsar in 1919. Lamentations greeted the news in Amritsar.

The Akalis immediately decided to send another "jatha." I was the only person of the European race in the tens of thousands of natives who saw the consecration ceremony yesterday before the "jatha" departed from Amritsar. The marchers will reach Jaitu about March 14.

This "jatha," like its predecessor, has assumed the title Shandi, denoting the members' willingness to die. The ceremony, enacted in one of the most famous temples in the world, was pervaded by a spirit of martyrdom similar to that of the early Christians about to meet death in Roman arenas. "We who are about to die salute you," were words chanted awesomely by the crowd. Whether they will really die will depend on circumstances.

In the Punjab the races of nearly all Asia are mingled, for it was through the Punjab that the ancient invasions passed. The streets of Amritsar were clogged with motley peoples in a multitude of colors. Mohammedans and Hindus, though formerly apathetic as communities towards the Akalis, moved with the Sikhs toward the golden temple. There were no patrols out and no troops were seen.

As the whole proceeding, while outwardly religious, was directed against foreign rule, thousands left off their business to attend.

How "Jatha" Was Consecrated.

The golden temple rears its shimmering dome on the island in the center of the green tank which is presided over by myriads of fluttering wings. Around the tank are free kitchens and rest houses for the homeless. The Akal Takht [throne] stands at one end and here I saw a ceremony which no westerner ever saw before.

The five hundred of the "jatha," some of whom were fired on last week, were squatted on the marble pavement. Clad in yellow gabardines and black turbans they formed a yellow daub against the surrounding crowd. Now and then some of the onlookers crawled forward to bend their heads before the members of the "jatha." Some of the "jatha" were boys and others were graybeards. Their features testified to the diversity of the races which make up the Sikh nation.

Government Is Denounced.

Dignitaries arose and denounced the government. From time to time a high pitched voice cried "God is truth," and from roofs and balconies far across the tank came an answering shout trailing off into a wail "God is one." Then there was an uncanny silence, as if the tense thousands were holding their breath.

While the assistants of Jathadar Akali Takh stood by with drawn blades a reader behind "Our Lord, the Book" administered the oath of nonviolence to which the 500 black turbans bowed.

Two women with four sons each in the "jatha" hung garlands on the "jathadar" or leader of the band. The men were then supplied with handfuls of sweets, which were carried, preceded by a banner, across a marble causeway towards the temple. Here under swarms of flies crouched the humble folk. women and children—within the temple they are the equal of kings—who chanted the same hymn. Some placed garlands on the yellow clad figures, while others obtained merit by gifts of sweets to the marchers.

Villagers Sweep Line of March.

After the prayer the "jatha" made the round of the tank once and then, with drums beating and fireworks popping, they marched with a palanquin holding the scriptures towards the open country.

It has been announced that the "jatha" will be asked to disperse when it reaches the Nabha border. And in the meantime Mr. Johnston is clearing a field for the use of a bombing plane in case of emergency.

WOMEN NEGLECT FUTURE OF JOB, WOMAN INSISTS

BY LOUISE JAMES BARGELT.

"The 'dangerous age' for the working woman starts when she is 30," said Miss Emma K. Phinney of the Y. W. C. A. yesterday. "It's the deadline. Moral fatigue is apt to set in. That is when she begins to get restless—and it is then the big problem of the unemployment of girls and women starts."

Miss Phinney, who is an employment secretary of the national board of Y. W. C. A. in New York City spoke at a conference of employment agency managers at Y. W. C. A. headquarters here.

Says Jobs Seem Temporary.

"When a young woman takes a job," Miss Phinney continued, "she seldom regards it in any other light than as temporary; a place to stay until she marries. This idea, subconscious or conscious, is in the back of the majority of young women's minds, but too often she entirely fails to make any plan for a future career.

"Then comes the age of 30—and she is not married. She begins to express her general restlessness by changing from one position to another. If by the time she is 35 she hasn't a position which is fairly substantial and permanent, she will very likely become a floater and never even moderately successful.

Favors Planning of Careers.

"If women would only plan their work without a view to matrimony. Take up some special line which pays better than a mere office position.

"Again I find that girls are too often misled by their hearing stories of women who are holding down $10,000 positions as private secretaries. They hitch their wagon to a star, and don't look after the ground beneath it. Those $10,000 positions are scarce. Besides that it often happens that the service value of the woman holding such a position exceeds her market value, and if anything happens to her employer, which frequently does, she is up against it. She cannot obtain another position at such a salary and she is not content with a smaller one."

FRANCE, GERMANY WILL BE FRIENDS, DR. HERMES SAYS

"Economic Demands Will Still Hatreds."

DR. ANDREAS HERMES.
[Und. & Und. Photo.]

Economic demands will hush the harpings of hatred that now are keeping France and Germany apart, and out of the prevailing turmoil will come continental harmony that will insure European peace.

This is a prediction submitted by Dr. Andreas Hermes, former minister of German finance.

"Perhaps, as peoples, we may not figure out just what it all is about," said Dr. Hermes, who is passing the week end in Chicago preparatory to sailing for the fatherland, "but we—Germany and France—are bound to come to a friendly understanding.

"Peace by Understanding."

"The studious of both countries will know there is no other course of mutual salvation. The general run of Germans and French will accept permanent peace without contemplating the cause. Their casual consideration of it will, I believe, stand as the greatest testimony of its inevitability.

"Lasting peace will not be based on military treaties—'scraps of paper, if you insist'—but on an understanding of essential requirements."

Complications growing out of France's occupation of the Ruhr must be settled on this theory, contended the former German cabinet officer, who has spent two months touring this country.

Lauds Dawes and Aid.

Expressing optimism as to prospects for world peace, Dr. Hermes said Germans are "glad" Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young joined the reparations commission as financial experts. He spoke of their "unquestioned competence."

CARDINAL CALLS DRESS OF WOMEN CRYING SCANDAL

'Dance Mania' Scored Also by Prelate.

CARDINAL LOGUE.
[(C.) Keystone Co.]

ARMAGH, Ireland, March 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—The "crying scandal" of women's dress and the growing "mania" for dancing are denounced by Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, in his lenten pastoral.

"If there be one thing before all others of which Ireland was justly proud, it was the reserve and scrupulous modesty of her women and girls. In every country to which they have been scattered this distinction clung to them. Whether it be from a general loss of that tenderness of conscience or a slavish devotion to fashion, I fear we can pride ourselves on this no longer.

"The dress, or rather want of dress, of the women of the present day is a crying scandal. There seems to be rivalry among them as to how little dress they can wear without incurring universal reprobation. We see enough of this in everyday life, but if we can judge from the advertisements in the newspapers, we do not see the worst.

"Another abuse is dancing, especially all night dances. Latterly there seems to be a regular mania for dancing. As to the character of the dances I know nothing, especially those imported dances some of the names of which I see in the newspapers, and certainly the names are bizarre enough. Those who do know tell me they are most objectionable on the score of morality. They seem to be an outcrop of the corruption of the age."

YOUNG MAN SMILES

It pays to save little things. Some very rich men know it pays. That is one reason why they are rich. But if one suggests saving little things to a young man who has very little if anything today—he smiles compassionately and passes on. Henry Ford doesn't do that. His plant in Detroit saves waste paper, string, used-up heads of mops, broken pails, nuts, bolts, etc. At the end of a year the saving equals a million dollars a month.

Suppose a man of small business adopts a like plan. Such savings may only be ten dollars the first year. But such a beginning may result in multiples of that amount as his business develops. An employee who attracts attention of employers, or managers, as a "going savings device" is on the way to better things. Actually doing it is a most valuable asset—largely affecting the future, yes, more than the money values so saved.

TRIALS OF OFFICE CALMING LABOR —LLOYD GEORGE

Says Socialists Growing Sadder but Wiser.

D. LLOYD GEORGE.

WEST HARTLEPOOL, England, March 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—Addressing delegates representing the united forces of liberalism in the northern counties of England today, David Lloyd George said that it was just like Great Britain's luck "that the first experiment in Socialist administration had come under conditions where it could do the least harm, even conditions which could do a great deal of good," and the experience was having a salutary effect on the impetuous souls of the Socialist party.

"I am all for leaving them for some time between the plow handles," he continued. "They will soon have aching backs and weary hearts, but very much wiser heads, and in the future they will realize you cannot plow from the clouds."

Changes His Tune.

He likened Prime Minister MacDonald to an air squadron leader of Socialism, who spent most of his time in the white clouds of Socialistic idealism but now he was a changed man since he had joined the infantry and had to trudge on mother earth carrying a knapsack.

In Mr. MacDonald's first speech as prime minister, continued Mr. Lloyd George, "all the restraints, reservations and compromises which mundane statesmen hitherto have indulged in were repeated in every particular. When I heard Mr. MacDonald, who had indulged in the shrillest notes, pitching his tune so low and imitating the very modest notes from less pretentious singers, it recalled the memory of many a cracked tenor who had been forced to become a baritone."

Assails Last Government.

Mr. Lloyd George said the last government was a spectacle of pitiable fatuity and it was not a high compliment to pay the existing ministers to say that whatever were their defects or shortcomings they were infinitely better than the men they had supplanted.

"If the present government," he concluded, "in a moment of folly proposes a capital levy or any measures for the overthrow of private enterprise the whole of the Liberal party will vote against it without regard to the effect on the fortunes of the government."

BRITONS CHEERED AS U.S. OFFERS TO SELL ITS SHIPS

See Yankee Plans for Marine Ended.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 1.—As a great maritime people and one which regards with a cold eye the shipping activities of others, Great Britain is immensely cheered by indications that Uncle Sam is about to abandon his business of operating ships. In fact, the request of the United States shipping board for bids on its fleet "as is" provides the most choice bit of information to come across the Atlantic for many a day.

"America must not feel hurt," says the Daily Graphic, "if the news that her huge mercantile navy is for sale is received over here with smiles of triumph. After the war the United States government proclaimed its intention of creating a mercantile marine to carry all American exports to foreign countries.

"The government bought or acquired more than 1,000 ships, some of the largest in the world among them, and passed navigation laws and used every possible means to boost them. In spite of all, American ships went on carrying only American goods and passengers."

Object to U. S. Flag.

Fears are expressed that a minimum price will be set on the ships and the fact that they must sail under the American flag will prevent their sale from going through. Some British operators would like to acquire vessels like the Leviathan and other ships, but they cannot take the Stars and Stripes along with them.

The London Daily Mail calls the shipping board's experiment an "admitted and unqualified failure."

Awakening Called Bitter.

Another comment on the inability of America to carry its own commerce in its own ships appears in the London Evening Standard:

"When the war ended, practically all Americans believed that at any rate they were going to establish a merchant marine that would rival the British," the paper says. "If they got nothing else out of the war they at least had the intention of getting that. Congress in 1920 passed a law deliberately aimed at ousting us from our position as the first carrying power. Just as they thought that money meant commercial domination, so they made the mistake of thinking that ships meant a merchant marine. In both cases the process of awakening was bitter and expensive."

'Kill Some Bandits,' Butler Tells Philadelphia Police

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—[United Press.]—"Kill some bandits," Gen. Smedley D. Butler told his police force today.

After two months of intensive law enforcement one murder and a score of holdups and robberies netting more than $10,000 were reported to police headquarters today.

"From now on the police force will work in two platoons of twelve hours each," Gen. Butler declared.

BARONESS SAYS U. S. RED CROSS DOCTOR GRAFTS

Claims He Sold Supplies for Hospitals.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

VIENNA, March 1.—The accusation of the beautiful Baroness Hermione von Wangheim, who claims to be the cast off mistress of Dr. Oliver Darwin Lyon, that he grafted a large part of the American Red Cross war stocks, with which he was entrusted for distribution in the Vienna hospitals in 1921, has caused a great scandal here.

The baroness is the cousin of the former German ambassador to Turkey.

In reply to a cable from the Vienna police asking if Dr. Lyon was authorized to sell any of those stocks privately, the American Red Cross replied negatively and asked the police to file charges against him. The Austrian government today, however, asked the police not to file charges against the doctor in view of the special status which he formerly enjoyed in Austria as American Red Cross representative.

Baroness Adds to Charges.

The Vienna newspapers today accuse Dr. Lyon of using Austrian government trucks to haul American supplies which it is alleged he sold to barber shops, private sanitariums and furnishing stores.

The baroness, who is the former wife of a rich Thuringian junker, today published a long list of servants, shopkeepers and other persons to whom she alleges Dr. Lyon has paid debts with American Red Cross supplies during the last three years. She alleges that Dr. Lyon paid one of his servants in towels yesterday. She also alleges in a statement to the police that she sold all her jewels, furs and fine clothes while living with the doctor for the last three years to help support him.

The couple separated a few days ago when Dr. Lyon charged her in a police court of stealing 40,000,000 crowns from him. Then she made her counter charges. She was acquitted.

Government Halts Prosecution.

The newspapers today publish the text of a government letter to the police telling them not to prosecute Dr. Lyon on account of his former special status as a representative of the American Red Cross.

Dr. Lyon, who is now a permanent resident of Vienna, denied all the charges. He has a wife and several children living in the United States.

HOLD UP WOMAN; GET $500.

A handbag containing $500 and a check for $100 was taken yesterday from Miss Ella Borobski of the Somerset hotel, 5009 Sheridan road, by two shabbily dressed men who escaped in an automobile. Both robbers were armed and threatened to shoot her. The holdup occurred in front of 719 East 50th place.

NEIGHBORS SEEK TO MAKE PEACE FOR HONDURANS

Friendly Intervention Nations' Plan.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, March 1.—It is reported from Guatemala today that the governments of the central American nations purpose intervening in an amicable manner for the reëstablishment of peace in Honduras.

The revolutionary forces are continuing their advance on Tegucigalpa.

FIRE HEIGHTENS DISORDER.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Fire has been added to the disorder prevailing in Ceiba, Honduras, caused by an attack on that city by revolutionists, which prompted the landing of sailors and marines from the cruiser Denver to protect the American consulate, lives and properties.

A report received today by the state department from Consul George P. Waller said "the city is burning," but a later message reported the "fire has been checked." Other dispatches said one American Negro in Ceiba had been killed.

Admiral Dayton now has about seventy marines and bluejackets ashore at Ceiba. His reports indicate the situation is so bad he deems it wise to keep his ship offshore.

Destroyer to Atlantic Coast.

An American destroyer has been ordered from Kingston, Jamaica, to Puerto Cortez on the Atlantic coast of Honduras, where the situation also is disturbing. One American, a Negro, has been wounded.

Officials here are losing hope that the Honduran situation will clarify itself through the effects of the contending political leaders alone. Efforts to enforce loans from American business concers in Ceiba have been resisted, and the American consulate has been fired on.

Revolt Over Election.

While the revolutionary movement which followed the failure to elect a new president by constitutional means has been a double-headed affair from the first, apparently there are separate revolts by various leaders in progress.

The two principal revolutionary movements are those of Gen. Arias, who is understood to be dominating the de facto government forces, and the party headed by Gen. Garias, who obtained the greatest number of votes in the presidential elections, but failed of the necessary majority.

The third presidential candidate, Bonilla, also is said to have some military support.

Grave Diggers Strike; Due to the High Cost of Living

NAPLES, March 1.—The grave diggers of Naples are on a strike for increased pay and extra allowances because of the high cost of living.

HUGHES TO HEAD U. S. COMMISSION ON PANAMA PACT

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The American commission to negotiate a new treaty with Panama has been selected, it was learned officially today. The commission will consist of Secretary of State Hughes, chairman; Francis White, chief of the Latin-American division; Joseph R. Baker, assistant solicitor of the state department, and Edward L. Reed of the Latin-American division of the department.

The Panama commission, which will arrive in Washington next Thursday, consists of Dr. Eusebio A. Morales, secretary of finance of the republic; Dr. Eduardo Chiari, former secretary of foreign affairs, and Eugenio J. Chevallier, secretary of the commission. The body will be presided over by Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, Panaman minister here.

Negotiations Open This Week.

On Friday next Minister Alfaro will present the Panama commission to Secretary Hughes and the negotiations are expected immediately to get under way.

Already the Panama government has submitted to the department certain propositions which it considers should be incorporated in the new treaty which will take the place of the old Taft agreements covering the Panama zone and for this reason the position of Panama is pretty well known to the American authorities. The Panama government, it is stated, does not object materially to the Taft agreements as they stand, but it does object to certain interpretations placed upon them by John Hay, and in the new convention will endeavor to obviate the objectionable features.

No Payments to Panama.

The new treaty, it is stated, will not involve any payments by the United States to the republic of Panama, but will go thoroughly into the question of the relations between the Canal Zone and the republic of Panama. An important point to be covered is the question of the definition of the provisions of the old Taft agreement, which gives the United States the right to acquire additional territory when necessary for the defense of the canal.

The territory included in the Canal Zone will be ceded in the new treaty to the United States in perpetuity.

Roast Turkey—a famous North American portion—including stuffing and giblet gravy and cranberry sauce for 75c and 85c

Everybody knows that food portions at the North American Restaurant are unusually big. Generally one portion is amply large for two people.

For instance: Here a portion of Roast Turkey consists of a sixth of a fine plump turkey—enough to satisfy the heartiest appetite. Included with it is the delicious stuffing, giblet gravy and cranberry sauce. Yet a portion of white meat costs only 85 cents—dark meat 75 cents.

And as we roast only selected Missouri Spring "Birds" it is impossible to get any finer quality, in most restaurants and hotels, even by paying double our price.

Or—We'll supply and roast a whole Turkey for Dinners and Parties in your own home

(Ready week days after 4 o'clock—Sundays after 11 a. m.)

A turkey big enough for 6 or 8 people, stuffed and roasted to a turn—and including giblet gravy and cranberry sauce—all packed in a special container for convenient carrying, $4.75

Just put it in your oven for a few minutes and your dinner, or lunch is ready, without any "fuss" or "muss" and at a cost actually less than if you go to all the trouble and worry yourself.

And roast turkey is only one of the many exceptional food values which have made the North American Chicago's outstanding dining-place.

Fried Oysters: 7 big New York Counts fried to your order, with tartar or chile sauce or ketchup 40c

Halibut and Peas: The portion—is usually enough for two people 40c

Fried Premium Chicken: Breast of Premium Milk-fed Chicken, with bacon and cream gravy or giblet sauce - 65c

And our breakfast specialties:

Honey Waffles: With 3 strips of bacon or Mickelberry's Old Farm sausage, butter and pure maple sap or honey 25c

Bacon and Eggs: 2 fresh eggs, fried in butter and 4 strips of bacon 30c

This is one restaurant where children are always welcome!

Will Your New Home Be A "Heat Waster"?

You can decide that now

No need, any longer, to take anybody's word that your house will be warm and easy to heat in winter or cool and comfortable in summer. You can tell whether your house will be cozy before the foundation is laid. See that the specifications that go to your contractor have the following paragraph: "All outside walls to be lined with ½" Flax-li-num. Roof to be insulated with 1" Flax-li-num."

Flax-li-num is a flexible board-like material, made from flax fibres. It is built into walls and roofs.

Flax-li-num resists the passage of heat, just as rubber resists that of electricity. It is used in thousands of refrigerator cars and ice boxes, where it keeps heat from passing through.

Mr. E. Weinstock, Winnetka, Illinois, writes as follows:

After taking a fair average of the coal consumed in my present home compared to homes of similar size and construction, I can safely state that the cost and application of Flax-li-num in my home will be absorbed by the saving on coal in about four winters. During the hot months of last summer I made a few experiments by taking temperature readings in my up-stairs rooms and my attic and my findings were amazing. I found that my room was 18° cooler than my neighbors next door who had no insulation.

Hundreds have written similar letters. All report houses warm in winter, cool in summer. Fuel savings running from 30% to 40%.

Protect Yourself

Your home, too, needs this good material. Ask about it if you buy or rent, insist upon it if you build. We can put you in touch with realtors who have Flax-li-num lined houses to rent or sell. Call, write or phone for cost estimate and detailed information.

Residence of Mr. E. Weinstock, Winnetka, Illinois See letter above.

This is the easy way Flax-li-num is applied

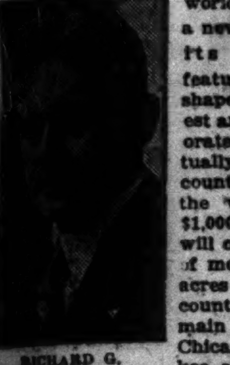
SHRINERS PLAN COUNTRY CLUB TO COST $1,000,000

It Will Occupy 400 Acres in Du Page County.

BY AL CHASE.

Medinah temple of Chicago, largest in the world, is to achieve fresh fame in the Masonic world by having a new addition to its amusement features in the shape of the finest and most elaborate, and eventually the largest, country club in the world. This $1,000,000 project will occupy a site of more than 400 acres in Du Page county, on the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, and will be called the Medinah Country club.



RICHARD G. SCHMID.
[Wallinger Photo.]

In addition to a magnificent $600,000 fireproof club building, designed by Noble Richard G. Schmid, a great stadium, to be one of the world's largest, is contemplated, where novitiates may travel the hot sands of the ceremonial desert, where contests may be held, and where skating events may take place.

To Change Station's Name.

The railroad has agreed to change the name of the present station from Meacham to Medinah and erect a station harmonizing with the oriental architecture of the club house. The site is half way between Itasca and Roselle, a few miles south of Arlington Heights and Glen Ellyn and a few miles north of Glen Ellyn and Wheaton. It touches the Lake street road on the south and the Elgin road crosses the northern tip of the grounds.

Medinah temple has more than 22,000 members. There are said to be some 10,000 nobles of other shrines living in Chicago and as many more Shriners constantly visiting Chicago. In all, it is estimated 50,000 Shriners will be eligible to club membership. The limit in the resident class, however, has been set at 1,500 and 500 for the nonresident. Membership is limited to members in good standing in any Shrine.

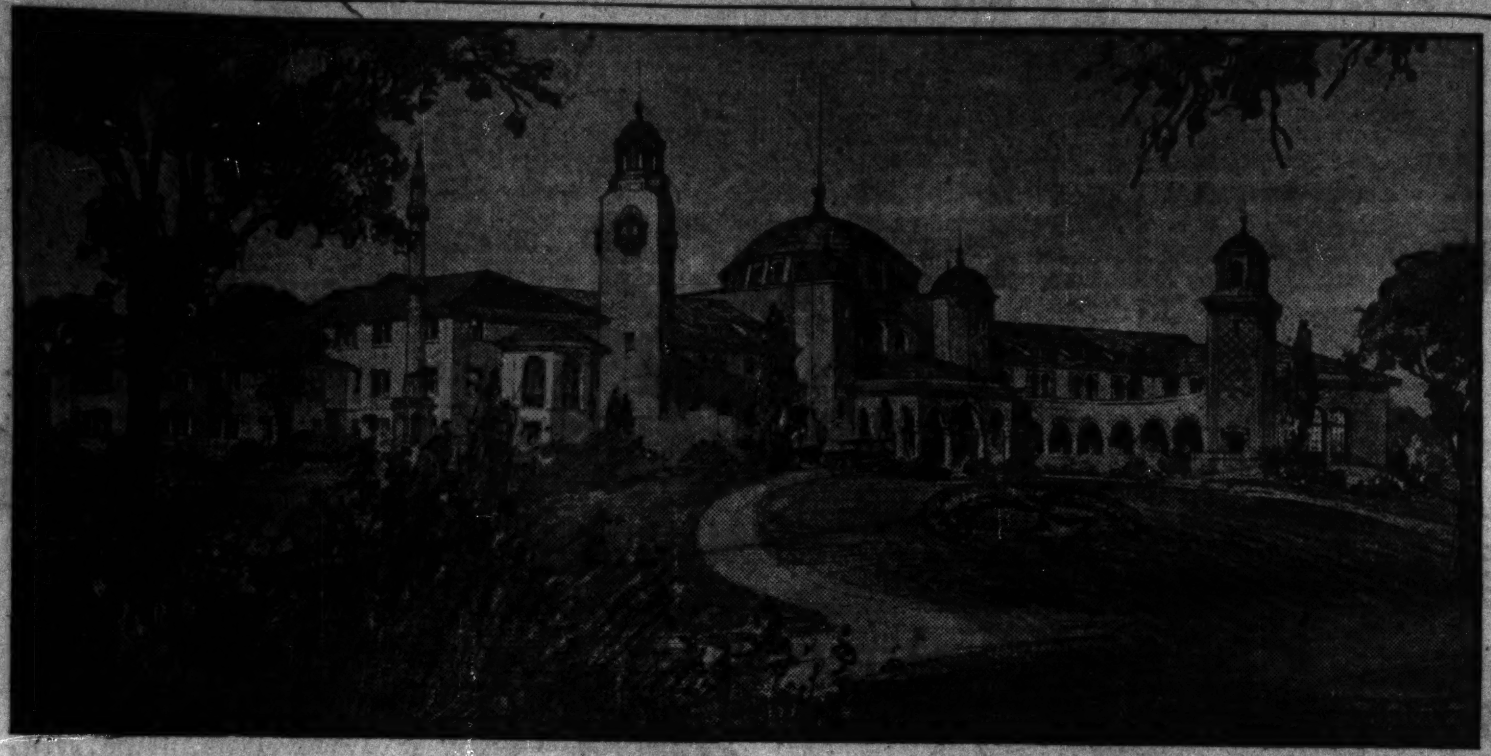
Eighteen Hole Golf Course.

Eventually several golf courses will be laid out. At present work will be confined to eighteen holes designed by Tom Bendelow of the American Park Builders. Another outdoor feature will be an immense swimming pool.

The club activities will not be restricted entirely to Shriners. Once each season every blue lodge member and his family within fifty miles of Chicago will be welcomed to a special festal program. Another day will be set aside for the families of nonmember Shriners.

Charles H. Canode is president of the new club, which has no financial connection with the Shrine itself. McCormick, Kirkland, Patterson & Fleming are the attorneys.

PROPOSED $1,000,000 MEDINAH COUNTRY CLUB



Noble Richard G. Schmid is the architect of the above $1,000,000 Medinah Country club project in Du Page county, work on which is to start at once. It is of Byzantine design, with a sixty foot dome. In one tower will be chimes, and in a minaret balancing the chime tower will be the muezzin's seat for the call to the faithful. There'll be eighty complete guest rooms.

BOX CAR MURDER VICTIM ONCE A CHARITY WORKER

Hammond, Ind., March 1.—Identification of Mrs. Ida McCutcheon, found murdered in a box car here last Tuesday, was made positive by Salvation Army officers from South Chicago, who recognized her as a worker associated with their organization. Detectives are searching for clews to her slayer, but so far without success. The murder was committed by an unknown man, a coroner's jury's verdict, following an inquest conducted by Coroner H. J. White, stated.

Police today are communicating with the police at Cleveland, O., and the head of the insane asylum at Newberg, O., in an effort to corroborate statements frequently made by the woman regarding her past life and relatives. It is hoped to locate her brother, who is supposed to be a physician at Cleveland.

Y.M.C.A. TO DODGE PARTICIPATION IN CHURCH SCHISM

To Announce Its Stand This Week.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

The discussion between fundamentalists and modernists in religion has reached such a stage that William J. Parker, general secretary of the Chicago Young Men's Christian association, said yesterday he would issue a statement this week defining the attitude of the association in the matter.

"Of course the attitude of the Y. M. C. A. is consistent with our policy in the past," said Mr. Parker.

"We never have allowed our platforms to be used for controversy in the church and we cannot allow it now.

Sects Are Divided.

"In the earlier days of our association the controversy in the church was one between sects. Now the controversy is between members of the same sect. In nearly all of the denominations there are fundamentalist and modernist groups. We insist that our organization is one in which Christians of different viewpoints can work together.

"We have no creed. We quarrel with no creed. We therefore will allow no creedal quarrel to go on under our roof. We never allow an attack upon the faith of Jews, Roman Catholics, or any others. Much less, therefore, could we allow one group of Protestant Christians to attack the faith of any other group.

Importance Not Involved.

"In taking this position we do not say that these discussions are unimportant or that the issues involved are not serious, nor that the discussions may not lawfully be carried on in other places or ways. We simply insist that the Y. M. C. A. is not the place for these discussions.

"Our great problem is to combat the evils which beset young men. Among these are the cash register theory of life, the hope of getting something for nothing, willingness to mount at the expense of others, manipulation of political machinery for private gain, the perpetuation of race and national hatreds.

Advice of Y. M. C. A.

"When it comes to the religious life we encourage every young man to be true to his own church. We tell every Jew to live according to the highest teachings of his rabbi. We encourage every Catholic to respond to the spiritual summons of his priest. We tell every Protestant to measure up as far as he can to the appeals of his pastor. We desire to strengthen in every young man the moral and spiritual forces within his reach."

Mrs. M. K. Vastine Died of Poison, Report to Coroner

Poison caused the death of Mrs. Mabel K. Vastine, wife of George M. Vastine, insurance broker, according to a report yesterday by Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's chemist. Mrs. Vastine, who was 39 years old, died on Friday after a two years' illness at her home, 550 Surf street. The inquest was continued until March 6.

Nearness of Nash Plants Saves You $30 to $45

Here's an added reason for buying a Nash.

Nash cars are manufactured within a few miles of Chicago.

Freight and handling charge on the model shown above naturally is low.

Cars of like price built at a distance from Chicago must add from $30 to $45.

The extra $30 to $45 they cost you brings you nothing in the way of motor car value. Maybe you've never thought of it in just this way.

But it's a good thing to know. $30 to $45 will buy a lot of gasoline.

And apart from that there isn't any car on the market that can measure dollar for dollar value with this Nash Special Sedan.

Come in and look it over yourself.

"This $1065 Jewett has a larger motor than Bill's car that cost $1790"

RATHER a surprising discovery—till you find that there are a dozen cars, costing more than Jewett, yet giving you smaller motors. Think of this before you buy—especially you experienced motorists who know how important is ample power. Take a look at a Jewett motor. See how it fills the hood. Compare its 3¼x5-inch cylinders—249 cubic inches piston displacement—with other motors.

And Jewett motors stay good—due to high-pressure oiling. Two gallons of oil per minute are forced through all main bearings and connecting rod bearings. Smooth, quiet operation, like Paige and other highest quality cars.

Marvelous Performance

You see now why the New Jewett takes most any hill in high—passes most any car anywhere—picks up from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high. BIG SIX performance at the price of a four!

The New Jewett's performance wins all who try it. It creeps along at 2 miles an hour in high. Seldom is gear changing necessary, and then it is very easy, due to the Paige-type clutch and transmission. Think of changing from high to second at 30 miles an hour!

The New Jewett is stoutly built, weighing 2805 pounds. Has a 6-inch-deep, 184-pound frame, and Paige-Timken axles front and rear. All-steel universal joints have sealed-in lubrication—oil, not grease—good for 15,000 miles without replenishing.

80,000 Jewett Owners Know

80,000 Jewett owners know from actual experience how "tough" Jewett is. Such proven dependability is what keen buyers want.

Jewett's bodies are loungy, comfortable, and roomy as the largest. Yet, because of convenient chassis size, Jewett turns parking problems into parking opportunities; turns around in narrow streets; requires less garage and alley space.

We say of Jewett—in all the world no car like this!—because its combination of fine qualities and advantages has no equal. Some of them you can buy at $700 to thousands more, but then at the sacrifice of convenience and economy. Jewett costs but $1065.

RECORDS FALL AT ILLINI RELAY CARNIVAL

KEARNS THROWS MYSTERY CLOAK ABOUT DEMPSEY

Refuses to Reveal Exact Nature of Ailment.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The condition of Jack Dempsey showed improvement today, according to information from the Polyclinic hospital, where the world's heavyweight champion is convalescing after his operation of last Wednesday.

It was stated by Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, and by Dr. Robert E. Brennan, who performed the operation, that the title holder, while still suffering a natural pain as a consequence of the operation, nevertheless felt so good that he left his bed for about an hour and walked about his room.

For a short space Dempsey visited a friend who is in a room across from his own, Manager Kearns said. Kearns today vigorously denied that Dempsey was operated upon for a hernia. The champion's manager labeled the report an "infernal lie," adding that Dempsey is feeling so good now that he wants to get out of the hospital and return to his quarters at the Alamac hotel.

Careful Treatment Imperative.

Further, Kearns indicated that Dempsey would soon leave the hospital. Dr. Brennan, however, asserted that whether Dempsey remained at the hospital or returns to his hotel, the champion will have to submit to careful treatment until the surgeon is satisfied Dempsey is completely cured. This might take a week or ten days, depending on the progress made during the period of convalescence.

Information disclosed today showed that Dempsey's operation was more serious and more painful than an operation for fistula or hemorrhoids ordinarily would be because of the champion's neglect in having the ailment receive prompt attention. It was said Dempsey has been troubled for some time with the complaint and that the influence of the ailment on his system generally had affected his training at Saratoga last year for the bout with Luis Firpo.

Dr. Brennan reiterated his previous denials of reports that Dempsey was suffering from hernia.

Specific Information Denied.

As has been the case on previous visits to the institutions, efforts to obtain any specific information on Dempsey were unsuccessful.

All inquiries met with the same response: "Dempsey's condition is steadily improving; he enjoyed a restful night."

Attempts to visit Dempsey also were unsuccessful.

Any thought that Dempsey's ring career would be cut short were dismissed as ridiculous by Dr. Brennan and by Kearns. Both said the champion would enjoy better health upon his departure from the hospital than he has enjoyed for some time past.

RUTH MUCH BETTER

Hot Springs, Ark., March 1.—"Babe" Ruth, baseball's famous slugger, who suffered an attack of influenza here yesterday, was well on the road to recovery tonight, according to his physician, Dr. W. T. Wooten, who said the patient apparently had passed the serious stage of his illness.

Ruth's temperature had receded early tonight to approximately 100 degrees, the doctor said. His temperature was slightly above 103 degrees this morning.

No unfavorable symptoms have developed, Dr. Wooten stated, and, barring the usual weakness which follows such attacks, he said he thought Ruth would be "all right in a few days." The physician added, however, that he probably would advise his patient to "take things easy" for ten days after he leaves his bed.

"There is not a complication," Dr. Wooten concluded. "The symptoms are most favorable and there is every reason now to believe that this attack will be much milder than the attack Ruth suffered here last year."

SYBIL BAUER AND SKELTON SMASH TWO SWIM MARKS

St. Paul, Minn., March 1.—One world's record was broken and an American mark shattered in the Central A. A. U. swimming championships at the St. Paul Athletic club tonight.

Sybil Bauer of the Illinois Athletic club established the new world's record for women by swimming the 100 yard breast stroke in 1:13 2-5, bettering her former mark by two-fifths of a second.

In the 220 yard breast stroke Bob Skelton of the I. A. C. made the distance in 2:58 2-5, or two seconds faster than the former American record held by himself.

Johnny Weismuller, also of the I. A. C., won two events, taking the 100 yard free style in :54 1-5 and 100 yard back stroke in 1:08 2-5. Ethel Laskie of the I. A. C. won the 50 yard free style for women in :30.

RAY IS WINNER AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, O., March 1.—Joie Ray, Illinois A. C., Chicago, won the two mile run in 9:35, a new local track record in the twenty-fifth annual athletic carnival of the Y. M. C. A. here tonight. Ben West, Cincinnati Y., was second and R. Hall, University of Kentucky, third.

ANDERSON, IND., TEAM TAKES LEAD IN A. B. C.

In the Wake of the News

OLYMPIC GAMES DECISIONS.

OLYMPIC games are held to promote friendly athletic competition between nations, affording a test of comparative physical prowess in various sports. Appeals for funds to send our athletes abroad are predicated on the theory of contributing to international amity by such tests.

In the contests already held, bickerings and recriminations, accusations of unfairness or incompetency against officials, already have arisen. Americans have sounded some of these complaints. In the last games were similar incidents.

In most instances American charges have been voiced not by the athletes themselves, but by professional trainers or team managers. Sometimes they have sounded more like excuses.

The Wake does not approve that spirit. We want to win. But if we do not win, let's lose like sportsmen—even if we are taking the worst of it. Other nations are jealous of this country's material prosperity in comparison with their own distress.

Our American athletes can create a good impression abroad by their sportsmanship. If the Olympic games develop hard feelings rather than good feelings, they fail of their purpose.

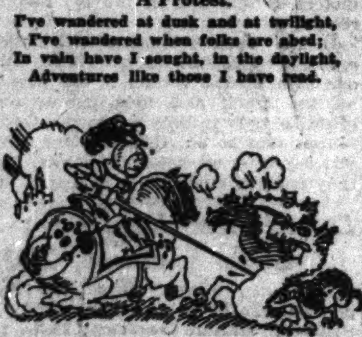
A Protest.

I've wandered at dusk and at twilight,
I've wandered when folks are abed;
In vain have I sought, in the daylight,
Adventures like those I have read.



The age of knight errants has long passed,
And the love of adventure is dead;
Today chevaliers want to live fast,
And we've got modern dubs instead.

Speeders' Court.

Dear Harve: Driving through Zion City last week about ten miles an hour; got as far as Administration building and opened up to twenty-five. Mile out of town, Missus noticed big touring car on our heels, so I speeded up. Coming in to Winthrop Harbor, cut me off.

"Where are you going in such a hurry?" the driver asked.

Not knowing whether he was a Winthrop Harbor or Zion City cop, I answered, as a Helper suggested last summer, "Oh, just on my way to the store to buy a cigar."

"Can that stuff," sezze. "Where you're going they don't sell cigars." And sure enough back we went to Zion.

Hizzoner was taking pipe organ practice, so we were detained two and one-half hours for the "fifteen and costs" sentence. The writer was entertained by a comical jailer who insisted on showing me a book of cartoons, while another showed the Missus about the town. How's that for Zion hospitality?

Anderson, Ind., for the first time in its history, went on the bowling map of America when the Anderson Tobacco team on the first five man squad last night tore off a 2,857 score and mounted to first place in the five man event of the American Bowling congress international championship tourney.

Incidentally the Anderson quintet put over the second 1,000 game that has been rolled in the tourney so far, its closing number being 1,002. The team started with a 912, swung into a 943, and then came its big splash amid an uproarious applause from some 1,000 throats of fans and bowlers.

McNeils Slump.

This was but one feature of the early evening bowling, for the McNeil Hotel five of Janesville also put in a bid for first place and looked the most likely bet of the night as a result of its exceptional start of 968 and 964.

Prosperity could not be stood, however, and the Badger state lads fell by the wayside in their final dash, getting 893 for a team total of 2,825. At that they made their way into fourth place.

Sixth and eighth places went into new hands on the last shift of rolling as a result of the 2,821 mopped up by the General Cords of South Bend and the 2,788 hit out by the Eagles No. 142 of Cincinnati.

No other team was able to negotiate scores of this class, but a number hit off good 2,600 games, the most prominent being 2,679 by the Cedar Rapids Hotel quintet. This aggregation also had a lively start, but was not there in the pinch. It started with 949, came back with 916, and closed with 814.

A Close Finish.

Three teams—the Cedar Rapids Bus Men, Schuster Bros. of Anderson, and Hills Dry Goods of Rockford—staged a featureful battle that ended in but three pins separating the first and last teams of this trio.

Schuster's had the best of the argument, scoring 2,666. Hills came through with 2,665, and the Bus Men picked up 2,663.

TWIN BILL AND SERIES ARE LOST BY GREENLEAF

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—[Special.]—Pasquale Natalie, who upholds the rights of St. Louis in the National championship Pocket Billiard league, today accomplished what no other cue player has ever done here when he took a twin bill from Ralph Greenleaf, champion of the world and this city's entry in the newly formed circuit. By virtue of his double victory and his triumph on Friday afternoon, the Mound city wizard carried off the four game series. It was the first time since Greenleaf became champion that he has been forced to lower his colors in three out of four matches.

In the afternoon match Natalie took Greenleaf into camp 100 to 53 in eighteen innings, while in the valedictory affair the cue monarch bowed to the visiting player, 100 to 75 in nineteen innings. The St. Louis crack had a cluster of 23 in the evening match.

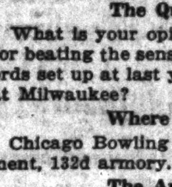
What is your opinion of the chances for beating the sensational bowling records set up at last year's national meet at Milwaukee?

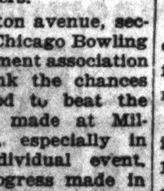
Where Asked.

Chicago Bowling association tournament, 132d armory.

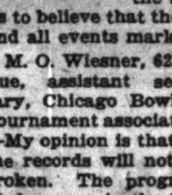
The Answers.



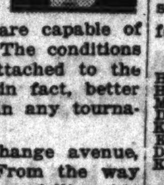
Roy Davis, 4449 Clifton avenue, secretary Chicago Bowling Tournament association—I think the chances are good to beat the records made at Milwaukee, especially in the individual event. The progress made in the bowling game leads us to believe that the five men, doubles, and all events marks will go, too.



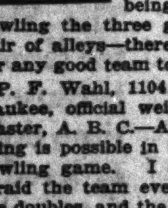
M. O. Wiesner, 6237 South Park avenue, assistant secretary, Chicago Bowling Tournament association—My opinion is that all the records will not be broken. The progress of the game in the last few years is such that the bowlers are coming to a point that they are capable of breaking any record. The conditions and everything else attached to the tournament here are, in fact, better than they have been in any tournament in previous years.



Mort Luby, 815 Exchange avenue, editor—From the way the pins are falling this year I think there is a chance to beat all the records. The entry in the tournament this year is larger, and the way the tournament is being run — that is, bowling the three games on the one pair of alleys—there is a good chance for any good team to set a new record.



P. F. Wahl, 1104 23d avenue, Milwaukee, official weighmaster, A. B. C.—Anything is possible in the bowling game. I am afraid the team event, the doubles, and the all events will stand, but I look for a new record in in the singles. According to the first day's bowling in the doubles and singles it looks as though it would require quite a score to cut heavily into the prize money.



Harry "Slim" Baldwin, 2928 West Madison street, chief score man—My opinion after the opening day's scoring is that they will break all records. I never before had a 1,200 total on the morning of the doubles. It always required ten days to reach that number. Also a 673 total in the singles is out of the ordinary, and the best men have not yet begun to play.

Girl Basket Star Scores 473 Points in 17 Games

Springfield, Mo., March 1.—[Special.]—Miss Alma Wilson, star forward with the Greenfield High school basketball team, last night ran her individual scoring for the season to 473 points in seventeen games. Miss Wilson scored 40 points last night against the Everton and Republic teams in the annual basketball tourney. She was taken out of the second game on account of illness.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 1.—[Special.]—Michigan defeated Chicago, conference basketball leaders, 24 to 23, tonight before a crowd of 9,000.

The Wolverines gained a good lead in the first half, the score standing 17 to 8, when the period ended. Chicago steadily whittled down this lead to four points after an uphill fight, but with the game five minutes from the end, Kipke, star Wolverine guard, had to be removed from the contest when he could no longer stand up because of an injury to his leg and the Maroons almost overtook Michigan in the final minutes of the game. Deng, the other regular guard, was also out shortly before the game ended with four fouls. Lineup:

GOPHERS, 41; BUCKEYES, 38

Minneapolis, Minn., March 1.—[Special.]—Another upset was added to the already large list of Big Ten conference basketball games here tonight when the Minnesota five sent the title seeking Ohio State quintet down to a 41 to 38 defeat.

The game was one of the greatest ever seen here, the lead see-sawing all through the first half and part of the second before the Gophers finally broke away and five minutes before the end of the game held a 15 point margin. Then began a spurt by the Ohioans. They fought doggedly and managed to decrease the lead to three points as the game ended.

BADGERS, 23; PURPLE, 13

Madison, Wis., March 1.—[Special.]—Wisconsin defeated Northwestern 23 to 13, tonight in a listless exhibitino of basketball. The Wisconsin defense was good enough to break up practically all of Northwestern plays as soon as they reached Wisconsin territory. Elson and Gibson topped the Badger scoring while Graham featured for the Purple. Varney and Spooner of the Badgers were rested for Monday's clash with Ohio State. Lineup:

KASKEY PLACES IN TWO EVENTS IN NEW JERSEY

Long Branch, N. J., March 1.—Joe Moore of New York and Harry Kaskey of Chicago won their heats in the 220 yard event in the preliminary races of the New Jersey outdoor speed skating championships today. Kaskey also qualified in the 440. In both races the time was exceptionally slow, the ice being cut up and soft. Running of the longer races today was impossible.

In the 220 yard race the five qualifiers were:

Edward Searles, Joseph Shapiro, Paul Forsman and Joe Moore of New York and Harry Kaskey of Chicago.

Qualifiers in the 440 yard event were: E. Meyers, Joseph Shapiro, Louis Morris and Samuel Goldberg of New York and Harry Kaskey of Chicago.

63 TEAMS ENTER FOR C.A.A.U. CAGE TITLE TOURNEY

Sixty-three teams, a record entry, are listed to compete in the Central A. A. U. basketball championship tournament which will be held at the Broadway Armory, March 25, 26, 27, and 28. Entries closed last night with twenty-four teams listed in the 135 pound division, twenty-three in the unlimited weight, and sixteen girls' quintets.

Drawings for the first round will be made Tuesday night at Spaldings, 211 South State street. The drawings, which are open to the public, will be made at 8 p. m.

Culver Track Team Beats Austin of Chicago, 70 to 7

Culver, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy track team ran away with Austin High school of Chicago this afternoon, 70 to 7. The Cadets took all first and scored slams in five events—the low hurdles, half mile, and mile runs, high jump, and shotput. Anderson of Austin placed in three events and won the only points for his team.

TWO MARKS FALL AS PENN ANNEXES EASTERN GAMES

Penn State	10	Colby	1
Johns Hopkins	7 1-9

New York, March 1.—University of Pennsylvania tonight captured the eastern indoor intercollegiate track and field championship for the second straight year, triumphing over a brilliant field of twenty-three rivals in the third annual I. C. A. A. A. A. meet at the Twenty-second armory. Two eastern intercollegiate records were shattered, a third established and another tied.

Pennsylvania retained its title after a stirring battle with Yale and Princeton, the Quakers rolling up 21 1-3 points, while their chief rivals tied for second place with 20 points.

New Mark in Shot.

The first record to fall came in the shotput, when Ralph Hills, Princeton giant, bettered his own indoor intercollegiate mark with a heave of 46 feet ¾ inch to capture this event. His former record, made a year ago, was 45 feet 8 ¾ inches.

Verne Booth, Johns Hopkins, distance star and cross country champion, shattered the indoor intercollegiate record for the two mile run, beating out Harry Helme, Georgetown, in a driving finish, and dethroning Elmer McLane, Pennsylvania, the 1923 champion and record holder, who finished third after leading the pack most of the way. Booth's time of 9 minutes 36 seconds was 3 2-10 seconds better than the former record.

Syracuse Wins Relay.

Chester Bowman, all round Syracuse athletic star and only conqueror of Loren Murchison, national champion, this season, showed his heels to a fleet field to win the 70 yard dash in :07 1-5, one-tenth of a second slower than the world's mark made a year ago by "Booth" Lever, Pennsylvania. Louis Clarke of Johns Hopkins, new 100 yard indoor record holder, could do no better than fifth.

Georgetown captured the two mile relay, despite the fact that Brooks, first runner, dropped his baton and was forced back to fourth place after he had assumed a commanding lead. His teammates gradually picked up the lost ground, however, and Marsters, anchor man, outraced Bernart, Cornell, and Mahoney, Boston college, to breast the tape twenty yards in front of the latter. Summaries:

BROWNELL SETS WORLD MARK IN POLE VAULT

Jones of De Pauw Takes All-Around Title.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Champaign, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—One world's record was broken, another tied and four carnival records broken in the seventh annual indoor relay, track and field games of the University of Illinois held in the armory here tonight. In the afternoon Paul Jones of De Pauw university won the all round competition which was composed of seven events.

The world's record to go by the boards was in the pole vault. Dean Brownell of Illinois, who won the outdoor conference meet a year ago with an effort of 13 feet 2 inches, cleared the bar in his specialty tonight at 12 feet 10⅝ inches. This performance established a new world's record off a dirt floor.

Hubbard Wins Broad Jump.

In the 75 yard high hurdles Daniel Kinsey of Illinois won in the fast time of :09 2-5, which ties the world's record made by Earl Thompson, formerly of Dartmouth, in 1922. The former carnival record was :09 3-5, and was made by Ames of Illinois in 1917.

Dehart Hubbard of Michigan made a leap of 24 feet 7 inches in the running broad jump. This beat his former record of 23 feet 11¾ inches made last year.

The other marks to be broken were in the college medley relay, 1,500 meter run and one mile college relay. In other cases the marks made during the history of the carnival withstood the attacks of the big field of athletes.

One of the best races of the night was in the two mile university relay which was won by Michigan by a scant yard over Northwestern. Bill Martin, the anchor man on the Purple quartet, ran a great race and all but beat Reinke of Michigan to the tape in a heartbreaking finish.

Iowa Wins Mile Relay.

In the mile university relay, Iowa won after an interesting race with Illinois, while Notre Dame won the two mile medley in commanding fashion. Illinois won the four mile relay after a great race with Ohio State.

Dehart Hubbard of Michigan was the individual point winner. He won first place in the running broad jump and was second in the 75 yard low hurdles.

In winning the all round championship, Jones gave a fine exhibition of jumping and vaulting. He cleared the bar in the high jump at 6 feet 2 inches and made 11 feet 11½ inches in the pole vault. It was his work in these two events, together with the broad jump which gave him the title. Bill Hammann of Wisconsin was second.

The games attracted a capacity crowd of 5,000 fans and were about the most successful in history. The Illinois band was on hand to furnish music and the event was run off in excellent fashion.

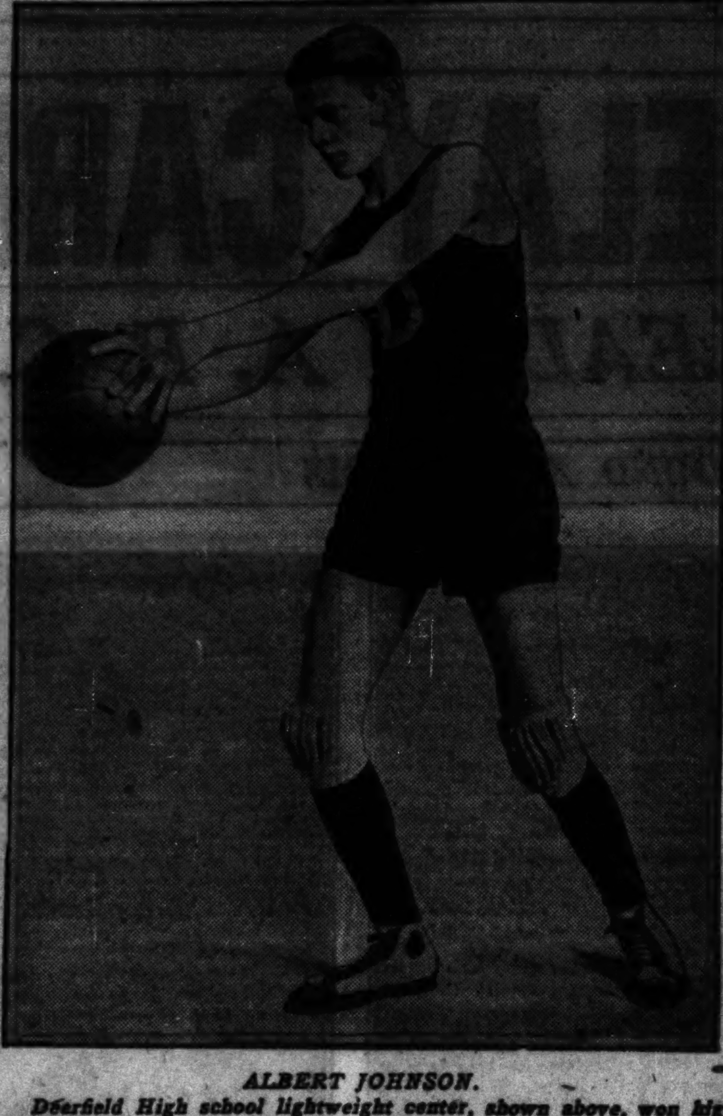
Heaviest Lightweight Scorer



ALBERT JOHNSON.

Deerfield High school lightweight center, shown above, won high scoring honors in his division of the Suburban league cage race with 91 points. He is being counted on for some classy work in the district meet at Highland Park this week end. His nearest rival in scoring was Evans of Evanston with 71 points.

HIGH SCHOOLERS OF MANY STATES IN PURPLE MEET

Requests for entrance blanks for Northwestern university's national indoor interscholastic track and swimming meet to be held in Patten gym, March 21 and 22, have poured in at double the rate of speed of last year, Don Harker, student chairman of the prep track classic, announced yesterday.

Up until yesterday 100 schools had signified their intention of entering teams or stars in the indoor meets.

Far distant points are to be represented this season, according to the announcement. Acknowledgments have been received from White Plains, N. Y., which is to be represented on the cinders this season by an exceptionally strong squad; Boston is making strenuous efforts to send two or three of outstanding stars.

To date, it is believed that every Chicago school will be represented by a strong team. Cedar Rapids, Ia., with Coach Leo Novak in charge, expects to send seven men, including Capt. Cuhel, star hurdler of the mid-west.

La Salle, Ill.; Eau Claire, Wis.; Kokomo, Ind., and all of the Detroit, Mich., high schools expect to send teams. All of these schools have tallied high in the national indoor in the past.

Manager Harker and Track Coach Frank Hill expect that more than fifty additional schools will be entered within the coming week, with some 400 additional athletes.

Trainer King Brady and a corps of assistants will be at the disposal of the prep athletes during the two day competition.

WHITING, 19; CROWN POINT, 17.

Gary, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—Whiting High school, beating Crown Point, 19 to 17, for its third victory of the day, today won the northern Indiana district high school basketball tournament here. Dussalo led the scoring for the winners with four field goals and a free throw. Lineup:

BY WALLACE ABBEY.

Suburban league quintets will furnish the chief opposition in the district high school basketball tourney which will be conducted at Deerfield High school in Highland Park Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The meet has drawn a record entry and will be the biggest event for local quintets during the month of March.

Interest centers on what Oak Park, which won the heavyweight championship, will be able to accomplish against its closest rivals.

Play in Two Divisions.

Oak Park won three of its league games by the margin of one point from Evanston, Morton, and New Trier, all three of which teams will be faced this week. Waukegan, which finished a game behind Oak Park, did not get to play the winners in the league race, but will have a chance in this meet.

Play will be in two divisions, schools of 400 or more students competing in class A and schools with less than 400 in class B. The winner of class A will qualify for the state finals at Urbana.

Individual Scoring.

Following is the individual scoring record of the leading players during the season just closed.

CITIZENS RAISE FUNDS TO SEND CAGE TEAMS HERE

The national interscholastic basketball tournament, which is to be held at University of Chicago April 1 to 6, has aroused deep interest not only among the 400 or more prep cagers who participate every year, but among the citizenry of the states from which they hale. This is evidenced by the fact that in many cases the lads are sent to the big national meet by public or semi-public subscription funds.

It would be impossible for many of the leading teams of the United States to participate in the annual meet were it not for the fact that chambers of commerce, business men's associations, churches, and other organizations are willing to foot the bills. Several of last year's contesting quintets were sent through the generosity of townspeople.

Newspapers Raise Funds.

Hagerman, N. M., was represented in the meet last year by a capable five, sent on funds raised by a New Merico newspaper which conducted a statewide drive for the money on which the team traveled more than 2,000 miles. The boys from Hagerman were swamped with letters while in Chicago, one coming from the governor of their state assuring them that they were backed by everyone in New Mexico, "down to the last horn headed toad."

The Nashville Tennesseean was another paper which conducted a campaign for funds which provided transportation for the school band, via trucks as well as the team.

Ice Cream Sent This Gang.

Gloversville, N. Y., came to the meet on cash raised by the local chamber of commerce, while the Osage, Ia., quintet was sent on money raised at ice cream socials, dances and similar entertainments. They were accompanied by the school's jazz troubadours.

During their stay in Chicago, the teams are entertained at fraternity houses at the Midway, where they are banqueted and given sight-seeing trips about the midwest's metropolis, incurring no expenses for their board and lodging.

PRESBYTERIANS OF LAKE VIEW WIN CAGE TITLE

Lake View Presbyterian quintet, led by Heer, who dropped in three baskets and a like number of free throws, won the Church A. A. lightweight basketball championship by conquering Elim Swedish, 17 to 14, at the Ravenswood Evangelical gym last night. Lineup:

LAKE VIEW [17].	B	F	P	T	ELIM [14].	B	F	P	T

Sanford,lg	0	1	2	0	Grimme,lg	0	0	2	0

In the other final games Lake View Presbyterian 115s won the bantamweight title by trimming Thoburn, 16 to 6. St. Paul Lutheran took the second game of the three game series with the Lake View Ramblers, 25 to 20, leaving the heavyweight championship undecided.

WHEATON BEATS GLEN ELYN 2.

Wheaton High school quintets won two games from Glen Ellyn last night at the loser's floor. The heavy count was 17 to 8 and the light, 23 to 17. Grange led the winning heavies in scoring.

SOUTHERN COLLEGES MAY LIMIT PRO COACH TO MASS ATHLETICS

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—A proposal that after 1928 the duties of all paid coaches at conference institutions shall be confined to development of mass athletics for the entire student body was made to the executive committee of the southern conference, in session here today, by Prof. C. L. Hare of Auburn university.

The committee agreed that further consideration would be given the recommendation at a later date.

"After a term of years (say after 1928)," the resolution reads, "the duties of all paid coaches at conference institutions shall be confined to the development of mass athletics for the entire student body. All teams engaging in intercollegiate contests shall be coached by students alone, the coaching staff to consist of the captain of each team, together with a corps of strategists and assistants, made up of players and other students familiar with sports."

REINSTATEMENT OF PADDOCK HELPS TEAM

New York, March 1.—[United Press]—Charley Paddock's reinstatement by the A. A. U. makes eligible for the Olympic team a sprinter who should make the American team invincible in the short distance races.

There are a few good sprinters among the foreign nations entered in the 1924 games at Paris, but certainly no nation can present a combination as good, individually or collectively, as Paddock, Murchison, Clark, Lever, Hussey, Lovejoy, Le Coney, and McAllister.

One of the most difficult tasks that will face the American officials will be involved in the selection of the best five or six sprinters from a field that is overheavy in class.

The American team should make a clean sweep in the 100 meters and 200 meters sprints and in the 400 meters relay race.

If the French committee persists against opposition in awarding only one point to the winner of the events on the track and field games and granting only medals to second, third, fourth, and so on, the sprinters can't pile up a great total of points, but they hope to cinch three events.

Lake Forest Academy Beats Shattuck, 25-17

Fairbault, Minn., March 1.—[Special.]—Lake Forest Academy defeated Shattuck Military academy, 25 to 17, here today in the annual game between the two schools. During most of the battle both quintets fought on even terms, and not until the closing minutes did the visitors show their superiority.

YANK OLYMPIC BOARDS PAY UP COIN FOR SHIP

New York, March 1. — Julius H. Barnes, treasurer of the Olympic committee, today paid the first installment of $40,000 for the charter of the steamship America, which will transport the American athletes to France in June to compete in the 1924 Olympic games.

Mr. Barnes said that he was much gratified with the ready response to the appeal for funds made a few days ago. A number of the local committees of the important cities have their campaign well under way. Among the larger subscribers are:

Olympic committee of Michigan, $9,000; Olympic committees of Boston, Philadelphia, and Miami, each $5,000; Olympic committee of Chicago, $4,000; Olympic committee of New York, $3,500; Olympic committee of Houston, Tex., $1,900; Olympic committee of Newark, N. J., $1,500; Olympic committee of Youngstown, O., $1,500; George V. Brown, Boston arena, $1,500; Olympic committee of Albany, N. Y., $700; Olympic committee of Princeton, N. J., $564; Olympic committee of Fort Meyer, Va., $500; New England association, A. A. U., $500; John W. Weeks, secretary of war, $500; Olympic committee of Reading, Pa., $500; Olympic committee of Dalton, Mass., $250; Olympic committee of Schenectady, $102; Olympic committee of San Antonio, Tex., $251.40.

Miami is the first city to have realized its quota, which is $5,000.

CORNELL BEATS YALE, 23 TO 19, FOR CAGE TITLE

Ithaca, N. Y., March 1.—Cornell tonight won the intercollegiate basketball league championship by defeating Yale, last year's title holder, 23 to 19, while Dartmouth, at Hanover, was defeating Princeton, 38 to 34. Yale led 19 to 6 at the half, but its powerful offense was cut down in the second period. With only three minutes left to play and six points behind, the Ithacans came from behind and tied the score at 19. In the extra period Cornell played Yale off its feet, Byron and Dake making field baskets in quick succession. Lineup:

FLAT RATE SERVICE

A New Plan Appealing to Thrifty Chevrolet Owners

Flat Rate Service—the kind of service you have been waiting for, is now at your call. We have adopted this new method of handling charges for repair work because it enables every Chevrolet owner to get an intelligent estimate of the cost of repairs before the work is started.

Our repair shops are guided by a schedule of repair operations, each covering a specific repair job with the exact average time indicated plainly. The standard price list of Chevrolet Parts gives the exact cost of replacement parts needed. These are the facts that take the uncertainty out of service work.

The Flat Rate System makes for better work at lower prices, because repair men spend their time doing only what you have ordered. That's what we charge for, and you know in advance what it will cost.

Our shops are equipped with special Chevrolet tools. No repair job is too large or too small to be handled efficiently and at minimum cost to you.

You WILL FALL IN LOVE

And it will be love at first sight.

Last year owners called the Auburn Six-43 Sedan a wonder—it didn't seem possible to improve it.

But Auburn did it—of course. Added to it, built into it at the factory all the extras and accessories that have become indispensable to careful, pleasant driving.

From front bumper to automatic windshield wiper there is nothing worth installing on a good motor car that is not here.

Drop in and see the new Six-43 Sedan Special. You will be amazed at its completeness and luxury—and at its moderate price.

LOGAN SQUARES TO USE NIESEN FIELD THIS YEAR

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

Old Logan Square ball park is no longer a fixture of the northwest side. The park which for eighteen years has housed the famous semipro ball club is being dismantled and the property will be used for apartment houses and business houses.

But while the Logan Square park is going, the Logan Square ball club will carry on. President John J. Callahan of the Logans, who bought a franchise in the Midwest Baseball league last winter, will transfer his club, bag and baggage, to Niesen's field at Kilpatrick and Lake streets, and the Squares will use these grounds in conjunction with Billy Niesen's club for all home games of the Midwest league schedule.

Hate to Leave Square.

The Logan Squares are the oldest semipro baseball club in the Chicago district. The team was organized by Jimmy Callahan, former leader of the White Sox, in 1906, and managed and promoted by him until 1910, when it passed over to John Callahan, a cousin. John has owned the club since that time and will continue as president and manager.

"We don't like to leave the square," Callahan said, "but we are still on the west side and hope that all of the old Logan Square fans will stay with us." As both the Squares and Niesens are members of the Midwest league and each will play half of its ninety-eight game schedule away from home, the chart has been arranged with a view to avoiding conflicting dates.

Ninety-eight Game Schedule.

When the Squares are the home team the Logan Square management will handle every detail of the park as their own grounds. With the Niesens and Squares using the grounds there will be a game at the Lake street park five days of every week.

Members of the Midwest league met yesterday at the Planters hotel and agreed on a ninety-eight game schedule for the season. The chart sets the opening day at April 26 and the race winds up on Oct. 5.

The teams in the league are Logan Squares and Niesens of Chicago; Simmons and Nash Motors of Kenosha; Fairbanks-Morse of Beloit, Wis.; Racine, Wis.; Canton, O., and Agathons of Massillon, O.

N. Y. SUPERFISH TO SPLASH HERE IN A. A. U. MEET

The New York A. C., prominent in swimming circles for years and especially during the time when C. M. Daniels wore the Mercury Foot, will be represented by water polo and relay teams in the National A. A. U. swimming championships to be conducted by the I. A. C. on April 1 to 4, inclusive.

Entry of the Manhattan organization has been assured according to Charles A. Dean, chairman of the I. A. C. committee. Presence of this club's team in the polo competition is certain to stir up unusual interest, and the tank room at the I. A. C. will not begin to hold the crowd which will seek admittance.

Next Saturday, water polo teams representing the Olympic club of San Francisco and Leland Stanford will meet to determine which will come east to compete for the national title. There is a possibility that the Los Angeles A. C. may also send a team, according to Dean.

Entry of the above mentioned teams together with those of the Detroit A. C. and Missouri A. C. and C. A. A. practically assures one of the greatest water polo series ever staged. As the team which wins the championship will represent America in the Olympic games, the games will be featured by hard playing.

According to Dean, entries are being received from swimmers in all sections of the country. The nominations close on March 25 with John T. Taylor, care of Charles A. Dean, 112 South Michigan avenue.

Rhode Island Official to Stop Jack-Wills Bout

Providence, R. I., March 1.—Attorney General Herbert L. Carpenter stated today that if there is any possible way in which he can prevent the holding of the Dempsey-Wills heavyweight championship fight in this state next July he will stop it. A license for the fight has recently been granted by the Cumberland town council to Boston promoters.

PURPLE TANKERS SINK BOILERMAKERS, 52-13

Lafayette, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—Northwestern easily defeated Purdue in a dual swimming meet here today, 52 to 13. The boilermakers came back in the water basketball game, which followed the tank program, and won, 4 to 2.

Copping first place in every event, besides taking the relay, Northwestern had little competition from the old Gold and Black in the swimming events. Ralph Breyer of the Purple team swam the 220 yard free style in 2:20 1-5, which is three seconds faster than the national collegiate record which he holds. Official recognition of the mark could not be made, since only two watches caught this time. Capt. Kniptash and McCoy each counted two points for Purdue in the water basketball contest. Summaries:

Relay—Won by Northwestern [Ortlep, Breyer, Corbett, Howell]. Time, 1:19 4-5.

40 yard swim—Won by Ortlep [N.]; Corbett [N.], second; Roth [P.], third. Time, :20 6-10.

100 yard swim—Won by Howell [N.]; Roth [P.], second. Time, :55 4-5.

220 yard swim—Won by Breyer [N.]; Dickson [N.], second; Pape [P.], third. Time, 2:20 2-5.

220 yard breast—Won by Eiselen [N.]; Dechert [N.], second. Time, 2:59.

150 yard back—Won by Scott [N.]; Hadley [P.], second. Time, 2:04 4-5.

Plunge—Won by Dickson [N.]; McCoy [P.], second; Bohleber [P.], third.

Diving—Won by Corbett [N.]; Sleight [N.], second; Slater [P.], third.

Referee—Manley [Illinois].

IOWA, 37; CHICAGO, 31

Iowa City, Ia., March 1.—Iowa swimmers won from Chicago in a conference swimming meet here tonight, 37 to 31, excelling in the relay and the free style events. Chicago scored heaviest in the breast stroke. Klingaman was the star of the meet with first in the 40 and 100 yard free style event and position on the winning relay team. Summaries:

160 yard relay—Won by Iowa [Goltman, Hoffman, Killebrew, Klingman]; Chicago, second. Time, 1:19 9-10.

BEST SCORES IN PIN CONGRESS

Anderson Tobacco company of Anderson, Ind., put its home city on the bowling map last night when its five man team cracked out 2,857 pins for first place in the team event at the American Bowling congress here. Close behind came the McNeil Hotel team of Janesville, which hit 2,825 for fourth place. The upsets in the team event were a fitting climax to a busy day which saw many changes in the singles and doubles.

LOCAL SKATERS RETURN AFTER EASTERN TRIP

Seven Chicago skaters who competed in the title ice races held last month in the east returned to Chicago yesterday. The squad was headed by Oneil Farrell of the Alverno A. A., who was the only Chicago racer to win a title. Farrell took three championships, winning the junior national and international outdoor events and the junior international indoor tournament.

Bob and Eddie Reed and Eddie Murphy, Alverno A. A.; Francis Allen, Austin-Columbia A. A.; Roy McWhirter, Northwest Skating club, and William Steinmetz of the Norwegian-American A. A., a member of the United States Olympic skating team, were the other returning racers. Harry Kaskey, Alverno A. A. and a team mate of Steinmetz in the Olympics, did not return to Chicago, but accompanied Joe Moore to New York to compete in exhibitions in rinks there.

President Frank M. Kalteux of the Western Skating association announced that the western indoor championship tournament will be held in the Castle Ice gardens at Milwaukee next Sunday. Four senior men's championships will be decided, while there will also be two open events for juniors and an open race for women. The meet is held under auspices of the Wisconsin Skating association.

The Western association will hold a reception for all of the association skaters at the Logan Square Masonic temple on March 14. On Tuesday night the skaters will attend a meeting at the Magnar A. C., a new club on the north side, which is branching out its athletics to include the ice sport.

GODLEY WINS GOLF MEET.

William Godley, 33—32—65, won the 36 hole medal play sweepstakes event yesterday at Jackson Park Recreation, second going to Ray Patterson, 38—28—66, and third to William Fitzgerald, 37—33—70. The qualifying round for the spring championship will start today.

ROGERS' COUNT PLANS TO PLAY IN OLYMPIC TENNIS

PARIS, March 1.—Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraten, who recently married Miss Millicent Rogers of New York, announced today that he expected to represent Austria in the lawn tennis competitions of the Olympic games. He departed this evening for the Riviera, having entered the Nice and Cannes tournaments, where he said he would be paired with Vincent Richards in the doubles. Before the war Count Ludwig was one of Europe's foremost tennis players.

Weill, Scott High Grid Coach, Plans to Retire

Toledo, O., March 1.—Dr. W. A. Neill, who coached Scott High school of Toledo to two consecutive national football championships, announced today he would retire from active service as head coach at the institution. He has recommended Ted Keller, assistant coach, to the athletic council as his successor.

METCALF NAMED SPORTS DIRECTOR AT IOWA STATE

Ames, Ia., March 1.—[Special.]—T. Nelson Metcalf, at present on the coaching staff at the University of Minnesota, has been elected to the position of director of athletics at Iowa State college to succeed Charles W. Mayser, who left under fire last spring.

Metcalf is track coach, coach of freshman football, and in charge of the professional course for coaches at Minnesota. He also supervises physical education. He is a graduate of Oberlin college, O., where he was football and track star.

He has coached at his alma mater, at Columbia University, New York, and was acting director of athletics at Oberlin before he went to Minnesota.

It is understood that he is not to do any coaching now, but will devote his entire time to supervising athletics.

BOXER ARRESTED IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., March 1.—After failing to show up for his scheduled fifteen round bout with Young Marullo of New Orleans last night, Frank Carbone of New Jersey was arrested at a local hotel on complaint of Frank Joret, fight promoter.

North Shore Hockey Foes Take Game to Milwaukee

Lake Forest and Indian Hill hockey teams of the North Shore league will play their regularly scheduled game today at the Milwaukee Ice arena in Milwaukee, starting at 2 o'clock. They are in second and third places respectively in the North Shore league and in a game earlier in the season Indian Hill was the winner.

KILLEFER'S CUBS FIND AVALON FAR FROM PARADISE

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., March 1.—[Special.]—Thirty-four athletes in quest of fame and fortune now hold forth in the Cub training camp. The last contingent of a dozen arrived this noon as scheduled and Manager Bill Killefer greeted them at the wharf with an announcement that work, and plenty of it, would start immediately.

The newcomers had no sooner inhaled their midday repast than Pilot Bill had them on the ball field going through the various training stunts that reap their harvest in the form of stiff, aching muscles. The first exhibition game is only a week away, so the strenuous conditioning program is more a matter of necessity than choice.

Killefer, true to his promise, took a personal interest in Vic Aldridge, the man who despises work. The big right handed hurler, always overweight in the spring, has a fondness for hiding in a remote section of the outfield where only an occasional fly ball can bother him.

Vic Pays in Full.

Vic didn't get away with any of that stuff today. Encased in a rubber shirt, he was kept on the jump continually and then had to top it off with a long stroll over the mountains. He paid dearly for his refusal to report on time and he'll continue to pay until he gets himself into pitching trim.

All the other newcomers, with the exception of Arnold Statz, also had to hike over the hills. Statz has been tramping around California golf courses all winter so is in as good shape as he ever will be.

Accompanying this party was Leo Hartnett, who tried to play another joke on the manager. He wrote Killefer an anonymous note last night, so was ordered to the hills this afternoon. That makes three times the peppery backstop has had to suffer for kidding his boss.

From now on the men who comprise the advance squad will be treated to a milder program. The warm weather and uninterrupted work has put them in the best of physical condition and now it is a matter of keeping them on edge. This can be done with the ordinary batting and fielding practice with an occasional workout on the slab for each pitcher.

Blake Still Lacks Control.

John Blake, in whose ability Manager Bill has considerable faith, was on the turret this morning and displayed a sweet curve ball. He couldn't control the hook very well, however, and that was his failing at Seattle last season. He has been ordered to pitch overhand to the exclusion of all other styles and after he gets the knack of throwing that way his control may improve.

With only two rookie catchers in camp there isn't much excitement over who will win the bull pen job. One of the youngsters is John Churry from the London, Ontario club. He is a husky lad and possesses a mighty throwing arm. He probably will stick. The other aspirant is Uzmann, who came to camp on his own hook. He is not a bad looking prospect, but is light in weight.

O'Farrell Pulls a Muscle.

Bob O'Farrell joined the hospital squad today but only for a few minutes. He pulled a leg muscle while running around the field and after having it taped up he was able to resume his labors.

Arrangements were completed this morning for a Cub second team to play the Seattle club at San Bernardino, Cal., on March 15 and 16.

TRAINING CAMPS

PITTSBURGH.

Paso Robles, Cal., March 1.—Jewell Ens, Pittsburgh Pirate, ill at a hospital in Atascadero with scarlet fever, has only a slight case and is practically convalescent, according to the physician who is attending him. Other players on the club have not been quarantined, and engaged in two practice workouts today. They will be kept under observation for six days by the county health officer, however, until it is certain that none of them have become infected from their contact with Ens before his illness became known.

BROWNS.

St. Louis, Mo., March 1.—A squad of regulars of the St. Louis Americans are scheduled to depart tomorrow to join the advance guard at the training camp at Mobile, Ala. Johnny Tobin, Bill Jacobson, Gene Robertson, Marty McManus and Walter Gerber are scheduled to go, but McManus has not signed a contract and will not make the trip unless he signs by train time. Jacobson signed yesterday. Outfielder Mizeur, a recruit, also will make the trip from St. Louis. Herschel Bennett and Harry Rice, recruits, with the team last spring, will join the squad en route.

GOULLET BEATS BOB WALTHOUR IN BIKE SPRINTS

New York, March 1. — [Special.] — Alfred Goullet, hero of many a hard fought six day grind, defeated Young Bobby Walthour Jr., son of the famous Dixie flier, in a special one mile match race which was the feature event of the indoor sprint championship held at Madison Square Garden tonight. The sprint events, forerunner of the six day race which starts at midnight tomorrow night, drew a large crowd of bike fans to the Garden.

It was Goullet's generalship that aided him to beat the youngster in the opening heat, but in the second and concluding heat young Walthour gave the master an argument up to the very end.

Eight men were slightly injured in four spills during an amateur race.

EVERS MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA WITH HIS GANG

Columbus, Ga., March 1.—[Special.]—Coach Johnny Evers and his Florida bound handful of White Sox athletes are ready to start their training. Whirling along through this state of red soil and skinny pigs, the south side party had much time for speculation as to what awaits it at the Winter Haven training camp.

One bit of information given the members of the party today by Coach Evers was that the train will disgorge its passengers at Lake Alfred tomorrow morning, and that the squad will be quartered there, at least for a time. It seems the Haven hotel at Winter Haven isn't ready for guests yet, so Secretary Harry Grabinger, who arrived at the training grounds early last week, was obliged to find new quarters.

Taxi, Bus, or Hoof?

The trip to and from the training field at Winter Haven to Lake Alfred hotel involves a journey of some five miles, and all of the athletes now are deep in speculation as to whether or not they will be obliged to hoof it each day or if they will be allowed the luxury of a taxi or bus ride.

Joe Rabbitt, the rookie outfielder, already has come under the observation of Coach Evers. Joe carelessly overslept this morning, and had to make a mad dash for the dining car in order to slip inside before the doors were barred. He was in such haste that he failed to put on a necktie.

Roy Moore, the pitcher obtained from the Detroit club by the Sox on waivers last week, failed to hop on the train at Birmingham this morning. Moore wasn't anywhere about the station, and only time will tell what has happened to the young flinging gent.

Only Two Meals a Day.

Indication that the training rules will be set up at an early date came this morning in the form of a bit of information handed the athletes by Evers. The coach declared that the boys will be limited to two meals a day at the camp, and this immediately started a rush for the dining car.

O'ROURKE SUES TEX FOR $50,000

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Tom O'Rourke, whose sensational charges concerning alleged ticket speculation have led to demands for a legislative investigation of boxing, last night announced he had instituted legal action for $50,000 against Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, and the Star Publishing company for alleged libel. Rickard was served with a summons in the action.

TILDEN TO STICK TO HIS WRITING IF FORCED TO CHOICE

Hartford, Conn., March 1.—[Special.]—If forced to choose between tennis and newspaper work, Bill Tilden, champion tennis expert, intends to give up tennis. This, and more, was voiced by Tilden tonight at the annual dinner here of the Southern New England Tennis association, at which Irving W. Wright also spoke.

In discussing the new amateur rule, Mr. Tilden said:

"No one can possibly doubt or question the sincerity of the new president, George Wightman, or of George Adee, chairman of the amateur rules committee, which drafted the new rule. Both men honestly fear an abuse creeping into the game.

Can't See Injury to Game.

"Personally, I cannot bring myself to agree with their viewpoint. I cannot see wherein there is any injury to the game of tennis from players writing on the game. It seems, rather, that good accrues. Certainly no one is better fitted to analyze or explain the game than a man who is engaged in playing it at the time.

"Certainly our young players would learn far more from articles by leading stars than from those by a man whose knowledge of the game is purely that of a spectator.

Wrote Before Gaining Honors.

"Concerning my own status under the rule, I believe that it will not apply to me. I began my newspaper work in the winter of 1913-'14 and have been engaged in it to date. I did not play in the national championship until 1916, and yet had been writing tennis articles, as well as dramatic and musical criticism, for three years.

"My future, so far as one can prophesy, will continue along my present line of activities. Should I be forced in 1925 to make my choice between my profession and amateur tennis, I will give up tennis with deep regret and with the feeling that I am better for having played it.

His Definition of Amateurism.

"I have been, am, and always will be a firm believer in the amateur spirit of sport. In my opinion, a man who plays a game solely for the game's sake, not influenced in where he plays by any business relations whatsoever, is a true amateur even though indirectly he may gain a return through his fame.

"Any man who plays with the deliberate intention of capitalizing any reputation he may gain is a professional in spirit, whether he succeeds in reaping a reward or not. I cannot see that I have ever violated the amateur spirit, for I have never allowed material consideration to influence my decision as to where I played or when."

EXMOOR WINS 5TH TEAM SHOOT OF COUNTRY CLUBS

Exmoor Country club, with a total of 461 targets, yesterday won the fifth team shoot of the Chicago Country Club league at Oak Park Country club. A 457 total placed Oak Park second, Glen View was third, South Shore fourth, and Onwentsia fifth.

High net honors went to W. Johnson of Onwentsia and G. Henneberry of Glen View, each of whom registered 89 breaks in the 100 target team race. In the warmup event of 25 "birds" B Anderson of Exmoor and D. Boyton, a teammate, tied for first, but the former won out in the second shootoff. Summaries:

DATES SELECTED FOR MOST GOLF FIXTURES

BY JOE DAVIS.

With the exception of the dates for the western open championship at the Calumet Country club, and a few events of lesser importance, the schedule of the big championships is completed. The first international event in which Americans will be specially interested is the British Women's championship at Portrush, Ireland, May 19 to 24. Miss Edith Cummings of the Onwentsia club, the U. S. G. A. champion, is planning to compete again.

The British amateur championship will start at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 26. It does not appear likely that this country will be strongly represented, as the international contest for the Walker cup will be staged in this country.

Early Meets Scheduled.

Never in the history of golf in this country has a big event been staged as early as May, so the sectional qualifying rounds for the national open championship scheduled for May 28 and 29 are an innovation. The eastern players will qualify at Worcester, Mass., and the western at the Oak Park Country club, Chicago. The open event proper will follow at the Oakland Hills Country club at Detroit, June 5 and 6.

The public links players will have their first inning on June 24 at Dayton, O., where the third national public links championship will start. Three days later the Chicago District Golf association amateur championship will open at Olympia Fields and will share interest with the British open championship, which will begin at Hoylake, Liverpool, the same day.

Women to Play Sept. 1.

Rhode Island Country club will entertain the contestants in the women's national championship, Sept. 1 to 5.

Following are the dates of the national events and local fixtures announced to date:

April 3—North and south championship at Pinehurst.
May 19—British women's at Portrush, Ireland.
May 26—British amateur at St. Andrews.
May 28—Eastern qualifying round, national open, at Worcester, Mass.
May 28—Western qualifying round, national open, at Oak Park, Chicago.
June 2—Women's eastern championship at Boston.
June 5—National open at Oakland Hills, Detroit.
June 17—W. W. G. A. medal event at Glen View.
June 24—Public links championship at Dayton, O.
June 26—Chicago district amateur championship at Olympia Fields.
June 26—British open at Hoylake, England.
June 27—Exmoor C. C. jamboree.
July 1—French open at La Boulie.
July 3—French amateur at La Boulie.
July 7—Chicago women's championship at Park Ridge.
July 10—Exmoor open amateur tournament.
July 21—Western amateur championship at Hinsdale.
July 29—Exmoor Old Boys' tournament.
Aug. 4—Women's western at Onwentsia.
Aug. 6—Tam O'Shanter at Westmoreland.
Aug. 13—Evanston rodeo.

The Chicago Indoor Golf league will play its fourth series tomorrow night. Oak Park will play at Chicago Beach, Tavern at Covent Garden, and MacDonald's at Henrici's. The Tavern team is leading with 41 points, Covent Garden being second with 36.

With one of the most attractive prize lists in its history, the Lincoln Park Women's Golf club, through Nan Siljestrom and Sophia Malicki, has issued a call for additional members. A total of forty-eight prizes has been donated and will be won via the handicap route. Prospective members may secure information from Miss Siljestrom at 4928 North Claremont, or phoning Ravenswood 3648.

GOSHEN HIGH SCHOOL BASKET STAR DIES OF HEART AILMENT

GOSHEN, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—Clark Baxter, 17, Goshen high school athlete, died at his home of heart ailment after an illness of two hours. He had returned from the Goshen high school gymnasium, where he had been on the basketball floor in uniform, but did not play. As a result of his death Goshen high team withdrew from the sectional tournament in connection with the Indiana state championship which ended tonight.

Funeral services will be held in the Goshen high school auditorium Monday afternoon. He was a member of the basketball, football and track teams and Goshen high school band.

LOCAL LAWN BOWLERS COMPETE IN FLORIDA

Deprived of their favorite sport by the rigors of the northern winter, eight members of the Chicago Lawn Bowling club are competing in tournaments at St. Petersburg, Fla., where players come from as far as New Brunswick.

The bowling greens provided by the city government attract fully 200 players to the city who otherwise would not come. The Chicago players in Florida are J. B. Heister, R. D. Shurtleff, C. F. Baumgartner, R. E. Webb, Carl Baumgartner, John Madigan, H. T. Belvin, and Charles G. Blake, the latter being president of the Chicago Lawn Bowling league.

Mr. Blake, who is vice president of the Hamilton club, is a strong advocate of the game and believes every Chicago park should have bowling greens. At present there is only one, that being in Washington park.

BRICKIES MEET DETROIT TODAY IN SOCCER TILT

After three postponements the Bricklayers soccer team left yesterday for Detroit, where today it will play the Detroit Celtics in the semi-finals of the western section of the national cup competition. The postponements have given Harry Ambler, center forward, time to recover from injuries and he will be in the lineup today.

Ald. Sheldon Govier accompanied the team as representative of President Peel of the United States Football association. Wilfred Cummings of the Illinois association also made the trip.

Three local games are carded for this afternoon, two being scheduled for Kostner avenue and 19th street. The Sparta Union second team will play the British Legion of the district association at 1:30, and in the second game the Sparta Union first team will oppose the Swedish Americans. Since acquiring six stars from Europe the Sparta Union team rates as one of the best in the city.

The Olympia club-Canadian game scheduled for this afternoon at 47th and 19th street was postponed yesterday by an agreement of both elevens, because of the icy condition of the field. Chicago F. C. will tackle Harvey at 81st street and Drexel avenue.

"ARE EUROPEAN SOCCER TEAMS PRO?" ASKS U. S.

While the United States Football association is endeavoring to send a team of simon pure amateurs to compete in the Olympic soccer championship at Paris, its officials are by no means satisfied that all of the European elevens will be of like caliber. In some countries of continental Europe a player when on tour receives pay equivalent to that he would have received in his usual occupation.

Because of this looseness, the British associations have declined to enter a team this year. If the British do not lodge a protest with the Federation Internationale de Football association when it meets in Paris in May it is likely that United States officials will.

Secretary Cahill of the U. S. F. A. reports he has received several propositions for the American team to play matches after the Olympic schedule is completed. Bad weather is still holding up the final match in the eastern section of the National cup series.

Woods and Waters

BASS FISHERMEN'S PARADISE.

LAKE ISTOKPOGA, Fla. — Arbuckle creek, which flows into Lake Istokpoga from the northeast, is a favorite lounging spot for the ten and twelve pound black bass that thrive in this wonderful lake and its streams. For an ardent angler to spend just one day on this magnificent semi-tropical stream is nothing less than tantalising. After cruising the creek from its mouth to the head of navigation one wants to pitch a tent 'neath moss draped trees and stay on forever to play with the big bass, enjoy the seclusion and beauty of the virgin forest and to get acquainted with the many birds.

Bill, bass fishing guide without a peer, said he did not want us to head for the north until we had seen and fished the Arbuckle creek. So one morning we packed up a little lunch, grabbed our two bamboo rods and tackle box and made for the famous creek, the haunt of the smart black bass. This trip up Arbuckle is a two mile jaunt over as beautiful a stretch of water as we have seen. In places the trees drooped over the water in such a manner that the long streamers of moss brushed our hats as we passed underneath.

Winding and twisting through the forest, the Arbuckle route led us two miles northward from the lake. Coming around one bend we jumped a bunch of wood ducks that quickly cleared the trees and left us behind. There are lots of these birds down here.

At last a solid wall of floating water hyacinths indicated that we had reached the head of navigation. Bill cut off the motor and said that we would float and paddle downstream, casting the likely looking spots for bass. So down the magic bass river we went, Bill in the stern handling the boat while we manned the forward deck to put the lure into every possible hangout for a big fish. Once Bill called attention to a big cypress that stood back from the main channel of the stream. A narrow cutout in the foliage made a natural passageway to the base of this tree, which Bill said always produced a bass.

We looked rather doubtful at this spot, while meant shooting between and under foliage where a few inches either way would put the lure into the bush. "Go ahead, shoot," said Bill. "If you get tangled up we can poke in there with the boat and bring it out." So we let 'er slip, although we wondered at the time what under the sun we would do if a big old lunker of a bass should strike, as he would have to travel only a few feet to get behind a tree or stump.

The first cast missed, so we shot another. Whang! Bill certainly had "called" this place, all right, as a bass struck savagely. But instead of a thriller of a fight, as we wanted and expected, we just had a nice little tussle with a fish, as it did not go over four pounds. Back to the creek he went, as we weren't keeping 'em that size.

Farther down the creek a bass got on to stage a scrap that made us think of the small mouth fishing that we enjoyed last summer while in the Lake of the Woods region in Canada. That fish was a regular top of the water, jumpin' entertainer. Four times we brought him to the surface to see if he would throw the hook, and each time produced a picture.

We're wondering how long Istokpoga will furnish the bass fishing that it does today. While on Arbuckle creek we saw the place where the new automobile highway is going to cross the stream, eventually bringing to the shore of the creek all kinds of anglers.

In the middle west an auto road usually spells the ruin of many streams.

Today Istokpoga is pretty inaccessible for motorists. Moreover, a number of excellent lakes to the north of it have in the past attracted the majority of fishermen near the town of Sebring, and extending northward are scores of beautiful lakes containing fish. South of Istokpoga are the Okeechobee marshes to which the duck hunters go. Duck hunting down there is a soft game compared to the cold weather decoy shooting with which we are familiar in the middle west.

Down here a fellow can get properly located in the marsh, with a whirl around to stir up the girds. The ducks then just circle around in apparently ever increasing numbers. The hunters can sling the shot to their heart's content and find no trouble to bag scores of birds.

Besides large mouth black bass Istokpoga has several varieties of small fish. There is the catfish, of course. Then we saw specimens of the speckled perch, which in the middle west is known as the crappie. They are very plentiful and the garden hackle enthusiasts can hook any amount of them down here. We also saw a dogfish taken from the lake. It is called a mudfish in this region. What Bill the guide declares the best eating fish of all is the Istokpoga "brim" or bream. We looked over one of these "brims" and found it a bright, prettily colored fellow, a true member of the sunfish family.

But the big, fightin' bass dominate the Istokpoga fishing arena and these smaller fishes get scant attention.

RAISE PRICE OF TRACK TICKETS TO AID OLYMPICS

Followers of intercollegiate athletics, alumni of western conference universities particularly, will be given a chance to contribute to the American Olympic fund when the annual indoor track and field championships of the western conference are held in Patten gymnasium on March 14 and 15.

Announcement was made yesterday by Avery Brundage, a member of the graduate managing committee, that the price of each ticket will be increased 50 cents. This extra charge will be turned over to Everts Wrenn, who has charge of raising Chicago's quota of $50,000 for the Olympic fund.

Have Chance for Team.

Results of yesterday's relay carnival at the University of Illinois plainly indicate a number of western conference athletes have excellent chances to make the American Olympic team.

As the competition at the Big Ten indoor games, which is open only to conference schools, will be held on the dirt, the contestants should equal or better some marks made at Urbana.

Profits to Olympics.

A number of athletes who compete in the Big Ten games will be seen in action again on March 19, when the Central A. A. U. indoor track and field championships will be held at the Broadway armory. Charles A. Dean, chairman of the track and field championship committee, has announced that all profits will go to the Chicago quota for the general Olympic fund. Teams representing the I. A. C. and C. A. A. have already been entered, while Chicago, Northwestern, De Paul, and Loyola universities also will have representatives in some of the events. Entries close on March 12 with Charles A. Dean, 112 South Michigan avenue.

LOCAL FANS ARE INTERESTED IN MILWAUKEE FIGHT

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Boxing fans in and around Chicago are taking a keen interest in the two shows to be staged this week and in all probability the dyed in the wool followers of the padded mitts will take in both.

Tomorrow night at East Chicago Joey Sangor of Milwaukee, who recently defeated Ernie Goozeman of the Cream city, will meet Eddie Shea, the west side Italian bantamweight. While many dope Sangor to win off ing on the west side.

Herbie Meets Currie.

In the semi-windup, Herbie Schaeffer, the south side 120 pounder, will take on Connie Currie of Sioux City, Ia., over the ten round distance. Currie made a decided impression when he beat Young Scully of the stockyards in the same arena a short time ago, but he will find a much more rugged and experienced battler in Schaeffer. main events with two preliminaries.

The week's real fireworks, however, take place in Milwaukee on Thursday night, when Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion, will trade punches with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., in a ten round no decision contest. Both are aggressive battlers and each carries a wallop in his right hand.

Villa and Taylor met last summer at the Hawthorne race track. There was a vast difference of opinion over the result, although fans were unanimous that it was one of the best bouts staged between the little fellows since the old days of boxing in Chicago.

One Pound Allowance for Bud.

They have agreed to weigh 117 pounds, give or take a pound at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. While the weight is easy for Villa, the Hoosier is expected to make the required poundage without much effort. Taylor can get down to 118 pounds without much trouble.

Chicagoans are taking an unusual interest in the mill. Howard Carr, owner of the Arcade gymnasium, has chartered a special car on Sammy Wolff's special on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, while Louis Swift Jr., the packer, will take a party to Milwaukee in another private car. Other Chicagoans have also chartered special cars and indications are that 500 local fans will make the trip in the specials to be run by Wolff and Al Bloom.

Gate Record Likely to Fall.

Indications are more people will see the mill than saw the fight between Ad Wolgast and Willie Ritchie several years ago. The receipts for this fight were over $43,000, but the top price was $7.50. The admissions to the Taylor-Villa bout are much lower. The Wolgast-Ritchie gate is the largest in the history of boxing in the Badger state.

The show will be conducted by the Cream City A. C., of which Frank Mulkern and Otto Borchert are the promoters. It will be held in the Auditorium.

The popularity contest being conducted for boxers by Kid Howard and Fred Irwin is creating quite a stir in local gymnasiums and other places where fighters and their managers congregate. The contest will take place at a south side café. The cup to be given the winner is now on display at the Arcade gymnasium.

NEW YORK LOSES ARMY-NAVY TIFF; SEAT HOGS CAUSE

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—New York has lost the next Army and Navy football game. An official announcement was made at Annapolis today that the game would be played on Saturday, Nov. 29, in the stadium at Baltimore. The choice was made, officers said, because the Baltimore park board promised 72,000 seats in the stadium, and Baltimore theaters, hotels, railways, and taxicab companies promised to make no increase in rates.

A majority of the theaters in New York at the last game had advanced their prices from 50 cents to $2 above the normal Saturday night rates.

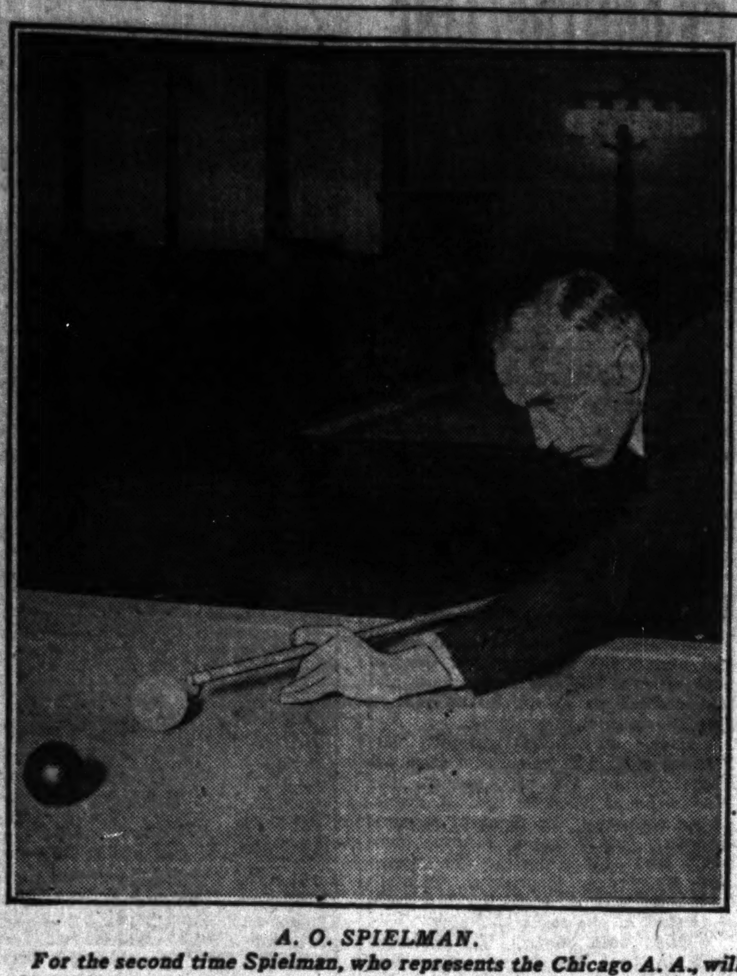
SEEKS AMATEUR CUE CROWN



A. O. SPIELMAN.

For the second time Spielman, who represents the Chicago A. A., will make a bid for the amateur three cushion billiard title. The meet will open Wednesday at the C. A. A. in a special arena.

LORD MAY GET BACK IN TITLE ANGLE PLAY

PREVIOUS WINNERS

1919—Arthur Newman, Brooklyn.
1920—William B. Huey, Chicago.
1921—Earl Lookabaugh, Chicago.
1922—Frank I. Fleming, Champaign.
1923—Robert M. Lord, Chicago.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Seven, or possibly eight, of the leading amateur angle experts will comprise the field for the sixth annual amateur three cushion championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard players, which will start Wednesday night at the Chicago Athletic association.

Until the executive committee takes further action on the amateur status of Robert M. Lord of the Illinois Athletic association, the present champion, he is ineligible. This action will be taken at a meeting to be held here tomorrow, and is at the request of G. Raymond Collins, vice president of the N. A. A. B. P., who was not present at the meeting held at New York at which Lord was disqualified.

Lord won the title last year from a field of nine at Brooklyn. The field this year is smaller but much stronger, consisting of Frank I. Fleming of Champaign, who will represent the Hamilton club of Chicago; Louis A. Vogler of Indianapolis, former champion of Indiana; E. G. Wainwright of the Pittsburgh A. C., Dr. R. N. Roscoe of Baltimore, and C. Earl Patterson, A. O. Spielman and Dr. Andrew Harris of the Chicago Athletic association.

Fleming won the championship played at the Hamilton club in 1922, by defeating Otto Spielman in the play off of a tie. Earl Patterson has played in three previous tournaments and also has competed in the national amateur pocket billiard title championship, several times. None of the other contestants has had a shot at the amateur cushion crown.

THURNBLAD REGAINS LEAD IN FIGHT FOR CITY BILLIARD TITLE

Art Thurnblad is back in first place in the race for the Blake trophy in the Chicago Billiard league. He won two games while Grauman was getting an even break in his two contests.

Thurnblad chalked up a high run of 9 and Charley Le Gros had the best game of the week when he counted 50 points in 52 innings. The Casino room has taken over the franchise vacated by Roberts and will be represented by Ed Petersen. The standing:

NAMES APPROVED, FOR 2 YEAR OLDS OF LEONA FARM

BY FRENCH LANE.

Names for a half dozen 2 year olds which will go to the races this year from Leona stud farm carrying the colors of Mrs. Fannie K. Hertz have been approved by Andrew Herkert, registrar of the Jockey club. The colts were registered as follows:

Our Buddy, b. c. by Theo. Cook—June Bug.
New moon, b. c. by Fitzgerald—Harvest Moon II.
Tick Tock, b. c. by Hourless—Seamby.
Flying Moments, ch. f. by Hourless—Avocado.
Vanity Fair, ch. f. by Negofol—Fair Fame.
Witchbroom, bck. f. by Negofol—Broom Straw.

The recent arrival of a fine colt foal by Craig An Eran from Rezende has been reported by Arthur Naylor, manager of Leona Farm operations. Rezende was purchased by the Hertz interests from Sir Richard Brooke at Newmarket, and is by Tracery from Lady Portland, a half sister to Sunstar. Tracery is the famous winner of the St. Leger, Eclipse, and other classics, and was sold in England by Maj. August Belmont for $265,000. Craig An Eran also had a fine racing record in England.

The newly foaled colt is eligible for the Pimlico Futurity of 1926.

Plan for Derby Trip Already.

A good indication of how strong Chicago will invade Louisville for the Golden Jubilee running of the Kentucky Derby next May was given yesterday with the announcement of special trains and special cars which have already been booked for Chicago delegations through Charles T. Essig of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association.

The Monon, it was announced, has reserved complete trains for the Chicago Athletic association, Hamilton club, Kostner special, Powers special, Tennes special, Knights of Columbus, and seventy-eight special cars chartered by different parties.

On the Pennsylvania, reservations have been made for special trains for the Illinois Athletic club, Board of Trade, Stock Exchange, South Water Street association, and a long list of special cars has been chartered.

A block of Derby day seats has been promised the Chicago Business Men's Racing association, and they can be reserved through this organization and Herbert Wiley of the Monon, and Mr. Blachley of the Pennsylvania lines.

Hawthorne Plans Await Murphy.

Dates for Chicago's racing season at Hawthorne, and the officials who will handle it will not be announced until Racing Judge Joseph A. Murphy arrives after the New Orleans meeting closes March 17.

Attorney Albert Sabath, who looks after the legal end of the Chicago Business Men's racing affairs, has returned from a conference with Judge Murphy in New Orleans with the announcement that complete plans for the season will be ready to be made public soon after Judge Murphy comes to Chicago.

Plans for a great many improvements at the Hawthorne plant are now under way, Mr. Sabath said.

Hockey Leaguer Loses Eye as Team Wins Title

Toronto, Ont., March 1.—The Hamilton Tigers last night won the Class 1 championship of the Ontario Hockey association by defeating Toronto university, 4 to 3. Johnnie Brackenborough, star center of the Hamilton team, will lose the sight of his left eye, physicians said, as a result of being struck with a stick.

DUPLICATE WHIST POPULAR.

Duplicate whist is a game coming into favor, as evidenced by the recent success of the meetings of the Chicago Whist association and the Ohio Whist association. West secured ten tricks.

The spade opening by north was unfortunate but was not bad play. As south had bid only one diamond, north rightly concluded that a singleton lead would be of little help to the diamond suit.

The declarer did some hard thinking while taking the four rounds of hearts. It was evident that south held the king of clubs, as his diamonds were not strong enough to warrant a bid without help in another suit. It was also evident that south had either the nine or ten of spades alone and to place the lead with south would make game certain.

On the other hand, should north win the trick and make four spades, south would be unable to protect the king of clubs and keep two guards for the king of diamonds. The declarer, therefore, would still get nine tricks.

The lead of the spade was unusual and very clever. Had west played either a diamond or a club at trick six, game would have been impossible.

PLAN SPORTS PROGRAM FOR CAMP CUSTER

Athletics in the form of baseball, football, basketball, swimming, boxing, wrestling, and track and field events will form a part of the training and diversion for men who enroll for the citizen's military training at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 1 to 30. The drive for members for the Military Training Camps association is now in progress, and the government believes in mixing the athletic games with the military training.

Baseball games with minor and major league teams opposed to the training camp nines will be arranged whenever possible. Boxing champions and contenders will be invited to instruct the young men who are expected to take advantage of the thirty days' training at the expense of the government.

STEINKE PROVES SENSATION IN MAT CIRCLES

Hans Steinke, the giant German who will meet Reginald Siki, the Senegalese grappler, in the main event of "Doc" Krone's wrestling show at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium on Thursday night, is proving the sensation of local mat circles.

The German's victory over Stanislaus Zbyszko in a one fall match at the stockyards recently has led many to believe he can beat most of the championship contenders. Steinke's manager, however, does not intend to push his man too fast. Hans has quite a little to learn about the catch as catch can style of grappling, but he will be ready in six months to take on Stecher, Pesek, or other strong rivals.

Fans Greet Hans.

When Lewis and Zbyszko met at the stockyards last week the fans were eager to see Steinke, and when the big fellow stood up near the ringside he was greeted with applause. Hans is a giant in stature. He is over 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs close to 280 pounds.

While Siki is also over six feet tall, he does not match up with the German in other measurements. However, the Senegalese should prove a worthy opponent, for a short time at least, because he is strong and knows more of the catch as catch can style.

Greek-Italian Feud.

The Greek-Italian wrestling feud, made famous by the great matches between William Demetral and Leo Pardello several years ago, will be renewed in the semi-windup, which will bring together Renato Gardini, the Italian, and Demetral. Despite his years, the Greek is one of the trickiest grapplers in the game.

Elmer Saunders, Wisconsin heavyweight champion, will clash with Stanislaus Zbyszko, the veteran Pole, in the main bout at the mat card at the Star and Garter on Friday night. Saunders made an impressive showing in his bout with Champion Ed Lewis last Friday and the fans want to see what he can do with the old Pole. Joe Parelli and John Kilonis, middleweights, will take holds in the opening bout.

CHILEAN BOXER SIGNS WITH TEX FOR THREE BOUTS

BUENOS AIRES, March 1.—Quintin Romero-Rojas, heavyweight champion of Chile and the challenger of Luis Angel Firpo for the South American title, signed a contract today with a representative of Tex Rickard for three contests leading up to a bout with Jack Dempsey.

Rojas accepted the terms offered by Rickard, which promised him a purse of $100,000 if he survives his test bouts and gets a fight with Dempsey.

Rickard has cabled transportation money to Rojas, his manager, Eschaverria, and a trainer.

They are to leave tomorrow for Santiago, and will sail from Valparaiso on the steamer Teno on March 15, which is due to arrive in New York April 1.

SCOTLAND, 2; IRELAND, 0.

NEW GLASGOW, March 1.—Scotland defeated Ireland by 2 to 0 in their annual international soccer match here this afternoon.

MEMORIAM AND ZEV IN BROOKLYN HANDICAP STAKE

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Entries to the twenty-two stakes to be decided at the Aqueduct race track this summer were closed this week at the office of the Queens County Jockey club in Brooklyn. Total nominations will probably equal last year's record breaking list when entries from the west are recorded.

The Brooklyn handicap is, of course, the outstanding event on the program, and nearly every good three, four, five six and aged thoroughbred is named for the race. The prominent horses entered for the Brooklyn handicap are: Homestretch, In Memoriam, Zev, Mad Hatter, Bud Lerner, Thunderclap, Cherry Pie, holder of America's record for a mile of 1:35 2-5; Sarazen, the undefeated 2 year old of 1923, and which many horsemen claim to be the best horse of the year; Little Chief, Spot Cash, Dunlin, Martingale, Mr. Mutt, Dot, Diogenes, Little Celt, Great Man, Peter King, My Own, King Solomon's Seal, Brainstorm, Wilderness, Tall Timber, How Fair, Dr. Clark, Cherry Tree, Untidy, Rialto, Sun Pal, Vigil, My Play, Prince James, Enchantment, Flagstaff, Chickvale, and Revenge.

The weights will be announced ten days before the race.

Mercersburg Swimmers Win Their 49th Meet

New York, March 1.—Mercersburg academy of Mercersburg, Pa., won its forty-ninth consecutive swimming meet today when it took first place in the annual interscholastic competition in the Columbia university tank with a total of forty-two points. No records were broken.

PURDUE SWEEPS WRESTLING MEET WITH 'Y' COLLEGE

Purdue university wrestlers took four falls and three decisions from the Chicago Y. M. C. A. college team here yesterday to win, 36 to 0. Many of the local grapplers were outweighed by the visitors and were unable to cope with the husky boilermakers. Summaries:

115 pound class—E. Turner, Purdue, threw Sangamon "Y" college. Time, 1:07. 125 pound class—S. Turner, Purdue, won decision from J. Turner, "Y" college. Time advantage, 5:54. 135 pound class—Miller, Purdue, threw Sleming, "Y" college. Time, 4:28. 145 pound class—Koleyke, Purdue, won decision from Hicks, "Y" college. Time advantage, 8:24. 158 pound class—Borden, Purdue, threw Baker, "Y" college. Time, 5:12. 175 pound class—Rasmussen, Purdue, won decision from Russell, "Y" college. Time advantage, 5:16. Heavyweight class—Hawkins, Purdue, threw Myller, "Y" college. Time, 5:45.

ILLINOIS, 9; OHIO, 8

Columbus, O., March 1.—[Special.]—In a thrilling meet in which neither team was ever more than three points ahead, the Illinois matmen conquered Ohio State here this afternoon, 9 to 8. Although the Buckeyes won four of the seven bouts, one of the Illini victories was a fall, which gave the latter the winning markers. Summaries:

115 pounds—Snyder [O.] defeated Tossetti [I.] by decision. 125 pounds—Kinney [I.] threw Wright [O.]. 135 pounds—Johnson [O.] defeated Tutheringer [I.] by decision. 145 pounds—Glasser [O.] defeated Mathis [I.] by decision. 158 pounds—Player [I.] defeated Watkins [O.] by decision. 175 pounds—Laase [I.] defeated Studer [O.] by decision. Heavyweight—Steel [O.] defeated McMillen [I.] by decision. Referee—Trenly [Nebraska].

HAWKS THROW BADGERS

Iowa City, Ia., March 1.—[Special.]—Iowa made another leap toward the wrestling championship here today when the Hawkeye matmen shut out Wisconsin, 23 to 0. Iowa has only next Saturday's meet with Illinois to complete a perfect season. The Hawks had downed Northwestern, Minnesota, Michigan, and Nebraska before today. Summary:

115 pound class: Pfeffer [I.] defeated Hanson [W.], decision; time advantage, 7:40. 125 pound class: Trickey [I.] defeated Benbow [W.], decision; time advantage, 11:45. 135 pound class: O'Brien [I.] defeated Holmes [W.], decision; time advantage, 2:33. 145 pound class: Veltmer [I.] threw Zodtner [W.], 10:27. 158 pound class: Gratton [I.] threw Gregor [W.], 10:33. 175 pound class: James [I.] defeated Plattner [W.], decision; time advantage, 10:10. Heavyweight class: Krasuski [I.] threw Bieberstein [W.], 10:24.

Comish Accepts Darcy as Next Foe for Berlenbach

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Jimmy Darcy, rugged Brooklyn middleweight, has been accepted by the state athletic commission as an opponent for Paul Berlenbach, new knockout artist, in a bout at the Broadway club, Brooklyn, next Monday night. Yesterday the commission rejected Berlenbach's original foe.

NEW WHITE BILL FAILS TO DEAL WITH TAXATION

End to Interference Is Called Main Aim.

BY STEPHEN GILCHRIST.
[Radio Editor.]

Introduction of his revised radio regulation bill by Representative White [Rep., Me.] in the national house Thursday, relieves the listening public of any worry over the report that the bill would provide for taxation of receiving sets.

One point of the measure which probably will meet with no little enthusiasm is the provision that the secretary of commerce be directed to refuse a transmitting license to any person who, in his judgment, was "unlawfully monopolizing or seeking to monopolize radio communication, either through control of the manufacture or sale of radio apparatus through exclusive traffic arrangements, or by other means."

Seeks Orderly System.

The bill, offered as a substitute for the one by Representative White, which was defeated at the last session of congress, was drafted, according to its author, after consultation with various government officials and private individuals interested in radio communication.

The primary purpose of the bill, Mr. White stated in a Washington interview, is to reduce interference to a minimum and to develop an orderly system of communication.

Proposing repeal of the radio control act of 1912, the bill would require that all transmitting stations in the United States be licensed by the commerce department, would provide for allocation of wave lengths, and would authorize the President to close or take over a station in time of war or disaster.

NO UPSETS IN SIGHT

Seeking the ultimate in reception is the favorite indoor sport and occupation of a large portion of the public as well as of the technical world. Step by step various stumbling blocks in the way of better service have been removed, and with each improvement the partly informed students of the game have settled back with the exclamation, "It's only a matter of a little while now when radio reception will be completely revolutionized." As often as that remark has been heard it has been wrong, and it will continue to be wrong probably for a long time to come.

Refinements there will be, improvements are continually cropping up all along the line, but before the system can be changed in the matter of receivers the methods of transmission first will have to be "revolutionized." So much for that. The batteries, the tubes, the circuits, the head phones, the loud speakers, the aerials, the amplifiers (radio or audio) will be along more or less the same lines as hitherto.

Advances Watched Eagerly.

Naturally the interest of the public is turning these days toward receivers and construction receivers which will tend to get them away as much as possible from interferences, which often spoil distant reception and sometimes even local. This takes the form of inquiries as to the super-heterodyne, neutrodyne, improved regenerative, reflex, and radio frequency sets on the part of the uninitiated and renewed studies of these and other circuits on the part of the initiated.

With the end in view of supplying detailed information, based upon tests under actual conditions confronting the person who prefers to assemble "the makings," THE TRIBUNE will keep before the public all really forward steps in radio development.

One step toward improvement has been in the development in Chicago by the Electrical Research Laboratories of what that concern is pleased to call the "Selectoformer," meaning a selective transformer. While this instrument was designed especially for the Erla Reflex, to replace the vario-coupler, it perked along as grid director in a number of other circuits that ordinarily use the vario-coupler.

Its main function seems to be in robbing the aerial of ohms—in other words, cutting down the resistance of the antenna circuit, and consequently making for greater efficiency.

Because of the results of these tests, under conditions that could not possibly be considered anything but trying, THE TRIBUNE today prints detailed descriptions of the Selectoformer, its place in the Erla Reflex (three tube crystal set), with photographs to clarify the schematic diagram, an explanation of its evoluiton and a diagram showing how it may be used as the antenna inductance in other circuits.

U. S. AGRICULTURE RADIO SERVICE TO BE EXTENDED

The department of agriculture's radio broadcasting service this year will reach a still greater proportion of the rural listeners-in through coöperation of about 100 broadcasting stations. These newcomers are in addition to about seventy-five already distributing matter daily on crops, produce, and live stock.

The plan of expansion provides a distribution of information from Washington by mail in the form of weekly reviews on the several commodities. In the past many stations could not coöperate on a daily telegraph schedule, but now they hope to broadcast every day a short review of each specific form of agricultural data received.

Mary and Doug Will Talk Over Radio Next Month

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks have agreed to make their long waited debut from station WJZ, New York, Wednesday evening, March 12, at 8:15 o'clock.

Heretofore the American public has known both Mary and Doug visually only, for in spite of the requests of movie and radio fans both Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks have steadfastly avoided the microphone. At a luncheon tendered Thomas A. Edison in New York recently "Mary and Doug" found WJZ's microphone before them at the speakers' table and had excellent opportunity to see first hand just how simple an operation broadcasting really is.

New Inductance Unit Cuts Down Losses in Antenna Circuit and Sharpens Tuning

Engineers of the Electrical Research Laboratories of Chicago, whose products are known to radioans under the trade name of Erla, are responsible for the claim that a new product of their researches has cut down greatly the losses often incident to the transfer of energy from the antenna circuit to the input circuit of a radio receiving set. Patents for this unit have been applied for under the name of Selectoformer.

This transfer is accomplished in some cases by means of a vario-coupler, in others with honeycomb coils. The latter have had the edge on the variocoupler in the matter of selectivity because of the wider coupling possible between primary and secondary. When the so-called 180 degree coupler came onto the market it was proclaimed as the ideal vario-coupler; and it did have a lot over its closely coupled forbear in the matter of selectivity, but still retained the taps, as a matter of necessity, which made wiring to the average "attic builder," unexpert and time pressed, a formidable undertaking.

Stands Severe Tests.

Tests of the selectoformer have borne out the claims of the Erla engineers that the unit not only cuts down induction losses but turns the reflex set into a receiver that can be calibrated as to wave length. Under adverse conditions—consisting of an aerial of too high fundamental wave length, swung in pitiful isolation above eight hobnobbing brothers elbowing each other on the same apartment house roof, half a block from and parallel to the Lake street elevated power line—an Erla three tube reflex with crystal detectors consistently waded through local, picking up stations as far east as New York City, south to Dallas and Atlanta, and west to Omaha on the loud speaker. With the locals silent on two nights in succession, KHJ at Los Angeles came in with splendid volume and clarity.

Last Monday night found Jefferson City, Fort Worth, Atlanta, Schenectady, WHN at Ridgeland, N. Y., on the loud speaker with volume almost as great as local stations, and these generally were too loud for comfort with the last stage of audio in. This test was dropped in disgust, however, because of some Oak Park squawker who seemed bent on ruining the reception of every one within the range of his radiating single circuit by flitting from one wave length to another. It was too strong a yowling to have been due to joy killers riding in on carrier waves from a distance and invariably had the same characteristic rising note ending in a deep throated ow-oooo.

Aerial Should Be Short.

Hooked into a regenerative set, the Selectoformer bore up as well as a splendid vario-coupler with far greater selectivity.

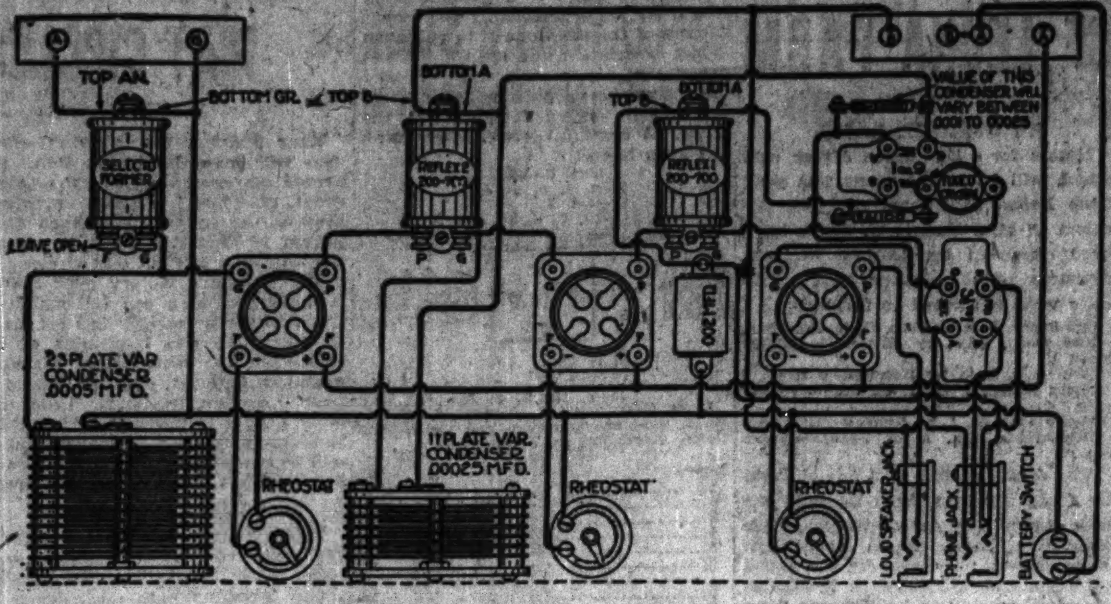
One word of advice in the matter of employing this unit may not be amiss: An antenna, with ground and lead-in, more than 125 feet long, will detract considerably from the selectivity of the Selectoformer, but will not affect calibration of wave lengths on the dial. In the case of an antenna between 125 and 150 an .0005 fixed condenser should be injected in the antenna lead, and .001 for more than 150 feet. The latter was used with 160 feet. However, cutting down of the antenna to even 100 feet will be repaid in less losses, greater selectivity, and greater volume. The ideal seems to be between 100 and 125 feet.

ENGINEER TRACES THEORY

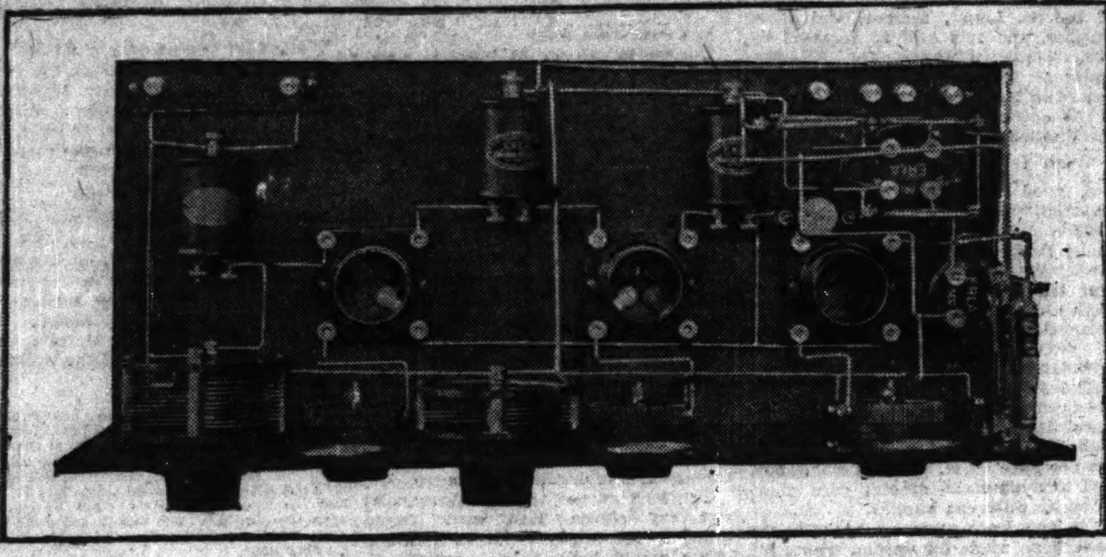
Regarding the Selectoformer theory, the following statement by William J. Schnell, associate engineer of the Electrical Research Laboratories, is of interest:

"Couplers generally are designed so that the primary unit is of such an electrical constant that together with the antenna constant, with which it is employed, the desired frequency band is covered. The primary unit is usually tapped so that variation in the value of the primary circuit can be had to permit of obtaining resonance for any particular incident frequency. Theoretically, it was considered that such a coupling resulted in the maximum of received energy in the antenna system. The secondary circuit was likewise tuned for the same purpose. It was also generally believed that a maximum of energy could be transferred between these two circuits with a minimum of loss.

"Fundamentally, this could be considered as the basis of the laws of transformer action. These conditions do exist at audio frequencies, but it is quite different when this transformer action is observed at radio frequencies. This applies particularly to the coupling of the antenna to the input circuit of radio frequency amplifiers. When used in this manner it is not desirable that the coupling be close, nor that the antenna be adjusted to resonance. Far better results will be obtained if both these fundamentals are actually reversed, i. e., loose coupling and no attempt made to secure resonance in the antenna system. There are good reasons for this somewhat radical departure from generally accepted principles.



Schematic diagram of the Duo-Reflex with Selectoformer replacing the coupler.



Looking down upon the Erla Duo-Reflex, showing the Selectoformer at left, with the new arrangement made possible as a result of room saved over vario-coupler, allowing for better spacing of parts and easier wiring throughout.

[Atwell Photo.]

"When the input circuit is coupled to the antenna system we find an additional resistance, namely, one of energy absorption. When two circuits are connected so that one is transferring energy to the other the primary circuit tends to reabsorb energy from the secondary. This amounts to a reduction of energy received in the secondary circuit and the net result is an apparent increase in the secondary resistance. Further, we find that more nearly the primary circuit approaches resonance with the secondary circuit the greater the retransfer of energy, hence the greater resistance from this effect. This effect is more pronounced the nearer the primary is in resonance with the secondary and the closer the actual coupling between these circuits.

"It at once becomes evident that if we are to cut down the resistance of a secondary circuit we must avoid resonating the antenna to the input circuit and likewise keep the coupling (inductive and capacitive, by the way) between these two circuits at a minimum. It does not follow that we can go to an extreme looseness of coupling, nor be too far off resonance in the antenna system, as this would lead to reduction of energy in the input circuit. However, it has been determined that if a certain near resonant point is reached and likewise a certain looseness of coupling, there will result in a maximum transfer of energy.

"Experimentally this may be determined as follows: Set up a driver circuit (C. W.) arranged so that it can be variably coupled to an absorption circuit. Provide this circuit with a current indicating device so that, as the coupling between these circuits is varied, the reading of the indicator may be plotted against the coefficient of the coupling of the two circuits. As the coupling is reduced the indicator will remain practically constant until a certain point, after which it will show a very rapid increase in value.

"As the coupling is further decreased the indicator will drop rapidly to zero—evidencing that the energy transferred is nil at this point. The point at which the indicator shows the rapid drop should be our most efficient coupling coefficient. This point must mean where our absorbing circuit resistance is low. If used in a receiving circuit this point should give the maximum of signal strength and selectivity.

"These niceties of design, namely, that certain value of near resonance of primary, with looseness of coupling, are the points which have been incorporated in the Selectoformer.

"In perfecting the Selectoformer, the engineering ctaff found that the design required also provided the means for an efficient rejector, or wave trap."

Questions and Answers

This column is maintained to assist readers of The Tribune to solve their radio troubles. Questions should be stated clearly and definite clews to difficulties experienced given. Requests for single circuit tuners and other "squealers" cannot be complied with in the interests of the majority.

G. U., Rock Island, Ill.: 1. I desire to build a two tube (U. V. 199) portable reflex, for small loop aerial. Is Grimes' Inverse Duplex good? 2. What distance can be expected from two tube reflex of that or as good a type? 3. How good is the volume of such a set? 4. Can you send diagram of such a set, or one that will suit my purpose? A.—1. Grimes Inverse Duplex, properly constructed, is splendid set. 2. Depends on conditions, characteristics of tubes, location, etc. Probably 1,000 miles under favorable conditions. 3. That depends also on construction and conditions. 4. Hook-up of Inverse Duplex will be printed in THE TRIBUNE at a later date.

ACCUSES WEAF OF CONTROLLING AIR IN NEW YORK

A. T. & T. Station Under Fire at Hearing.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The American Telephone and Telegraph company's radio broadcasting station WEAF was accused of having taken "complete control of the air" in the metropolitan district by Commissioner of Plants and Structures Grover A. Whelan when he appeared before the board of estimates to hurry construction of the municipal broadcasting station.

Calls Combine a Monoply.

Commissioner Whalen announced he had abandoned the proposed Central park site for the city radio plant and had decided to establish the station atop the Municipal building.

"After an investigation," Mr. Whalen said, "it was found that the Radio Corporation of America, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the General Electric company, the Western Electric company, and the American Telephone and Telegraph company, through their ownership of radio patents, were in control of the radio industry."

Whalen said control was monopolistic in that the manufacture and sale of broadcasting apparatus for commercial work was left to the Western Electric company, which does not manufacture or sell radio receiving apparatus.

Calls It Public Peril.

"This monopoly," he added, "is, in my opinion, dangerous to the public interest and I intend to point out how it has hampered and delayed the city in its acquisition of a broadcasting station.

"As an instance of the complete control of 'the air' that the American Telephone and Telegraph company exercises at the present moment, the experience of the health commissioner may be cited. Mr. Monaghan, before he was permitted to broadcast a health talk through station WEAF was required to state that he was giving the talk under the auspices of the New York Tuberculosis association. If the health commissioner had not agreed to make this preliminary statement he would not have been permitted to broadcast through WEAF."

Seeks to Block Station.

"It is because of conditions in the radio field that I am forced to appear before your honorable board to request the expenditure of this fund without public letting. In so doing I feel that the city's interest will best be protected against those who are seeking, if they have not already obtained, complete control of the air. I believe that the people of the city of New York, with its million radioans, should be acquainted with the commercial aims and monopolistic tendencies of this company, which is attempting to coerce this city, which is endeavoring, by means of the establishment of this broadcasting station, to give a maximum service and a greater happiness to its citizens."

Prince of Wales to Talk Across Atlantic March 18

American radioans, especially those with dynes, supers, and the like, will have their earphones on the job on Monday afternoon, March 18, in an effort to hear the address of the Prince of Wales.

The prince will attempt to bridge the Atlantic by voice over the new London station, which is being hurried to completion. He will begin speaking at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, central standard time, or 8 p. m. London time.

General Electric Station at Denver Is Under Way

The third and last radio broadcast station planned by the General Electric company to blanket the United States is now under course of construction at Denver, Colo. Already WGY (Schenectady) and KGO (Oakland, Cal.) are on the air, doing some pretty considerable spanning themselves, KGO, the newest station, having been heard already in the south Pacific, while WGY has reached Samoa and South Africa.

THEY'LL DO IT NOW AND THEN

It isn't every crystal set that will tune from one station to another without any hangover from any of the detuned and then turn around on a silent night and bring in a 900 mile away station, but they do it once in a while. Mrs. George A. Billingsley, wife of the manager of the Belmont hotel, is shown (standing with her husband) listening in on WBAP, Fort Worth, Tex., with Mrs. Spearman Lewis (seated).

AMATEUR SHOW OPEN TOMORROW IN NEW YORK

Convention, Exhibits on Four Days.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The greatest gathering of radio amateurs in the history of this city will open Monday for the fourth annual convention and radio show, under auspices of the Executive Radio Council, Inc., including the metropolitan district.

The convention and show will be staged at the Pennsylvania hotel, and will continue through Thursday evening.

The first district, which comprises the New England states, and the third and eighth districts, which take in upper New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Washington, D. C., etc., will have delegates present.

Club to Have Booths.

Every one of the affiliated clubs of the Executive Council will have a booth at the show. The membership of most of these clubs include a great many laymen and advanced broadcast listeners.

In conjunction with the convention there will be a radio show, at which more than fifty of the world's best manufacturers will exhibit their latest in the way of apparatus. Many devices will be on view for the first time. A large lecture room has been set aside, and some of the most prominent men in the radio world are scheduled to talk. Speakers will include Maj. Armstrong, Paul Godley, K. B. Warner, secretary of the American Radio Relay league, and Prof. Hazeltine.

Wouff-Hong to Initiate.

The night of March 5 will witness the annual banquet. The first New York initiation of the Royal Order of the Wouff-Hong, a secret amateur radio organization, will be held the night following the banquet.

The radio inspector will be on hand to issue licenses, as in past years. There will be a speed contest as well as a renewal of the popular "jamming" contest. A special card competition will be held.

"HEARS" WITH FINGERS.

Helen Keller, deaf and blind since the age of 19 months, enjoys radio by unscrewing the cap of the phones and lightly touching the diaphragm.

CALCUTTA FAN HEARS KDKA ON FIVE VALVE SET

LONDON, March 1.—[United News.]—Pittsburgh's broadcasting has been heard in Calcutta, India, according to dispatches from that city.

A Calcutta amateur radio fan, understood to have been using a five valve set, picked up Saturday's broadcasting from Pittsburgh for a half hour. British listeners had failed to hear the broadcasting when it was relayed from London, due to atmospheric conditions here.

It is stated that an investigation conducted by the British Broadcasting company proved that the Calcutta fan actually heard the relayed concert.

Shenandoah, Ia., on Air with Strong Station

Shenandoah, Ia., is now listed among the towns and cities of the country clamoring for air room. Station KFNF, conducted by the Henry Field Seed company, operating on 266 meters, claims attention because of the fact that it is another to operate on storage batteries alone. Reports on test programs indicate that KFNF will cover the whole country under fair conditions and that it is exceptionally clear.

Daily noonday concerts are being given from 12:30 to 12:55 (central standard time), with general concerts on Wednesday and Saturday, from 7:30 to 9 p. m. On Sundays there is a sacred song service from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m.

According to the station announcement, the programs will be extended later.

Government Calls for Radio Engineers

The United States civil service commission has broadcast a call for radio engineers in the Army signal corps service. The government needs one radio engineer, and will pay a salary of between $4,000 and $5,000; an associate engineer, at between $3,000 and $4,000, and an assistant engineer at between $2,000 and $3,000 a year. These civilian engineers are required for signal service work at the McCook air service field, Dayton, O., and Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., the Army signal school.

PROTESTANTISM URGED TO BUILD BROADCAST CHAIN

Advocates Opposed to Sectarian Stations.

All Protestant churches may join in development of a chain of broadcasting stations.

While the movement is said still to be in "a discussive state," several prominent religious publications have been treating the subject seriously. A recent editorial in the Northwestern Christian Advocate, official paper of the Methodist Episcopal church, dealing with "The Church's Use of Radio," holds broadcasting to be too powerful an agency for church work to be ignored and urges early action.

Quotes Page Editorial.

Quotations are made from a recent page editorial on the subject by the Western Christian Advocate, another Methodist Episcopal publication. This said in part:

"Even though the radio carries the human voice across the continent and conversation is indulged with foreign countries, the invention is in its infancy. That the church should resort to it as an agency in the spread of truth, is apparent to all forwardlooking people.

"We doubt that any one denomination, however strong, should undertake so important a move until it is evident the remaining denominations in the council are disinclined. In that event, Methodism, or any other church body so disposed, could broadcast its message to the uttermost parts of the country.

Opposes Sectarian Action.

"The propriety and wisdom of putting the matter first up to the organization representing Protestantism is revealed in the fact that members of all churches and adherents of none are 'listeners in.' Now, however broad one's message may be and utterly devoid of denominational bias, the very fact that some particular denomination sponsors the message would tend to weaken the force of the appeal, when the identical message broadcast under the auspices of pan-Protestantism would be listened to with equal cordiality by all churchmen. The churches cannot apply themselves to this marvelous publicity agent too quickly, and if Protestantism, as represented by the federal council, does not see its way to assume the responsibility of establishing broadcasting stations, then let our church bend itself to the task."

Canada's Highest Power Radio Station Is Opened

Station CKCH of the Canadian National railway, Ottawa, Ont., was put in service Wednesday night with a varied program, which was heard by thousands of enthusiasts in Ottawa, Montreal, and other Canadian cities. It is the largest and most powerful radio plant in Canada. It was opened by Sir Henry Thornton, K. B. E., who afterward addressed employés of the railways and the general public. At the same time station CKCH was "tied in" with station CHYC at Montreal, and the program was broadcast simultaneously from both cities. CKCH broadcasts on 435 meters, CHYC on 341.

College to Broadcast House and Grounds Hints

State College, Pa., March 1.—A "House and Grounds" series of radio talks has been arranged for station WPAB, Pennsylvania State college. Members of the architectural engineering and the landscape architectural departments will tell of interior and exterior improvements for the new and old homes. The talks will be given each Friday evening at 7 (central standard time) for the next four weeks.

TRIBUNE'S RADIO PROGRAMS FOR WEEK

TOWN ORGANIZES TO TRACE SOURCE OF INTERFERENCE

All Laporte Suffers from It Nightly.

One hundred Laporte, Ind., radio fans attended organization of the "Listeners' league" at the Y. M. C. A., last Thursday evening. Permanent officers were elected, and a constitution and by-laws adopted.

Two groups of "listeners" were decided on. One, the senior, to be composed of all over 15 years, with annual dues of $2.00. The junior section is for members under 15, and carries dues of 50 cents.

John B. Dilworth, county prosecutor, and local leader in radio circles, was elected president; Frank Way, vice president, and Dr. F. W. Dra Goo, secretary-treasurer. Permanent committees will be named at a meeting on March 4, at the "Y" at 7:30 p. m.

Immediate action will be taken to trace and eliminate interference. Peculiar conditions in that locality have ruined nightly radio programs consistently, and despite the campaign of city officials to run down the nuisance some weeks ago, little success met their efforts.

Many believe the source of trouble to be a leaky power line.

Farmers Enjoy Penna. College Radio Programs

State College, Pa., March 1.—That agriculture has a firm place on the program of the radio fan is evidenced by scores of letters which have been received commending the "farm and garden" program broadcast every Monday night at 7 [central standard time], from station WPAB at the Pennsylvania State college.

Responses have come from practically every state east of the Rocky mountains and from Canada. The "farm and garden" programs are given every Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

WAAM Adds 5 Musicians to Broadcast Orchestra

Pleased fans have commended the action of WAAM, Newark, N. J., in increasing their orchestra by five instruments in an effort to better the quality of programs transmitted.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT.

Henry Slaughter, 16 year old, 1204 N street, northwest, Washington, D. C., the radio center of "bug" receivers, has built a crystal set inside an ordinary thimble. It cost 20 cents, he reports.

ECHOES OF THE HEAD PHONES

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

A week minus the spectacular, but of such tenor and quality as to arouse speculation on the possibility of future programs of even greater worth and significance. We are never satisfied. A glance at certain "outside Chicago" programs will explain one of the reasons for this. St. Louis has its Symphony orchestra concerts; New York City has its chamber music recitals.

Why cannot Chicago have these likewise? The Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts are second to none in the country; yet they are held within sealed doors, so to speak. They might be feeding millions of eager ears and receptive minds in this middle west, and nurturing among them a love so strong for this higher class of music that a new and vastly larger Orchestra hall would be required to satisfy the ticket requirements of the radio listener graduates of the near future. The most of us inherited the opera with our receiving set, and I am sure that both we and the opera company are going to profit thereby.

While yet dwelling in this Elysian field above the clouds we might as well rest for another moment under a tree upon which hangs a choice plum which, if I mistake not, may be had for the asking. I am referring to the classical program given by WDAP at 9:15 Sunday evenings. This concert is a close approach to pure chamber music, of which there is no finer in the entire field of musical literature. Those who heard the Tschaikowsky number toward the close of the program last Sunday will know what I mean. Is it asking too much that this be turned into a purely chamber music recital?

If by some superhuman effort I could unloose the combination that would give the radio listeners one or both of these concerts—that is, if they are really wanted—I would consider my life far from having been in vain.

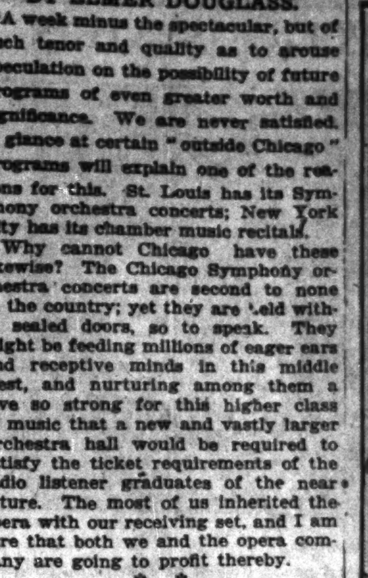
Monday evening at 8:30 I "tuned up" on Zion City—a fine program of southern plantation melodies. Had a terrible time during the next hour; couldn't settle down on anything. Here and there caught snatches of talks, jazz, solos, code, interference whistles, and what not. At 9, WOS, Jefferson City, came through with a good cornet solo. A few minutes later found WHAZ, Troy, praising the wonders of the Adirondacks as a winter resort.

At 9:25 picked up the Glee Club Male quartet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, WEAF, New York City. This was good, and I returned to them frequently.

Turning to KSD, St. Louis, at 9:30, heard Senator James A. Reed [Mo.] delivering a high sounding political speech. He must have been saying things, considering the applause.

Again at WOS, Jefferson City, heard the latter portion of an old time program, and signing off "in the dome of the Capitol building, Jefferson City, Mo., at 9:55½ p. m."

Stayed with WBAP, Fort Worth, several minutes listening to Clyde Whitlock's violin ensemble. I agreed with a telegram from T. Crawford of Chicago, saying, "Many thanks; program beautiful."



"Good morning, girls and boys!" You know that, don't you? All about cakes and pies, stews and fries. Well, this is the speaker—Mrs. Anna J. Peterson, conductor of KYW's daily table talk.

And then that musical, rhythmical, inimitable voice of the south: "W-S-B, the At-lan-ta Juh-nul, At-lan-ta, Jaw-jah." If you haven't heard that announcer's voice—half talk, half song—you have missed half your life. And those theatrical property hands down there can sure sing and play the guitar.

After hearing WOC sign off, "Where the West Begins," returned to Troy in time to hear WHAZ sign off in Chinese: "War-Mein, Egg Foyoung, Boowlaw, Hongkong Tea"—which was some lunch!

The weekly farm bureau talks from KYW on Tuesdays are interesting to me in a complex way. I never listen to them in full, and I never pass them up entirely. One senses in a singularly subtle manner the influence that this new instrumentality has in binding country to city, and city to country. My early days were spent on the farm; so as I listen I picture a scene in some far away country home—sitting room, wood stove, easy chair, radio set—and the farmer and the farmer's son "listening in" the same as I am doing.

Wonder if you enjoyed hearing Mrs. Ruby Evans Parrett from WMAQ on the Lyon & Healy program Tuesday evening as much as I did? I don't recall ever hearing a singer who so thoroughly put her soul into the voice and into the air as she did.

How would you like to hear this for the first time: "Pacific coast station KGO, Oakland, Cal.; ten minutes intermission, after which Halsted's orchestra will continue their dance program from the garden room of the St. Francis hotel"? Small things make some big boys very happy. This was at 1:49 Tuesday morning, and it was the first time I had heard KGO.

Why can't one of the west coast stations let us hear the ocean's roar? Maybe that might be worked into an idea!

A minute later: "WJAX, WJAX, Cleveland, broadcasting a test program from our new studio on the twentieth floor of the Union Trust company." WJAX, your regeneration test No. 12 came in here like the "coo, coo, coo, coo," of a turtle dove.

And this at 2:01 a. m.: "WKJYAWX"—can you figure that out? Well, I always went home when I began seeing things double.

The program by the Bethany male quartet and ladies' quartet Wednesday evening developed unconsciously into a comparative contest between the two voices. In this instance, being blindfolded, I chose the male quartet.

I wish I could discuss some of these things with other listeners before putting them into print. I should like to have known what other listeners thought of the two-piano recital by Marion Carter and Evelyn Mays on the Gunn School of Music program at WMAQ Wednesday evening. One of the numbers, a Koncertstuck by Chaminade, was an undertaking of no little difficulty and required fifteen minutes for its performance. Two-piano selections are not easy to handle via the microphone route, but I for one thoroughly enjoyed this program.

At 10 o'clock that evening we had the choice of three programs—the usual one at WDAP, a midnight revue at KYW, and a Scottish program at WJAZ. No, I am not, but I turned to WJAZ anyhow.

There it goes; was expecting it sooner or later: "You can take me from Dixie, but you can't take Dixie from me"—Clyde Doerr's orchestra, Congress hotel, KYW, 11:10 p. m. "You can take me from Dixie"—Jack Chapman's orchestra, Drake hotel, WDAP, 11:18 p. m. "——Dixie, but you can't take Dixie"—sung by Jimmie Eggert, WDAP, 11:23 p. m. "——but you can't take Dixie from me"—sung by the Melodians, accompanied on the ukulele, KYW, 11:26 p. m.. Somebody ought to pay for this! Anyhow, I slipped on the old woolen overcoat and went to lunch.

At 2 a. m. found WJAZ, the Edgewater Beach station, still talking to Capt. MacMillan, and KYW having a fine old time. Well, doggone it, if they won't sign off I will.

Educators Approve Safety Lessons in Chicago Schools

Kansas City Kids Work Out a Plan to Save Small Lives.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

SINISTER records of the Cook county coroner's office, strangely enough, furnished the biggest degree of encouragement last week for officials of the National Education association, who are directly interested with the national safety campaign among school children.

School superintendents, meeting in Chicago, discovered that the systematic safety education which has been developed in city schools through the coöperation of the national safety council, school teachers, civic bodies, and the board of education, served last year to reduce materially the traffic deaths and accidents among children, and proved conclusively that the safety lessons are safeguarding Chicago's citizens to a greater degree than its adult population.

In going over an accident report submitted by the Chicago Motor club the educators learned that 225 children of school age were killed in city streets during 1923—a marked reduction from the death list of the year before. Of this total, 68 per cent of the little victims were between the ages of 3 and 8. At the age of 5, the report pointed out, children face the worst danger. They are then starting to kindergarten, with nothing but home instruction to guide them through traffic perils. A total of thirty-five 5 year olds met death under automobile wheels during the year. At 6, the public school age, the accidents increase, showing, according to the educators, that kindergarten safety instruction should be systematized. At 7, after the first public school year, when safety lessons are driven home to children in every possible way, the accidents show a marked decrease, and at 10 they drop to a minimum.

The educators indorsed this safety educational work in all schools and, at the suggestion of Albert W. Whitney, secretary of the educational section of the national safety council, approved a plan to establish safety demonstration centers in various districts to supplement the present teaching methods, and further reduce the 20,000 annual deaths among American school children.

The first of these demonstration centers will be established in one of the Evanston schools, it was reported yesterday. Its object will be to show visiting teachers how safety can be taught in the schools without adding a new subject to a curriculum already filled to overflowing. The plan brings safety propaganda into English classes through essays written about traffic accidents; into reading classes by the reading of accident stories in newspapers; into writing lessons by the use of safety slogans, and so on through the school routine. Safety games, drills, and plays are added where the teaching schedules allow.

Another interesting sidelight on the development of caution among school children was brought to the educators from Kansas City, where "junior safety councils" have been established by the children themselves in seventy-four public schools. These organizations are businesslike bodies formed to "make it tough for kids who won't be careful." They include regularly elected officers and vigilance committees and hold meetings once a week when safety business is solemnly done by the small protectors of their kind.

At the meetings talks are made by older members and violators of the school rules are reported one by one. If a boy has refused to obey the order of one of the little traffic officers elected to protect the children on their way to and from school, he is reported and tried for the offense; if a little girl has been seen playing in the street she becomes a defendant; playing with fire, crossing the street in the middle of the block, hitching on automobiles, "flipping" trucks and like offenses come up in their order and the small tribunals decide what punishment shall be meted out to the offenders. Some are deprived of playground privileges for the week. Others are forbidden to attend school picture shows. All penalties must be approved by a unanimous vote and are backed up by the school faculty.

Properly regulated these kid organizations save scores of little lives annually, according to Kansas City teachers, who have recommended adoption of the plan in all public schools.

IMPROMPTU POLICE STATION

[Buick Photo.]

Smoking ruins marked the central police station of Yokohama following the Japanese earthquake, but this American recruit of the department weathered the storm and was pressed into service as headquarters in the wild days after the disaster. One side of the car's body was demolished and the door torn off, but the motor withstood the shock. The car is standing in front of the ruins of the Gaiety theater. The chief of Yokohama police is busy at his desk inside of the car.

Northern Pavement Saves State $1,000 in Maintenance Cost

MINNESOTA'S most traveled trunk highways last year ran up road costs of $1,678 a mile on paved and $2,101 a mile on graveled sections.

At the recent Minneapolis meeting of the Minnesota Surveyors and Engineers' society, at which the official figures were made public, the organization unanimously indorsed the proposed constitutional amendment for a gasoline tax to speed needed highway improvements.

Minnesota's most traveled highway, the official report showed, is a paved section of route 3 north of Minneapolis through Robbinsdale, a thirteen and one-half mile stretch that carried nearly 1,400,000 vehicle loads weighing 1,800,000 gross tons last year. The average mile cost of $1,678 for this road in 1923 was made up of $162 for maintenance and $1,296 for interest and a $220 amortization item on the money invested in it.

The heaviest traffic graveled road was shown to be the twelve and one-half mile section of T. H. No. 1 running north from St. Paul through Hugo and Wyoming. It carried about 617,000 vehicle loads of 872,300 gross tons last year, or less than half the volume on the Robbinsdale pavement. The year cost a mile was $2,101, or almost twice that on the pavement—maintenance taking $2,745 a mile, interest $296, and amortization $60.

Because he had parked his car too long in a restricted zone Judge E. W. Carroll of Watertown, N. J., fined himself $1. Judge Carroll [illegible] [illegible] before himself of violating a city traffic ordinance and then read himself a lecture on law obedience.

Think of owning a Car with a body finish like this!

For the first time in motor car history—Oakland has successfully combined beauty and permanence in an automobile body finish. This extraordinary achievement is made possible by adapting and perfecting the application of an entirely new substance—Duco, the remarkable qualities of which provide—

A finish in a beautiful Oakland Blue, distinctive and striking;

A finish which, though covered with mud, can quickly be restored to its original beauty, without scratching, by wiping with a dry cloth. Frequent rubbings actually improve its appearance;

A finish impervious to all weather, to sun and wind, rain and snow, salt air and alkaline conditions;

A finish so resistant to harm that sulphuric acid and the chemicals of fire extinguishers have been sprayed upon it, then wiped off, leaving no marring trace;

A finish so enduring that it will retain its original beauty and lustre indefinitely without checking or dulling.

Goodyear makes both kinds of BALLOON TIRES for New Wheels—for Wheels now on your Car

You can settle the balloon tire question to suit your own needs and purse.

If you are buying a new car—or equipping your present car with small diameter wheels in order to provide sufficient fender clearance—you can get Goodyear Balloon Tires in 20-, 21- and 22-inch rim sizes.

If, as is true in most cases, your present car provides sufficient clearance to permit the using of balloon tires, you can get Goodyear Balloon Tires in the right sizes to fit your present wheels.

Goodyear makes both kinds of Balloon Tires.

In thus providing for every motoring need, Goodyear does so in accord with its time-honored policy of shouldering the cost of new and important tire developments.

Goodyear has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to develop, test and perfect Balloon Tires—

To equip the Goodyear factories with production facilities that make possible Goodyear Balloon Tires of both types and of all sizes—

To stock Goodyear dealers everywhere with Goodyear Balloon Tires for your car.

What is the result of this Goodyear provision? In the majority of cases the car owner can get Goodyear Balloon Tires that fit his present wheels, and is thus relieved of the personal expense of new wheel and rim changes—and of discarding wheels and present tires that may still have good values in them.

So the thing for every motorist to keep in mind is that Goodyear offers Balloon Tires of both kinds—for new wheel equipment and for present wheels.

Consult your wishes or your purse, you can have Goodyear Balloon Tires in either case.

Whichever kind of Goodyear Balloon Tire you buy, you will find it genuinely Goodyear in quality, Goodyear in workmanship, construction and design, and offering more mileage at low tire cost.

This is another case where faith in Goodyear will save you money and risk.

Complete information on Goodyear Balloon Tires is now available in convenient form; simply mail the coupon and an authoritative booklet will be sent you free.

Advancing Prices Act as Stimulant on Motor Sales

Manufacturers Meet Big Demand with Full Equipment.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—[Special.]—The fact that rising prices on many of the well known automobiles have already been announced, and indications point strongly that others will soon be announced, has not reduced sales, according to motor builders. The increases have rather provided a keen stimulus, and February's business will show a healthy increase over sales during the corresponding month of 1923. No complaints have been heard from automobile row.

During the last few weeks no less than seven manufacturers have increased the prices of their various models, and indications are that within the very near future others will follow.

Upward price tendencies of six cylinder cars in the $1,000 field indicates a shortage of this class because of a heavy spring demand. Three producers in the $1,000 field have been forced to increase their prices—a strong indication of the present tendency upward. But few, if indeed any, manufacturers are ready to guarantee that an increase is not being considered.

The present day policy of selling a car fully equipped is one of the principal reasons given for price revisions upward. Manufacturers are of the opinion that it is better policy to send out a car with all the necessary accessories. The policy of a few years ago, to strip a car of everything and decorate it with a low price tag, leaving the purchaser to decorate his automobile as he saw fit, is fast being discontinued. The up to date car is now equipped with not only all the necessaries, but the luxuries as well—the result, no doubt, of small profits and keen competition.

The rising cost of labor is also considered. Balloon tires and four wheel brake equipment add to the increased cost of cars, as well as the trend toward closed vehicles.

BLACK IS FAVORITE COLOR.

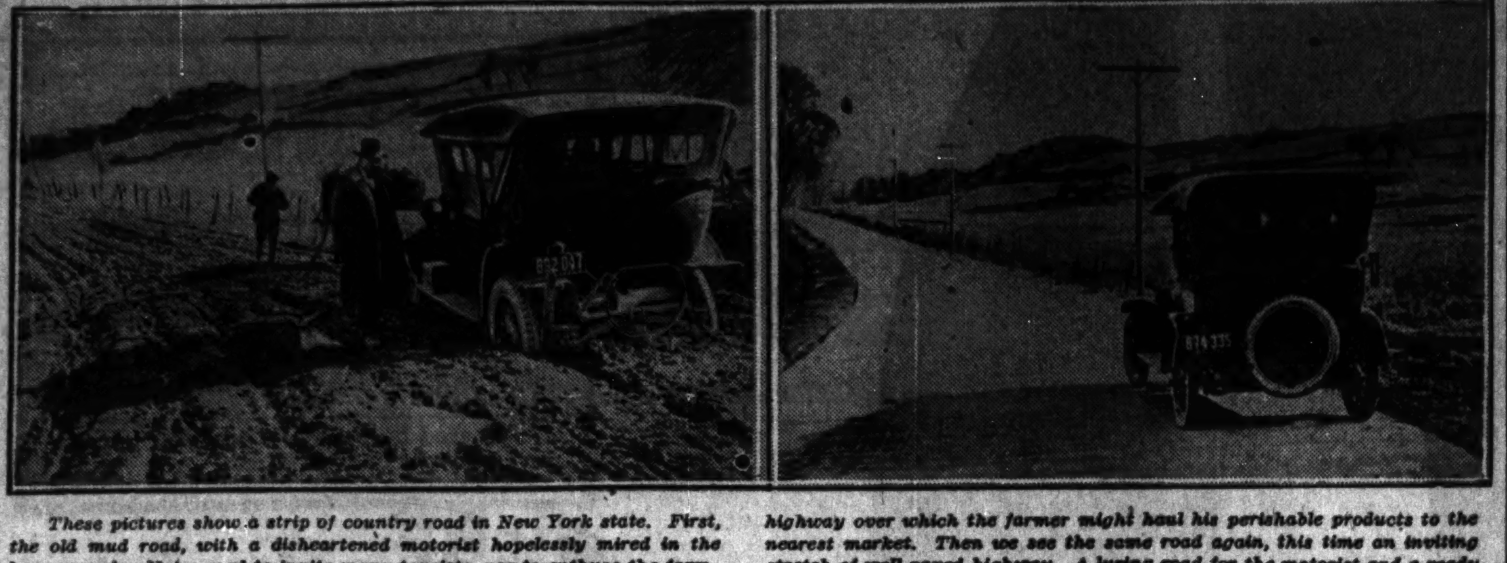
The prevailing colors for the 1924 license tags in the states are black or blue plates with white numerals. Sixteen states use these color combinations.

Invented License Plates

Early motorists remember the day when no number plates were issued them when they secured their licenses. A number was assigned and the owner painted it on the back of his horseless carriage.

The park commissioner of Philadelphia is credited with the origination of license tags, which had to be carried by all cars entering Fairmount park, and were issued by the park commission.

BEFORE AND AFTER—A GOOD ROADS LESSON



These pictures show a strip of country road in New York state. First, the old mud road, with a disheartened motorist hopelessly mired in the heavy muck. Not a road to invite many tourists, nor to enthuse the farmers of the vicinity over the joys of automobiling. Nor yet was it a likely highway over which the farmer might haul his perishable products to the nearest market. Then we see the same road again, this time an inviting stretch of well paved highway. A luring road for the motorist and a ready route to market for the farmer.

Concrete Ribbon from Chicago to Straits in 1925

MUSKEGON, Mich.—A dustless road now leads into the heart of the nation's playground.

Starting at Chicago, an unbroken ribbon of pavement extends around the southern shore of Lake Michigan and north through the west Michigan fruit belt country as far as Hart, county seat of Oceana county.

The road is the historic West Michigan pike (M-11), tourist gateway into Michigan, and it is an all cement and macadam highway for approximately 250 miles, thus fulfilling in part the dream of road builders throughout the central states, who long have visioned a hard surface thoroughfare around the great lakes. The last gaps in the Chicago-Hart route were closed recently.

Inspired by the same motives that prompted those of other generations to extend the railroads into far distant places, and thus carve an empire out of the wilderness, the road builders of Michigan are laying plans to push the concrete on to the Straits of Mackinac. The state government has adopted a two year program that calls for paving of the road as far north as Traverse City by the end of 1924, and as quickly as possible to carry the work forward until the pike is dustless over its entire length from Chicago to the straits.

The road over which an automobile may travel for about 250 miles without crunching gravel winds through as picturesque a country as can be found on the North American continent. Leaving the Indiana dunes country, the highway enters the famous Michigan fruit belt and cuts northward through St. Joseph, heart of the vineyard district; through South Haven, one of the state's leading summer resorts; to Holland and into Muskegon, largest and most important city on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, and thus northward to Hart. About ten miles of the pike is paved north of Hart, and the remainder of the route to the straits is built of exceptionally good gravel. The replacing of all gravel sections with pavement, however, is the task that Michigan highway engineers have set themselves.

The state of Michigan recently acquired nearly 1,000 acres of sand dune land near Muskegon and has converted it into a state park. The distance from Chicago to Mackinac City is 472 miles.

REAL FANS.

Coal miners employed by Colorado Fuel and Iron company collectively own $1,000,000 worth of automobiles which amount to 1,200 in number. This accounts in part for mounting registration car figures in that section.

Street Accidents Take $4,000,000 in 1923 Death Tolls

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The economic loss from motor vehicle accidents in the city of Los Angeles during 1923 was nearly $4,000,000, according to figures just compiled by the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. This estimate is based on the tables of the National Safety council which fixes the average economic value of males each year at from $350 to $750 and females from $150 to $300.

Motor vehicles were responsible for 43 per cent of the 486 accidental fatalities and 10 per cent of the 60,750 nonfatal, but more or less disabling injuries.

The economic loss from total fatalities was $5,421,100. The auto's part in this loss was $2,313,073 with 219 deaths.

The total economic loss from all nonfatal accidents was $16,263,300, of which 10 per cent is charged against motor vehicles. The total economic loss to Los Angeles in 1923 from accidents, most of which were preventable was $21,684,400.

The club calls attention to the fact that while these figures are large, they do not take into consideration the automobiles smashed, machinery broken doctor's bills, medicines and a myriad of other expenses brought on by accidents. Neither is the human suffering entailed taken into account.

In an effort to reduce this ghastly annual toll, the club is carrying its safety work into the public schools and among the Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts.

CARPENTIER TO BE RACER.

Georges Carpentier, the one time pugilistic idol of France, who lost his light heavyweight title to Battling Siki, is to become an auto race driver. He will compete on the Lyons track next spring.

The New ESSEX

A SIX—Built by Hudson

The Coach $975

Touring Model - $850

Freight and Tax Extra

We Ask This Simple Test

It is an easy way to tell if the new Essex Coach gives greater value than was ever provided at this price.

Take a ride. It has answered the question for thousands. Priced $170 lower, the new Essex Coach provides a larger, handsomer body, with even greater passenger comfort than the former Coach.

And its 6-cylinder motor, built by Hudson, gives the smoothness of performance for which the Super-Six is famous.

Has Qualities of Both Hudson and the former Essex

Steering is as easy as guiding a bicycle. Its motor flexibility makes gear shifting almost unnecessary, except in starting. Note how comfortably and safely it holds even the roughest roads at all speeds.

Gasoline, oil and tire mileage are exceptional. A further satisfaction is the low cost at which all replacement parts are sold.

A ride will give you a conviction of goodness and quality, such as you never expected in a car of its price.

Car Owners Seen as Best Check on Rising Gas Price

Association Urges Economy in Use of Fuel as Regulator.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Denouncing radical plans for the prevention of gasoline price increases as uneconomic, and deploring the apathy of the public toward the rebound in gasoline prices, the National Motorists' association, through its headquarters here, has taken the stand that the motorist can offset the effect of rising prices, or even prevent them, if he really wants to.

He can do this by means of thrift in the use of gasoline, according to a conclusion reached by the N. M. A. committee on gasoline.

Thrift has been completely ignored by the motorist during the last few months of low gas prices, according to Fred H. Caley, executive secretary. As soon as prices started going down, the motorist began to get careless with fuel, he says, wasting it unnecessarily and paving the way for the increases that have just been announced.

"Just how far the present rise in gas prices will extend," says Caley, "depends largely upon how much longer the motorist ignores the fact that the price of gas is dependent upon the demand for it. If the motorist, through economical use of gas, will lend every effort toward maintaining the large surplus stock of fuel in the hands of the refiners, the price of gas can be kept within bounds."

The report issued by the N. M. A. gasoline committee takes particular exception to the plan of using state funds to undersell the refiners, as is the case in South Dakota, denouncing this plan as not merely economic folly but a gross inconvenience to the motoring public.

"The price tag on the gallon of gas has never represented what the motorist has actually had to pay for gasoline," it declares. "In the South Dakota plan, the motorist has been buying state gas at the cost of the posted price plus his share of the loss of revenue on state funds thus diverted, plus the inconvenience of having to go out of his way to find a state pump. The sum of this invariably equals the price of gas at the stations of the refiners and gas venders.

"Hippodromic plans for endeavoring to upset the law of supply and demand and force the refiners to lower prices cannot be expected to benefit the motorist. As a matter of fact, they tend to blind him to the fact that it's the use he obtains from a gallon of gas that represents its cost to him, not the price per gallon.

"Many car owners are just discovering how much gas they have been wasting. By cutting out this waste they will find that the real cost of gasoline is not going to be so dependent upon price. They are also scheduled to discover that in saving gas they will help to maintain a large surplus in the hands of the refiners, which means doing a share toward cutting the demand for gas occasioned by wastage.

"If all the motorists would follow this example the association believes that gas prices would soon start dropping again. It was inevitable, at any rate, that the waste of gasoline this winter should reduce gas stocks and send the prices upward again, especially when production was in process of curtailment.

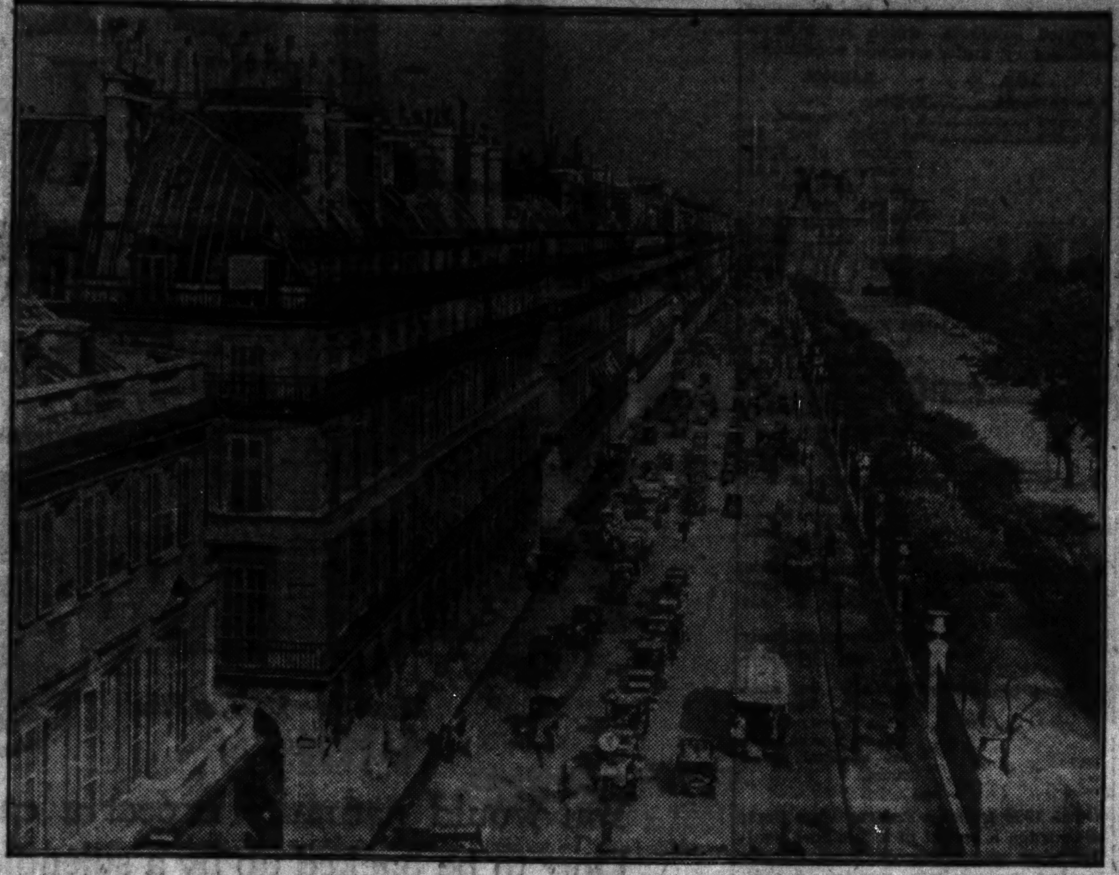
"Demand for gas is almost 25 per cent greater this year than last, owing to the great increase in cars and the more use to which they are put. But the increase in oil production over last year would still have put the refiners in a position where they would be forced to sell at a sacrifice had motorists not taken the short era of low prices as a tip to general wastefulness. The only way out of it for the motorist, therefore, is through thrift. It may be too late for car owners to enjoy the benefits just now fading from the automotive picture, but through thrift they can ward off the possibility of a sharp upward trend of prices."

HIS WIFE'S MORTIFICATION.

First He: "What did your wife say when she read that you were pinched for speeding at fifty miles an hour?"

Second Ditto: "O, she had a fit! She's been telling everybody I could do seventy-five!"

THE STREET OF FINE RAIMENT



[Ewing Galloway Photo.]

Here, according to traffic observers, is one of the most orderly thoroughfares of Paris. The picture, another of the group showing traffic conditions in the world's capitals, shows the Rue de Rivoli, the exclusive shopping center of the French capital. Its shops and department stores, whose buildings extend over the sidewalk, are best known to the wealthy folk from all parts of the world who buy their fine feathers where the styles originate. Here the hectic traffic rush is smoothed down somewhat and it is possible for the pedestrian to cross the pavement.

Perfect Eyes and Judgment Demand of This Auto Test

WHEN you attempt to pass a car on the highway, if another auto is bearing down on you from the opposite direction, can you judge the distance between the cars accurately?

Most drivers would answer in the affirmative, but the officials of the state of Delaware are taking no chances. They test the applicant for a driver's license and make him prove his ability.

In confirmation with the recent license law passed by the Delaware legislature, all paid drivers of that state are required to pass an examination for an operator's license. A distinct feature of this examination is the test of an applicant's ability to judge distance between objects. This test is given by means of a depth perception device which has been used by the government in testing applicants for the air service. It consists of a black, boxlike structure having an opening in front, a small fixed post, a movable post, and a white screen at the back of the aparatus.

An applicant is seated twenty feet in front of this aparatus and has placed in his hands two cords with which he can move the movable post. He is told to adjust the post by means of the cords until the two posts appear equally distant from him. A millimeter scale at the base of the fixed post provides a means of measuring the amount of error. An average error of thirty-five millimeters is permitted.

According to Secretary of State A. R. Benson, more than 2,500 professional drivers took the test and in practically every case where an applicant had difficulty it was found he had defective vision in one or both eyes. Some were given two or three examinations before they were able to pass, and many had to be fitted with eyeglasses.

In addition to the depth perception test, drivers were given a vision test, were quizzed orally as to their knowledge of state motor vehicle laws and the operation of a motor vehicle, and were given a practical road test.

Delaware authorities are not yet satisfied, however, and are still working on a practical test of mental capacity.

MOTOR TRUCK POPULARITY.

There were 748,005 miles of railroad in the world in 1920. Comparing this with highway motor vehicle facilities, some idea accounting for the motor truck's popularity may be gained.—Automobile Digest.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," The Tribune, Chicago. For today's question E. Ross, box 764 Elmhurst, Ill., was awarded $5.

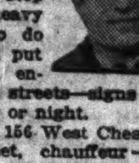
The Question.

If you were chief of police, what would you do to stop the "Hands of Death" clock?

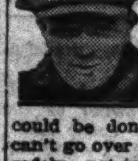
Where Asked.

Michigan avenue bridge.

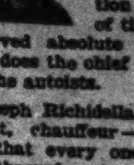
The Answers.



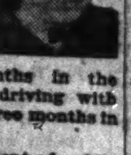
John J. Padulo, 5326 West Ohio street, salesman—Why, I'd enforce the speed laws, for one thing. I'd see that autoists adhere to all the stop signs, putting a heavy fine on those who do not. They should put up more signs at entrances to through streets—signs that would be seen, day or night.



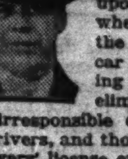
Floyd Dunavant, 156 West Chestnut street, chauffeur—No driver should be allowed with four passengers in the front seat. A driver isn't a honeycomb. I've seen that lots of times, and nobody in the back seat. I don't know what could be done with them. And you can't go over twenty-five miles an hour safely—not in Chicago.



J. G. Weiskoff, 19 East Jackson boulevard, salesman—Gosh, I don't know. While riding with a friend this morning he said, "I'm not going to hurry, because just half a minute in caution may save me a lot of time." If every one observed absolute caution like that man does the chief of police could forget the autoists.



Joseph Richidella, 313 East Huron street, chauffeur—I'd see that every one is put through a test before being given a license. They'd have to take an oath to observe through street stop signs. And fellows caught intoxicated would be given six months in the Bridewell; those caught driving with one arm around a girl, three months in the Bridewell.



A. R. Page, superintendent of public schools, Whitewater, Wis.—Since auto accidents depend largely upon the person at the wheel, provided that the mechanism of the car is in proper working order, I would eliminate the incapable, irresponsible drivers—the youthful drivers, and those who cannot pass a drivers' license examination.

On to Japan

A period of active Japanese demand for passenger cars in the Kobe-Osaka district is expected, according to Assistant Trade Commissioner Steintorf. At present many orders for both truck and passenger cars are being filled, but when the demand slackens, it is thought that only passenger cars will be the object of extensive buying.

Citizen Patrol Helps Louisville Curb Its Speeders

A VIGILANTE traffic squad of 300 business men supplements the uniformed traffic force in curbing carelessness by motorists in Louisville, Ky.

The organization of this body of citizens was one of the first steps taken in Louisville to do away with the large number of avoidable accidents occurring on the public streets. The civilian squad has been of great practical value in bringing about recognition of the necessity for safety on Louisville streets, according to police reports.

As many as 165 reports of traffic ordinance violations and reckless driving have been sent into police headquarters by the citizens' traffic patrol in one day. Each report is analyzed and a letter sent to the offender over the signature of Chief Morris Braden. If the offense is minor in nature, the recipient is merely requested to acknowledge receipt of the letter. Attention is also called to the fact that the misdemeanor charge against the individual will remain on file at police headquarters for future use in case he is again found guilty of any violation of the traffic regulations.

But if the violation is more serious the offender is directed to appear in person "without delay" at the city hall police office. There he spends a most uncomfortable half-hour on the receiving end of an oral safety lesson delivered with force and vigor by a police captain. But all do not get off with only a lecture. The gravely serious offenders are taken into court and in some cases receive jail sentences.

Traffic fatalities showed no increase in Louisville last year, despite a substantial widening of the corporate limits to include several suburbs and an increase of 8,000 motor vehicles using the streets. An outstanding feature of the public safety movement in Louisville is the support given it by the city at large.

Buick Character Makes Buick Value

Buick value is something more than appears on the surface. It is more than the excellence and beauty of Buick design—more than the greater riding comfort, power and safety that Buick provides. Buick's value comes from the sum total of all those Buick qualities and traditions which together make up Buick character. A Buick owner fully appreciates Buick character. He knows the dependable, satisfying and trouble-free transportation which Buick gives, however long or however far a Buick owner may elect to drive his car.

for a car, without knowing what the leader offers in the fine-car field

WE made a canvass of many who bought rivals of Studebakers. We said, "Tell us why you liked your car the better."

The majority said, "We did not even look at the Studebaker." Most of them bought new models of the car they owned before.

Yet Studebaker is a leader in the fine-car field today. Studebaker builds more quality cars than any other plant in the world.

Studebaker is the sensation of modern Motordom. Its amazing growth signifies a new situation in this field.

Last year, 145,167 fine-car buyers paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars. Nearly three times as many as in 1920.

Is it fair to yourself—or fair to us—not to learn the reasons for this trend?

Facts to consider

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000 — all staked on satisfying, better than others, buyers of high-grade cars.

Over 23,000 men have their future at stake on giving you maximum values.

$50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment, of which $32,000,000 has been added during the past five years.

$10,000,000 in body plants to give you superlative beauty. To give that final touch for which Studebakers have been famous for decades.

125 experts who devote their whole time to studying betterments. Who make 500,000 tests per year to maintain our supremacy.

Consider Studebaker history. For 72 years this concern has stood for high principles and policies.

For two generations, against all the world, it held first place in horse-drawn vehicles.

Now for years its name and fame have been committed to like attainments in fine motor cars.

If you only knew

There is no room here for details and comparisons. You will find them all in Studebaker showrooms. But let us cite some significant facts.

That lack of vibration, so conspicuous in Studebakers, costs us $600,000 yearly in extra machining of crank shafts.

That matchless strength in vital parts comes from the costliest steels. For some we add 15% to the quoted price to get exactness in them.

That Chase Mohair, used in our closed cars, is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. Cotton or ordinary wool, or a combination of both, could reduce our price $100 to $150 per car, but it would sacrifice Studebaker quality.

Note the bumpers, the steel trunk, the extra cord tires, the motometer, the courtesy light on some models. Figure what they would cost as extras.

The infinite care

We use 35 formulas for steel, each worked out to exactness for supreme service in its place.

We employ 1,200 inspectors to make 30,000 inspections of the material and workmanship in each Studebaker car — before it leaves the factory.

Consider how Studebaker has always led in the building of high-grade cars. We were first to use cord tires as standard equipment. We were the first quantity manufacturers to build bodies of the highest grade.

If you want beauty, fine upholstery, rich finish and equipment, consider that Studebaker has had more experience in fine coach building than any other motor car maker.

Our place no accident

The pedestal place which Studebaker holds in the fine-car field is not the result of accident. It comes from principles as old as this business—the ceaseless and determined ambition to excel.

Learn the result of these efforts. Compare detail by detail, part by part, with any car you wish. When you foot the advantages, you will find that they number scores.

These are facts you should know. They are inducing 150,000 per year to choose Studebaker cars.

Some sell at $1,045. Some meet with every requirement in size and power and luxury. But the chassis are all alike, save in size. The same steels, the same standards throughout. Every important Studebaker part represents the best we know.

People have learned these facts—hundreds of thousands of them. The demand for Studebakers has almost trebled in three years. It has become overwhelming, even for our facilities.

Investigate the reasons. You will find them by the scores. Then, if you choose a rival car, we shall have nothing more to say.

See the Studebakers

Studebaker builds more fine cars than any other plant in the world.

Last year 145,167 wise motor car buyers paid $201,000,000 for Studebakers.

The demand has almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker now holds a leading place in the high-grade field.

Our modern plants and their equipment cost $50,000,000. All to give you the maximum value at the minimum of cost.

It is folly to buy a car in this class without knowing what we give.

FARM AND GARDEN

Women Join Drive to Choose 1924 Gardeners' Garb

Dressing Right for Outdoor Work Makes It Seem Like Sport.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

APOLOGETICALLY members of the suburbanite garden garb committee brush the ground with their hickory hats and welcome women gardeners' support in the movement to establish a unique style of dress for those who potter around in cabbage patches and poultry yards. Women gardeners asked to be included in the movement when the announcement was made a few days ago in the Farm and Garden daily department that there was a demand for a distinct and practical costume for men gardeners. The garb committee called a special meeting, and revised its plans to include women in the drive to determine by popular vote a fashion for those who work in gardens or do odd chores in their back yards.

A group of Chicago vegetable and flower growers originated the idea of getting the opinion of other truckers for the purpose of establishing the gardeners' fashion for 1924. They want their costume to be as unique and practical as the togs of the golfer, hunter, and rider or the outfits worn by those who play tennis or swim. Many city men get their exercise with a spade or a hoe instead of swinging a golf stick or a tennis racket or handling a gun.

Shabby Garb a Mistake.

A gardener who thinks gardening an outdoor gymnasium, as a form of sport writes: "I believe the popularity of the garden could be greatly increased if more persons would think of gardening as a form of recreation and wear suitable clothes. I never truly enjoyed working in my garden until I began to wear a decent outfit. Once, like most other gardeners, I would go home from my office and dress in the shabbiest clothes I could find. Then when I went out to weed or water my garden I took a liberal stock of apologies to give out to neighbors who happened along and stopped for a chat. Now I go to as much trouble when I dress for the garden as I do in getting ready for golf. I really enjoy gardening, and spend more time with my hoe than I do with my golf clubs."

A woman, famous along the north shore for her beds of annual flowers, writes: "Tell the women gardeners who grow flowers or vegetables for the fun of it to turn their old frocks over to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE'S Friend In Need department, and stop trying to wear them into shreds in their gardens. I feel just as comfortable in my knickerbocker outfit that I wear in my flower garden as I ever did in an Alice Blue gown."

Farm Women Interested.

The garden garb movement, although quite young, has spread to the country. Farm women, who have to tend crops in the garden and feed the farm flock, are taking a vital interest in the fashion question. They want to know what the season's style will be.

Mrs. G. Ella Marquess of Cedar Lake, Ind., writes: "I was much interested in your article regarding what women gardeners should wear. I am a poultry woman; have been engaged in the business for several years, and I have tried out several different garbs and found all but one wanting.

"When I first began my business, I wore the regulation house dress that was being worn at that time and found that nothing could be more uncomfortable nor look worse than a bedraggled long skirt. Then I tried the short, narrow skirt and blouse, which was quite an improvement over the old, long skirt garb. Soon I discovered the short, narrow skirt far from the practical thing for a woman who has to climb fences and at times be something of a sprinter.

"Next I tried the regulation overalls, but, dear me, how terribly ungainly a woman looks in them! At last I have chosen the comfortable, neat knicker suit worn with a man's shirt, and I can truthfully say that any woman who gardens, raises poultry, does any outside work, or takes hikes, will find this garb comfortable, graceful, and neat."

Mrs. Marquess and her husband, Charles A. Marquess, owner of the Woodworthy farm near Cedar Lake, are breeders of single comb white leghorn chickens. She has had several years' experience in climbing trees and chasing peeping baby chicks in out of rain storms, and her practical advice on outdoor costumes should be valuable to gardeners.

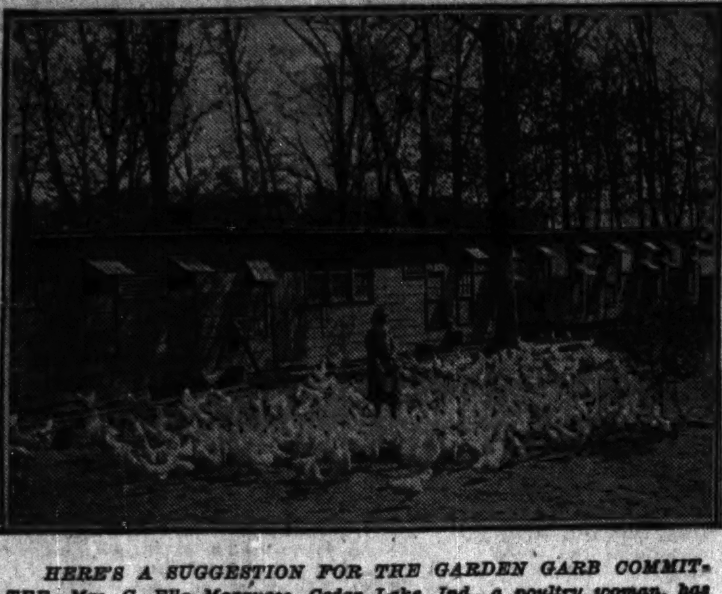
"I raise several thousand chickens every year," Mrs. Marquess added, "and in the fall when the pullets are to be put into their winter quarters many of them have to be gathered from the tree tops. Climbing a ladder to the tops of trees would be a difficult feat for a woman clad in skirts, either short or long. So I would suggest that those women who wish to enjoy outdoor work adopt some comfortable garb, and I know of none more comfortable or graceful than knickers, a men's chambray shirt, hickory hat, low, flat heeled shoes, and golf stockings, with the addition of a warm sweater and a wool cap for winter wear."

How About It?

A few members of Chicago's self-appointed garden garb committee favor the adoption of a simple name for the gardeners' outfit. Tomboy Togs is the only name suggested that has met with general approval.

What about it, gardeners? Send in your opinion and suggestion, with a picture of yourself in your favorite garden garb, to the Farm and Garden editor, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago.

CHORE GIRL'S TOMBOY TOGS



HERE'S A SUGGESTION FOR THE GARDEN GARB COMMITTEE—Mrs. G. Ella Marquess, Cedar Lake, Ind., a poultry woman, has tried all sorts of costumes ordinarily worn by women gardeners and flock managers. She has discarded the old fashioned, bedraggled, long skirt for this neat, comfortable, practical knicker suit with a man's shirt, sweater, golf stockings, and a hickory hat in summer and a felt hat or fur cap in winter. With this outfit, she says, she can climb trees and fences and sprint across a wet weed field when her chicks have to be brought in out of the rain. Mrs. Marquess is shown here with a flock of her single comb white leghorns, which she produces by the thousands every year.

Adams County High.

Through four different kinds of coöperative marketing organizations farmers in Adams county, Illinois, sold a total of $1,766,676.21 worth of farm products last year. This is believed to be the largest total amount of business handled by any single county in the state, according to Ray E. Miller, farm adviser. Figures given out recently by the Illinois Agricultural association show that Adams county's live stock coöperative associations shipped 689 carloads to market in 1923. The fruit and vegetables that passed through the farmers' exchange brought $100,000. Grain and milk are also sold coöperatively in that county and are included in the total figure.

First of Its Kind.

WDBC, the radio station at Lancaster, Pa., broadcasted last Tuesday night the first weekly program to be given regularly by the Lancaster County Farm bureau. This is probably the bureau to broadcast a regular weekly program, according to radio information received at the American Farm Bureau federation here in Chicago. The program will be given each Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, standard time.

POULTRY TIPS

Beginning with the baby chick when it first rolls out of the shell, Ray E. Miller, farm adviser of Adams county, Illinois, has worked out the following detailed schedule, which he says is satisfactory under average conditions.

AGE.	RATION.
0 to 50 hours	Nothing.
50 hours	A little clean sand.
50 hours	(a) Chick feed (a mixture of finely cracked grains) three times daily. (b) Pin head oats, bread crumbs mixed with hard boiled eggs, or a mash composed of equal parts of bran, shorts, and cornmeal. (c) Fresh, clean water, or milk—preferably sour milk.
7 to 10 days	Same as above.
21 days	Add 10 per cent tankage or meat scraps to mash and 1 per cent bone meal. Feed in shallow tray, which is kept before chicks approximately one-third of the time. Supply grit daily.
6 weeks	(a) Hopper feed mash, keeping before chicks practically all the time. (b) Coarser grain may be used for chick food.
10 weeks to maturity	Practically the same as above. Plenty of fresh water, shade, and clean green range are essential at all times.

The 1924 Indiana Poultry Blue Book containing a layout of a five acre poultry farm and plans, designed by the Purdue university's poultry department, is being sent to Hoosier breeders. In addition to educational articles written by A. G. Phillips, L. L. Jones, and C. W. Garrick, all of Purdue, the book contains a classified directory of breeders.

Vaughan's Chicago Parks Lawn Seed

GIVE your grass seed a chance this spring.

Sow it early, on the last snow if possible. Cool, moist weather is required to give it a start before hot weather and seeding time. "Vaughan's Chicago Parks Mixture" has been the standard lawn mixture for 46 years for middle western conditions. It is composed of recleaned seed, free of weeds and weight adulterants, and should be mixed with sand to scatter it. DO NOT BUY TIMOTHY AND TRASH in cheap mixtures. One pound of Chicago Parks will sow 300 square feet of new lawn and reseed 600 feet of old turf.

Prices, 10 lbs., $4.25; 5 lbs., $2.15; per lb., 45 cents.

All orders for $2 and over DELIVERED FREE within 300 miles of Chicago.

Chrysler Six Magic Is Boiled Down Experience

The performance of the Chrysler Six is so remarkable that it verifies the boldest claims that could be made. This fact has caused wonderment as to the means employed in securing results so sensational from an engine only 3-inch bore by 4¾-inch stroke.

There is neither magic nor mystery in the Walter P. Chrysler creation. The Chrysler Six represents the boiled down experience of all that has gone before. A ride in it will quickly disclose to you the deficiencies of older practices which must now be regarded as totally inadequate.

NEW FUR CENTER ESTABLISHED IN MALLERS BLDG.

Sixteen Firms to Move from Palmer House.

Leases were signed yesterday which apparently moves Chicago's fur center from the Palmer house to the southeast corner of Madison and Wabash—the Mallers building.

Sixteen big fur concerns of New York and Chicago, all members of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago, have leased for five years at an aggregate rental of $162,000 the entire north side of the Mallers building on the seventh and eighth floors.

In Palmer House for Years.

These concerns all have been established for many years in the Palmer house, where they maintained their Chicago headquarters.

"This is the first attempt, I believe," said John L. Johannesen, associated with John B. Mallers Jr., managers of the building, in negotiating the leases, "made by concerns of this kind to get away from a hotel sample room.

Acted Collectively.

"Each firm occupies an individual unit in the Mallers building, but they acted collectively in making these leases, which is a feature, inasmuch as they are competitors and handling the same line of merchandise, furs, and skins."

The firms moving to the Mallers building from the Palmer house are: J. Hendler, Bach Fur Co., Inc.; Reisapfel & Bornstein, J. M. Maier, S. Silberman & Sons, Paul Stern, M. A. Wedless company, Max Friedman, and the Dernburg Fur company, all of Chicago; the Mercantile Fur corporation, Speer Fur corporation, N. Sobel, Inc.; Charles S. Porter, Inc.; Cantor & Angel, Inc.; Gitler & Co., Inc., and G. Gandig & Blum corporation, all of New York.

Start on $300,000 Flats at Madison and La Vergne

Work has started on a three story fireproof store and flat building at the northeast corner of Madison and Lavergne, to be known at "The Lavergne," from plans by Leichenko & Esser. It'll contain thirty-three four and five room flats and seven stores and will cost more than $300,000. The $50,000 site was purchased through Daniel J. O'Brien, realtor, who will manage the building. Laurence J. Ahearn is owner. Completion date is set for Oct. 1. George M. Forman & Co. have underwritten a $200,000 bond issue.

Building Permits

Eighteen building permits of a total valuation of $222,500, were issued yesterday, including:

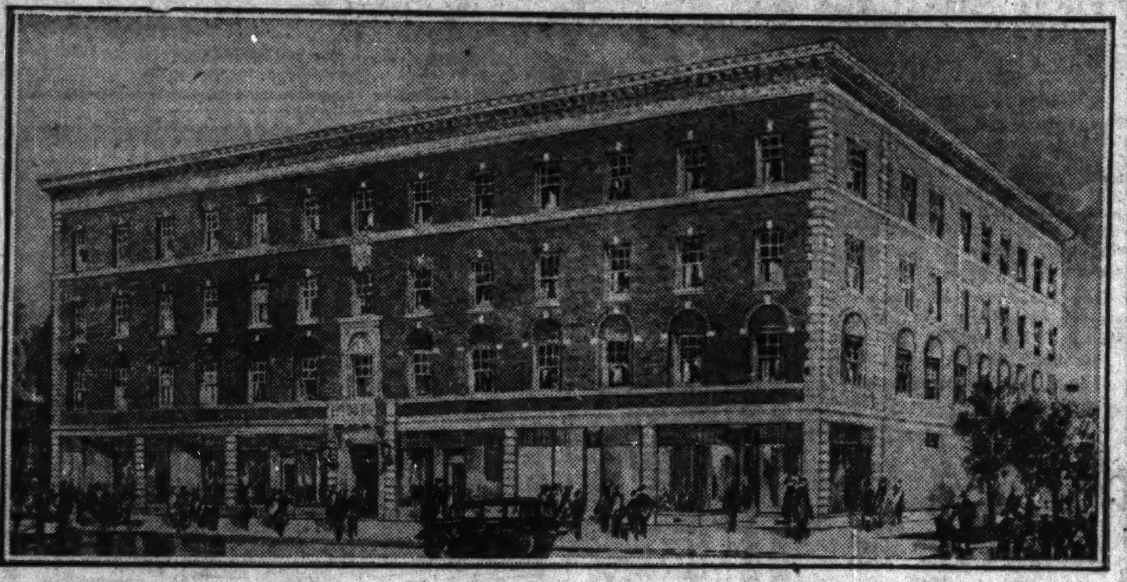
Will Sell Pianos Direct from Factory to Home

Selling pianos direct from the maker to the home, or, in other words, having a retail store on the first floor of a four story factory, is the novel plan of the Nelson-Wiggen Piano company for its new building now being erected at 1731-45 Belmont avenue, just west of Lincoln avenue. Fred V. Prather, architect, has designed a four story structure, with a tower, shown above, which will represent an investment of $275,000. The building is being erected in units.

The entire first floor will be used for display and retail sale and demonstration rooms, shipping room and the general offices. Oscar Nelson, president, and Peder Wiggen, secretary of the company, have spent many years in the piano industry, the last twenty-five or more in Chicago. Mr. Prather sets the completion date for June 1.

$275,000 Hostelry for Cicero



Work starts tomorrow on the above four story $275,000 Annette hotel, in Cicero, at the northeast corner of 52d avenue and 24th place. Completion date is set for Oct. 1. The architects and engineers are Dubin & Eisenberg. The building will be of red tapestry brick, with terra cotta trim, and will have 150 rooms and six stores. The owners, A. Bartelstein and Max Gold, own the 1,100 seat Annette theater across the street. They contemplate erecting another Cicero hotel later on at 52d avenue and 23d street of about the same size as the Annette.

News of the Architects

Ramsay Traquair, M. A., F. R. I. B. A., of the department of architecture, McGill university, Montreal, Canada will give an illustrated lecture on "Mural Decoration" before the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects at the Art institute on March 11. Mr. Traquair, in addition to being an eminent teacher and critic of architecture, is a writer of wide reputation.

RAMSAY TRAQUAIR

Sidney Lovell and McDonald Lovell announce the removal of their offices to 224 East Ontario street. Their new phone is Superior 9843.

The following architects have been elected members of the Illinois Society of Architects: Ralph R. Burgess, Frank William Cauley, John Eberson, G. W. Hellmuth, Julius J. Schwarz, Edward Steinberg, and John G. Drainie.

Childs & Smith will move next Saturday, March 8, from the Steinway building across the river into the new Central Life building at Michigan and Superior, where they will occupy the entire tenth floor. Their new phone will be Superior 8370-8371.

Howard Van Doren Shaw will move on May 1 from the Mentor building to the Monroe building, Michigan and Monroe, where he has rented space on the fifteenth floor.

300 FLATS TO BE READY IN SOUTH SHORE PK. MAY 1

South Shore park, the old Windsor Park Golf club grounds, at 75th, Colfax, 79th, and Yates, continues to astonish the natives of that district with its record breaking development. For instance, Charles E. Fox, president of the South Shore Investment company, says 300 apartments will be ready for occupancy by May 1, and applications for space already have been received.

"The most popular apartments are four and five rooms," said Mr. Fox, "with a reasonably good demand for the three room apartments with wall beds.

"In addition to the 300 flats to be ready May 1, ground already has been broken for ninety-two more, to be ready Sept. 1. Another interesting feature is the good demand for three flat buildings by people tired of paying rent. In the last two weeks we've had not less than seventy-five inquiries for this class of structure."

WOLFF MFG. CO. TO BUILD.

The Wolff Manufacturing corporation, makers of plumbing fixtures, has awarded a contract to the Austin company, industrial engineers and builders, to design and construct a new enameling plant, 126x150, also to remodel the warehouse building at the southwest corner of Robey and Fulton into a brass foundry and light machine shop.

NORTH SHORE RESIDENCE SALES.

W. W. Wheelock has sold his residence at 244 Cumnor road, Kenilworth, to Dudley Taylor of Wilmette for a reported $25,000, and has bought the house at 132 Oxford road, Kenilworth, from Sarah Bernhisel for $38,000. The Evey-McLane company was broker.

C. T. Kelley, Kurt Kroeber and Miss K. V. Berlaney have formed the real estate firm to be known as the "K. B. K. Co." and opened for business yesterday at 7819 Stony Island avenue. Mr. Kelley formerly was with William F. King; Mr. Kroeber has been with Arthur R. Blair and also Mr. King. Miss Berlaney has had several years' experience in the renting branch of the real estate business, being formerly with Mr. King and before that with Peter Foote.

Levrett F. Cox announces the formation of the real estate firm of Levrett F. Cox & Co., with offices in the Woods theater building, Dearborn and Randolph. Their phone is State 1967.

The Pioneer Realty company announces the opening of new offices at 6320 Broadway, under the management of Charles K. Brown. Telephone Sheldrake 4724. Mr. Brown has been associated with Willis & Frankenstein up to Feb. 1.

Raphael Lee, formerly with the Lee Realty company, north shore and suburban operators, is now with the North Side Realty company as general manager. Thomas E. Gordon, until recently with the Britigan organization, also has become a general manager for the North Side Realty company.

John W. Prassas, formerly at 4401 Broadway, has opened offices in the City Hall Square building, suite 619-20.

FELT COMPANY LEASE.

The Illinois Felt company, 2501 West 48th street, has leased 15,000 square feet of warehouse space at Pershing and Ashland, from the Central Manufacturing district trustees.

AND NOW HERE WE HAVE A "SURVEY" ON RAVENSWOOD FLATS

Comes now a "survey" from a building concern. William C. Bannerman & Co. in their preamble to their "survey" say: "May we present our case or 'survey,' as you may call it, not as proud and prosperous realtors, not as a real estate bond house with years and years of experience in renting, surveys, etc., but rather only as meek and humble builders, and then only with an announcement of what we find renting conditions actually are from immediate and recent contact and particularly in Ravenswood and on the northwest side.

"May we present renting conditions as they exist right now, in the last week in February, and from a concrete example? We've just completed a twenty-one apartment building at Winchester and Berteau. It contains fifteen four room and six five room flats. Of the fifteen four rooms available for Feb. 1 occupancy, by the middle of the month all were rented and occupied. Of the six five room flats two are rented and, according to present indications, the remainder soon will be rented. In other words, a new building 75 per cent rented in less than three weeks and 100 per cent rented in thirty days.

"Our 'survey' of conditions after Oct. 1 renting season this year in Ravenswood showed practically no vacant apartments in old buildings or buildings already erected, and we believe this condition still exists. If we may be permitted to express our opinion, we'd say most emphatically there's no surplus of flats in Ravenswood and after May 1, according to present indications, all apartments will be full and there may be a shortage."

Broker Pays $85,000 for Three Flats; To Live in One

Winfield H. Schendorf paid a reported $85,000, subject to $50,000, for the three flat building at 1418 Hyde Park boulevard. The seller was Charles F. Bendfelt. The buyer will occupy one of the apartments. C. W. Snyder of Carroll, Schendorf & Boenicke was broker.

KENT CLOW MADE PRESIDENT OF NEW H-Y-P CLUB

Eight Story Building for Federal Street.

BY AL CHASE.

Kent S. Clow, Yale '10, has been elected president of Chicago's newest university organization, the Harvard Yale-Princeton club, which made its entry into the local collegiate-business social field last week. The other officers of the new club are: Sanford B. White, Princeton, vice president; William C. Boyden Jr., Harvard, vice president; Calvin Fentress, Princeton, treasurer; Donald F. McClure, Harvard, secretary, and J. Whipple, Yale, assistant secretary. You'll notice that each of the three universities has two officers.

With the announcement of the election of officers further details of the new club house to be erected at 316 Federal street and the scope of the organization have been made public.

Tells Scope of Club.

Sanford B. White, who has been working on the project of a H-Y-P club for several years, points out that the new organization is in no way a rival to the University club.

The three most important things it is expected the H-Y-P club will bring about, he said, were the opening at once of a club for the younger Harvard, Yale, and Princeton men, who couldn't get into the University club for five or ten years, owing to the waiting list, now around 500; the keeping in touch with college activities of the older men, and the bringing together of the younger and older graduates of the three universities.

Mr. White also called attention to the fact that the Harvard club of Chicago, the Yale club, and the Princeton club would continue to function as formerly and would not be affected in any way by the new organization.

Plan Moderate Dues.

Dues in the new club will be $60 annually, with an initiation fee of $50, which means it will be within the reach of many graduates who couldn't afford the University club, even if they ever lived long enough to get to the end of its interminable waiting list. Over 200 members already have joined the H-Y-P, and the membership limit has been placed at 600.

Preliminary plans prepared by C. A. Eckstorm call for an eight story building to contain several squash courts, 28 sleeping rooms, a 125 seat café to serve three meals daily, private dining rooms, lounging room, etc. The site is just south of the Engineers' club building.

Will Cost $150,000.

Negotiations practically have been completed with the owner of the fee, George A. McKinlock, for a long term lease. The building is to cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. It is hoped to have it ready for occupancy by next October.

The H-Y-P club was named chronologically, that is, Harvard being the oldest university of the trio, was given first place, and Yale next. Thus a delicate situation was tactfully handled.

There are eighteen directors of the club. Twelve already have been announced. They are: Harvard: Laird Bell, W. C. Boyden Jr., D. F. McClure and L. D. Smith; Yale: J. O. Heyworth, S. Y. Hord, W. Chatfield-Taylor, and Kent Clow; Princeton: R. A. Bard, J. R. Kimbark, E. D. McDougal Jr., and Sanford B. White. The four new directors are: George C. Moseley, Yale; M. Ogden West, Princeton; Arthur Dixon III., Harvard, and William J. Louderback Jr., Harvard.

Flats, Stores, Offices and Garage for 187 East 47th

Leon Waisman of the Speedway garage, 4710 Indiana, has bought from Catharine and Jessie Colvin the one story store and garage at 813-29 East 47th, 162x129, for $90,000, and will improve shortly with a three story store, office, and kitchenette apartment building, with a 100 car garage in the rear. Stanley Wolbach was broker; attorneys were Isidore Goodman and Judah, Willard, Wolf & Reichmann.

Steel Company Leases North Side Residence

The Truscon Steel company, now in the Majestic building, has leased the three story residence at the southwest corner of Erie and St. Clair from Joseph Husband for a term of years from May 1 for its general offices. The Bowes Realty company was broker.

VAN BUREN-FRANKLIN LEASE.

The Western Garment company has leased the seventh floor of the Meyer building, Van Buren and Franklin, for five years, at a reported gross rental for the term of $50,000. L. L. Sachs & Co. were brokers.

CENTRAL DISTRICT LEASE.

The Fox Furnace company of Elyria, O., a subsidiary of the American Radiator company, has leased 7,534 square feet of space in the warehouse at Pershing and Ashland from the trustees of the Central Manufacturing district.

$20,000 Profit on Huron in Less than Two Years

William B. McClure less than two years ago bought the eight flat building at 24-26 West Huron, lot 40x100, for $35,000. Yesterday he sold it to Olga Gerber for a reported $55,000. A. R. Tressler of Rowe & Whitman represented the buyer and J. E. Bend of Mates & Bend the seller. The property is now used as a hotel.

H. Archibald Harris will talk on "Tax Deductions for Real Estate Dealers" before the Oak Park Real Estate board tomorrow evening. Through the courtesy of Telfer MacArthur, publisher of Oak Leaves, the talk will be broadcast over the Oak Leaves station WTAY at the Oak Park Arms hotel.

TO BUILD IN EVANSTON.

James L. Beckwith and James B. Waller have sold the 50x170 at 543 Chicago avenue, Evanston, improved with an old frame building, to Architect David Saul Klafter for a reported $15,000. The new owner intends to improve with a business building in the spring. Thomas E. Sullivan & Co. were brokers.

PLAN SOUTH SHORE BUILDING.

Emily Gregg has taken title for undisclosed buyers to the 50x153 residence at 2719 East 75th for a reported $20,000. The new owners already have a vacant piece 100x200 in the rear, fronting on Coles avenue. Improvements are planned, according to Charles Ringer, broker.

ADD 196 ACRES TO COOK COUNTY WOODLAND PARKS

One hundred and ninety-six more acres were added to Cook county's great outer belt of woodland parks yesterday by the forest preserve district. The commissioners bought seventy-six acres in the township of Leyden from Joseph and Frank S. Gettinger for $33,384. The land is on the east bank of the Des Plaines river about a mile and a half north of Irving Park boulevard.

In Palos the district purchased 120 acres from John and Fred Laasch, for $38,750. The property, adjacent of land already owned, lies between 119th and 123d streets and is just west of 104th avenue.

MRS. M'CORMICK TO NAME BUILDING AFTER DAD, 'J. D.'

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick has decided to rename the building at the northwest corner of Michigan and Walton and the structure just west of it on Walton, which she recently bought, the Rockefeller building, in honor of her father, John D. Rockefeller. As already announced, another story will be added, to be used by Krenn & Dato. David Saul Klafter is drawing plans. The new name of the building will be inscribed on the stone façade of the boulevard front.

SUBDIVISION NEWS

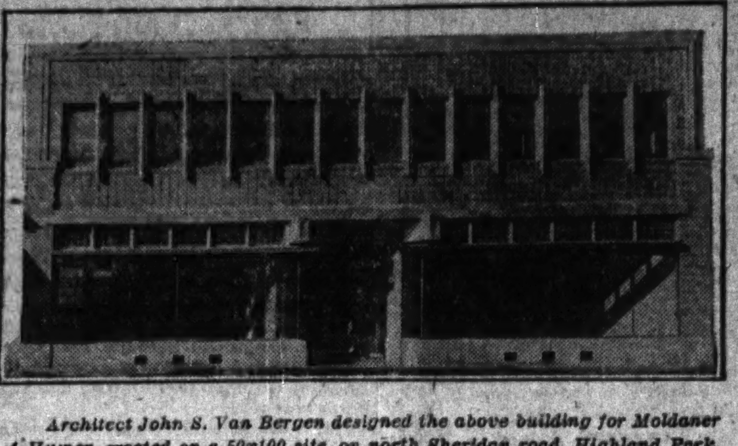
M. F. Schiavone, president of the Lake Towns Improvement company, states the first of three units, each to be forty acres, of the new "Winnetka Manor Acres," is to be opened at once.

Gelder & Sneary announce the opening of their third Rutherford Park addition, twenty-two acres, at the southwest corner of Armitage and Sayre.

Plans $125,000 Building for Wells and Hill Corner

George W. Doran has bought the northeast corner of Wells and Hill, 100x100, from Ernst Heldmaier, for $37,000, through George P. McCauley, of Arthur S. Carruthers & Co., and contemplates erecting a $125,000 commercial building designed by Whitney & Beck.

Highland Park Business Building



Architect John S. Van Bergen designed the above building for Moldaner & Humer, erected on a 50x100 site, on north Sheridan road, Highland Park. The second floor is devoted to private offices grouped around a central reception room.

SOME LEASES

Leo and Nathan Wallach and Mrs. Henrich have leased the thirty flats at 4347 Kenmore avenue from Dr. Daniel A. Orth for twenty years from March 1, 1924, at a term rental of $368,400, through Whiteside & Wentworth.

William R. Manierre, owner of the property at 219-23 East Illinois and 218-22 East Austin, formerly occupied by the Continental Candy company, has rented it as a unit to the A. R. Thompson company, warehousemen, for ten years from May 1, 1924, for an average rental of $22,926.

The fifteen flats at the southwest corner of Clarendon and Edgecomb have been rented by Samuel D. Goldberg from Emma Linane for ten years at a term rental of $110,000, and will remodel them into a hotel. Margolis, Segal & Co. were brokers.

Tuma Bros. have leased the building at 808 West Madison from Philip Grossman for ten years, at a term rental reported [illegible],300, and will remodel into a commissary and cafeteria. Marks & Co. were brokers.

CENTRAL DISTRICT LEASE.

Last week's closing hog market, supported by liberal shipping orders, ruled on an upward trend, with prices equaling the highest in ten days. Top weighty butchers reached $7.30, with average at $7.15, both prices being 5c above Friday, 15c above last Wednesday, and 15c higher than the previous Saturday. Shippers took about 65 per cent of yesterday's fresh receipts, while packers purchased moderately, leaving 5,000 unsold, mostly pigs and undesirable "packer" mixed.

A marked falling off of hog receipts during the closing half of last week brought prices back to a level with last Monday after they had dropped within 10@15c of the low day of the year. Eastern slaughtering houses took a good proportion of the week's supply, with more than 33 per cent of receipts going to outsiders.

Receipts at Year's Low.

The week's hog receipts at 221,700 stand the smallest of the year and the second smallest since the week ending Nov. 10, being 76,800 below the arrivals of the previous week, 26,800 larger than a year ago and 62,000 above the ten year average. The estimated average weight of hogs at 229 lbs. stand within one pound of the lightest since January, 1922, being the same as the previous week, one pound lighter than a year ago and one pound above the ten year average. Last week's average price of hogs at $7.10 equaled the previous week, but stood 90c under a year ago and $4.75 under the ten year average.

While cattle receipts last week were moderately liberal at 57,100, and the quality was poorer than usual, buyers show an inclination to narrow the "spread" in prices. In-between and commoner grades comprised a larger per cent of the receipts, but closed on an upward trend and unevenly 25@40c higher than a week ago, while cattle rating good or better were purchased at a discount. Butcher stocks were 25@40c higher for the week, with stockers and feeders up 25@50c. Calves closed $1.00 under a week ago.

Last week's average price of good beef cattle at $9.25 stands 20c under the previous week, 40c above a year ago, $1.20 higher than two years ago, and $1.00 under the ten year average.

Week's Sheep Run Small.

Last week's sheep receipts totaled 64,300, the smallest week's offerings of the year and the third smallest since last July. Arrivals were 10,000 fewer than the previous week, 6,600 smaller than a year ago, and 10,700 under two years ago. Aged sheep and yearling stock comprised an unusually small proportion of the supply, resulting in further uneven gains of 25@75c during the last week.

It was a supply ad demand proposition in the lamb trade most of last week, with offerings running considerably under trade requirements. Closing prices were fully 50@75c above a week previous, with the week's top at $16.45, comparing with a $15.75 limit the previous week. Feeding and shearling lambs advanced largely $1.00 during the week.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Egg prices have dropped 20c per dozen from the high point in January, and are down to 23¾c for fresh firsts. Supplies have become more plentiful and consumption should increase, but many retailers are asking high prices despite the decline.

An advance of ¾c was made in butter prices, the recent decline having brought a better demand. In the poultry market no change was made in prices.

Trading in potatoes was moderate at recent prices. Arrivals were 53 cars and there were 210 cars on track.

TAXPAYERS WAIT FOR CUT; TIE UP SAM'S NEW LOAN

BY O. A. MATHER.

Uncle Sam will be in the money market this week to borrow a sizeable amount in order to pay off obligations maturing next week and provide funds for current government expenses. Just what amount will be needed at present is uncertain, as it is contingent on the tax reduction proposals before congress.

It is expected, however, that the treasury will offer around $400,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness, which will constitute a short term obligation. About $570,000,000 of certificates mature on March 15 and about $140,000,000 will be paid out as interest on other government securities. But the first quarterly payment of income taxes is due next week and will help meet the disbursements.

Taxpayers Wait Decision.

The initial tax payment is expected to total around $400,000,000. But it is difficult to make a close estimate because of the proposal of congress to make a 25 per cent reduction on this year's payments. Heretofore a certain percentage of small taxpayers has made the full year's payment on March 15, but now, with the possibility of a reduction, a large number are making only the initial quarterly payment required.

The first quarterly payment in 1923 was nearly $500,000,000 and should the first installment this month go within $100,000,000 of that figure, the treasury will find it unnecessary to sell more than about $400,000,000 in new certificates. The fiscal program has been, however, to cut down the outstanding amount of securities, and the probability exists of a reduction being accomplished through the March program.

Yellow Has Record Year.

The most prosperous year in its history is shown by the Chicago Yellow Cab company in its annual report. Chicago is shown as a fertile field for taxi operation through the fact that the company has increased its "fleet" to 2,602 cabs, compared with 1,592 cabs at the beginning of last year.

Net profits for 1923 were $2,071,252, equivalent to $10.36 a share on the 200,000 nonpar shares outstanding during the year, which were increased to 400,000 shares in December by distribution of a 100 per cent stock dividend. But the showing of profits hardly measures the company's prosperity. Last year the company added 1,010 cabs out of earnings and the asset item of "cabs, equipment, etc., less reserve for depreciation," shows an increase of $911,785, which is equivalent to $4.55 a share on 200,000 shares of stock.

Surplus at $2,815,994.

Dividends of $4 a share were paid last year, after which $1,271,181 was carried to surplus, which now stands at $2,815,994. The present 400,000 shares are carried at $2,200,000, compared with $1,818,506 for the 200,000 shares previously outstanding. Net profits for 1922 were $1,773,072, equivalent to $8.86 a share on the old capitalization.

Sales of the large mail order houses showed continued gains in February. Sears-Roebuck & Co. report sales of $17,877,619 for the second month of the year, compared with $17,114,759 in the corresponding month last year, an increase of 4.46 per cent. For the first two months of this year the total is $37,180,472, compared with $37,044,841 in a similar part of 1923, a gain of 3.15 per cent.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 1.—COTTONSEED OIL—Quiet, with price trend lower. Closing bids were within a couple of points of bottom and 8@11 points lower for the day. Sales, 4,700 bbls. Prime crude, 8.75c nominal; prime summer yellow, spot, 9.90@10.25c; March closed at 9.90c, May at 10.39c, and July at 10.70c, all bid.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Speculative interest yesterday was centered in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, which rose more than six points on an unusually large turnover. At the top price of 74⅝ the stock still is about 10 points below its high point of the year. Traders attributed the interest to reports that the company's earnings may reach an unusually high total this year.

Motor shares also were in favor with traders, several such stocks rising a point or more, while Studebaker improved fractionally. Gains of a point were recorded by Chandler, Maxwell B. and White Motors and Mack Truck climbed two points.

Reports that railroads are maintaining a large volume of tonnage attracted fair buying to that group, Southern touching a new high at 51 and Norfolk and Western and Louisville and Nashville each advancing a point. Pressure against the Northwestern roads was lifted, fractional improvement being registered by Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Union Pacific.

Merchandising shares, the coppers and chemicals were depressed somewhat, but losses were not large. Selling of Virginia Carolina Chemical issues was slower than recently, although the preferred fell off 1⅝. Some of the rubber shares equalled their minimum prices of the year. U. S. Rubber closed two points lower and Kelly-Springfield was off 1¼.

Conflicting influences brought about considerable irregularity in the bond market. Prices generally tended higher in response to the tax revision outlook, although resumption of conferences on the Virginia-Carolina situation caused further liquidation of the company's bonds. No explanation was forthcoming for the break in Wickwire Spencer bonds which sold at a new low price for the year. High grade railroad issues were strong, but the speculative group as a whole lost ground.

Most of the speculative element of Wall street, at the end of the week, stood on the fence, ready to hop lightly either way. The market, in many opinions heard at the week-end, has given a good account of itself in the face of recurring obstacles and adversity. The tax results, while not all that had been hoped for, at least provide for a moderate lightening of the burden in this direction, and it has been quite evident in the last few days that the edge has been taken off the oil investigation, so far as it pertains, as a factor, to the stock market.

Sale of the Elkhart Gas and Fuel company to interests connected with the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric company was closed yesterday. The Elkhart property was purchased from the American Public Utilities company. Its assets aggregate a little more than $1,500,000. The company has outstanding $722,500 in first mortgage bonds and $500,000 in common capital stock.

Good Management.

One of the important factors to be considered before investing in the securities of any corporation is the management. The ability of those at the head of the company properly to conduct its affairs should be carefully looked into. A good many companies lay considerable stress on the claim that all their officers and directors are men of excellent reputation for honesty and hard work. These qualities are indispensable to good management, but they are not all.

The ability of each individual to conduct the particular kind of business in which the corporation engages, his qualifications for and experience in that particular kind of work are of equal importance with his honesty. No matter how honest and conscientious a man may be, he still may not be qualified to conduct efficiently a line of business for which his previous training has not fitted him.

A man might be a highly successful lawyer and yet not be able successfully to manage a mining company. An eminent physician may prove utterly inefficient in the management of a factory and a highly respected banker does not necessarily know how to conduct a hide and leather business.

It is not enough to know that the management of a business is in honest hands. The investor should carefully study the qualifications of the personnel as individuals. If it be found that, in addition to personal honesty and efficiency, each man is well qualified through training and experience for his duties in the conduct of the affairs of the particular business in which his company is engaged, then the management is good.

How they GET RICH with BONDS

McKay Learns a Better Way

(Actual names held in confidence.)

STOCK of the "get rich quick" kind had lost every dollar Donald McKay had saved, so that he considered investment a failure and had decided to "blow" his wages as earned, forgetting the future.

But he was fortunate in having a foreman of sounder judgment, who, in a friendly spirit, showed him that he had been a speculator, not an investor at all, and that he had expected impossible returns.

This foreman, a customer of ours, showed him his pass book containing monthly receipts for deposits in payment of one of our First Mortgage Bonds.

"Oh, that's too slow for me," said McKay. "Is it?" questioned the foreman. "I've been saving $100 a month on this plan for eight years and now have over $12,000 in safe bonds. If I can keep it up for twelve years longer, I'll have $46,000—$24,000 I saved and $22,000 interest!"

BULLISH FACTORS UNITE TO BOOST GRAINS SHARPLY

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A combination of bullish influences, coming at a time when all grains were in an oversold condition, brought about a sharp advance, and the close was at the top, with net gains of ¾@1⅛c on wheat, ½@⅝c on corn, ⅝c on oats and ¼c on rye.

In the early trading local traders were persistent sellers, especially of corn, but quickly started to cover when Murray's report, suggesting a yield of 545,000,000 bu. winter wheat, or 27,000,000 bu. less than was harvested last year, was received. Snow estimates that only 94,000,000 bu. wheat are available for export and carryover the balance of the season, and Washington messages claimed the President was to issue the statement regarding advancing the tariff to 45c per bu.

Grains Firmer for Week.

Considering the heavy realizing sales all grains gave a good account of themselves during the last week. As compared with a week ago wheat finished ¼c higher to ⅜c lower, corn 1@1⅝c higher, oats unchanged to ¼c lower, and rye ⅝@⅞c lower. Lard declined 7½@10c lower, ribs unchanged to 2½c higher and bellies unchanged.

Free selling of corn by local traders has been on for several days. The offerings have been persistently absorbed by commission houses in small lots, and at the low point today May was down to 80⅝ or 1⅝c under the recent high. A badly oversold condition was disclosed and when short covering started there was little sale. A rally of 1@1⅛c from the bottom followed. It lifted all deliveries to within a fraction of the highest price of the season. May closed at 81⅛c @81⅝c, July at 82c, and September at 82c. Cash demand was only fair with receipts of 267 cars. Snow's report estimated farm reserves at 1,165,000,000 bu., against 1,092,000,000 bu. last year.

May Wheat Closes Strong.

A feature of the trading in wheat was the pronounced strength shown by the May which advanced to $1.11¼ at the last and closed there, being ⅛c over July at the last. September was $1.11½. The increase in the tariff, coming at a time when statistics indicate that the United States is practically on a domestic basis and that the spring wheat territory holds only about sufficient grain for seed purposes, has brought about a change in sentiment, which was less bearish at the last. Foreign conditions attract little attention.

Oats Strong at Close.

Scattered early liquidation was on in oats, but it soon ran its course and the finish was strong, in sympathy with other grains. Snow estimates farm reserves at 447,000,000 bu., against 421,000,000 bu. last year. Receipts 94 cars.

Rye was dull and followed wheat. Stop loss orders were uncovered at 71c for May, but the finish was on a rally.

Provisions were dull and closed easy, with lard and bellies 2½@5c lower, and short ribs off 7½c. Deliveries on March contracts aggregated 1,000,000 lbs. lard and 450,000 lbs. bellies. Packing of hogs at Chicago for the summer season to date aggregates 170,000 against 155,000 last year. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Foreign demand for cash grain was slow, and messages from the seaboard indicated that total sales of wheat were only 100,000 bu Manitobas.

Chicago handlers sold 45,000 bu corn, 112,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu barley to the domestic trade.

A better demand has developed for cash wheat, with some buying of hard wheat flours in the southwest by macaroni manufacturers on account of the advance in durum flours to a premium. Two Kansas City mills sold 100,000 brls flour to bakers and others the past week for delivery during the balance of the season. No. 2 red on spot here was May price to 1½c over and No. 2 hard ½c under to 3½c over. Receipts, 23 cars. St. Louis was ½c lower on red and ½c higher on hard, with Kansas City unchanged to 1c higher and Omaha unchanged.

Basis on cash corn here was somewhat unsettled, but on the whole a little firmer on some of the lower grades. No. 4 grades sold at 5@6½c, No. 5 grades at 7¾@8½c, and No. 6 grades at 8½@10c under May. Receipts, 267 cars, of which only 34 cars graded No. 3 or better. Outside markets were 1c lower to ½c higher.

Demand for cash oats was only fair, with No. 2 white May to ½c over and No. 3 white ½@1c under. Receipts, 94 cars.

LITTLE AID FOR FARMER IN CUT IN FREIGHT RATES

BY SCRUTATOR.

The literature and statistics on the subject of the farmer and freight rates have grown so fast in the last year that one wonders whether the quickest way to reduce freight rates would not be to reduce statistics.

One authority has calculated that the railroads are compelled under the present laws to spend $100,000,000 per year on useless statistics.

The increase in the number of clerical employés on the roads since these laws were enacted indicates that this estimate is not far wrong—and think how much greater the increase would have been were it not for the improvements in calculating machinery and other office equipment.

Among those conspicuous in the game of piling up statistical expense is Senator La Follette, but, strangely enough, the senator seems to use few of the facts that have been developed as the result of the burden he helped to impose on the railroads.

Many of the senator's high enterprises of a few years ago are not often referred to by his admirers now. They expressly repudiate and seek to change the results obtained from the law providing for physical valuation of the railroads.

They are singing low these days about the seaman's act, which appears to be functioning principally as a loop hole by which the immigration laws may be evaded.

However, some recent statistical studies have thrown light on the relation of freight rates to the farmer that may be worth while to the curious, no matter how little effect they will probably have on politics.

The total cash sales of American farmers for the present crop year are estimated by Howard and Moorhouse, successors of the research department of the American Farm Bureau federation, at $9,500,000,000.

The interstate commerce commission estimates the total revenue of the railroads from the transport of farm products at $888,085,000 for the year ended Sept. 30, 1923.

This is less than 10 per cent of the farmers' sales.

In prosposing to cut rail rates one-fourth or one-third, "friends of the farmer," who assure him that the railroads are the cause of his troubles, are proposing to help him by increasing his cash receipts less than 4 per cent.

As a matter of fact, they are assuming that the reduction in freight rates would go to the farmer, when there is no assurance that such would be the case, and studies of several price fluctuations have shown that recent freight rate reductions have resulted in corresponding reductions of prices paid to the farmer.

If the "farmer's friends" really want to help him as much as 10 per cent on the stuff he ships, they ought to require that the railroad haul his stuff for nothing and let the other shippers pay for it—including the wages of the men who haul the farm produce and those of the miners who dig the coal that pulls the trains and so on to the house that Jack built.

But if the "friends of the farmer," who tell him that the "farmer pays the freight both ways," are correct, this free freight service from the farm would simply hoist prices on stuff coming back to the farm.

All this is not to say that the farmer and shipper are never benefited by freight reductions. To say that would be to assault common sense.

Probably some reductions in rates are feasible and would help. But the relief that might be thus afforded, when compared to the false hopes that have been implanted, would appear to the recipients as another political fake.

We all know that the farmer's condition improved in 1923 over 1922. His cash sales in the year ending July 1, 1923, were $2,500,000,000 over the previous year. The value of his crops as calculated by the department of agriculture for the calendar year 1923 were $873,000,000 more than for the year 1922. This increase in crop value is greater by $213,000,000 than the entire railroad revenue from farm products in 1922, which was about $660,000,000. If freight rates caused the farmers' 1922 woes, he should have had none in 1923.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

The rally in grains at the close was regarded as showing the sold out condition of the markets and the weak position of the shorts. The latter, however, think that their position is right, although they have made little money of late. The trade expects that the tariff will be advanced and that the official notice will be given within a few days. Technically, the elimination of the short interests was not a good feature for the bull.

The Snow report of wheat on farm reserves in the northwest was regarded as especially bullish and had considerable to do with strengthening values toward the last. Among other late influences was the report from Toronto that one Canadian mill had made the largest flour sales on Friday of any time in its history. It looked as though the big commission houses with eastern connections who bought the wheat on the break that was sold by the crowd in general were taking profits on the closing bulge.

Winnipeg messages say the traders there were short wheat, with an excellent class of buying on the scale down.

A report from France says the wheat crop situation is satisfactory except for complaints of weeds. Offerings of wheat and oats are larger. Germany is allowing small exports of oats and the Danube is offering 70,000 tons of grain, mostly corn, for shipment, at the opening of navigation.

The corn trade had it that several large local operators who have been aggressive sellers for several days were trying to hedge against holdings of cotton, which has been on the decline of late, and dropped $5 a bale yesterday, making $45 a bale decline since the end of November.

The condition of winter wheat, as shown by returns to Nat C. Murray of Clement, Curtis & Co., is about 6 points under that of 88c shown in December, and on the basis of 40,191,000 acres seeded last fall suggests a winter wheat crop of 545,000,000 bu, compared with 572,000,000 bu actually harvested last year.

COFFEE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 1.—COFFEE—Futures opened unchanged to a decline of 10 points and the more active months sold 10 to 19 points net lower during the morning. May declined from 13.92c to 13.80c, and September from 13.35c to 13.20c, and the market closed at about the lowest, showing net losses of 13 to 26 points. Sales were estimated at about 13,000 bags. March, 14.05c; May, 13.77c; July, 13.47c; September, 13.20c; October, 13.05c; Dec., 12.93c. Spot, quiet; rio 7s, 15½c; Santos 4s, 19¾@20½c. No fresh offers reported in cost and freight market; next Monday and Tuesday will be holidays in Brazil. Official cables reported an advance of 70 reis in the dollar buying rate and of 1-32 pence in rio exchange on London. Rio market was 25 to 175 reis lower at the close yesterday, and Santos 325 to 525 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts, 40,000 bags; Jundiahy receipts, 22,000.

COTTON OFF $45 BALE FROM HIGH LAST NOVEMBER

New York, March 1.—Liquidation through stock orders demoralized the cotton trade. Those who have bought recently in expectation of an advance were heavy sellers, carrying prices down around $5.00 a bale to the lowest level on the present down turn. Since the end of November cotton is off 9c a pound, which, on the basis of 500 pounds to the bale, would be equal to a loss of $45.00 a bale. Speculative holdings combined with hedge sales against unsold spot cotton in the south were largely responsible for the break. The public has lost confidence in the buying side owing to recent heavy losses through declining prices. Closing trades were practically the lowest of the day, showing losses of 95 to 101 points on old crop futures and 50 to 70 points on new. Prices follow:

First Mortgage Gold Bonds

The successful record of the American Bond & Mortgage Company has been made possible by the long and specialized experience of the senior officers who have served this company continuously since its founding. These same officers who have established this successful record recommend the Murray Hill Apartments Issue to you as having strong security and offering an excellent interest return.

Security Closed First Mortgage on the land owned in fee simple, having a frontage of 82 feet, 1 inch on Lexington Avenue by 95 feet on Thirty-sixth Street, New York City, and the eleven story fire-proof apartment building now under construction thereon.

Location In the fashionable Murray Hill section, which is restricted to residential use under the zoning law—close to the Grand Central Station and to the principal subway, elevated, surface car and bus lines of the city.

Summary Demand for small housekeeping apartments in this section assures a steady income from this property—ample to net the owner a substantial return after meeting all principal and interest requirements. Serial prepayments on the principal together with the fact the land in this section is rapidly increasing in value will add to the already wide margin of security back of the bonds.

Outstanding features of this issue assure quick sale of the bonds. Call, write or phone for full information at your earliest convenience.

The New York Times.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The noteworthy movement of prices today again occurred elsewhere than on the stock exchange. Even Wall street's attention was directed more particularly to the renewed recovery in the franc and the renewed break of nearly a cent per pound in cotton.

Transactions on the stock exchange were the smallest of any Saturday this year. In this idle humor of the investing and speculating public, prices moved aimlessly back and forth within a narrow range, ending with few changes more than fractional for the day and with net advances and net declines numerically equal.

Week Brings Small Changes.

Comparisons with closing prices of a week ago showed a similar confusion of individual tendencies. The prevailing trend was downward and there were several considerable losses for the week; yet the tell tale "averages" indicate a net loss of less than ¼ point. They showed exactly the same fractional change the week before.

With the London and Paris stock markets keeping holiday today, the stormy speculation which had characterized the week in foreign exchange was lacking. Most of the European exchange rates hardly moved, but the franc crept slowly up to a figure at which about one-third of the loss incurred between Monday's highest and Wednesday's lowest.

European Events Impending.

The market gave no clew, however, to the probable next chapter in this remarkable speculative episode. Yet sooner or later the French senate must act on the 20 per cent tax increase. If it votes for it, the measure becomes law. But the Dawes' committee's report will possibly be submitted even before the senate's vote and forecasts of its recommendations are manifestly favorable to the just French and Belgian claims.

The persistence in speculative selling of the franc on a falling market, with these developments immediately impending, is so curious a circumstance as to suggest [at least to Wall street] a fight to protect large speculative commitments in an overdone "bear" campaign.

Cotton Prices Take Slump.

Little that is new can be said of the fall in cotton today to the low price of the year, the lowest except for one day since last September and 2¾ cents a pound below the price of March 1, 1923. How far this continued lowering of the price is warranted depends on circumstances which can be known only by those who can calculate profit or loss in selling at current prices goods manufactured from cotton bought at 30 cents.

An increase of $27,120,860 in reserves of the New York clearing house banks is shown in the weekly statement of actual conditions, made public today, a surplus of $22,057,510 taking the place of the deficit of $5,063,350 last week. Loans show an increase of $19,703,000 and deposits are about $36,000,000 higher than a week ago.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

Trading in the local unlisted securities market last week was on a rather restricted scale, prices generally were inclined to slightly lower levels with the exception of the public utility securities, which scored some very material advances.

Sales in Butler Brothers ranged between 33⅜ and 34, with a closing of 33½ to 33⅞. Northwestern Yeast declined some 3 points to 155 bid, 160 asked, with little stock changing hands. In the early trading Fairbanks Morse reacted to 55½, but later regained this loss with sales at 57. Goodman Manufacturing was about ½ point easier at 58 to 60. National Grocer common showed a fractional improvement at 8 to 8½. McCord Manufacturing common changed hands between 5 and 5½.

Palmolive common improved some 5 points to 85 bid, with no offerings under 95. The preferred was quoted 102 to 104. After selling at 132 Burroughs Adding Machine declined to a close of 128 bid, offered at 130. A fair demand existed for preferred issues. Seward Covert showed a 2 point improvement at 95 to 98. Albert Pick was 1 point better at 93 to 94, while Wahl was in demand at 88½ to 89½. Chicago Railway Equipment common and preferred reflected small losses, the formed closing at 42 to 45, and the latter at 24⅞ to 25¼.

Motor stocks were reactionary. Paige-Detroit selling down to 17½. Ford of Canada eased off to 448 to 445, a loss of about 8 points. Motor Products was quoted 3 points lower at 74 to 76. Timken Axle lost a minor fraction at 6⅜ to 6⅝, while Motor Wheel was unchanged at 10 to 10½.

Illinois traction common led the advance in the public utility group, improving some 5 points to high sales at 79½. At the close the stock was in demand at 78 with offerings at 80. American Light and Traction common declined to low sales at 127, but closed at 129 bid, offered at 131. Commonwealth Power Railway and Light common improved to a close of 62½ to 63. Commonwealth Power corporation new common opened at 55, and improved to sales at 58, with this closing bid and offerings at 59. The preferred was 1½ points better at 75½ to 77½c.

American Power and Light common continued strong, advancing some 3 points to 121 bid, offered at 123. American Public Utilities prior preferred advanced about 3 points to sales at 80½ and closed at 80 bid with small lot offerings at 82. The common was about 1 point better at 43 to 46. Northern Ohio Electric common advanced from 8 to high sales at 9½. The preferred also improved 1½ points to 26½ to 27. Central States Electric had a sharp advance from low sales at 19 to high and last quotations of 23½ bid, offered at 25. United Light and Power new securities continued steady, sales of the "A" ranging between 30⅝ and 31⅛, and the "B" between 31⅛ and 32½. Bank stocks were in good demand but actual trading was on a rather limited scale.

CHICAGO BANK CLEARINGS

Chicago bank clearings last week totaled $598,700,000, an increase of $56,300,000 over the preceding week, which contained a holiday, but a decrease of $81,600,000 from the corresponding week in 1923. Balances last week totaled $46,100,000, an increase of $900,000 over the preceding week and also a gain of $900,000 over the corresponding week last year. The figures for the week, day by day, follow:

Chicago stocks were moderately active and firm in yesterday's week-end session. Boone Woolen led in activity and gained a fractional advance, as also did Union Carbide, Standard Gas and Electric and Yellow Manufacturing. Stewart-Warner was about steady. A block of 2,000 Continental Motor stocks sold at 7⅛, unchanged from the previous closing price. It was reported arrangements have been made to list both the Yellow Manufacturing and Yellow Taxi shares on the New York stock exchange this week.

Sensational Offer to Chicago Motorists

10 cents a day for one year's upkeep

We will keep any new Overland passenger or commercial car purchased during the months of March and April in proper running condition, including labor and parts (excepting only tires, batteries and speedometers which are guaranteed by their manufacturers, and also excepting damage by wrecks or collisions) for an entire year at a cost of only 10 cents a day.

This plan is entirely optional. Many owners report maintenance costs far below this figure!

In making this revolutionary offer, we go on record as backing this wonderful car as no other car has been backed before.

We have faith in Overland because we know Overland keeps faith with its owners. We back Overland to the limit because Overland backs us.

Automobile buyers in 1924 want the facts—not a lot of fancy sales talk. Just try to get dealers for other cars to answer the questions we give on this page.

All merchandise is sold by comparison. A silk merchant compares fabrics. A furrier compares pelts. A jeweler compares jewels. Why shouldn't you buy your automobile on a basis of fair comparison?

Make any dealer in Chicago answer these questions:

(Q)—Will you agree to furnish all labor and materials necessary to maintain my car for one year at a cost of 10c a day?

(A)—Overland does.

(Q)—Is your car's clutch enclosed of improved plate type or is it open and exposed to the elements?

(A)—Overland is enclosed and is built as a unit with the engine.

(Q)—Are your car's push rods enclosed in an oil tight case?

(A)—The Overland push rods are, eliminating dirt.

(Q)—What is the diameter of your car's axle shafts? Do they carry Timken and New Departure bearings, and are the axles removable without dissembling the rear axle housing?

(A)—Overland axle shafts are 1½ inches in diameter—carry both Timken and New Departure ball bearings to care for all stresses and are removable without dissembling the entire rear construction (a costly operation).

(Q)—Has your car ordinary bearings or genuine Timkens in the front wheels?

(A)—Overland has four genuine Timken bearings in the front wheels.

(Q)—Will you agree to submit the springs of your car to a competitive tensile strength test with Overland?

(A)—Overland springs have 25 per cent greater tensile strength than those of most competitive cars.

(Q)—Why don't you use Triplex spring construction, which permits your car to have short wheel base but long spring base, thus insuring easy riding at all speeds and road conditions, yet with short turning radius for city driving?

(Q)—Has your car removable upholstery that quickly converts it into a car for commercial uses?

(A)—Overland has.

(Q)—Has your car a solid steel body, reinforced entirely with steel and has it a baked enamel finish?

(A)—Overland Touring has.

(Q)—Can the drive compartment of your car be entered from the left side with ease?

(A)—You can with Overland. A wide door makes access easy.

(Q)—Has your car as powerful an engine as Overland?

(A)—The new Overland engine is bigger and better than ever.

(Q)—How many miles on a gallon of gasoline?

(A)—Thousands of Chicago Overland owners are getting 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline with Overland cars.

(Q)—How about lubricating oil consumption?

(A)—Hundreds of Chicago Overland owners who have driven the cars an average of 5,125 miles per car last year, drove this distance on a lubricating oil consumption average of 162.5 miles per quart.

(Q)—How do you figure an owner's investment?

(A)—Here it is straight. The real price is the list price, plus the service expense, plus depreciation when the car is placed on the market for re-sale. There is no guess about Overland service costs and a comparison will prove that there is less depreciation in Overland.

When you dig into the facts you find any number of reasons why Chicago owners call Overland the most automobile in the world for the money.

This is our challenge and answer to competition. We back Overland to the limit because Overland backs us. We invite and welcome all comparisons of quality, comfort, power and economy at or near Overland price.

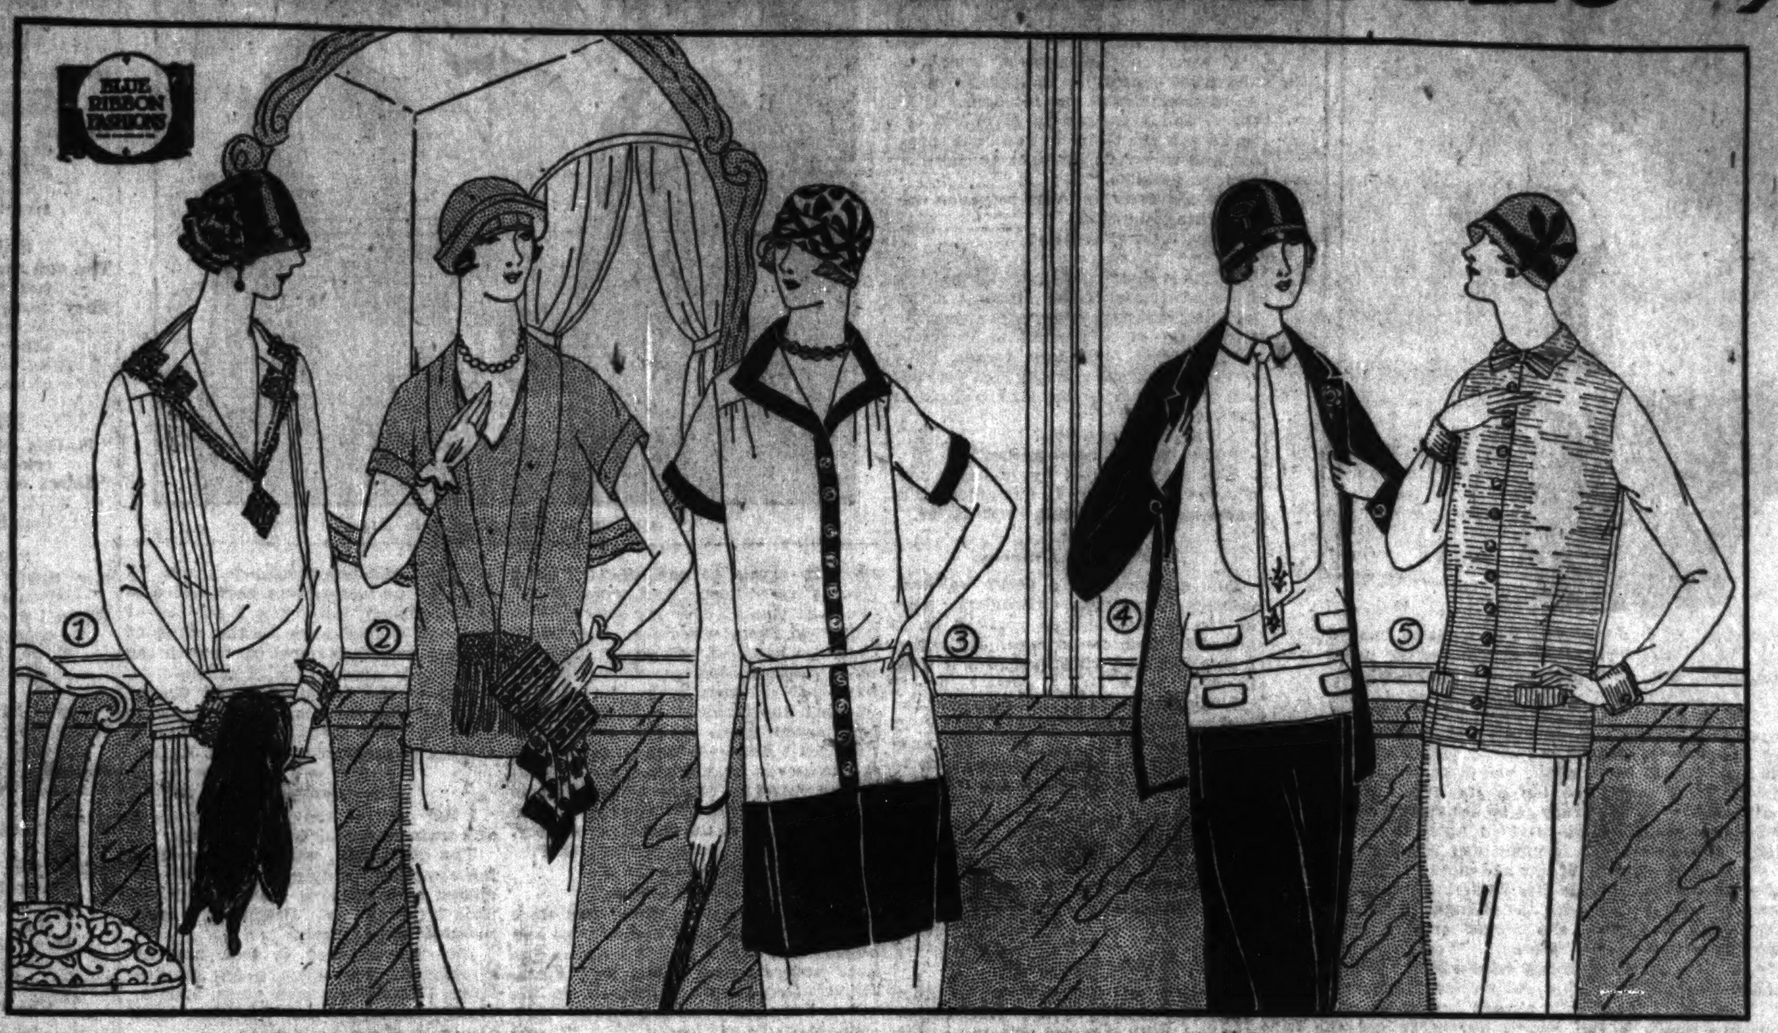
The Blouse Comes Back to Public Life

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Only a year ago and the number of women interested in blouses was hardly greater than the number of feminine minds that thrilled to higher mathematics. Today all this has changed. For the advent of the suit brought about a reaction in favor of the disinherited garment, and just now the question "What blouse shall I buy?" almost overshadows the perennial "What hat shall it be?"

In looking over the spring's collection of blouses one is prostrated. It is exactly the same situation that might be created by a person who led you to a meadow of dandelions and then commanded, "Pick out the one you like best." Of course, it might seem slanderous to compare present day blouses with a field of mimeographed flowers, and I hasten to add that the simile related only to numbers—not to duplication of form. Indeed, quite the contrary conditions prevail. Never was there a time when such diversity of type existed.

Undoubtedly the first consideration of the blouse minded woman will be the tailored kind. This garment is, in fact, rendered essential by the mannish tailored suit now occupying the center of the street wear stage. One might as well omit Ophelia from "Hamlet" as to put on this sort of tailleur without its tailored blouse.

For this type of waist the materials most favored are crepe de chine, batiste, white satin, men's shirtings, and silk broadcloth. For the strictly tailored shirt, with its masculine collar destined for the masculine four in hand, men's shirtings are especially good. These sometimes introduce the bold blazer stripes, but more frequently the colors assume a pastel range of tints. Practically in all cases, however, the background is white. In this men's shirtings follow a fashion line of least resistance, for white reigns supreme over the blouse legions.

In this connection the revival of the white satin blouse is especially interesting. For a long time this garment was almost as much of an outcast as the man or woman who doesn't do the fox trot. Now on every hand and in the most fashionable shops one sees unmistakable signs that it has recaptured all its former authority. The tailored white satin blouse is especially prominent, and it frequently is seen with either shirt bosom or waistcoat front. However, there is no limitation upon its activity, and I have seen some adorable costume blouses in the same fabric. For example, one white satin model of hip length variety trimmed its little upstanding Chinese collar with black jet and used the same contrast on long and wide oriental sleeeves.

For the costume blouse this Chinese influence is widespread. Sometimes the model has the popular short sleeves and sometimes relentless logic carries it to the typical mandarin length. But always its derivation may be traced by the small fence collar, and often, too, one gets further insight into its motivation by some dazzling bit of lacquer red or Chinese blue or oriental yellow, either in contrasting material or else in embroidery perhaps stressing the dragon and the winds, the circle and the hieroglyphic.

But to go back to the strictly tailored type of blouse, one is impressed by the various solutions of what to do about the neck line. One can wear the turn down collar with four in hand or one can wear with the mannish waist a fold of brilliant handkerchief. With equal lack of hesitation the Peter Pan collar, the choker—often with Directoire points—the jabot and the scarf may be assumed. The fact of it is that in so far as blouses are concerned, it is a neck and neck race in fashions.

At the extreme right of this page I am showing the Peter Pan version of the tailored blouse, and this in connection with the waistcoat front which I have frequently mentioned as one of the outstanding features of the new blouse. Back and sleeves are of white crepe de chine contrasting with front, cuffs, and collars of heavy white corded silk. A smart new detail of this blouse is the bow tie in the same fabric as the front. Pockets are set at each side, and a row of buttons covered in self material points to the popularity of this trimming in all realms of the woman's dress.

Although white is so predominant in the blouse world, it must not be imagined that any complete rout of colors has taken place. On the contrary, both the tailored version and the more elaborate blouse are frequently carried out in one of the season's favored colors. These colors are various tints of yellow and green, Madonna, pigtail, and powder blue. Also, the ubiquitous lacquer red so much in line with our partiality for everything Chinese is sometimes developed into an entire model. However, this tint is seen under much more favorable circumstances when seen sparingly, and one prefers it, therefore, when merely suggested in pipings or other blouse trimmings.

For spring wear beige is taking up more than its share of the limelight of fashion. For both suits and street frocks it is emphasized in all the spring collections and frequently its authority extends even to the afternoon or evening frock. For example, beige lace and beige net embroidered in self-color have been noted in all the smart collections. This being the case, we experience no shock in learning that the beige blouse, especially for tailored types, as at present fashionable. Gray, too, is another neutral tone of which one sees quite a little—especially in connection with a suit of the same color.

This last statement brings one to a point stressed by recent Paris modes. The French opinion seems to be that one must either wear a white blouse with the tailored suit or else match this accessory with the suit. The least that one can do in the conscientious performance of one's dress duty is to match the waist with the color of the jacket lining, and even this last is regarded as far from a blameless course of conduct.

In spite, however, of the high handed edict, New York insists upon greater freedom of choice. Thus for wear with the mannish suit of black the figure second from the right dons a leaf green blouse of tub silk. As a compromise, however, the tone of suit is repeated in the pipings of this blouse, all of which are of black. Also, the monogram embroidered on each end of the matching four in hand is in black.

Speaking of monograms, surely no woman is going to be out of print this year. Still, the monogram rages and our blouses in especial are identified as carefully as our steamer trunks. The most popular form is in the big bold medallion occurring either in the front or at one side of the garment, but this present less obtrusive occurrence of the initials is even newer.

You will see that the heroine of the leaf green blouse with its numerous pockets is wearing a boutonniere. So are we all of us—if we want to be doing the latest thing. The white gardenia is the favorite bloom for this purpose, and it always looks stunning on the dark suit accompanied by snowy blouse. However, the blouse has a direct influence upon our selection of boutonniere, for it frequently effects a matching of blossoms and waist fabric. Thus, the green leaf of this gardenia repeats the color of the blouse.

When speaking of the various interpretations of the neck line we purposefully omitted the V opening. For this in itself is worth a paragraph. It has by no means vanquished the familiar round neck line, but more and more it threatens to do so. For example, Jenny's blouses of the spring all show this V opening.

It is recorded in the central drawing in a white crepe blouse banded in black and trimmed with white galolith buttons. Regarding the succcess of this type of blouse, our American fashion experts seem to be dubious. Nevertheless, the long tunic or casaque has many devoted adherents both here and in Paris, and for more elaborate wear these casaques display a wealth of elaboration and a colorful range of fabric. In such cases the casaque performs its traditional duty—it achieves a costume. However, the long tunic is also sponsored by some designers for wear with the suit. In the latter case the blouse is nearly always of white and frequently it is split at the sides.

However, it is the hip length model which is undoubtedly occupying the center of the stage. The hip length casaquin occurs in a thousand forms and adheres to no strict policy of belt or band. Illustrative of the variety of type to be found in this single province are the last two drawings on this page. At the left a white crepe de chine blouse fastens at the sides with small pearl buttons. This band is plaited, and the plaits are echoed again on the front of the garment. Here again the V closing is shown and in this instance it is carried out with an exquisite detail of tucks, eyelet embroidery, and real Valenciennes lace. The lace and tucks are then enunciated again on the cuffs.

In our final model the designer seemed to be taking no risks of unpopularity. For not only did he do the popular V neck, but he did it in connection with a scarf collar. And, finally, just as though he had not already taken out sufficient insurance, he chose for the color of his crepe the jonquil yellow which is one of the spring's leading colors. So much for caution!

Although the separate blouse has gained so much headway, it does seem hard for these designers to give it a latch key of its own. They always seem to want to keep it in bounds, and, therefore, we are not surprised to see brand new spring suits which, although not attached to their matching blouses in front, maintain in the back their same hereditary hold. THE POTTERS

by J. P. McEvoy

PROLOGUE.

When Nature can't find a convenient place to hide useless knickknacks she tucks them away in the human anatomy . . . witness the tonsil, the adenoid, and the appendix, all of which are extracted these days at great expense to the extractee . . . the Potters are no exception, for the youngest of the Potter tribe, Peter E. Potter Jr., is even now on his way to the hospital, where Dr. Cottle will separate him from his tonsils while Pa and Ma stand by and suffer in unison.

SCENE I.

It is early morning, and Junior, minus breakfast, is rolling along in a taxi between Pa and Ma . . . with all the touching confidence of childhood, he is believing the stories he is being told by his shameless, mendacious parents . . . he would be walloped for telling half as many.

JUNIOR (a bit doubtfully):
I'm gonna see movie?

MA (patiently):
Yes, honey. Daddy and mamma are taking you to see movie.

JUNIOR (happily):
Bill Hart, mamma?

MA: Yes, dear, Bill Hart.

(Hugs him close. Suppose something happened when he was under the ether and he didn't . . . hugs him tighter and tries to banish thought.)

PA (slapping Junior on knee):
Well, old fella, how do you feel this morning?

(This is the fifteenth time he has asked that question . . . maybe it's nervousness or thinking too much . . . of course, Junior isn't too small to take ether, and it isn't going to hurt him to have his tonsils cut out . . . didn't the doctor say it wouldn't? . . . still, can you always rely on what these doctors tell you? Everybody tells everybody else so many fairy tales in this world . . .)

JUNIOR:
I wan' somep'n to eat. (Suddenly) I don' wanna go movie dis morning.

MA (hurriedly):
O, but you must, dear. (Noticing in Junior's eyes the birth of distrust) I mean, dear, you'll just love this movie; and then we'll have a nice breakfast with some nice sliced oranges.

JUNIOR (scenting a new soft generosity):
And can I have some all day tuckers, too?

MA: Yes, dear; all you want.

JUNIOR (half to himself):
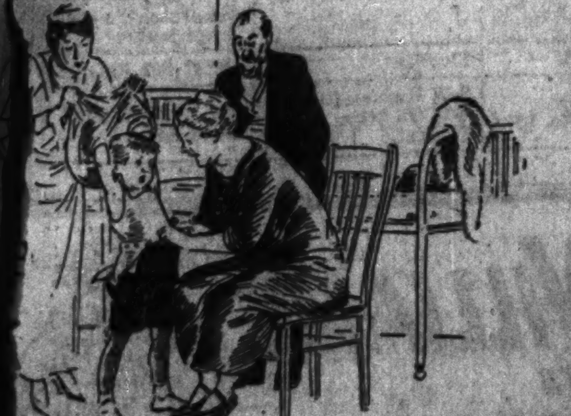
Dat's funny.

SCENE II.

A room in the hospital . . . one of those white, antiseptic places with a high bed that guarantees a broken back if you should ever roll out . . . Ma begins to undress Junior, assisted by nurse . . .



"What you undress me for, huh?"

JUNIOR (puzzled):
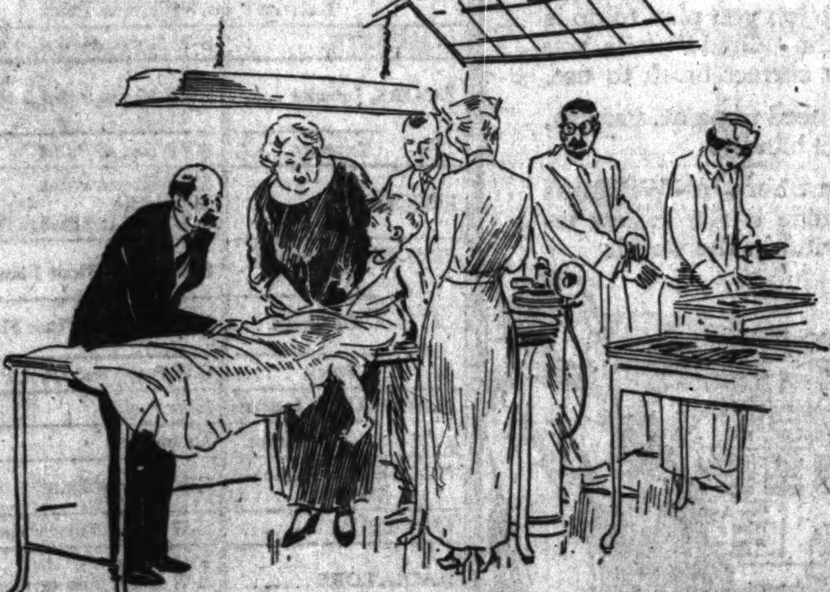
What for you undress me, huh?

NURSE:
You must be in your nightie to see the animals.

JUNIOR:
Animals? Mamma, you said I was gonna see movie?



"Where am I going to see movie?"

MA: Nurse meant a movie with animals in it; didn't you, nurse?

NURSE (glibly):
O, yes.

(Second nurse appears with armful of apparatus. Quickly jabs needle into Junior's ear and takes drop of blood for blood test.)

JUNIOR (frightened):
Ow-w-w! Wa's dat for?

MA (soothingly):
O, that's nothing.

JUNIOR (eying her severely):
Nuthin'? Huh! Dat hurt.

(A short time elapses, and interne appears with rolling bed. Junior transferred, covered with sheet, and rolled to elevator.)

MA (accompanying him, holding his hand; Pa bringing up the rear, trying to appear unconcerned and stoical):
We're going upstairs now and see the movies.

JUNIOR:
Dis is fun. Hot dog!

MA: Why, Junior! Such language!

JUNIOR (amazed):
Dat's awf'y funny.

SCENE III.

The operating room . . . Junior transferred to operating table and surrounded by nurses and internes with gauze masks . . . table with more tools than a poor golfer carries is wheeled close to table . . . Dr. Cottle appears with rolled up sleeves and gauze mask which emphasizes that cat-about-to-eat-the-canary look to be seen on surgeons just before they begin to surge . . .

JUNIOR (suspicious):
Where am I gonna see movie?

NURSE (indicating bright spot on ceiling):
Right up there. See?

JUNIOR (doubtfully):
Ye—es.

MA: They're gonna start right away, but first you must smell some nice perfume.

(Nurse puts cloth over his eyes and interne begins to give him the ether.)

JUNIOR (frantically):
Stop . . . STOP . . . DAT NOT PERFOOM . . . STOP IT . . . STOP IT . . .

PA: Let him alone. Let him say anything he wants to. That's all right.

MA (frantically):
Are you sure you're not going to hurt him . . . isn't he getting too much ether . . . won't it affect his heart . . . O, doctor, I'm so frightened!

PA (who is just as frightened but is trying hard not to show it . . . the effort is making him just a little green around the gills):
Come on, Ma; you better let me take you out.

(Nurses hold him down while interne continues to drop ether . . . Junior soon succumbs and Dr. Cottle picks out a particularly quaint looking niblick.)

MA (determinedly):
No; I'm going to stay right here.

DR. COTTLE (evenly):
If you are, you'll have to be a little more quiet about it.

(Proceeds with operation. At first snip Junior moves uneasily and moans a little.)

MA (wildly):
O, doctor, you're hurting him! Aren't you hurting him?

PA (thickly):
Now, Ma, it's all right.

MA (desperately):
But maybe he isn't unconscious!

DR. COTTLE (continuing to carve):
You'll have to take Mrs. Potter out of here, Mr. Potter, if she cannot control herself.

PA (firmly):
Come on, Ma; you'd better go.

MA (even more firmly):
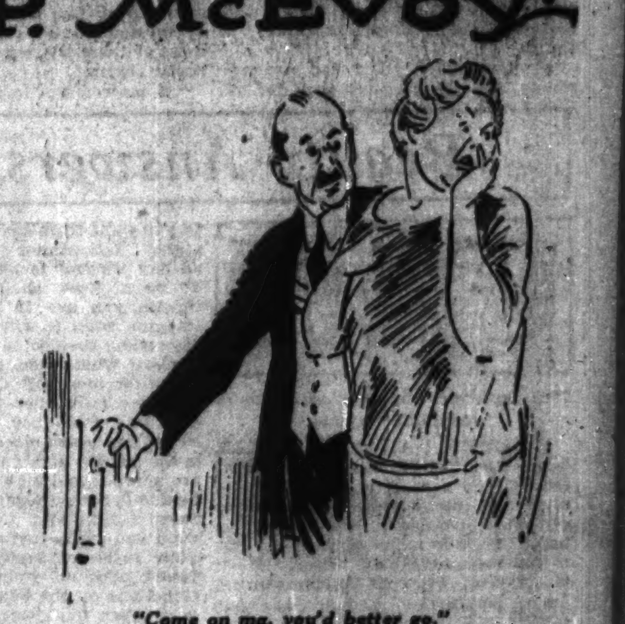
I'll do nothing of the kind.

(The female of the species wins another verdict over the male . . . the operation continues . . . two tonsils are surrounded and cut off in their youth . . . their former owner sleeps on and is transferred once more to his rolling wagon and taken back to his room, where he is put to bed again and left to come to whenever he gets ready.)



"Come on ma, you'd better go."

SCENE IV.

Junior's room in the hospital . . . Pa and Ma Potter have been keeping vigil over him while he slowly comes up from under the ether . . . nurses rustle in and out, bringing a sound of starched clothes and an odor of antiseptics . . . the usual noises in the hall: the rattle of dishes, moans, internes kidding nurses, a muffled scream, a muffled laugh, the telephone . . .

MA (wringing hands):
Isn't he ever coming to? We've been here for hours, it seems to me!

PA (patting her hand absently):
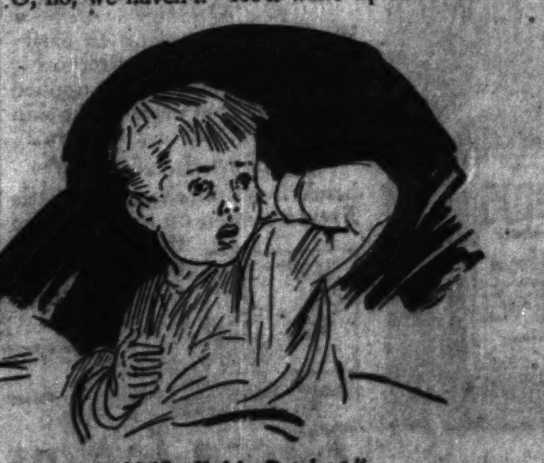
O, no, we haven't. He'll wake up soon now.



"Nuthin'? Huh! Dat hurt."

MA (worrying):
Maybe he lost too much blood and he's too weak. Maybe they gave him too much ether. O, if anything happened to him, I'd just die . . . I couldn't stand it, that's all!

PA (shaken in spite of himself):
He's all right. There's nothing going to happen to him. (Gruffly, to hide his own emotions) I wish you'd quit your calamity howling . . .

MA (flaring):
Calamity howling? Who? Me? Haven't you got any heart, Peter E. Potter, sitting there abusing me because I worry about our child? Our baby, too. If it was Mamie, or Bill, it would be different, but Junior . . .

PA (hurriedly):
There, there, I didn't mean anything. Don't get sore. I was just——

MA (interrupting):
Look, look—he's coming to.

(Junior tosses around a bit and then begins to cry even before he opens his eyes.)

JUNIOR (weeping):
Mamma . . . MAMMA!

MA (soothingly):
There, there . . . here I am, honey. Here's mamma . . . what is it? (Hugs him close and smooths back his hair tenderly.) There, there . . . Mamma's right here. What is it?

PA (with great sigh of relief . . . his first easy breath for twenty-four hours):
Well, that's that. (Complacently) I knew it would come out all right. Didn't I tell you? And you was so frightened all the time.

(Junior, opening his eyes, gradually focuses on the scene . . . sees Pa and Ma and, finally getting his bearings, recognizes where he is and what has happened to him . . . tears dry magically and hard look of disillusionment comes into his baby blue eyes.)

MA (eagerly):
How do you feel, Junior? Say something.

JUNIOR (slowly and bitterly):
Dat's w'at I call a dirty twick!

(And that's that—until next Sunday.)

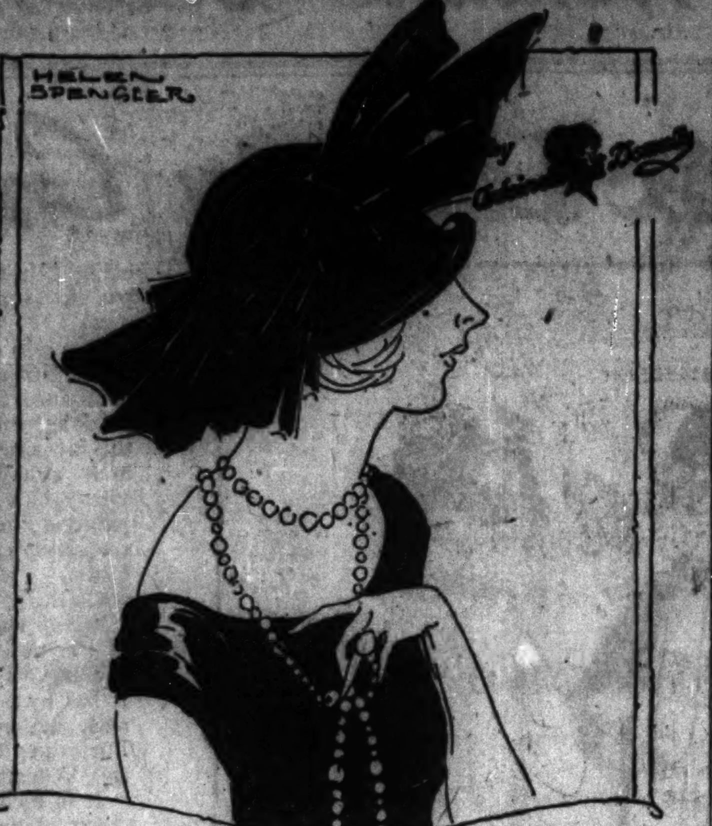
A HAT FOR EVERY FACE

Having to Do With the Frenchwoman's Chapeau; How She Chooses It, And, More Important, How She Dons It.



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—I asked a tres chic American girl just returned from Paris if she had discovered the trick among Parisian women which gives them their far flung reputation of knowing how to wear clothes.

She said: "Well, to begin with, they have 100 great designers over there to our one, consequently many more models to inspire them. Or, if they buy originals, they have many more to choose from and, therefore, are more likely to choose one with an individual touch. They don't just go in and order clothes. They study them.

"If you ask me I would say their hats and the tilt of them have a powerful lot to do with the reputations you speak of. The ultra-smart French girl does not go into a shop, choose a hat from a shelf, and walk out with it. She has her hats built upon her head. They are fitted—she may several fittings. When she emerges from the milliner's hands she has something on her head which is distinctively well fitting and becoming as to line and color. Then, with sheer native instinct, she puts the hat on at an angle—perhaps the merest fraction of one—that is tremendously chic."

"The American girl is prettier, and I think she wears her clothes as well—but she does not know hats as the French mademoiselle does. I think that is the secret."

Built to Order.

If this is the case, it will not be long before the American girl will have outrivaled the other in every detail. Already she is demanding a hat for her own head and not one that is manufactured to satisfy the demand for a head covering of 1,000 other girls.

Apropos of this, a man escorted his wife and her sister to a matinée after lunching with them. At the theater they were to meet a third woman. Inasmuch as the man was going back to his office and the play had begun before the third guest arrived, he suggested he would wait in the lobby for the tardy one so that the other two would not miss any more of the performance. He had never met the woman, but his wife told him he could identify her by a small black hat. The man accosted six women wearing small black hats, asking each in turn if she were Miss Blank. The guard eyed him suspiciously and was just telling him to move on when the seventh small black hat—and right one—arrived.

"You can have custom made hats here in America, just as well as in Paris," continued my friend just off the boat. In fact, I did not buy any over there because there is a woman right here who knows my face and what it needs, and I am going up there now to order one. She is an artist. She studies your face, the shape of your head, the color of your eyes, and your full stature in relation to a hat. Better come along and talk to her."

Not a Hat in Sight.

Arrived at an imposing looking building, we took an elevator to a certain floor, and were conducted into a salon done in gray velvet pile carpet, long low window seats upholstered in black velvet and fascinating pillows, and orange curtains. But no hats were in sight!

A woman takes your head measurements, and the shape is built for another fitting. The lines—front, back and side—must be correct before the work proceeds. The trimming will take care of itself later.

"Every face requires just a little different dent or twist or turn in the shape of the hats. Take two women of the same type. Try the same hat on both. One may look well in it. The other not look well at all," said the artist-milliner. "Women are becoming much more fastidious about this feature of dress, the hat, because they know the beauty value of a hat that is just right. A plain woman can do a tremendous lot for herself with the right hat. It is a lot more important than the dress. But the idea is to have the dress, the hat, and the woman all in one picture."

"The hat is not like love in a man's life—a thing apart. It has to be considered in relation to the whole. I don't think much of the idea of matching hat and hosiery, say, as was exploited here a while ago. Nor do you have to have a one color scheme throughout for a smart turnout. You may wear a brown hat with a navy suit—but not a navy hat with a brown suit. You may wear a black hat with a blue frock, but a blue hat with a black frock would not look well at all.

Pretty Colors and Smart.

"There are colors that are pretty but not smart. Alice blue or delft is a pretty color but I do not use it. Old rose is old fashioned. Yellow, lacquer red, soft green, and gray are the smartest colors now—and black, of course; black for young, old, and middle aged, allowing for the softening line and fabric to serve where needed."

Of veils, the designer says: "A black veil should never be worn with a black hat, brown, navy, or taupe is good. The black veil is old. The brown veil is best of all, for every type and hat. But veils are not being worn so much now, except the lace draped ones falling off the hat brim. These are more for the pretty type of woman than the smart."

"The less trimming you put on, the younger a hat," is an excellent bit of advice from this woman, who has one of the smartest clienteles in New York, most of them bearing names from the social register.

"A matron has to have fuller trimming. Her face must be dressed more. The older woman again needs richer trimming and richer fabric.

Subject to Change.

"A mistake commonly made by women is believing they can wear the same shape and color of hat they wore five or ten years ago. This is not necessary to be individual. Every new fashion can be adapted to the individual. A woman may recollect a certain style of hat she wore years ago which brought her flattering comments. Today, with the changes in her skin and eyes, she would require something quite different. Women should take time to buy hats wisely. They should not allow saleswomen to hurry them. And it is always best to stand before a full length mirror to get the full length effect, before deciding upon a purchase."

Our authority today does not believe in that old copybook rule which tells the tall woman to wear the wide hat. She believes the cloche or the turban more becoming. A woman with a round fat face, naturally, must have depth of crown and brim to make symmetrical line. The cloche, which is still the most popular and likely to remain so for some time because it is universally becoming, can be built proportionately to the fat face.

Consider the Neck Line.

The hat must also be considered in relation to the neck line. With a high fur collar one cannot wear a large wire hat. This is for summer wear, when a neck is on view. No woman can achieve a truly smart effect with her hair dressed low on the nape of her neck. Without a hat, this is extremely becoming to some women, but the back of the neck has to be small for a smart line. Crowns now are made so tight that all the hair must be out of sight. These and the tilt—be it ever so slight—are the details the French woman studies. Tilting the hat after it is on is a knack some have instinctively and others never seem to acquire, and their hats are consequently less smart.

A reactionary note was seen in a hat of Geranium red, which was being fitted on a striking, red haired girl with a brilliantly clear complexion. It was stunning!

Telling It to Bill.

I was serving in the navy during 1917, and was stationed ashore at the time this occurred. My chum and I had been visiting some friends in the little town and found to our dismay we were adrift.

I went to the nearest telephone and asked central for the officers' mess. A messmate was on telephone duty there, and I wanted to give him the tip to ask the S. M. to report us present and we would get back to camp as soon as possible.

The conversation over the phone was something like this:

"Say, Bill, that you?"

"Yes."

"This is Blair speaking. My pal and I are adrift and if the sergeant major has not reported present yet, just fix him to report us present as he comes in the mess. Now don't forget, Bill."

"The S. M. has not reported yet, but you will report to me at 9 o'clock in the morning."

"Why, who are you?"

"The battery commander."

The operator had by mistake connected me up to the B. C.'s office. His name also was William. C. H. W.

Lucky and Unlucky.

One afternoon at a party we were talking about hand embroidery. One of the members was working on a beautiful linen centerpiece. My sister, who also was a guest, asked if it were linen.

I, speaking so all could hear me, the hostess sitting beside me, I said, "Of course it's linen. Do you think anybody would use so little common sense as to do all that work on common muslin."

I being the lucky, and yet unlucky, one that day, took first prize. Can you imagine my embarrassment when the hostess handed me a scarf beautifully embroidered on muslin?

M. H.

Less and Less.

"Such a pretty little dress," mother declared, "and so cheap," referring to a pretty little flowered silk and cotton mixed crêpe frock she had just made for me.

That night I went walking and wore the dress. I was nearly home when it started to rain. Glancing up the street, I discovered I was near the home of a girl I knew, and so I hurried over there.

I ran through the darkness. By the time I reached the home of my girl friend I was drenched. She was entertaining a group of boys and girls, and against my protests that I would rather stay on the porch, she prevailed on me to come in.

As I stepped in the light every one laughed. I cannot say I blamed them. For the pretty little dress had drawn up. It clung to me tightly. The sleeves were short. And, worst of all, the skirt was up over my knees.

I stood there speechless, not knowing what to do—it was surely the most embarrassing moment of my life. I borrowed a dress from the girl at whose home I had stopped, and shortly afterwards was able to go on home. Poor little dress—it was so pretty but it can never be worn again—at least by me. And in future I am going to be sure I do not get caught in the rain in a dress of the shrinking variety.

G. P.

He Never Came.

Several years ago, when cars were considered a luxury, I had a horse and buggy. I invited a girl to a dance. She lived several miles from my home. Right after supper I hitched up the horse, and then went in to dress. As I thought I still had lots of time, I threw myself on the bed, went sound asleep, and never woke up until the next morning. When I offered my apologies to the girl, she said she didn't care so much about my not coming, but she had a brand new dress which she wanted to show that night. She, however, never accepted another invitation to go any place with me."

A. M. Z.

Such an Introduction!

One afternoon I drove out to keep an appointment I had with a member of the chamber of commerce, a man I had never met. When I proceeded to back my car to park, a sudden crash told me I had struck some one who had slid into the open space. A yell and the tooting of a horn added to the confusion, but when I got out of the car, walked back to the point of contact, and exchanged cards with the somewhat angry and reprimanding driver of the car behind and discovered he was the man I had come to see—that was about the most embarrassing moment of my life. C. A. G.

Questioning Eyes.

I am critical about table manners, and train my children accordingly.

The other day, while we were having company for dinner, my young son spilled milk all over his fresh blouse. This irritated me. Promptly I reprimanded him severely.

But it was hard to look into his questioning eyes when, a few minutes later, I tipped my own glass, spoiling besides my dress and the table cloth also part of a guest's dress.

While the party enjoyed the joke on me, I must truly say it was an embarrassing moment. B. M. L.

Reckless with Time.

Having quite a wait between two appointments, I thought I would amuse my small son by taking him through the toy department of one of our large stores.

It was finally time to go, and while waiting for a descending elevator Maurice said in a loud voice, "Mother, we looked at everything in the place and you didn't buy a single thing."

There were smiles on all the faces around and I assure you this was my most embarrassing moment. H. M.

Smiley-Wileys

A Smiley-Wiley is a jingle of two lines. Any funny little rhyme that will make folks laugh is a Smiley-Wiley. For instance:

May your path be filled with roses
And your kids have turned up noses.

You can probably write a better one than that. If so, do it and mail it to the Smiley-Wiley Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. The Tribune will pay $10 daily for the best one published, $5 for the next best, $3 for the third, $2 for the fourth, and $1 for each additional one.

This department appears everyday in the Daily Tribune.

FIRST PRIZE—$10.

He doctored himself from medical books, did Marcus Aurelius De Windt.
He had a pain in his stomach one day, and died of a careless misprint.

R. F. Briggs, 913½ South 4th street, Springfield, Ill.

SECOND PRIZE—$5.

The sun was hot upon the beach, her suit was little sister's,
They thought she was having a wonderful time, but all is not bliss that—blisters.

Joan Morse, 2601 East 76th street, Chicago.

THIRD PRIZE—$3.

"Is this airplane safe?" the buyer cried.
"Safest on earth," the maker replied.

E. R. Parker, 418 4th street, Waukegan, Ill.

FOURTH PRIZE—$2.

For public speaking only once the honor has been mine,
When I proposed to my best girl upon a party line.

T. F. Robertson, 616 West 8th street, Coffeyville, Kas.

FIFTH PRIZE—$1.

When I was one and twenty your years were just a score;
But now I'm one and forty, and you are twenty-four.

F. G. Ferguson, Route 29, Box 264 Wellston, St. Louis, Mo.

"Can you live on two hundred a month?" said he.
"I can, but what will you do?" asked she.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Why They Curl Hair The Silmerine Way

When you use liquid Silmerine to keep your hair wavy, glossy and beautiful, you can be sure you are not experimenting with some new, untried method that has not withstood the most exacting tests. You can be sure you are not injuring hair or scalp in any way. Silmerine has been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health, conducted by Good Housekeeping Magazine, and by many thousands of pleased women throughout the land.

Liquid Silmerine costs not to exceed 20 cents an ounce at any drug or department store. Buy a bottle today, follow the simple directions, and you will be delighted with the result.

Beauty Answers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

What's your beauty ill? Too fat! Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

WORRIED: I AM CONTINUALLY being surprised with the number of requests for a cure for nail biting. It must be nervousness that makes grownups indulge in the disfiguring habit. Pride in nails should help. But if you need something better, here it is: Alcohol, 1¼ ounces; chinoidin, ¼ ounce; gum mastic, ¼ ounce, and gum myrrh, 1½ ounces. Mix, let stand forty-eight hours, shaking bottle occasionally. Apply with camel's hair brush. This can be removed with alcohol or hot water.

JEAN: YOU GET THOSE WRINKLES between the eyes from frowning. Eye strain, undoubtedly, is at the back of it all. I would advise you to see an oculist, for the headaches and eye-strain indicate there is trouble. And then you might send a s. a. e. for a little pamphlet I have on care of the eyes.

MRS. G. W.: FAT ACCUMULATES on the muscles that are least disturbed by muscular action, which is the reason hips and waist line advertise their miserable product first. So before the middle aged spread envelopes you, get busy with my youth preserving exercises, which I shall be glad to mail for s. a. e.

JUST A GIRL: NOW, IF I COULD write you a prescription that would make your eyelashes grow and curl upward, I'd go into the business. For if there's one thing every lady knows it's that she can do a powerful lot of damage with eyelashes that are luxurious with an upward curl. But growing eyelashes is a tedious job, and their inaccessibility makes them harder to be patient with in the matter of remedying. Here's the best formula I know of, but don't forget the big job is up to you, which is being as consistently regular in the application of the grower as you are about eating. Yellow vaseline, two ounces; oil of lavender, fifteen drops, and oil of rosemary, fifteen drops. Apply with a tiny brush, and be careful not to get any into the eyes.

MICK: YOU ARE GOING TO wind up in a sanitarium, Micky, if you do not get to bed earlier. Why do you want to go dancing every single night? You cannot do that and work all day without looking like a wreck. Twice a week should suffice, even though you are 19 and full of life. Imagine what it will be one of these days when the doctor orders you off to a place where you won't be able to dance for months? Of course, that is why you have those lines and circles and why your boy friend said you looked ten years older. And that, too, is the trouble with your appetite. You are nervous and high strung, and your food will not perform its normal processes of digestion. Cold creams aren't what you need—just a little jar of cold sense to be massaged into that giddy young brain of yours. Read the instructions on the bottle: "To bed not later than 11. Get outdoors every noon hour for a walk. Walk Saturday afternoon, Sunday, and as many nights during the week as you can."

WORRIED: A GIRL OF 20, 5 feet 8, may carry 140 pounds quite smartly. Your 150 gives you a few pounds too much. You can get that off in no time by shaving down your meals to one-half their present total of calories. If you are not familiar with calorie figures, send s. a. e. to me and I will furnish you a list of the most commonly used foods, telling how many calories there are in the ordinary helpings of each.

BRIGHT EYES: YOU WANT TO put on ten pounds. For breakfast have a bowl of oatmeal with sugar and much cream upon it. Drink coffee au lait—half milk and half coffee—if you must have coffee. Better, though, if you could make it half milk and half cream. Eat buttered toast with a generous helping of butter, and a couple of slices of bacon. At noon have chocolate malted milk, a bowl of good soup, a salad, and a roll. Eat a good family dinner, and for dessert have sliced bananas with cream, or a rich custard. Before you go to bed have a glass of milk, and between meals during the day have milk. Be careful while on this kind of diet to see that you have a daily evacuation, if you must take castor oil to accomplish it.

ROSE L.: THE BOBBING WOULD not cause the hair to become thin and fall out; in fact, the opposite tendency is the rule. It becomes more luxuriant in its growth after bobbing, if anything. When hair falls out in alarming quantity, the cause is more likely to be a health disturbance. What undermines the body undermines the health of the hair. Any one who has been ill for some time knows this from experience. Nervous attacks are usually accompanied with hair loss—digestion troubles rob the hair of its tone. Chronic constipation affects the hair health. So I am inclined to think from what you say that when your health is improved your hair troubles will end. Send a s. a. e. to me for a pamphlet on hair which has instructions on brushing, shampooing, and a tonic.

A New Way to Tell Your Fortune

BY NAPOLEON'S BOOK OF FATE

THE ancient Egyptians, with their mysterious "Scroll of Man's Fate," containing the thirty-two grand questions of life and the thirty-two possible answers to each question, which we are publishing serially, were not the only ancients in possession of mysterious oracular books or writings.

The Romans, for example, had their famous Sibylline books, which played a tremendous part in the destiny of the early Romans and were jealously guarded.

Tradition has it that the Sibylline books were introduced into the life of the ancient Romans by a strange old woman. When she first offered them to Tarquininus Superbus during his refuge they consisted of nine volumes and were said by her to be the oracles of the Sibyls. The price she asked for them seemed exorbitant to Tarquininus, and he refused to buy them. The woman straightway burned three of the books and returned the following day and asked the same sum as before.

Tarquininus laughingly sent the woman away the second time, and she burned three more of the books. Again she returned and demanded the price she had asked at the beginning. Finally Tarquininus took the matter so seriously that he sent for the Augurs for advice. He had become possessed with an idea that there might be something important to himself and his people in these strange books.

Upon completing their divinations, the Augurs informed Tarquininus that he had committed a great piece of impiety in refusing to buy "a treasure sent from heaven," and commanded him to accept the books at any price. The strange old woman received the money originally asked, and charged that the writings be kept sacred. Then she vanished.

While the Romans believed implicitly in their oracles and the great Napoleon is supposed to have consulted constantly his mysterious Book of Fate and to have been guided by it in every crisis, our translation of the questions and answers is simply offered to you as a source of entertainment for an idle hour.

HOW TO GET YOUR OWN ANSWER.

Fix in your mind the question, to the exclusion of all other things. Then, thinking of it alone, with pen or pencil set down five rows of upright or inclined lines in the following manner:

| | | | | | | | | | | | |

taking care, but not consciously so, that each row contains more than twelve such lines, in respect of the numbers of the signs of the zodiac.

That is, you must not count the lines in each row as you make them, but you must abstractly guide pen or pencil across the paper so that the number of lines in each of the five rows, while more than twelve, shall be entirely without design as far as you yourself are consciously aware.

Having thus set down the five rows, you then count the lines in each row, to learn whether the number is odd or even.

Perhaps the count will show the first line to be odd, the second and third even, the fourth odd, the fifth even; you then belong to the class of mankind represented by the sign of odd, two evens, odd and even.

But no matter what your five lines show as to odd or even beginning with the first line and going down, there is an answer to the grand question of life that is meant especially for you.

You will find the answer you seek under the sign of your particular combination of lines of odd and even.

Bear in mind that only once you must ask any particular question—only once, in the above manner, must you set down the five rows of lines to learn your class combination of odd and even lines for that question. But with each new grand question of life you must set down the five rows of lines in order to learn your class or signs for that question.

When you have asked all thirty-two grand questions of life in this manner as they are published and have found the answers you will then know your fate in full as it is set down in the great Napoleon's Book of Fate—the ancient and mysterious Egyptian scroll.

Fifteenth Grand Question of Life:

Shall I Be Eminent and Meet With Preferment in My Pursuits?

THE ORACLE'S ANSWERS.

If you belong to the sign of:

Five odd: "Thou shalt be fortunate and meet with preferment in thy business."

Even, four odd: "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the full, leads on to fortune."

Odd, even, three odd: "Perseverance conquers every impediment."

Two odd, even, two odd: "Preferment depends entirely on thyself."

Three odd, even, odd: "Thou shalt meet with many obstacles, but at length thou shalt attain the highest earthly power and honor."

Four odd, even: "Thou shalt be preferred."

Two even, three odd: "Be contented with thy present lot."

Odd, two even, two odd: "Thou shalt be exalted above thy fellows."

Two odd, two even, odd: "Thy preferment will be owing to thine own deserts."

Three odd, two even: "Thine own merits will exalt thee."

Two odd, even, odd, even: "As the Nile produceth abundant harvests by its annual overflow, so will the good will of a friend produce thee preferment, fortune, and honor."

Odd, even, odd, even, odd: "Neglect not the opportunities which may be offered to thee, for they will lead to great preferment."

Even, odd, even, two odd: "Eminence is attained by the proper culture of great talents, and preferment by interest; thy lot is cast between both."

Even, two odd, even, odd: "When thou enjoyest the favor of powerful men let not thy pride be puffed up."

Odd, even, two odd, even: "When thou enjoyest prosperity and honor, feel for the misfortune of thy former friends."

Even, three odd, even: "When thou art in the zenith of thy power let not unjust deeds procure thy downfall."

Three even, two odd: "When thou enjoyest the favor of the mighty men of the earth take heed that thou art not ruined by a tongue."

Odd, three even, odd: "Use no servile means to secure preferment; thou shalt be exalted without their aid."

Two odd, three even: "Be not servile in adversity or despotic in prosperity."

Odd, even, odd, two even: "Interest will procure thee preferment to a great trust."

Odd, two even, odd, even: "Be honorable and honest in thy dealings and thou shalt be greatly exalted."

Even, two odd, two even: "Thy born will be exalted above thy fellows."

Even, odd, even, odd, even: "Be true to thy present trust and thou shalt have affairs of much importance committed to thy care."

Two even, two odd, even: "Kick not down the ladder which raiseth thee."

Three even, odd, even: "Cast not away thy present prospects in pursuing a phantom."

Odd, four even: "Be content and heed not the goadings of ambition."

Five even: "Thou shalt long be prosperous and thou oughtest therewith to be content; in the end unbounded ambition will be thy ruin."

Sixteenth Grand Question of Life:

Have I Any or Many Enemies?

THE ORACLE'S ANSWERS.

If you belong to the sign of:

Five odd: "Thou hast enemies who, if not restrained by fear of the laws, would plunge a dagger in thy heart."

Even, four odd: "Thy enemies will not have power to harm thee."

Odd, even, even, three odd: "Thou hast; but fear not that they will have power to injure thee."

Two odd, even, two odd: "Thou hast no enemies who can in any degree injure thee."

Three odd, even, odd: "Thou hast, and thou oughtest to be on thy guard."

Four odd, even: "Thou hast an enemy who will attempt to injure thee."

Two even, three odd: "A secret enemy will endeavor to undermine thy happiness."

Odd, two even, two odd: "Beware of false friends!"

Two odd, two even, odd: "Thou hast enemies, but they will have no power over thee."

Three odd, two even: "Envious persons will endeavor to impede thy passage through life."

Two odd, even, odd, even: "Thou hast an enemy, but thy person and fortune are safe from every attempt at doing thee harm."

Odd, even, odd, even, odd: "Enemies will endeavor to subvert thy reputation."

Even, odd, even, two odd: "Thou hast enemies, but thou shalt defeat them and they will be overwhelmed with shame."

Odd, even, two odd, even: "Thou wilt be invested by secret enemies, but they will be caught in the trap which they prepared for thee."

Even, two odd, even, odd: "Thou hast, but they will be discomfited."

Even, three odd, even: "The enemies who conspire against thee will be brought to shame and punishment."

Three even, two odd: "Enemies thou hast, but their designs will be frustrated."

Odd, three even, odd: "Be thou vigilant, and the designs of those who would do thee mischief will be defeated."

Two odd, three even: "The designs of the man who will become thine enemy shall not prevail against thee."

Odd, even, odd, two even: "An enemy will endeavor to mar thy prospects, but he will be taken in the net which he hath spread for thee."

Odd, two even, odd, even: "See that thy present friends do not become thy determined foes."

Even, two odd, two even: "Beware of treachery! Nothing further may be now revealed to thee."

Even, odd, even, odd, even: "An enemy will try to circumvent thee, but he will be foiled in his attempt."

Two even, two odd, even: "Thou hast little cause to dread the rage of any enemy who shall come against thee."

Two even, odd, even, odd: "In a contest which may take place soon, thou shalt be victorious over thine avowed enemies."

Even, odd, two even, odd: "Thine enemies are powerless and unworthy of thy regard."

Four even, odd: "Thou hast enemies who speak ill of thee and who would otherwise injure thee."

Even, odd, three even: "The barbed arrow which shall be shot at thee by a secret enemy will recoil on his own head."

Two even, odd, two even: "Act with caution, and thou shalt undoubtedly triumph over a powerful foe."

Three even, odd, even: "See that thy conduct be such that men may love and not hate thee."

Odd, four even: "Thou wilt be envied, but it shall be thy constant care that even thine enemies shall have cause to admire thy virtues."

Five even: "Heed not the feeble and impotent attempts of him who will attempt to do thee harm."

Varied Activities of the Women

The postmistress and all of the mail carriers in Shickshinny, Pa., are women.

In New York in 1920 there were 317,410 females, an excess of more than 15,000 over the males.

Although she is only 16 years of age, Miss Gladys Dillinghurst will act as mayoress of Chatham, England.

Miss Ruth Muskrat, a Cherokee girl, now a student at Holyoke college, will present to President Coolidge a book on Indian life.

Miss Florence Flower of New York claims the world's pocket billiard championship for women, having defeated all challengers to this title.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has announced the appointment of Dr. Louise Stanley of Nashville, Ky., as head of the newly established bureau of home economics.

The first woman boxing promoter in the history of boxing in this country has blossomed forth in the person of Mrs. Bessie Prenty, a Negress, who has been licensed in accordance with the regulations of the state athletic commission in Pennsylvania.

Miss Elena Torres of Mexico has just received a novel appointment from her government. She will travel over the country, visiting many villages, and, accompanied by a mason and a carpenter, will erect modern homes in which she will lecture and instruct the inhabitants on better methods of living.

How to Use the Patterns

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

ALPACA is one of the favored materials for spring, and would be suitable for the slip-on dress, pattern No. 1923. It is not an especially easy material to work with, as it ravels easily and is rather wiry. The seam edges would have to be bound with silk ribbon, and the work done by hand, but with care it should not be hard.

There are many new woolen materials this season that would look well in a dress of this design, and then there are the old standbys—wool jerseys, tricotine, serge, and twill, from which to choose.

The pattern is in two pieces—front and back—and below the waist line the front and back are slashed in from the under arm edges and laid in plaits. These plaits, being pressed flat from top to bottom, do not take away from the slender effect of the dress, and yet, if the plaits were held open, the skirt would measure at the bottom, for size 36, about 2⅛ yards.

A dressy appearance may be given to the dress by making the inset vest and collar of a contrasting material and color, and covering it well with embroidery. The edges of the flaring sleeves should be trimmed with bands that match the vest. There is a pattern for the sleeve band included in the pattern. If this is embroidered, it will be a help to run a basting thread in some contrasting color to outline the finished edges. After the embroidering is done, the bands should be faced with silk, seamed to the bands around the outside edges, turned, and pressed before setting on the sleeves.

The narrow sash is made of the dress material.

Pattern No. 1639 is for a slip-on house dress. The waist and skirt are cut separately and joined at a normal waist line. The skirt is straight and cut in one piece—measuring, for side 36, about 1⅝ yards at the bottom.

The pockets are a little unusual and may be embroidered in some gaily colored design or simply finished about the opening with one of the finishing braids—ric rac, for instance.

The back of the waist is in one piece, while the front has a middle front section that is laid in place over the side front pieces. This gives a chance for trimming prettily by using the finishing braid or a piping of some contrasting color to outline the joining. The neck and sleeve edges should be finished in the same way. Sash ends are sewed to the side edges of the front, and are to be tied in the middle back. The neck edge should be finished the same as the rest of the dress.

Printed georgette on one of the beautiful printed cotton voiles would make up prettily by pattern No. 1922. The one piece, straight gathered skirt measures about 2⅛ yards at the bottom, and should be made of a soft, light weight material.

The waist is long waisted, and the right front forms belt ends, and is slashed in from the under arm edge with the upper slashed edge gathered and joined to the belt end. Sash ends are attached to the belt section at the left side and to the extension on the right front. The pattern provides for long or short sleeves.

HEAD STUFFED BY CATARRH? USE A HEALING CREAM

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels! Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.

Before you buy any carriage for your baby, be sure to see the beautiful Lloyd Loom Carriages. Dealers everywhere are now having special showings of these finer baby carriages, displaying all the smart new styles, finishes and upholsteries.

Lloyd Loom Carriages are quite unlike other carriages. Their graceful bowl shape and sweeping curves and rolls are woven in, on the famous Lloyd Loom. This remarkable process weaves the carriage spirally, of a single, continuous strand of finest wicker. Not only does this flawless weaving add to the beauty and strength of the carriage; it cuts its cost amazingly. Even with all its refinements of finish, the Lloyd is sold for less than has ever been asked for a fine baby carriage. You can identify a Lloyd by the name plate on the seat. Lloyd Loom Furniture and Doll Carriages are made by the same spiral weaving process.

Our 11 Big Stores Are Kept Busy Supplying the Homes of People Who Demand Good Furniture

A big Chicago auvertiser claims that there are enough people who desire good merchandise in the city to keep his particular store busy. We have proved that there are enough people who insist on good furniture in Chicago to keep our eleven stores busy! In fact, we are hardly able, at times, to supply the demand; and were compelled to open additional stores in 1923 in order to keep pace with our growing patronage. We carry the finest lines of furniture in the country, but refrain from tacking on the topnotch price for the sake of impressing our trade with the quality of our goods—we believe that moderate prices produce more sales—a new customer, secured by a fair deal and an honest profit, is a permanent asset to any merchant no matter what business he may be following.

LEGAL RIGHTS and MORAL JUSTICE by DORIS BLAKE

Feminine Frailties As Viewed by The Man Behind the Scenes: Attorney for Divorce.

"WOMEN who seek the divorce courts never admit they are in the wrong. They are always the injured ones [illegible] brute of a man who has brought them to their sorry plight.

"If she does know she is to blame she has not a mind big enough to admit it.

"Few of these women have a proper sense of justice in its broad sense. Some wives are good sports in the sense of being good losers in the matrimonial game—but they are rare instances in a divorce lawyer's experience."

The above extracts are the opinion of a lawyer of many year's practice, during which time he has handled several hundred divorce cases and other situations involving domestic relations problems and their solutions.

When Woman Errs.

Is it true that woman's conscience is based upon feeling and not upon reason, as is argued by some of our best psychologists? They tell us that reason points out to a man his faults, but it does not point out woman's defects to her. On the contrary, if a woman argues with herself sufficiently long, it is said she can easily convince herself that all her faults are virtues.

It is notorious that the most hardened woman criminal will not admit she has done wrong. A male criminal frequently admits the wickedness of his ways. Men who are not criminal will admit their faults are faults—but it is a rare woman who will frankly admit her mistakes. When woman errs, she can argue herself into a reason for it and the reason is at fault—not herself.

According to the lawyer quoted above—in divorce instances the husband is the reason.

Sympathy with Husband.

"In nearly every case I have represented the woman," this man continued. "In other words, the wife was my client. While this is so, my broader sympathy, in practically every instance, has been with the husband. This feeling on my part was not hypocritical, nor did it lessen my effort in behalf of my client, because, mark you, in every case the woman was legally right, but wrong from the broad standpoint of the just balancing of human rights and moral justice. By moral justice I have not in mind anything involving sex questions or sex problems, but the just and equitable relations of one human to another.

"It has been my observation that a wife seldom comes to consult me until her home conditions have become truelly unbearable. In nearly every instance such conditions are her own fault. She does not know or realize she is to blame. Or, if she does, she will not admit it. She will not admit she is in the wrong. The man is the sole and only offender in their disagreement. He alone has brought their marriage to its unfortunate plight.

"Women wave their petticoats and take refuge behind them solely because they are petticoats and because women know the power of petticoats. Of justice in a broad sense, they know nothing.

Magnify Sex Virtue.

"The trouble with the women of whom I speak is that they magnify their sex virtue. They seem to think that because they are true to their husbands they require no other asset to hold them. To be sure, their sex virtue is essential. It is important, but it is not everything. In many cases that particular virtue is the only virtue the woman possesses. I marvel at the feminine mind as portrayed by these women. Self-sufficiency is amazingly and profoundly funny, if such a paradox may be possible.

"The last case I had was an example. The woman kept repeating: 'But I have been good. I never even looked at another man. I have been everything a good woman should be.' Yet her home and her person was everything a good woman's home should not be. The law was on her side when the husband sought and found companionship elsewhere.

"Every man's primary urge is for a home and the companionship of his own fireside. If he does not find it beneath his own vine and fig tree, he will seek it elsewhere. When he seeks it elsewhere—then we have divorce court cases.

Before and After.

"Woman's eternal struggle is to please a man until she 'gets' one, when she (of the divorce court tribe) seems to think her struggle is ended. The wise woman—the one we never see in court—realizes that when she 'gets' her man her struggle has only begun, because she must ever thereafter strive to keep him. Eternal vigilance on her part is the price of her man's chastity.

"I tell you, if woman would hide her unloveliness from her husband as she does from her sweetheart, our divorce judges would be seeking employment elsewhere. Who can love a slattern or a shrew? Who cares to walk into an untidy home? Who loves a petulant, unsympathetic woman or a common scold? Against such there is no law. Against such vices the husband has no legal redress. Is it any wonder, therefore, that in the pre-Volstead days the man sought the corner saloon and now the bootlegger for companionship and then, later, the vampire?

"As I say, the wife in nearly every instance has the legal grounds for the divorce, but my broad sympathy has nearly always been with the man."

Blind to Own Faults.

Is it true that woman cannot sit in judgement upon herself? That she can make herself believe she has acted justly when, as a matter of fact, she has just done some act of despicable meanness?

We believe there are such women. In fact, we have known them—women so convinced of the animosity of an accuser that nothing can persuade them they have done any wrong.

Yes, some women are like that. And it is reasonable to believe their incapacity to pass sentence upon their own shortcomings would land them in a lawyer's office with a whole string of complaints against another.

Certain it is that persons least blind to their own frailties are most tolerant of other sinners.

Here's the Test.

Think that over, Mrs. Jones, if you are working up a case against your John! Granted he has faults, big ones, bad ones, in your opinion! Are you big enough to sit down with paper and pencil and make two lists, one naming John's faults and one yours? Write bad temper, if you must, under John's name. Under yours—tell the truth about why he is annoyed at home. Charge John with being unsympathetic next. Tell why he is. Meditate a moment before you answer, and if there is not any good reason why he should not show you sympathy and kindness, leave your space blank. You may leave it blank—but we doubt it, if you are honest with yourself.

As you proceed with the list, you may be convinced of a number of things about yourself you never dreamed of before.

LOVE LETTERS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every love letter published. So, if you can write a good one, or if you have one in your private or family possession you would like to enter the contest, send it to Love Letter Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. As no letters will be returned send copies of the ones you wish to keep.

ONCE AGAIN, GOOD-BY.

MY dearest: Was it only yesterday we decided we must part forever—that we could not build our happiness on the wreck of another's, and so said good-by? It seemed then, but for the beating of my sad heart, that the whole world grew still. The stars twinkled out, one by one. Yearningly, I held out my empty arms, and called you. There was no response. There never can be; for you will keep the pact, as I pray for strength to do.

Today is but the harbinger of countless days to come. Do you think this dull ache at my heart will ever cease? Will the hour ever come when in fancy I will not see your dear face or hear the tones of your dear voice, as when last you told me of your love?

Let us believe that some time, somehow, some place a measure of contentment will come as compensation for our great sacrifice. Always, dear, my heart will be yours. My last conscious thought will be of you. And when the end of the road is seen, your whispered name will be on my lips.

I love you. CONSTANCE.

ANSWERS TO LOVE PROBLEMS

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped addressed envelope.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

Always the Way.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy three years my senior, and I think he loved me. We were friendly and my friends used to tell him now I cared for him. He has changed; hardly talks and I have heard he takes other girls out. Do you think he loves me any more? Shall I love him just the same? I am 17. C. D."

Are they not the vagrant young sex, C. D.? As soon as they hear a girl cares for them—they feel the urge to wander off to fields unconquered. Since they are like that, you girls should be chary of imparting the status of your affection until the other sex personally begs to know it from your own lips. That is just a little secret I am imparting to you for future direction. It is better to keep them in doubt—if you would hold their interest.

Calls Her Cold.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am going out with a boy friend and he says I am cold. He tells me his other girls did not act like me. You see, he is the first fellow I ever went with and I don't know what to do. HELENA."

Well, Helena, you are the girl he does continue to see, aren't you? The girl he takes to his home to have his people meet? That means he respects you a whole lot and is proud of you. Think that over and ask yourself if it is not better to be cold. I think so.

Speak Right Up.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 17 and in love with a girl who works in the same office with me. I would like to take her out. She says she is leaving at the end of this month. ANXIOUS."

Why don't you ask her if she would let you take her to a movie or to dinner? Perhaps you could arrange to meet her in the lobby after work, and then propose the entertainment to her as you see her to her elevated or street car station? You just have to prime yourself for the outburst, Anxious, and assume an air of confidence.

Wait for Introduction.

"Dear Doris Blake: I am 17. There is a young man who lives across the street from me, and his friends tell me he is fond of me. I have not spoken to him and would like to know if you think I should speak to him first or should he speak to me first. JENNIE."

No, Jennie, I would not speak to him. You have friends in common who could introduce you, and while it would be nicer to have him make the request of them, you might say offhandedly some day you would like to meet the boy. But do not do more than that.

Dreams of Her.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love. The girl goes out with fellows five times older than herself. I always dream of her. I look out of the window every night. The girl does not know that I love her. Please, could you help me by telling me how I can get this girl I love? A. F."

You will never get her by standing back of the window peering out at her, son. You cannot dream your way into a girl's heart. Why don't you get on the job and give the girl reason to believe she does not have to go around with men years older when there is a fine young fellow like yourself dying for the opportunity to step out with her. She is not a mind reader, you know. You have to show her.

They May Be Right.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 18 and in love with a fellow one year my senior. He tells me he loves me, and I love him, but my parents object to his company. Kindly give me advice. "BOBBY."

What reason do they offer for their objections to the boy, Bobby? Do they think he is not the boy whose companionship would be a credit to you? I suppose, because you are in love with him, you will not listen to a criticism against him. And, yet, sometimes it would be so much better if a young girl would take advantage of the wisdom of an older head in estimating desirable qualities in a young man. Of course, this is surmise purely, but I suspect there may be something not in the young man's favor.

She's Best Ignored.

"Dear Miss Blake: My husband and I had gone together three weeks when he asked me to marry him. When I told my sister she was surprised but said, 'You may as well marry him because you never know a man till after you get him.' We were married and were happy until he met my cousin. They took a liking to each other, and since then they can always be seen together. It seems as though something has gone out of my life. I love him and I think sometimes I will leave him; then again I think I could not get along without him. I do not think any man could care long for a girl who runs around with married men. Therefore, I think I will stay here with him because he is mine and I love him. My mother always taught me men have no respect for a girl who runs around with married men, and I think she was right. "MRS. A. W."

There may be some truth in what your sister told you about not knowing a man till you have married him. But for that reason, one should know as much as possible before. Better advise from her would have been to know your man well before entrusting your future to him. However, it is too late now for that, is it not? And you have the right spirit of fighting to keep the man. After all, dear, many women have to put up a fight like yours, and the wise one and the happier one in the long run is she who makes the man believe she has such absolute faith in him that she could believe him guilty of no wrong. Few men can resist that appeal to their better selves. It helps to blind you to misdemeanors and it admits no rival. As you say, this girl cannot be more than a temporary aberration, and judging from the experience of women who have won in such fights, the less said about her the better. Simply ignore her.

Cruel Only to Be Kind.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been told, and I know it to be true, that I am a handsome and attractive young man, 19 years of age, and 5 feet 10½ inches tall, weighing 156 pounds. Though I am young in years, I am old in experience, knowing more about women and their ways than an older person. What I would like to know is this: I have been out with all kinds of girls, handsome and just passable, but I have not yet found a girl capable of keeping me interested in her more than a week or so. I wish you would help me out of this, as I don't know what to do. "R. T."

Do you want me to be truthful? To the point of cruelty, perhaps? Well, then—it is quite true that persons deeply impressed with their own perfections and given to extolling them, wear their friendships out in incredibly short time. It is no reflection on the other sex for a man to say they cannot keep him interested. Instead, one on yourself, R. T., that you cannot make your company more indispensable. This may sound rather harsh, son, but I say it only because you are still young enough to learn that the way to make and keep yourself interested in others is to be more interested in whether you are pleasing them than whether they are pleasing you.

KEEP YOUR NAILS fashionably POLISHED,

You will always be proud of your nails if you use Glazo Liquid Polish at least once each week. Without tedious buffing, Glazo gives nails a fashionable shell-pink polish that will not crack, peel or dim with washing. Glazo preserves natural nail beauty and prevents hangnails.

The New KRATZ Oscillator
NO INJURY TO CHILDREN
EASY TO OPERATE

7 Good Reasons Why You Should Use Kratz Oscillator Electric Washer—

1. We are reliable; 24 years in this business.
2. It does the cleanest washing. Why? Because it has the most agitation of the water, and no wear to the clothes.
3. Saves labor. How? Has no cylinder, no dolly, no agitator or vacuum cups to lift out or to clean, or to be troubled with.
4. Safest. Why? All machinery and the swinging tub are all inclosed; no child can get hurt; you cannot tear your dress or get it full of oil or grease; also has the safest wringer release.
5. Will last much longer and will cost much less for upkeep. Has no complicated gears to wear out and is geared much slower—less chance of wear.
6. Will never rust nor gum or spot your wash because the tub is of copper, tinned inside. We never use galvanized iron for the tub.
7. You get a better washer, but no higher in price.

We also sell the Cataract, Kratz Cylinder, Laundryette, Woodrow and the Geyser Kitchenette Washers.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night.

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

I Offer Girls
My aids to beauty, and to woman youth
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I had a rich, ambitious mother. She searched the world with me to find the supreme beauty helps.

They made me a famous beauty. And now, after 40 years in the limelight, they keep me a beauty still.

Other girls, in these same ways, can multiply their beauty. Other women can, to old age, keep their youthful bloom. I want to help them do so. The very helps that France gave me are now at your command.

I am very, very busy on the stage. But I am taking time to tell you the secrets of my beauty and my youth. And I hope the time will come when girls and women by the millions will enjoy what I enjoy.

32 helps in four

I found 32 things that women need to keep them at their best. French experts combined them in four applications. Thus beauty and perennial youth were made very easy for me.

One is my White Youth Clay. Not like the crude and muddy clays so many use today. This clay is white, refined and dainty. Twenty years of scientific study have made it amazingly efficient.

I use White Youth Clay to purge my skin of all that clogs or mars it. It gives me that rosy, baby-like complexion. Blackheads or pimples, oiliness or blemishes are unknown to me.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, keeps the face skin ever like a girl's.

One application of my White Youth Clay brings almost unbelievable results. Many women seem to drop ten years. Continued use does marvels, as it did for me. No girl or woman who once tries this clay will ever go without it. The price is 50 cents and $1.

Two matchless creams

My Youth Cream is a cold cream based on lemon and strawberry. It is made to embody all the best that science knows to whiten, feed, protect and smooth the skin. I use it after the clay. It is also my night cream, to apply on retiring. Daytimes I used it as a powder base. No one ever found a cold cream to compare with my Youth Cream.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates the skin to the depths. When I wipe it off, all that clogs the skin comes with it. No other method cleans a skin like this.

Luxuriant hair

My hair is thick and lustrous. It grows finer every year. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray.

This is due to my Hair Youth, another French creation. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It takes but a moment, and it does not muss the hair. I can do no greater kindness than to urge you to employ it. It costs 50 cents and $1.

All druggists and toilet counters supply these products which I use. The price is small. Every girl or woman, if she will, can have the benefits I got. Go find them out. My Beauty Book comes with each. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

The garments offered in this great event are foremost in fashion, utmost in value, and will admirably fulfill spring wardrobe requirements.

In fabric, coloring and style they are authentic representatives of the new mode, and at this very special Sales of Progress price the values are unprecedented.

Tailleurs, severely simple and boyishly slender in silhouette, play a prominent part in the fashions for spring. Here modishness and practicality go hand in hand, as the tailleurs are suitable for all daytime functions.

Artichoke green, badger, graystone, toast, navy and black are the leading shades. The models sketched but suggest the smartness of all the suits in this notable collection. Fourth floor.

Topcoats this season are as individual and distinctive as they are indispensable. The becoming straightline style persists in numerous, clever versions suitable for both street and dress wear.

Tans, grays and the favored spring colors are much in evidence. These coats are qualities that commonly command much more than the special Sales of Progress price.

The women's tailleurs and topcoats are illustrated in the group at the left; the misses' in the group at the right.

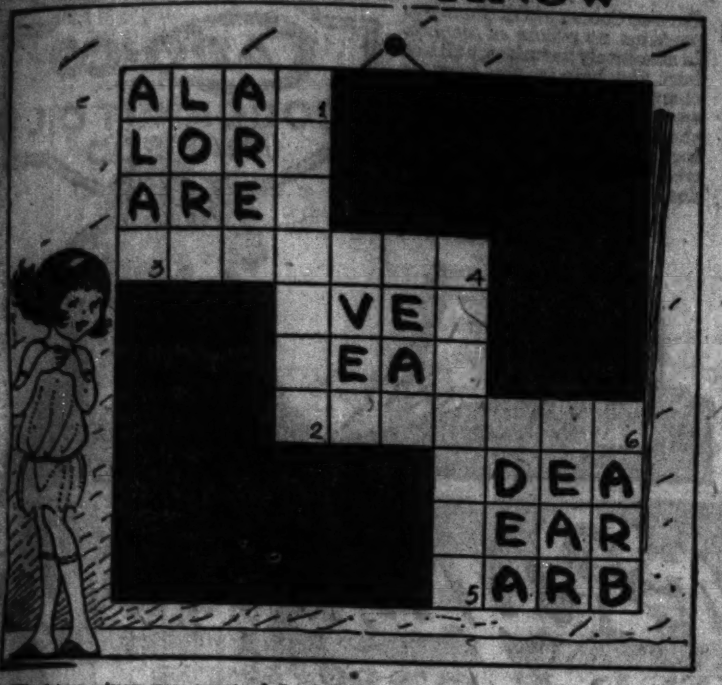
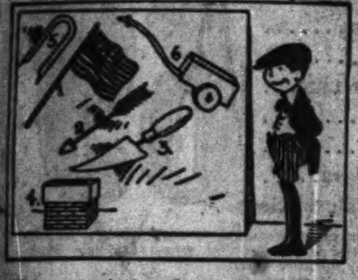
BIRDS YOU KNOW



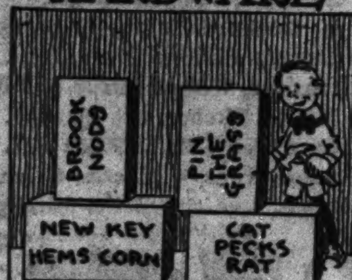
We have given you most of the letters you will need, but you will have to print the name of a bird in the column 1-2, and the same name in 3-4. Then you must print the name of another bird in the column 4-5, and again in 2-6, and then, if you have chosen the right birds, you will have all the words reading the same downward as they do from left to right. In other words, you will have a continued square. The birds' names commence with S and L.

OCCUPATIONS



Take one letter from the name of the first article, one letter from the name of the second, one from the third, etc., and have the name of an occupation. Repeat and have the name of another occupation. Repeat again, and have the name of a third occupation. What are the three occupations Willie is considering when he grows up?

HARDWARE



Bobbie has entered his dad's shipping room, and has been labeling some of the cases of hardware. Each box contains a different article. Bobbie has used all the letters needed to spell the name of what is in each box, but he has made different words from the letters. For instance, BROOK NODS is DOOR KNOBS. What do the other cases contain?

[Answers in last column.]

RIDDLES.

1. Why do you spell pen P-E-N?
2. What is the most usual growth to be found on the ear?
3. What is the biggest tax a hardware man has?
4. What kind of train requires the most intelligent person to run it?
5. Why is a palace colder than a cottage?

ANSWERS TO RIDDLES.

1. Because that makes it write (right).
2. Corn.
3. Carpet tacks.
4. A train of thought.
5. It's an ice house (a nice house).

THE CARNIVAL AT THE GRAVELPIT.

By Raymond Kelly.

"WHAT'S carnivorous mean?" asked Toodles, the lop eared poodle.

"Say, dog, do you mean to say you don't know what carnivorous is?" Ginger, the fox terrier, came back at him. "Why, it's what you get to eat at carnivals."

"But this book says that cows are not carnivorous," objected Toodles.

"Sure, they're not. They don't eat at carnivals. They're eaten. That's why I suggest that we have a carnival. I love barbecued beef, and I know a cow whose father and mother were both barbecued, so she could give us the benefit of their experience. Besides, the organ grinder who owned Wiggler the monkey used to be a barber, which would help Wiggler in barbecueing the cow."

So they took a vote, and eighteen of the dogs voted in favor of the carnival. Bull Bailey voted against it; not that he was opposed to carnivals, but because he had a mouthful of Swiss cheese while they were voting, and got his eye teeth caught in one of the holes. So he had to vote no, or lose his vote, which no good club member likes to do.

The carnival being decided upon Carlo, the Saint Bernard, appointed a set of committees, Wiggler the monkey being put on all of them, even though he wasn't [illegible] member of the club, which was a fine plan, because the dogs co[illegible]r the badges and he could do the work. This is the best wa[illegible] get work done in any club, as you'll know later.

The big night came at last, and the old gravelpit was a beautiful sight to see, for there were colored paper lanterns everywhere and two besides. The broken derrick had been moved over against the side of the pit, and packed with snow to make a toboggan slide, and it was a fine one, too, with sleds and toboggans loaded with dogs, and boys whizzing down it so fast you couldn't count them if you tried, which you didn't. There weren't enough sleds for the crowd, but they made up for that by using dish pans and wash tubs. If you have ever coasted in a wash tub, you know for yourself how much fun it can be, and if you haven't it's your fault and not the wash tub's.

They had ski jumping, too, some of the dogs using one pair of skis and some using two pairs. But Wiggler the monkey was the sensation of the evening, for he used five skis, the fifth one being fastened to the tip of his tail, which makes skiing difficult, as any monkey knows.

At the bottom of the pit, they had their skating pond, with races and fancy skating exhibitions. These were pleasing to the crowd, although there was rather a bitter argument over the attempt of a pair of prairie dogs to enter the half mile race. Carlo settled the matter, however, by proving to these visitors that they were not dogs but Kansas squirrels, even though they called themselves dogs, and were accepted as such by their tenants, the owls and rattlesnakes.

"Since you live in the ground," said Carlo, "you cannot be said to lead a dog's life, and we must all be judged by the lives we lead. You may remain as guests, or as part of the bill of fare, but you may not take part in the races, because our race is not yours."

And so the fun went merrily on, while the moon smiled down and the stars winked with pleasure at the good time they were watching, but by and by even the stars grew sleepy and wanted to go to bed. Then the carnival ended, and everybody headed for home singing this song:

O, the old gravelpit is a wonderful place
Though it's only a hole in the ground,
For its equal in joys, both for puppies and boys;
In this world cannot elsewhere be found.

Ruth had some illustrated lessons. One day she sat looking at her primer, and turned to the back pages. She rushed up to the teacher and, pointing to the word "stocking" said: "I know that word. It is 'stocking.'"

"Well," said the teacher, "how did you know it, Ruth?"

"O," she answered easily, "I remembered it with my eyes." D. L.

Angela is quiet and lady-like and is often shocked by Mabel, a youngster in the same block, who is a tom-boy.

On one occasion after playing with her she said: "I don't like that Mabel girl; she's too boyful to suit me." L. R. C.

Thelma is 3 years old and is learning lots of new words. Some times she gets them confused.

The other day I asked her who she loved better—her mother or her daddy.

"I love mother and dady mixed," she replied. M. E. O

Waldon had heard a great deal about underweight children from the nurse at school.

One day I asked him if two little children playing in his yard went to school with him.

He answered, "O, no. They are too underyear children to go to school yet." J. R.

Freda was the youngest of a large family, and considerably younger than any of her brothers or sisters. In fact, her eldest brother was married and had a youngster who was a year or so older than Freda. The family had taken great pains to explain that Freda was this boy's aunt.

In due course of time another baby came to brighten the home of Freda's brother and it was explained to her that this baby was her nephew and she its aunt, also.

Shortly after this Freda came over and my mother said to her, "Well, I hear there is a new baby in your family," to which Freda answered pridefully, "Yes, I am two aunts now." F. L. M.

Christine happened to be at a neighbor's house around supper time.

When the food was placed on the table the neighbor said, "Have something to eat with us, Christine. We haven't much."

Christine glanced around the table thoughtfully a moment and said, "I see we ain't." J. L. C.

James' mother often forgets and talks baby talk to him. He doesn't seem to mind this so much when they are alone, but when some of his friends are near it fusses him considerably.

One day after a lapse of this kind on the part of his mother he said, "Mother, I don't want you to baby talk to me any more. I want you to boy talk to me." M. C. O.

I was under the impression that Elva's aunt lived in the same town with her.

One day I asked the child about it.

"O, no," was her answer, "she doesn't live that close; she lives letters from us." M. C. O.

TO BOB OR NOT TO BOB

That is the question.

Some of you bobbed your hair long ago. Others are considering the matter. Are you glad or sorry? Who made you do it? Who kept you from it? Did it win or lose you a beau? Were you laughed at or pitied or admired for doing it? Were you surprised at the results when you looked in the mirror after the scissors had done their work? Did you lose your job because you did it? Or have you a better one now?

Write us about it. Tell us just what made you fall for the idea, or kept you from it. THE TRIBUNE will pay a dollar for every letter printed. Address letters to Bobbing Contest Editor, THE TRIBUNE, Chicago. No manuscript returned.

Little Sister Rebels.

I was the timid sister of a brother who thought sisters were born only to cook, mend, and wait on dear brother and his friends. Almost every Sunday afternoon he would bring home one, two, or three for lunch. Sister was good enough to bake cake, cookies, and pie on Saturday for consumption on Sunday evening, to play and sing jazz tunes until her hands and voice ached—but when lunch was over the dear Beau Brummels would put on their weather protectors and sally forth to see their dear Janes, with never a thought for the nice little girl who had worked, cooked, and played for them.

After a few months of this program little sister had a quarrel with herself. Those young men would look at her and know she was scenery or she would know the reason why! One of those nice young men at least would stay and spend the evening with her. So Saturday afternoon she went to the best hairdresser and had her brown hair bobbed, shampooed, and curled. A new hat, coat, and dress added zest to the adventure. She was timid no longer. One glance in the mirror gave her a brand of courage she did not know she possessed.

When the boys responded to the invitation to lunch the next Sunday night they beheld a new hostess. So much in style was she that she read in their admiring eyes the answer to her adventure—all but dear brother; he did not like the way dear little sister was taking things into her own hands. She was, for the first time, the center of attraction.

When dear brother called to the boys to "come on," the nicest one said: "I'm not in any hurry. You fellows go on." After spending a pleasant evening with her, he asked her to go to a dance the next night. She was indeed content and happy. And she never had to stay at home after that when there was a dance or party in town. Her adventure had proved a success. It was the bob that did it. F. M. M.

Wail of Regret.

My experience with bobbed hair was rather startling. I am the wife of a quiet, steady man, the mother of six children, and am fat, fair and forty.

All my younger daughters had bobbed hair and they looked so charming I thought that I would bob mine. So one day, off to dady's barber shop I went, and soon my yard long blond tresses were lying on the barber's stand. While having them cut, I closed my eyes tight, the better to see how wonderful I would look when I opened them again.

Horrors! I looked a fright! And nothing I could do would fasten those braids on my head again! I didn't dare to face my husband and bear his scorn, so I went right from the barber to the hair dresser, and implored her to find some wa yto tack that hair on my head again. She did! With about one hundred pins she finally got me to looking my old self again, and now hubby doesn't know that I am bobbed. He often says: "What makes you hold your head so stiffly when you laugh, and why don't you take down your hair anymore?"

"Ha, ha! Bring back, O bring back my long hair to me! C. U.

Do It Now.

The advice of a married woman, the busy mother of two children, is: Go ahead and have your hair bobbed. You'll never be satisfied until you do. Just think, in fifty years from now, when you are a great grandmother, and your little granddaughter asks you if you ever had your hair bobbed when it was the style back in 1924, and you have to say, "No, dear, I didn't." She will think you must have been behind the times.

My hair has been bobbed for a year, and I would not have it otherwise. My husband was much opposed to the idea. All my friends were having theirs done, and I did have such a keen desire to know how I would look with my tresses cut. One day I marched bravely to the hair dresser's. It took lots of nerve to sit there and see myself being separated from something which had always been so much a part of me. I had visions of my husband's leaving me. However, after my hair had been shampooed and curled, I felt much better, and started for home reassured.

After the first shock my husband admitted that he liked it. Sometimes, just to tease, I tell him I think I'll let it grow again, and you should hear him!

I look much neater in the morning, and my husband says I look years younger. M. R. M.

Husband Likes It.

Have I bobbed my hair? Well, I guess yes. This is the age of freedom, and why any woman wants to be shackled by a head of long, unsanitary hair is beyond me!

It's a mighty comfortable feeling when dancing or indulging in any other activity, to know that no matter if one's hair does become mussed up, it can't tumble down. I would not have my long hair again and be compelled to wear it that way for a thousand dollars—and I need the money, too. My husband thinks my bob becoming, and tells me every few months not to let it grow out as some are doing.

I did not consult my husband when I had my hair shorn, as we believe that each individual is the maker and the manager of his own fate; if I had shaved my head and painted a spider on it, it would not have made any difference to my husband; he never consults me about the style of his hair cuts, so why should I go to him for advice? Besides, half these husbands who rave about bobbed hair secretly admire it, as in the instance of my neighbor who bobbed her hair against her hubby's wishes and then decided to let it grow, and was talked out of it by the same husband!

As for me, never again shall any tantalizing hair pin touch my scalp. F. R.

Brought Him to Terms.

Bobbing my hair did what I planned to do this leap year if my beau didn't get busy and propose! I'd been going with him some four years, waited patiently until I felt he was able to support me. Then, seeing he seemed to take me as a matter of fact, I decided to give him a jolt. I bobbed my hair. It was becoming. My folks fully approved, for it took years off my looks. Other boys became interested. I accepted their invitations and glowed with good times. My beau began to sit up. Flowers and candies he sent me, eagerly sought dates, and two two months after my bob asked me to marry him, hastily placed an engagement ring on my finger, and made me set a definite date for our marriage. L. S.

Between Two Threats.

Do I like bobbed hair? I adore it, but there are two such good reasons why I don't bob my own.

First, my husband dislikes it so thoroughly that he says if I do I will have to go to my mother's and stay until it grows long again.

Second, my mother dislikes it so much that she tells me I can't come home if I have it cut.

I can't sleep on a park bench in March. T. B.

Never Been Sorry.

My hair has been bobbed for two years. I had it cut while teaching school in a little mining town. Why did I do it? For the most foolish reason in the world—because I got a thrill watching a girl I knew push her hair upward with a comb after she had curled it. I thought I'd like the sensation of doing that every morning instead of dressing my hair.

My feelings during the actual operation were mingled, and rather difficult to define. I think the uppermost thought was, "How can I face everybody tomorrow?"

The barber had come to our rooms to perform the ceremony. I was sitting in front of a mirror. The barber's apron was tight around my neck. My face is quite round, and when he parted my hair in the center I looked like a moon. I lost no time in fluffing up the hair as soon as it was cut, which was a great improvement. And after a shampoo I was more than satisfied with the result.

Every one tells me it is becoming, and certainly it is comfortable. I've never been sorry I did it. K. C.

Acting on Impulse.

For weeks I pleaded with my beau for his consent, but all in vain; he hated bobbed hair on young women. One evening we quarreled; no, not over the bobbed hair question, but we quarreled and he left the house—angry.

Two days later as a result of the quarrel and acting wholly upon a sudden impulse I had my hair bobbed. At a dance to which I accepted the company of a young man not my beau, I received many compliments. As I am small and my hair naturally curly, the bob is becoming.

Was it jealousy or the fact that he had caught sight of my bobbed hair on the street that made my beau call up and ask for a date? Whichever it was, he came and liked my bob—and me.

Am I sorry? No! And, by the way, girls, and mothers, too, isn't it a grand and glorious feelin'? R. S.

Nerve Always Fails.

Ever since bobbed hair has come in vogue, I have been thinking of having my auburn locks bobbed, but somehow or other I just lose my nerve when the time comes to have it done.

Several times my husband, who does not object to bobbed hair, has accompanied me to his favorite barber shop to get that long felt wanted bob, but always my nerve failed me.

I am the mother of two children and have decided that the next time I take my little boy to the barber's I will get that long awaited bob—providing I, womanlike, don't change my mind once more. M. B.

A FRIEND IN NEED
by Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friend in need and the friend in deed may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant, and send direct.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

YOUR POWER FOR GOOD.

IF YOUR little son or daughter is outgrowing a coat, suit, or dress, what are you going to do with the discarded garments?

Really, there isn't much to do with them, is there? Why not let me put them into service where they will be godsends to some poor family! Just think of what these outgrown garments, patched and made serviceable, will mean to some poor mother who can't buy anything for her little ones who are plowing through snow or slush, with holes in their clothes and shoes, without warm underwear and overcoats! Can you get a tenth of the good out of these garments in any other way that you can by letting me place them among deserving families?

The same is true of infant clothing—we can use it where it will meet some great need. Many mothers keep infant clothing for sentimental reasons, but wouldn't it be finer to let it make life more comfortable for some other little one?

Think over what you have. Imagine poor families needing literally everything, and unable to meet rent and food expense in the way health demands. Then you'll see what a power for good you have in your possession. And when you see that, I'm certain you'll let me know what you'll do to help!

No One to Help.

"I am writing for a friend of mine who is badly in need of clothes for an 8 months' old baby and herself. She is a poor girl who has no one to support her except an invalid husband who is not able to work, and it is a shame the condition this family is in. They only have a cabin, and as the things couldn't be sent there it would be better for anything given them to be sent to me. I do hope you can do something for her. Mrs. S."

I hope wardrobes will be looked over and bundles wrapped up for the friend for whom Mrs. S. pleads.

Almost in Rags.

"Will you please ask your readers for clothes for my 5 year old boy? He has one suit of underwear, which I can no longer patch, and he needs trousers and blouses—in fact, everything. I have two other boys, 7 and 8, and a girl 9 months old. My husband has been sick and with the small wages he is now earning, I cannot buy clothes. The 5 year old boy is almost in rags. Mrs. F."

May I ask those who have clothing their little boys have outgrown to gather it together and send to me for Mrs. F.'s address?

Must Be Taken Soon.

"I have a reed baby carriage, a full sized bed spring and mattress, and a baby bed to give to anybody who will take it right away, as I am going to move soon. Please send some one as soon as possible. Mrs L. L."

Thank you, Mrs. L. Your offer will be heartily welcomed by some mother.

Alluring Book Offer.

"I wonder if you could help me to find the place where ten bound volumes of Scribner's magazines, 1901 to 1905 inclusive, would be most appreciated. I had thought of a hospital, but fear the volumes are too heavy to be practical there. I have a number of smaller books, some of them text books, some children's story books, some school editions of the classics, available for any one who could come for them. Please instruct those interested to phone for an appointment before calling. E. P. M."

Thank you, E. P. M. This is indeed a most alluring book offering!

Paints to Give.

"I have some china paints, such as we used to use a few years ago, that I will be glad to offer. There are some brushes also. Mrs. O. S."

Some student in china painting will be grateful for your donation, Mrs. S.!

Nature—
The Supreme Cosmetician

Nature is the artist of the ages. She paints in colors of matchless beauty. Her masterpiece is youth.

Man cannot hope to surpass her art. For the roseleaf loveliness of a girlish cheek, a bizarre mask of a complexion must always be a poor makeshift.

Yet, happily for the desire feminine to remain forever young, there are toilet requisites which assist Nature in bringing out your true, natural beauty!

Thus subtly do LUXOR REQUISITES aid Nature. Matching the shade of the blood glowing through the skin, LUXOR ROUGE PARFAIT, in any light, brings forth the natural, delicate flush of health. The feathery, clinging softness of LUXOR COMPLEXION POWDER adds that even, velvety texture, so needlessly the despair of middle age.

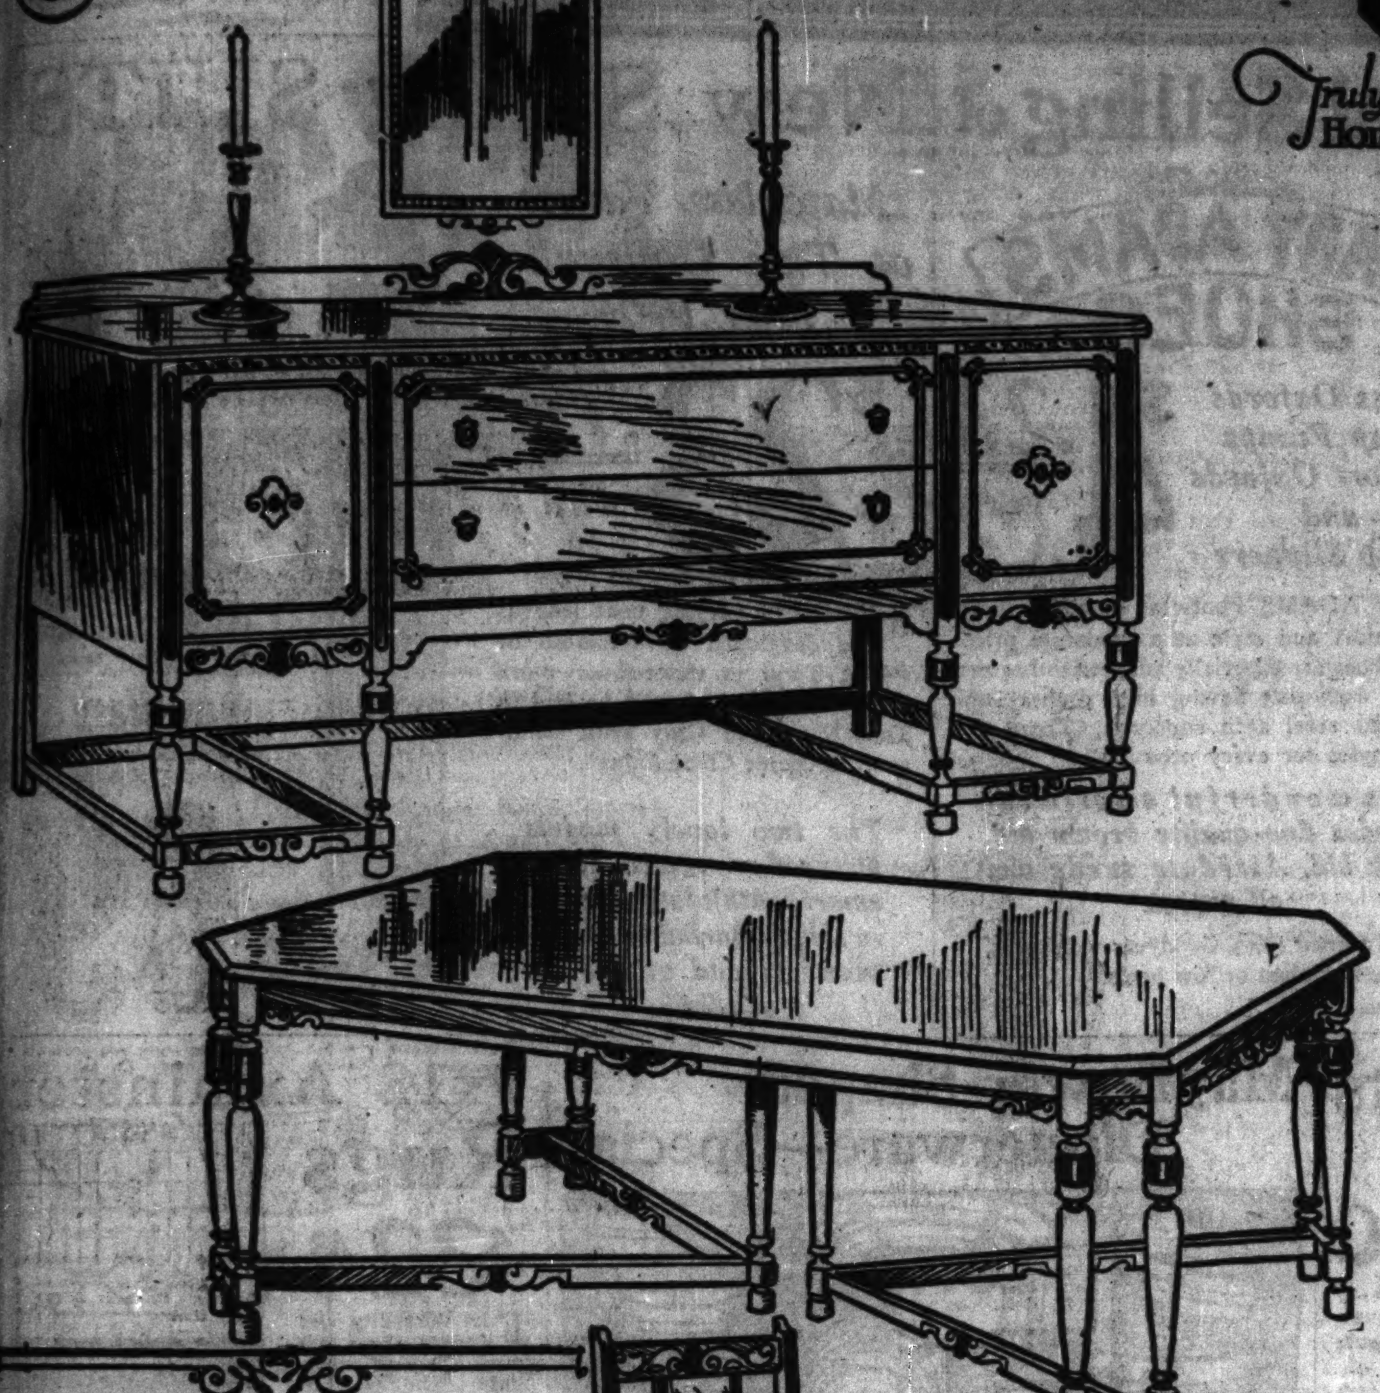
Truly—We Are The Home Of Home Outfits



Our Guarantee A Surety of Service

WE DO NOT ONLY by word of mouth give you a guarantee, but because we do regard our guarantee to the point of making it positive, we attach to every article bought of us, a metal tag as illustrated below. This we believe, should convince the most skeptic that "OUR GUARANTEE" means all that the word implies.

That the word is misapplied and much abused in many instances we need not remind you. But we can truthfully say, the strict adherence to "OUR GUARANTEE" in the fullest sense has made for us thousands of satisfied customers. It has also been an important factor in the upbuilding of our business to the extent that we are today enjoying the largest furniture business in the history of our 58 years' experience.

There is a difference in furniture. Please be advised of that fact. Good Furniture can be sensed by even the casual buyer, but even so, there is still an additional invisible something in construction, in the assembling, in the finish of our furniture that spells longer wear, greater durability

Measuring value by length of service, it is real economy to buy our quality of home needs.

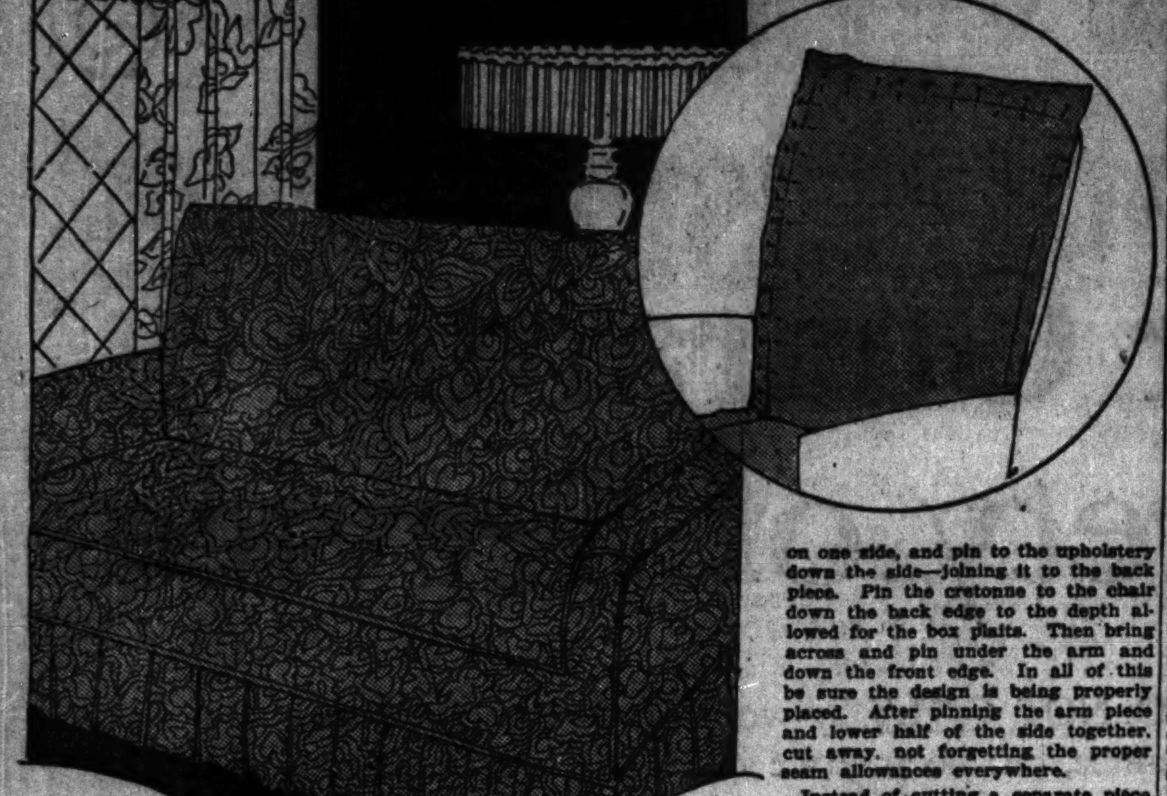
Practical and Fancy Needle Work

By Clotilde



What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago.

COVERS FOR FURNITURE.

CRETONNE makes beautiful slip covers for chairs or davenports that are still good, except for soiled or faded materials. It makes equally pretty covers for wicker or wooden chairs, and the work is not especially difficult.

If one has beautifully upholstered furniture, why not make slip covers of chintz or cretonne for summer? Take one of those comfortable overstuffed chairs, for instance. You can measure quite accurately the number of yards needed. Take the length from the top of the chair in the back, to the floor—from the top of the back to the seat—the seat measure and the depth of the front boxing—the length from the top of the arms to the seat, and on the outside, from the top of the arms to the floor, and then measure for the box plaited or gathered ruffle around the bottom.

Probably enough will come off of some of the pieces to cut the narrow front pieces from the arms to the ruffle in the front.

Lay a width of the cretonne on the back of the inside of the chair, taking care that the design is right side up and its most prominent part in the center of the back. Pin it to the upholstery, allowing plenty for a seam at the top, and pin the cretonne to the chair, down to the seat. Cut it off across the bottom of the back allowing several inches to tuck in well. Then cut off down each side, allowing for a three-quarter inch seam on each side. Next fit the seat of the chair, pinning it to the lower edge of the back and allowing the same amount for tucking in. Pin the seams together on the right side, with raw edges showing. Then fit the cretonne over the arms, letting the seam come on top or on the outer side, under the top of the arm. Pin in place to the back and seat, allowing for tucking in across the bottom.

Then start at the top of the back on one side, and pin to the upholstery down the side—joining it to the back piece. Pin the cretonne to the chair down the back edge to the depth allowed for the box plaits. Then bring across and pin under the arm and down the front edge. In all of this be sure the design is being properly placed. After pinning the arm piece and lower half of the side together, cut away, not forgetting the proper seam allowances everywhere.

Instead of cutting a separate piece for the plain piece across the front, just below the seat, a quarter inch French seam may be creased in and pinned across the front edge of the seat, and the cretonne brought down to the ruffle part and cut off. Enough should come off the side pieces to cut the narrow front strips that run down from the top of the arm to the ruffle.

The outside back may be cut in two pieces, fitted well to the side pieces, lapped down the middle of the back, left open, and fastened with snaps. This permits it to be removed easily.

The next step is to baste the entire thing together, carefully and try it on the chair. When certain you are right, the stitching is done.

One may finish the seams in one of two ways: They may be bound, or a rather nice finish is to turn the raw edges in towards each other and overhand together instead of basting. Then stitch the seams together where the bastings are and a second row is put in, just on the edge. This makes a strong cover and a most attractive one. The ruffle is seamed on and finished the same as the other seams.

This may be applied to any piece of furniture. Go slowly, pin, and plan carefully and don't cut until you are sure you have not forgotten any part of what you are to do.

Stop Rheumatism with RED PEPPER

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

How I Made the Best Grape Jelly I Ever Tasted

Took me only ten minutes, and I did it in Winter with Bottled Grape Juice at one-half the usual cost.

By ANN PROCTOR

I used to make up a lot of grape jelly every year, but it was hot, tiresome, worrisome and uncertain work. Often a whole day's work was wasted simply because my jelly wouldn't jell. I loved grape jelly and my children preferred it to all other kinds, but we had to give it up because the work was too hard and I couldn't afford to buy it at the store. Then one day a friend told me about Miss Alice Bradley's recipe for making grape jelly from bottled grape juice. She said it could be done in ten minutes at a cost of less than ten cents for a half-pound glass, and was the best grape jelly she ever tasted. I knew that Miss Bradley was Principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, Boston, Mass., and was sure that any recipe of hers must be right, so I tried it, with the result that I agreed with my friend. It was unquestionably the best grape jelly I ever tasted. The reason grape jelly made in this way is so much better than usual is because it is made from the pure juice of fully ripe grapes—the flavor is not boiled away. This is Miss Bradley's

GRAPE JELLY RECIPE

Into a saucepan put 4 cups bottled grape juice, add 5 cups sugar, and stir until dissolved. Bring to boiling point, add 1 cup (1 bottle) CERTO, stir thoroughly and bring to boiling point over a hot fire. Boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, skim and pour into sterilized glasses.

This is only one of nearly a hundred special recipes found in the book on Jams, Jellies and Marmalades prepared by Alice Bradley, Principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, Boston, Mass. Other recipes in this book which make a special appeal to the housewife at this time of the year are those for making jams from canned and dried fruits, such as dried apricot jam and fig jam. Then there are recipes for making other jellies from canned and bottled fruit juices as well as for making all kinds of jams, jellies and marmalades from fresh fruits, including orange and grapefruit.

Try this new recipe just to give your family a treat, and if you are interested in making the very finest jams, jellies and marmalades, many of them entirely new, at the lowest cost and with the least labor, write for a free copy of Alice Bradley's 24-page book, illustrated in six colors, "Jam, Jelly and Marmalade Making," to the Douglas-Pectin Corporation, Room 459-A, Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y. Better write today and get your copy at once so you can try some of the other new recipes for your daily menus.

IMPORTANT—CERTO is pure, concentrated fruit pectin, made entirely from fruit, and supplies the jelly-making property which is lacking in many fruits and fruit juices. That is why jams and jellies made by the short boiling CERTO process look better, taste better, are more easily made and cost less.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away go indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

UPKEEP AT MINIMUM.

STUCCO continues to be used with ever increasing popularity. No doubt this fact is due to the remarkable advances which have been made in the manufacture of stucco materials and in the types of construction particularly adapted to home building. There is the knowledge, too, that the upkeep cost for painting and repairs is at a minimum, when the entire house is covered with this permanent and weather resisting material. The relatively small amount of wood trim and other exterior woodwork which is exposed can actually be painted by the home owner himself. Furthermore, the work is likely to be done more promptly, when necessity arises, if there is not a large amount of painted surface which must be gone over.

All of these points are particularly well exemplified in the interesting little five room stucco house, designed by Architect J. E. Salie of Birmingham, Ala., which is illustrated today. A stucco house looks well from every angle. This is an important fact nowadays because of the tendency toward developing the rear portion of the lot by attractive landscaping features. There is just enough of the artistic wood trim about this house to form a pleasing set-off against the stucco background. Trellises at each side of the front entrance, with ornamental concrete pots flanking the doorway, a charming marquise overhead, supported by carved brackets, a little wrought iron grill around a tiny window above, and the further use of wrought iron for the balcony jutting out from the side of the building over the side entry add the touches which make distinctive the otherwise severe outlines.

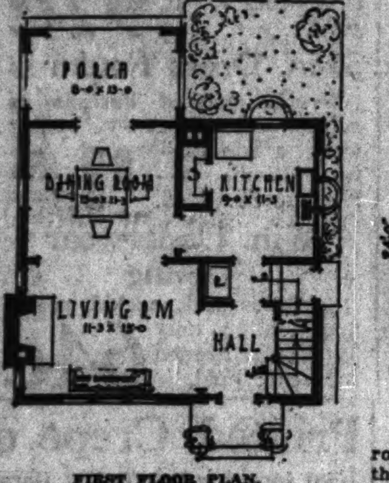
On the first floor are to be found a living room, dining room, and kitchen. Although the first two rooms are apparently units in themselves, the layout has been so ingeniously contrived as really to make of them one large room. This is effected by means of the wide opening joining them. As a matter of fact, with practically no change, they could be united into one room, making the house appear larger. Taking the two together, the room would be 22 feet 6 inches long by 13 feet at one end and 15 feet at the other.

The stair hall is attractively planned, opening directly into the living room, where there is a real fireplace. The dining portion of the room is 13 feet by 11 feet 3 inches, and, in turn, opens on to the covered porch, by means of French doors. From here may be viewed a well planned back garden, with a long concrete pond containing lilies and gold fish. At the far end is a curved pergola, combined with a garden seat. The entire garden is surrounded by a closely planted hedge which screens it from outside view, giving a most pleasing and restful atmosphere.

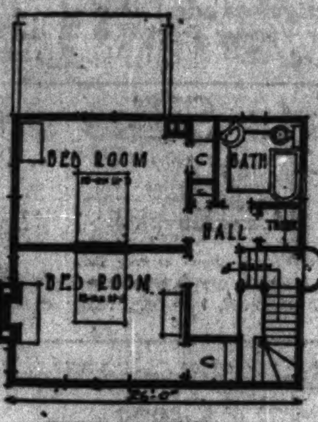
The porch could readily be glazed during the winter. In the summer, screened and fitted with blinds or awnings, it may be used as a sunroom during the day and a sleeping porch at night.

The kitchen is placed in a corner of the house where it is lighted from two sides, and is convenient to both the dining room and the front door. Under a large, triple window the sink is placed, and in a nook near another window is the kitchen range. There is no separate pantry in this home. Mr. Salie has provided, instead, a large, built-in cabinet, with ample space for shelves, and a cupboard. The refrigerator is placed in a separate compartment outside of the kitchen door, at the head of the stairs leading to the side entry.

Two large bedrooms and a bath are located on the second floor. The front bedroom is quite interesting because of its own real fireplace, and because its clothes closet has a window. This window is the little one which is fitted with the iron grill previously described. The bedroom is 15 feet long by 11 feet 3 inches wide. Four windows, two of each being on oposite sides of the room, assure satisfactory ventilation. The other bedroom is of the same dimensions as the one in the front of the house, and is likewise a corner room, with windows on two walls. In the hall connecting the two bedrooms and the bath are a linen close and a trunk room, which is especially useful, as there is no storage attic.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Stucco houses, and garages to match, may be built of a number of well known materials. Concrete block, hollow tile, or a wood frame and metal lath are the principal materials used for the walls. Cement stucco, placed on concrete block (which has the same amount of heat and cold expansion as the stucco itself) has been found to be satisfactory and is, at the same time, a low cost type of construction. Another type which has come into large use within the last few years is what is known as the back plastered metal lath stucco house in which the metal lath is nailed direct to the wood studs, which are braced at the corners of the building. Stucco is applied on both sides of the lath, so as to be thoroughly embedded. The metal mesh reinforces the stucco, which is essentially a concrete slab, and prevents ordinary stucco cracks. It is known, too, to be a superior fire resistant. Extensive fire tests which have been conducted from time to time prove this to be true. Authorities state that this type of construction is one of the most economical for building homes at present day prices. Because of its possibilities of rapid construction, too, it is of particular interest to intending home builders.

There should be a substantial concrete foundation with a cement basement floor so that the house will be rot and vermin proof. The building is rectangular in plan, which insures its being economical to build. It has been especially designed for a narrow lot. If the garage drive is not required the house may be placed, quite readily, on a 33 foot lot. If, however, there is no alley or rear exit the lot should be not less than 40 feet wide.

Answers to Inquiries.

E. M. P.: For the small boys' nursery get a bureau, table, and two chairs finished to match the bed. If possible have built-in shelves for books and toys. Use ivory and green rag rugs. Have light yellow voile glass curtains and overdraperies of leaf green rep. Let the bed cover be of unbleached domestic, tufted with green or yellow. Wall paper may be striped in fine lines, of yellow and ivory. In the guest's room have pearl gray walls. At the colonial windows use white or ivory voile glass curtains, with overdraperies of flowered chintz in which rose color dominates. Bed and dresser covers could be of deep rose colored rep. On the side lights, have rose colored silk shades, edged with narrow, dull gold and sage green trimming.

J. P. K.: Colored oil cloth may be bought at almost any of the large department stores here. I think lavender oil cloth might be rather hard to find, but there are various shades of blue. You might use turquoise blue. Let the lamp be of lavender voile, shirred over white silk muslin, and banded at top and bottom with turquoise oil cloth. If the pictures are colorful, it would be best to get white enamel frames, matching the woodwork.

PANCAKES AND OTHER LENTEN EATING.

BECAUSE old customs and observances are picturesque and give a spice to life—especially eating customs—they are retained, although they have lost entirely their original meaning. Around no period of the year has there clustered more eating customs than around Lent, at which season men have actually fasted for forty days—really forty-seven, since the Sundays are not counted—and devised all sorts of meager menus that were next to not eating at all. This year from March 5 to April 20, inclusive, is the period when some of the old customs may be revived.

Lent ushers in the spring, and, indeed, the word once meant spring, and before it meant spring it meant to lengthen. It is the period of lengthening days. The religious connotation, however, is the most persistent one, and perhaps will never be lost, although Lent has come to mean much socially—in an eating way, light luncheons and pretty spring time dinners.

Many of the days of Lent have special names, and these names have alternates that come from food practices upon some given day. Perhaps there have been more of these specially named days than we can guess. For instance, today is called Shrove Sunday, besides having a much more learned name. Tomorrow, or the Monday before Ash Wednesday, has been called "Collop Monday," because collops of bacon were eaten on that day, or perhaps it was bacon and egg day. The word collop is still retained in Scottish cookery and may even mean meat cut up like Hamburg steak.

Shrove Tuesday Observance.

But the day with the greatest number of associations is Shrove Tuesday, also called Pancake Tuesday and Pancake day. It is a day beloved even by the Englishman of today and is celebrated the world around wherever he or she may be. The English mother makes pancakes for her children, putting in the symbols that we use only in our cakes—the ring, button, thimble, and so forth.

There are many accounts of the different observances of the day connected with pancaking. School boys have caught pancakes tossed by the cook, run with them to a certain goal, and got a prize. Any one who got inside the door of a home could claim a pancake on this day. The bell which called sinners to their shriving on this day was even called the pancake bell, and after shriving there was high jinks, as in the modern carnival of mardi gras, celebrated in various parts of the world today. Indeed, the most widely celebrated day of Shrovetide is the day before Lent, although even the most undevout look forward to Easter Sunday as the most beautiful day of the year, while many observe Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday religiously. The practice of serving certain breads and cakes on certain days in Lent is kept up by many persons who love old time customs.

Modern vegetarianism has had no support so considerable as that which Lenten practices have given it, although in the most strict fasting the diet could hardly be called vegetarian, but only "bitterness and bread." The foundation of the Lenten diet was bread, although the laborer had fish and eggs and beans and cheese with his herbs and, in time, his vegetables. A full supply of vegetables on which to base a diet is rather a modern thing, as far as the poorer ones of the world are concerned, but they ate the weeds of the field, the pot herbs, through centuries.

Continental Pancake Culture.

In the United States we hardly have what we may call a pancake culture, as they have in France and even in England, that is, we have but few ways of serving pancakes, while they have many. In many cases they bake the pancake, fill it with a sauce, then fold or roll it, and serve it. Most of these sauces are flavored with Kirsch or Kümmel, rum or brandy, but I have had a pancake in one of the most famous restaurants of Europe which was filled with just such a thick sirup as we put over a chocolate sundae.

The point is, though, that they use so many different fillings. In Russia it may be caviar and sour cream. In America, pancakes have sometimes been filled with fried sausage meat, in imitation of European customs. These filled pancakes are sometimes called continental. The French name for them is "crêpes," and of the many ways of serving this that called Suzette is one of the most famous. It is not filled, but soaked in a hot rum sauce or one of brandy and butter. The pancake in the first place is tissue thin.

A recent modification coming from Paris itself is suited to our times better than the rum and brandy sauce, which I considered quite horrid. This is to fill the pancakes with whipped cream mixed with shredded almonds and probably lightly sweetened.

By changing the fillings of a thin pancake we may make it a suitable part of the meat, vegetable, or sweet course. We of the United States have been scolded by a professional epicure who a great deal exaggerates his own expertness as an eater to the effect that our pancakes are leathery griddle cakes wrapped around a spoonful of jelly and served in a tepid condition on a cold plate.

Sour Milk Pancakes.

The general rule for pancake batters is: One cup of wet to one of dry flour with soda for sour milk, baking powder for sweet, or, when a number of eggs are used, we can get on without baking powder, but always with sour milk there must be half a teaspoon of soda per cup. A little baking powder in addition is used by some cooks.

A sour milk formula following this general one with the necessary variations is: Two cups of sifted flour, two scant cups of well whipped sour milk, one level teaspoon of soda, and one-half teaspoon of salt. Make a smooth batter by beating and for perfection by straining it. No eggs at all, or one or two, may be added to this batter, and shortening must always be added when the pancake is baked on an ungreased batter.

Sweet Milk Batter.

Here we may have endless variations from the general formula. Eggs are more needed than with sour milk, and often the proportions are two cups of flour to one and a half of milk, the eggs making for extra wetness. Of course, the general rule for baking powder is two level teaspoons per cup of flour, but a more reasonable pancake can be made with one teaspoon per cup.

Making Pancake Batters.

Enormous liberties are taken with pancake batters by those who depend upon getting a batter of a certain appearance and consistency, regardless of measurements. With the good cook the pancakes may then be good, but with the poor cook they may be horrid or primitive. The sorriest description of pancake making and eating I have ever seen is in the story, "Maria Chapdelaine," one of the wood choppers speaking.

He said, "Every Monday morning they opened a sack of flour, and we made ourselves a bucketfull of pancakes, and all the rest of the week, three times a day, one dug into that pail for something to eat. By Wednesday, no longer any pancakes, because they were all stuck together; nothing more but a mass of dough. One cut off a big chunk of dough with one's knife."

If the batter of these had been a little thicker, and the pancakes had been better baked, they never would have become a mass of dough. They eat cold pancakes in Scotland and Wales. In the latter country they are called pikelets, and look much more like the Irish crumpet and the English muffin; that is, they are rather thick, than like a griddle cake. Of course, the only thing the poor all over Europe have to bake on is something like a griddle or heated sheet, so in Italy one gets cakes of chestnut flour that look like our griddle cakes but are eaten cold, etc.

Griddles and Waffle Irons.

From letters I get I am sure that the makers of aluminum griddles and waffle irons are not making specific enough their direction for heating these. Any iron griddle and any baking disk heated on the stove must be heated slowly, and it does not require to be so hot that it will burn fat and fill the room full of smoke. When the griddle is hot enough to burn fat it is too hot to cook the cake right.

The rule is to heat the iron slowly and to heat short of one that will burn batter or fat, grease it, turn on the batter, and when the cake is still full of bubbles—do not let these break—shake it loose and turn it. If the bubbles come up and burst quickly, the griddle is too hot, and the second side of the pancake will be quite different and not nearly so pleasant as the other side. The test of right baking for a pancake is that the two sides are as much alike as two peas. If there is too much heat under a pancake the bubbles will not only burst, but it will burn before it is really time to turn it, and it will not be wholesome eating.

On Pancake Tossing.

There are still places in the world where they have pancake parties, indoors or out. It has at times been a fashionable amusement at some Lenten resorts to bake and toss pancakes. In order to toss a pancake it is necessary to keep your eye on the pancake while your mind may be centered on the idea of getting the pan under the cake as it comes down.

French Toast.

There are a great many names for French toast or bread dipped in milk and egg and fried, but I have recently run across a new one, in a Scotch cook book. It is called "bread steaks" and the recipe reads: "Bread is cut about one-fourth inch thick into any shape preferred, the crust being removed. The pieces are first dipped in milk—not soaked—and then in beaten egg, and fried with butter until brown. The beaten egg may be flavored with parsley, thyme, or other herb." The herbs are lenten and they also are spring medicines. There are many ways of using them in combination with bread.

Haley's Magnesia-Oil the scientific way to fight Acidosis and Constipation

If you are afflicted with sour stomach, have chronic indigestion; if your breath is bad and you suffer with heartburn—remember these are Nature's warnings that you must help her fight Acidosis.

Most of us eat too much and exercise too little. That means poor digestion—too much acid in the stomach. Acidosis, the name science gives to this condition, is the forerunner of 75% of all sickness. Don't let Acidosis get you in its grip.

Science Discovers New Way to Bring Relief

Physicians have long recommended milk of magnesia as the safe neutralizer of stomach acids. But milk of magnesia unaided was not enough to win the fight against Acidosis. Another co-agent was needed to help the body cast off waste poisons quickly.

The need for this agent led to the discovery of a scientific method of emulsifying milk of magnesia and pure mineral oil.

Haley's Magnesia-Oil is the name of this wonderful new discovery. It acts quickly and brings welcome relief. The milk of magnesia counteracts the harmful poisons and the mineral oil, by lubrication, brings about easy, natural elimination.

Haley's Magnesia-Oil is absolutely harmless. It may be given to infants, mixed with their milk, without the slightest danger. Your own doctor will recommend Haley's if you ask him. Stop at your druggist's today and get a bottle. Trial size, 35c; economical family size, $1.00.

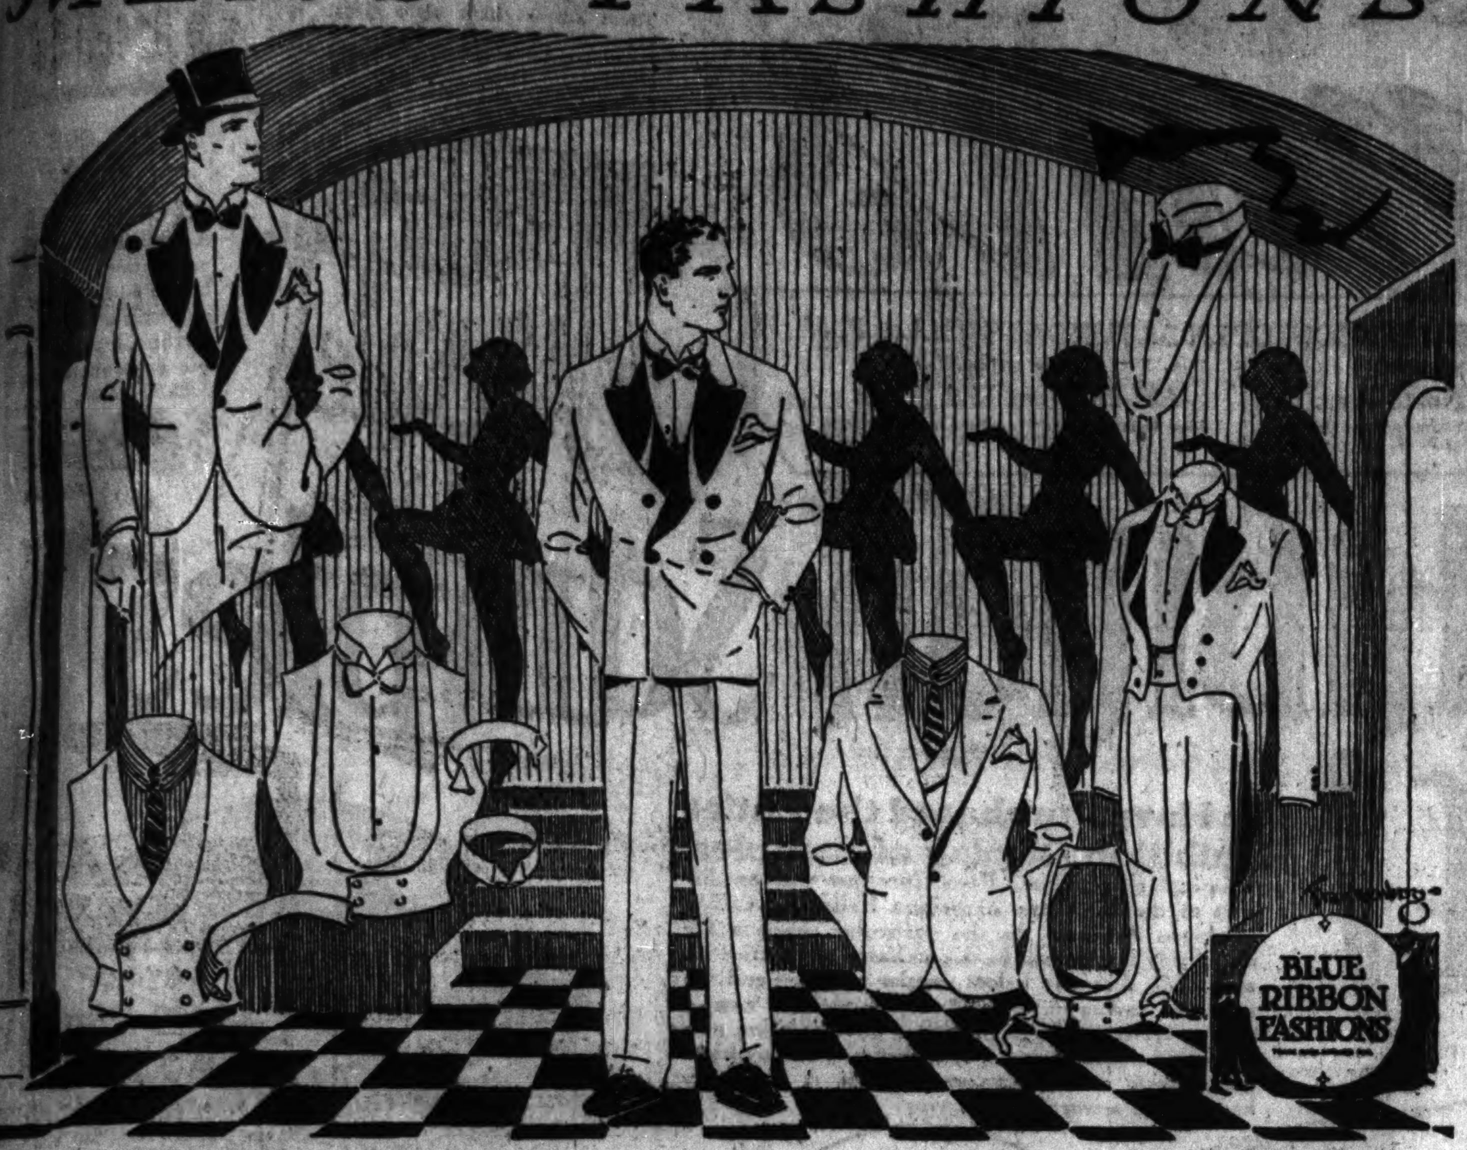
MEN'S FASHIONS



THE ENGLISH MODE AS SEEN IN ANDRE CHARLOT'S REVUE OF 1924

This department will be glad to answer any questions regarding men's fashions and the correct thing to wear on different occasions. Address communications to A. T. Gallico, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

BY A. T. GALLICO.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—André Charlot's Revue of 1924, which came from the London to the New York stage, is one of the best lessons in good dressing from which one could benefit. It presents the best of the English sartorial tendencies so attractively against a background of song and dance and comedy that it should make every young man who sees the show want to rush out to a good tailor or shop and get clothes just like these shown on the stage.

We went to the revue because it is English and because Jack Buchanan, whom we knew to be a good dresser, is in it. We hoped to find some fashion notes that we could pass on to our readers. To make everything clear we took our artist along to make sketches. A silhouette scene of girls dancing across the stage caught his fancy, and so he put it in the illustration. In front of this are the notable style features of the show. We must confess to being so fascinated by what was going on across the footlights that we were not always noticing whether Jack Buchanan wore a double or a single breasted jacket. To make up for this over-interest on our part we went around back after the last act (no one could have budged us from our seat until it was all over) to interview Mr. Buchanan in his dressing room and look at his clothes at closer range.

Mr. Buchanan is not, of course, the only man in the revue, but he is the most important. And not only is he responsible for the clothes he wears himself, but he saw to it that the other men in the show went to his tailor in London and ordered their accessories from the same outfitter, so that the same type of good dressing prevails among all the men.

It is to be regretted that there was so little change of costume by the men in the revue. We saw, really, with the exception of some comedy costumes, some character outfits worn by Mr. Buchanan, and one lounge suit contributed by him, only informal and formal evening attire.

The dinner coats and accessories worn by all men in the first act can be taken as typical of the well dressed Englishman and, therefore, of many of the smart dressers on this side of the water who follow the English mode. The chief points that one notices are the fullness of the trousers, the ventless back, the perfect fit and yet the perfect freedom at the same time, the emphasis of the shoulders, the butterfly bow ties, and the wing collars.

Mr. Buchanan's shoulders are especially broad.

"Ha!" we thought, as we noticed this fact, "he has had his sleeves padded at the shoulders to achieve that fashionable line of broad shoulders." We mentioned this in our chat in the dressing room.

"No, indeed," replied the Englishman. "I am really afraid that my shoulders are too broad. I certainly don't use padding. Sometimes, in fact, I have my sleeves cut so that the shoulder line is farther up on the shoulders to give a narrower appearance. Not too narrow, of course, for the well dressed man does like broad shoulders on his coats these days."

As we looked at the back of the dinner coats and the one lounge suit that Mr. Buchanan wore on the stage, we wondered how long it would be before the average American man would see the beauty of the coat that is fitted to the body so that there is a slight appearance of waistiness and yet an effect of looseness and grace and solid comfort. The ventless coats, as exemplified by those worn in Charlot's revue, are certainly attractive and give a well set up appearance to a man's figure when they are faultlessly tailored.

The plaited trousers, take it from the fresh from London actors, are still with us. None of us needs to fear to order some now. All signs point to a season or so more at least for this generously proportioned garment. Mr. Buchanan is not a small man, and so his trousers were especially full, for his figure is one that will carry off the much plaited effect.

We saw two examples of Mr. Buchanan's taste in dinner coats. He first came out to do his stuff in a double breasted model, with which he wears no vest, he told us later.

"I wear this double breasted coat off stage a great deal, too," he told us. "It's cooler, because one doesn't need to wear the waistcoat."

Later in the performance a single breasted dinner coat was worn by Mr. Buchanan, with a silk hat, a combination which the actor uses in private life when he is dressed for informal evening functions. With the full dress suit which he wore during one act, Mr. Buchanan combined an unusual, narrow, double breasted white waistcoat and large butterfly bow tie, single ended, like the black ones he uses with dinner coat. We have mentioned these before in this column. This is just another example of their popularity.

The only other full dress in the show was worn by Beatrice Lillie, the clever comedienne. Her outfit also included the large butterfly bow.

Mr. Buchanan's lounge suit, which he wore in one act, was such a one as he would wear off stage, therefore it is a good example of the street attire of the well dressed Englishman. It was a light gray suit, ventless, broad in the back, and snug fitting over the hips. With it he wore a fine blue and white striped shirt—the blue was as much gray as blue—and a sort of plum colored four-in-hand. The collar was soft and horizontally striped, and from the other side of the footlights gave the effect of being pinned down. We later discovered that Mr. Buchanan's soft collars are not pinned, but fit closely because of the way they are made, with a buttoning arrangement.

"I almost always wear a double breasted waistcoat with a single breasted jacket," contributed Jack Buchanan, "and a three button jacket is my choice. For formal day dress I like a two button unbraided morning coat, black, with a herringbone pattern which takes away the dead black effect, and striped trousers."

Laugh at Father Time

If Hair is Turning Gray, use Sage Tea

YOU can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

IF PIMPLES MAR COMPLEXION

Drive Them Off with Stuart's Calcium Wafers—Their Action in the Skin is a Wonder of Accomplishment.

Many folks with a pimpled skin do not realize that face creams and such things merely to protect, not to remake the skin. What you must do is to supply the skin with its much needed Calcium Wafers, and this you do with Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They go directly into the blood and to the skin to clear away those embarrassing pimples, blackheads and other such blemishes. It is not a [illegible] way. You get results [illegible]. You are sure of it in a [illegible]. They clear the blood, they [illegible] from the system the impurities that cause pimples. The calcium goes to the skin, acts as a tonic, stimulates the nerves, pores, and blood vessels to renewed activity, and lo! before you realize it the skin is peachy, firm, clear and the picture of a sweet, rosy complexion. Get a 60 cent box today of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in any drug store and you will have a real beauty builder to clear your skin of pimples, roughness and such destroyers of beauty. A sample package will be sent to you by mail if you will send your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., [illegible] Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

25 YEARS of Successful Merchandising! 25 years of successful service to hundreds of thousands! 25 years of continuous growth! This is a record we are mightily proud of! It is a record made possible only by our policy to present at all times quality merchandise at lowest prices. In keeping with this policy and in the past 25 years we will celebrate this entire coming week by presenting values that will surpass all our previous achievements! America's foremost manufacturers and importers were called on to aid us in realizing our aim by reducing their costs to us, and they have responded most generously. Our own profits are disregarded. Arrange to visit our store every day this week, for there are many feature events planned for every day, and, above all—

It Will Soon Be In Homes Everywhere!

Within the next few months the new Weekly Magazine to be issued by the Publishers of The Chicago Tribune will make its debut. It will be sold on newsstands throughout America every week—at 5c. ($2.00 a year by mail.) And in hundreds of thousands of homes throughout America—in boulevard mansions, city apartments, suburban bungalows and at the rural fireside—it will take its place as one of the nation's leading magazines.

It will contain fiction of interest to every one—stories of love and romance, of true devotion and of deep intrigue, of high society and of plain folks—stories of adventure and daring from the thrills of the open spaces to the exciting experiences of the traveler in strange waters—humorous stories of business and home life, of the diamond, the gridiron, the squared ring and the links.

$25,000.00 CASH FOR ITS NAME!

The contest for a name is still open. Twenty-five thousand dollars in cash will be paid for the three best suggestions for a name for the new Weekly—1st Prize, $20,000.00; 2nd Prize, $4,000.00, and 3rd Prize, $1,000.00. The contest is open to everybody. It does not matter where you live.

If you have already sent in a suggestion—try a new thought and send another! Here is a sample: "The American Weekly Mirror—A Magazine for the Whole Family." You may use the coupon below or write on a separate sheet of paper.

These facts may aid you: The new Weekly will be a Magazine of inspiration and entertainment for everybody. It will be a big Magazine—64 pages to start. In addition to short stories and serials by the world's greatest authors, it will contain pictures of people and events from all over the world, fashions, patterns, editorials, special articles and fun!

In submitting suggestions, note that three things are required: (1.) A name. (2.) A sub-title or slogan. (For example, the slogan of The Chicago Tribune is "The World's Greatest Newspaper.") (3.) A reason in 100 words or less, stating why you consider your suggestion best.

$25,000.00 Must Be Won!

Address All Suggestions "NAMES",
Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill.

THE CONDITIONS:

1. A name is wanted for a new 5c weekly magazine soon to be published by the owners of The Chicago Tribune, The World's Greatest Newspaper, and THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper. The public is invited to submit suggestions. $25,000.00 in cash prizes will be paid to the three persons submitting the best suggestions in accordance with these conditions—First Prize, $20,000.00; Second Prize, $4,000.00, and Third Prize, $1,000.00.
2. This offer is open to every one except employes of The Chicago Tribune and THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper, and their families. It does not matter where you live.
3. Suggestions may be submitted on coupons published for convenience or on a separate sheet of paper of any form. Contestants may submit as many suggestions as they wish, but each must be mailed in a separate envelope and in good faith. Name and address of contestant must appear on each entry.
4. Each suggestion submitted must contain the following:
   (1) A name for the magazine.
   (2) A sub-title or slogan. (For example, the slogan of The Chicago Tribune is "The World's Greatest Newspaper.")
   (3) A reason, in 100 words or less, telling why it is believed the suggestion submitted is best. (A letter will do.) Such words as printed on coupon, "I believe my suggestion is best because," will be counted if submitted, but need not be used.
5. Originality of thought, cleverness of idea, clearness of expression, conciseness, neatness, accuracy, and form will count. The name and sub-title must not conflict with those of any other magazine.
6. The judges will be a committee appointed by the publishers of the new magazine, and their decision will be final.
7. In the event that more than one contestant submits the same name, slogan, and reasons for considering his suggestion the best, as the name, slogan, and reasons awarded a prize, and such name, slogan, and reasons are submitted in an equally clear, concise, neat, and accurate form, a duplicate prize will be paid to each such tying contestant.
8. All manuscripts and ideas submitted in this contest (or competition) become the absolute property of the Publishers, and may be used in whole or in part by the Publishers as they see fit without consideration. No manuscript will be returned. The right is reserved to alter or revise the winning entries, if necessary, for use.
9. Contestants need not purchase The Chicago Tribune or THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper, to compete, as they may be examined at the offices of publication or at Public Libraries free of charge.
10. To facilitate matters, names should be submitted AT ONCE. Names may be submitted every day, but no names will be considered after midnight, March 31st. No responsibility is accepted by the Publishers for the loss, delay, or non-delivery of any entry. Proof of sending will not be considered as proof of receipt.
11. Acceptance of these rules is an express condition of each entry.
12. All entries must be mailed to "NAMES," Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill., or, if your reside in the East, mail to "NAMES," Post Office Box 195, City Hall Station, New York City, N. Y.

Rod Proves He's Not a One-Picture Star

"PHANTOM JUSTICE."
Produced by F. B. O.
Directed by Richard Thomas.
Presented at Outlying Theaters.
THE CAST.

"Goldie" Harper	Estelle Taylor
"Spike" Laurel	Garry O'Dell
Beatrice Brooks	Kathryn McGuire
Dr. Wills	Frederic Vroom
Mother Meg	Lillian Leighton
"Gyp" Doyle	Fred Moore

"Duke" Ruggles	Rex Ballard
Wolfe	Norval MacGregor

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!

Rod La Rocque again doing good work! Maybe this picture was filmed before he made his memorable hit in "The Ten Commandments." If so, why, it goes to prove that he's a "repeater"—and repeating is what counts in the movies. Nearly anybody with an ounce of brains, combined with features that photograph, can manage to make ONE good picture. It's your man or woman who keeps right on hitting the bull's-eye who, in time, takes a permanent place in Screendom's Legion of Honor. I predict—and hope—all things for Mr. La Rocque. However, time will tell.

ESTELLE TAYLOR
does some splendid acting in "Phantom Justice."

"Phantom Justice" is a story of blind justice. Of course, Justice is supposed to always be blind. Equally, of course, the lady isn't. This film tells the thrilling tale of a criminal attorney who, because the people he defends usually come across—and come across big—has become a wealthy man. His idea is to play the game until he has secured enough money to make him independent. Then, he thinks, he will marry the girl he loves—who doesn't in the least approve of the kind of law he practices nor the people he defends—and take up civil practice.

A Slip Makes the Plot.

A little slip 'twixt cup and lip occurs. If you were to know all about that same l. s., the picture wouldn't interest you nearly so much as it's going to—because, you see, that l. s. I shall keep to myself. I know who makes it, but, aha, said she, the evidence shall remain tight locked within my what the world often says is NOT a brain.

After you've seen "Phantom Justice" we'll talk the story over through the "Kick Korner," the "Voice of the Fan," and, maybe, the "Ask Me" column.

Besides the work of Rod La Rocque, there is the splendid acting of Estelle Taylor to be considered. In fact, everybody in the cast "plays up" with praiseworthy zeal, and the pho-

New Nose; Friends for It; Helen's Happy; All's Well

By Mildred Spain.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Helen Ferguson's tea on Monday introduced her newly modeled nose and its modeler, Dr. Balsinger of Chicago. The younger set was lavish in its praise of the face ornament, and now every one wants to have a different mouth or a gently tapering nose, even as Helen.

Helen has always been one of the screen's beauties, but her nose harried her thoughts day and night. If she were refused an engagement Helen blamed it on her nose. If a fan wrote a cross criticism of her work Helen smelled nose. The de-Semitizing process occurred a week or so ago, but she is only now strong enough to see her friends. Hence the preview.

HELEN FERGUSON,
introduces her newly modeled nose at tea.

Dr. Balsinger, delicately balancing a teacup, looked at all the movie stars around him and said he'd like to find a pretty and good girl while he was in Hollywood.

"Find a good one and you do the rest," said Helen.

While Dr. Balsinger is here he has been sculptoring the faces of many of our favorites. Ethel Clayton is remade, even to her hands. Franklyn Farnum, the ex-husband of Alma Rubens, had his epidermis stretched into youthful planes. A British lord had his features refinished to fit Hollywood's idea of Apollo.

But just ask Bill Hart if he's had his face lifted. Try and do it. Bill wants every one to know he's a terribly rough he-man and his old face will last a little longer.

Getting back to Helen's tea—Patsy Ruth Miller, Edna Murphy, Laura La Plante, and every member of Our Club was there. Mabel Forrest, Bryant Washburn's wife, dropped in for a few minutes to offer congratulations.

The nose was unanimously voted a (huge) success and now Helen is happy.

If Ben Turpin has his eyes straightened there goes his job.

Almost More Than She Could Bear.

The Friday night bouts at the Hollywood Legion stadium brought Viola Dana to watch Frankie Grandetta in the ring. And Vi was sorry for once she was a fight fan. During the entire four rounds, while Frankie was receiving a terrible trimming at the hands of a young Filipino, she kept her face hidden in the crook of her arm.

When Frankie was led from the ring all he could say was, "Don't let Vi see me! Don't let Vi see me."

It's one thing to go around dances with a young prizefighter and quite another to see him vanquished.

Pola Negri has been raving in French, Russian, Polish, and Paramount the last week. Some mean cops on Hollywood boulevard slapped tickets on her imported car until it looked like a steamer trunk. Pola doesn't like it, not a bit. All this happened just after she got back from Catalina, where she says she was cruelly overcharged for a chicken sandwich.

Ann Luther, who married the Gallagher side of the house

By Edward Moore.

PAVLOWA, the incomparable—find, if you can, any one who better deserves this title—and her lovely Russian ballet will open a two weeks' season at the Auditorium tomorrow night. She brings with her Laurent Novikoff, her leading man; Hilda Butsova, Muriel Stuart, a large squad of other assisting dancers, Theodore Stier, in charge of the orchestra; Ivan Clustine, in charge of the stage, and five carloads of scenery and costumes. Five ballets will be new to Chicago, and two of these are announced for the first week.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK
in recital at Orchestra hall this afternoon.

They are "Oriental Impressions" and "Old Russian Folklore." The first deals with Japan, Egypt, and Hindustan, with dances arranged by native masters of the art and music drawn from native sources, pointed and emphasized by native instruments. "Old Russian Folklore" is, it would seem, sufficiently described by its title, a folk tale done in terms of the dance. It has music by Tscherepnine, choreography by Clustine, and costumes by Ivan Bilbine.

These, however, are only a part of what is promised during the first week. There is word of "Amarilla," "Chopiniana," "A Polish Wedding," "Snowflakes," "Visions," "Autumn Leaves," "The Magic Flute," and "Fairy Doll," the last promised with an entire new equipment of scenery and costumes by Soudeikine. It is the Pavlowa practice to present two ballets and a list of seven or eight divertissements on each performance, and here one reads of the pleasant prospect of "The Swan," "Bacchanale," "California Poppy," "The Dragonfly," and "Gavotte Pavlowa."

Pavlowa is without doubt the most bewitching exponent of the fine art of the dance that we in America are likely to know anything about. She has everything, as we say in our set; she is a highly developed artist to the tips of her expert toes, and she possesses an electric personality that pervades not only what she does but what her entire company does. Ever since she started coming here, over a dozen years ago, Pavlowa and ballet have been nearly synonymous terms. Memories of past seasons insure a recommendation to visit the Auditorium during her stay.

What Is Your Favorite Masterpiece?

The Etude, which publishes many items of interest to the student of music, is out with a large and elaborate symposium. It summarizes the opinions of twenty-six musicians of this country and elsewhere on a list of ten of the greatest musical masterpieces. Some of the answers are unexpectedly interesting.

A foreword to the list tells that the editors of the magazine thoroughly realize that such a statement includes merely individual preferences. It does not include the further fact that such a list sometimes throws considerable light on the mentality of the individual. Thus, one finds that Moritz Moszkowski makes his list entirely of solo concertos, six for

Elsie Ferguson Wastes Good Performance on Futile Play

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Elsie Ferguson is back on Broadway with a crowning glory of red hair such as old Mr. Henner himself might take special pride in applying. A brightly shining, burnished dome the pretty actress wears as heroine of "The Moonflower," and they tell me the improvement, if such she thinks it, is permanent.

ELSIE FERGUSON

[Lewis-Smith Photo.]

The play is considerably less bright than the new hair. Zoe Akins adapted it from the Hungarian original, but it lacks the Akins snap and resolves itself into a succession of those table scenes in which two persons nibble crackers and pick daintily at what might be epigrams but are not.

The story is principally of a Budapest lawyer's clerk who came into several thousand francs and decided to cheat fate by spending it in a single night in place of bit by bit.

He will go to Monte Carlo, says he, engage the royal suite, and invite a glorious lady to dinner. The next morning he will pay the bill with his last francs and throw himself into the blue sea, convinced that he has cheated life of all its bitterest disappointments.

The lady he meets, played by Miss Ferguson, happens to be the beautiful but practical mistress of a two-gun duke. At first she laughs at the boy pest from Budapest, but finally, being mad at the duke, she goes to the dinner and remains the night.

But the next morning she grows practical again, and as she sees poverty threatening to stalk in at the window she flies out the door and goes to join the duke on his yacht and sail away out of her younger darling's life forever. While he sits at table disillusioned but evidently in doubt as to the wisdom of the sea plunge he had planned.

Sidney Blackmer plays the boy and, pleasing as Sidney is in most rôles, he is not our idea of a romantic lover, either dreamy or impetuous. He, therefore, slowed the pace of the piece considerably.

Miss Ferguson sighed mournfully and musically of her lost love and her lost youth, her lost virtue and her lost happiness. But it was a good performance wasted on a futile play.

Cleopatra in a New Guise.

She is a wise little show woman, is Jane Cowl, and she has the advantage of being married to Adolph Klauber, long critic of the New York Times in the old days. And Klauber also knows a thing or two about the theater.

Therefore when they were ready to bring "Antony and Cleopatra" into New York, these two fortified themselves against the criticism of the misunderstanding by inserting a printed slip of explanation in the program.

The slip called attention to the fact that one Arthur E. T. Brome Weigall is the author of a wise and authoritative work entitled "Life and Times of Cleopatra," in which he proves that Cleo was really a good girl at heart. A little determined

Staging Dickens and Patching Up the Plays

By Frederick Donaghey.

POSTPONING her "Bleak House" piece for a week is a sensible proceeding by Miss Anglin, if the play be worth doing at all. Dickens isn't easy for the stage, although there is general belief to the contrary. The book-sellers say that his tales are still live and important, however unfashionable, so that it is a reasonable assumption that an audience for any play derived from him is largely made up of persons who know the particular story, and, therefore, of persons in general agreement as to what the characters should be like on the stage. The actors are without a margin for what they love to call "interpretation": Dickens saw to that, although he didn't have the actors in mind as he wrote.

JOHN HALLIDAY
He has the principal man's part in "Silence," one of the week's new plays.

Wilton Lackaye long ago told me that one of his ambitions as a merchant was to organize and train a company to perform a répertoire of plays drawn from Dickens. "There is nothing for the actor to do but carry out Dickens' shouted instructions," he explained. "The man didn't devise characters so much as characterize adjectives; each character in Dickens is an adjective, which is the most expressive part of speech in English." Lackaye was persuasive; but he did nothing about it save to talk. Later, here in Chicago, he took part in an actor-heavy revival of "Oliver Twist," and was the poorest Fagin I have ever seen. . . .

Miss Anglin's venture, however it turn out, will be the better for the extra preparation that will permit her actors to know nearly as much as her audience. Tulkinghorn, the Dedlocks, Volumnia, Skimpole, Poor Jo, John Jarndyce, Inspector Bucket, and Hortense are some of the "adjectives" retained in the new play by Paul Kester. Great plays are not made out of Dickens, nor many good ones; but those that have been successful have had careful regard for getting Dickens' characters into alignment with the popular view of them. The most prosperous thing of the kind within easy memory was the piece called "Tom Pinch," which the late E. S. Willard devised from "Martin Chuzzlewit"; and Pinch was for years the public's favorite character in Willard's American répertoire.

Janauschek as Lady Dedlock.

The most recent "tradition" of "Bleak House" in the theater of this country is Janauschek's; and that is too pale to be much of a factor in Miss Anglin's venture. I have a dim memory of the doughty old actress in an awkward, tawdry play from the novel doing what Miss Anglin is making ready to do—playing both Lady Dedlock and Hortense. She was too ponderous and not sufficiently patrician for Lady Dedlock, nor lithe enough for Hortense; but she was stagewise as no other actress save Bernhardt whom I have seen, and sent us from the theater with something to talk about

THE OUTLINE OF SCIENCE

EDITED BY Professor J. ARTHUR THOMSON

A PLAIN STORY SIMPLY TOLD . . . . . . XI.—THE EVOLUTION OF LAND ANIMALS; THE GEOLOGICAL MIDDLE AGES

THE Carboniferous period was marked by a mild, moist climate and a luxuriant vegetation in the swampy low grounds. It was a much less strenuous time than the Devonian period; it was like a long summer. There were no trees of the type we see now, but there were forests of club mosses and horsetails which grew to a gigantic size compared with their pigmy representatives of today. In these forests the jointed footed invaders of the dry land ran riot in the form of centipedes, spiders, scorpions, and insects, and on these the primeval Amphibians fed. The appearance of insects made possible a new linkage of far reaching importance: namely, the cross fertilization of flowering plants by their insect visitors, and from this time onwards it may be said that flowers and their visitors have evolved hand in hand. Cross fertilization is much surer by insects than by the wind, and cross fertilization is more advantageous than self-fertilization because it promotes both fertility and plasticity. It was probably in this period that colored flowers—attractive to insect visitors—began to justify themselves as beauty became useful and began to relieve the monotonous green of the horsetail and club moss forests, which covered great tracts of the earth for millions of years. In the Carboniferous forests there were also land snails, representing one of the minor invasions of the dry land, tending on the whole to check vegetation. They, too, were probably preyed upon by the Amphibians, some of which attained a large size. Each age has had its giants, and those of the Carboniferous were Amphibians called Labyrinthodonts, some of which were almost as big as donkeys. It need hardly be said that it was in this period that most of the coal measures were laid down by the immense accumulation of the spores and debris of the club moss forests. Ages afterwards it was given to man to tap this great source of energy—traceable back to the sunshine of millions of years ago. Even then it was true that no plant or animal lives or dies to itself!

The Acquisitions of Amphibians.

As Amphibians had their golden age in the Carboniferous period, we may fitly use this opportunity of indicating the advance in evolution which the emergence of Amphibians implied. (1) In the first place, the passage from water to dry land was the beginning of a higher and more promiseful life, beset, no doubt, by increased difficulties. The natural question rises why animals should have migrated from water to dry land at all when great difficulties were involved in the transition. The answers must be: (a) that local drying up of water basins or elevations of the land surface often made the old haunts untenable; (b) that there may have been great congestion and competition in the old quarters; and (c) that there has been an undeniable endeavor after well being throughout the history of animal life. In the same way with mankind, migrations were prompted by the setting in of prolonged drought, by overpopulation, and by the spirit of adventure. (2) In Amphibians for the first time the nondigitate paired fins of fishes were replaced by limbs with fingers and toes. This implied an advantageous power of grasping, of holding firm, of putting food into the mouth, of feeling things in three dimensions. (3) We cannot be positive in regard to the soft parts of the ancient Amphibians known only as fossils, but if they were in a general way like the frogs and toads, newts and salamanders of the present day we may say that they made among other acquisitions the following: true ventral lungs, a three chambered heart, a movable tongue, a drum to the ear, and lids to the eyes.

It is interesting to find that though the tongue of the tadpole has some muscle fibers in it they are not strong enough to effect movement, recalling the tongue of fishes, which has not any muscles at all. Gradually, as the tadpole becomes a frog, the muscle fibers grow in strength, and make it possible for the full grown creature to shoot out its tongue upon insects. This is probably a recapitulation of what was accomplished in the course of millennia in the history of the Amphibian race. (4) Another acquisition made by Amphibians was a voice, due, as in ourselves, to the rapid passage of air over taut membranes (vocal cords) stretched in the larynx. It is an interesting fact that for millions of years there was upon the earth no sound of life at all, only the noise of wind and wave, thunder and avalanche. Apart from the instrumental music of some insects, perhaps beginning in the Carboniferous, the first vital sounds were due to Amphibians, and theirs certainly was the first voice—surely one of the great steps in organic evolution.

The first use of the voice was probably that indicated by our frogs and toads—it serves as a sex call. That is the meaning of the trumpeting with which frogs herald the spring, and it is often only in the males that the voice is well developed. But if we look forward, past Amphibians altogether, we find the voice becoming a maternal call helping to secure the safety of the young—a use obvious when young birds squat motionless at the sound of the parent's danger note. Later on, probably, the voice became an infantile call, as when the unhatched crocodile pipes from within the deeply buried egg, signaling to the mother that it is time to be unearthed. Higher still, the voice expresses emotion, as in the song of birds, often outside the limits of the breeding time. Later still, particular sounds become words, signifying particular things or feelings, such as food, danger, home, anger, and joy. Finally words became a medium of social intercourse and as symbols help to make it possible for man to reason.

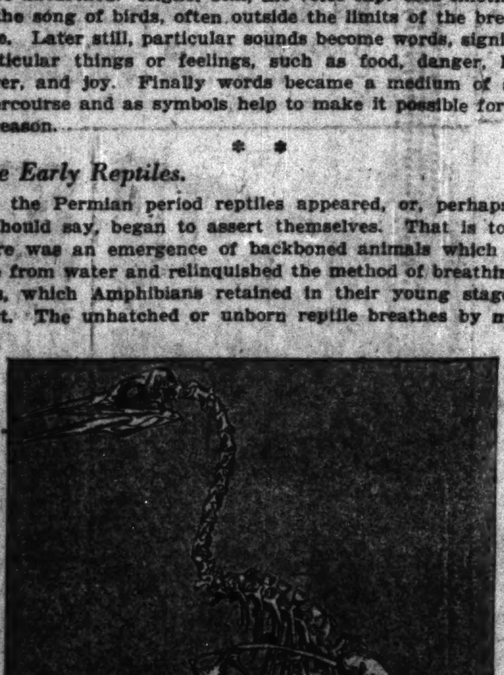
The Early Reptiles.

IN the Permian period reptiles appeared, or, perhaps one should say, began to assert themselves. That is to say, there was an emergence of backboned animals which were free from water and relinquished the method of breathing by gills, which Amphibians retained in their young stages at least. The unhatched or unborn reptile breathes by means of a vascular hood spread underneath the eggshell and absorbing dry air from without. It is an interesting point that this vascular hood, called the allantois, is represented in the Amphibians by an unimportant bladder growing out from the hind end of the food canal. A great step in evolution was implied in the origin of this antenatal hood or fœtal membrane and another one—of protective significance—called the amnion, which forms a water bag over the delicate embryo. The step meant total emancipation from the water and from gill breathing, and the two fœtal membranes, the amnion and the allantois, persist not only in all reptiles but in birds and mammals as well. These higher Vertebrates are, therefore, called Amniota, in contrast to the Lower Vertebrates or Anamnia (the Amphibians, Fishes, and primitive types).



SKELETON OF AN EXTINCT FLIGHTLESS TOOTHED BIRD, HESPERORNIS—The bird was five or six feet high, something like a swimming ostrich, with a powerful leg, but only a vestige of a wing. There were sharp teeth in a groove. The modern divers come nearest to this ancient type.
[After Marsh.]

It is a suggestive fact that the embryos of all reptiles, birds, and mammals show gill clefts—a telltale evidence of their distant aquatic ancestry. But these embyonic gill clefts are not used for respiration and show no trace of gills except in a few embryonic reptiles and birds where their dwindled vestiges have been recently discovered. As to the gill clefts, they are of no use in higher Vertebrates except that the first becomes the Eustachian tube leading from the ear passage to the back of the mouth. The reason why they persist when only one is of any use, and that in a transformed guise, would be difficult to interpret except in terms of the evolution theory. They illustrate the lingering influence of a long pedigree, the living hand of the past, the tendency that individual development has to recapitulate racial evolution. In a condensed and telescoped manner, of course, for what took the race a million years may be recapitulated by the individual in a week!

In the Permian period the warm, moist climate of most of the Carboniferous period was replaced by severe conditions, culminating in an ice age which spread from the southern hemisphere throughout the world. With this was associated a waning of the Carboniferous flora and the appearance of a new one, consisting of ferns, conifers, ginkgos, and cycads, which persisted until near the end of the Mesozoic era. The Permian ice age lasted for millions of years, and was most severe in the far south. Of course, it was a different world then, for North Europe was joined to North America, Africa to South America, and Australia to Asia. It was probably during the Permian ice age that many of the insects divided their life history into two main chapters—the feeding, growing, moulting, immature, larval stages—e. g.: caterpillars, and the more ascetic, nongrowing, nonmoulting, winged phase, adapted for reproduction. Between these there intervened the quiescent, well protected pupa stage or chrysalis, probably adapted to begin with as a means of surviving the severe winter. For it is easier for an animal to survive when the vital processes are more or less in abeyance.

We cannot leave the last period of the Palæozoic era and its prolonged ice age without noticing that it meant the entire cessation of a large number of ancient types, especially among plants and backboneless animals, which now disappear forever. It is necessary to understand that the animals of ancient days stand in three different relations to those of today. (a) There are ancient types that have living representatives, sometimes few and sometimes many, sometimes much changed and sometimes but slightly changed. The lamp-shell, Lingulella, of the Cambrian and Ordovician period has a near relative in the Lingula of today. There are a few extremely conservative animals. (b) There are ancient types which have no living representatives, except in the guise of transformed descendants, as the king crab (Limulus) may be said to be a transformed descendant of the otherwise quite extinct race to which Eurypterids or sea scorpions belonged. (c) There are altogether extinct types—lost races—which have left not a wrack behind. For there is not any representation today of such races as Graptolites and Trilobites.

Looking backwards over the many millions of years comprised in the Palæozoic era, what may we emphasize as the most salient features? There was in the Cambrian the establishment of the chief classes of backboneless animals; in the Ordovician the first fishes and perhaps the first terrestrial plants; in the Silurian the emergence of air breathing invertebrates and mud fishes; in the Devonian the appearance of the first Amphibians, from which all higher land animals are descended, and the establishment of a land flora; in the Carboniferous the great club moss forests and an exuberance of air breathing insects and their allies; in the Permian the first reptiles and a new flora.

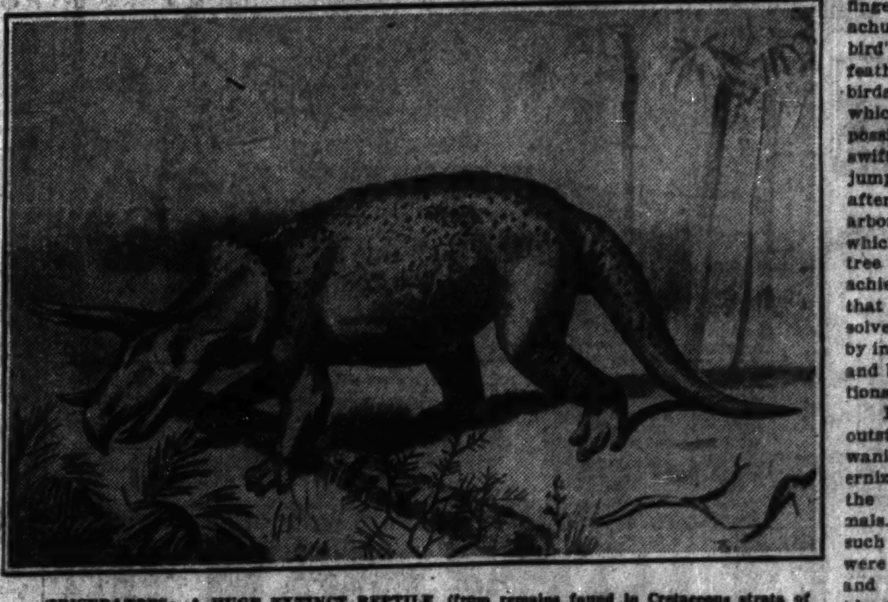
The Mesozoic Era.

IN a broad way the Mesozoic era corresponds with the golden age of reptiles, and with the climax of the conifer and cycad flora, which was established in the Permian. But among the conifers and cycads our modern flowering plants were beginning to show face tentatively, just like birds and mammals among the great reptiles.

In the Triassic period the exuberance of reptilian life which marked the Permian was continued. Besides turtles, which still persist, there were ichthyosaurs, plesiosaurs, dinosaurs, and pterosaurs, none of which lasted beyond the Mesozoic era. Of great importance was the rise of the dinosaurs in the Triassic, for it is highly probable that within the limits of this vigorous and plastic stock—some of them bipeds—we must look for the ancestors of both birds and mammals. Both land and water were dominated by reptiles, some of which attained to gigantic size. Had there been any zoölogist in those days he would have been sagacious indeed if he had suspected that reptiles did not represent the climax of creation.

The Jurassic period showed a continuance of the reptilian splendor. They radiated in many directions, becoming adapted to many haunts. Thus there were many fish lizards paddling in the seas, many types of terrestrial dragons stalking about on land, many swiftly gliding alligator-like forms, and the flying dragons which began in the Triassic attained to remarkable success and variety. Their wing was formed by the extension of a great fold of skin on the enormously elongated outermost finger, and they varied from the size of a sparrow to a spread of over five feet. A soldering of the dorsal vertebræ, as in our flying birds, was an adaptation to striking the air with some force, but as there is not more than a slight keel, if any, on the breast bone, it is unlikely that they could fly far. For we know from our modern birds that the power of flight may be, to some extent, gauged from the degree of development of the keel, which is simply a great ridge for the better insertion of the muscles of flight. It is absent, of course, in the running birds, like the ostrich, and it has degenerated in an interesting way in the burrowing parrot (Stringops) and a few other birds that have "gone back."



TRICERATOPS: A HUGE EXTINCT REPTILE (from remains found in Cretaceous strata of Wyoming, U. S. A.)—This dinosaur, about the size of a large rhinoceros, had a huge three-horned skull with a remarkable bony collar over the neck. But, as in many other cases, its brain was so small that it could have passed down the spinal canal in which the spinal cord lies. Perhaps this partly accounts for the extinction of giant reptiles.
[From Knipe's "Nebula to Man."]

The First Known Bird.

BUT the Jurassic is particularly memorable because its strata have yielded two fine specimens of the first known bird, Archæopteryx. These were entombed in the deposits which formed the fine grained lithographic stones of Bavaria, and practically every bone in the body is preserved except the breast bone. Even the feathers have left their marks with distinctness. This oldest known bird—too far advanced to be the first bird—was about the size of a crow and was probably of arboreal habits. Of great interest are its reptilian features, so pronounced that one cannot evade the evolutionist suggestion. It had teeth in both jaws, which no modern bird has; it had a long, lizard-like tail, which no modern bird has; it had claws on three fingers, and a sort of half made wing. That is to say, it does not show what all modern birds show, a fusion of half the wrist bones with the whole of the palm bones, the well known carpo-metacarpus bone, which forms a basis for the longest pinions. In many reptiles, such as crocodiles, there are peculiar bones running across the abdomen beneath the skin, the so-called abdominal ribs, and it seems an eloquent detail to find these represented in Archæopteryx, the earliest known bird. No modern bird shows any trace of them.

There is no warrant for supposing that the flying reptiles or pterodactyls gave rise to birds, for the two groups are on different lines, and the structure of the wings is entirely different. Thus the long fingered pterodactyl wing was a parachute wing, while the secret of the bird's wing has its center in the feathers. It is highly probable that birds evolved from certain dinosaurs which had become bipeds, and it is possible that they were, for a time, swift runners that took flying jumps along the ground. Thereafter, perhaps, came a period of arboreal apprenticeship, during which there was much gliding from tree to tree before true flight was achieved. It is an interesting fact that the problem of flight has been solved four times among animals—by insects, by pterodactyls, by birds, and by bats; and that the four solutions are on entirely different lines.

In the Cretaceous period the outstanding events included the waning of giant reptiles, the modernizing of the flowering plants, and the multiplication of small mammals. Some of the Permian reptiles, such as the dog toothed Cynodonts, were extraordinarily mammal-like, and it was probably from among them that definite mammals emerged in the Triassic. Comparatively little is known of the early Triassic mammals save that their back teeth were marked by numerous tubercles on the crown, but they were gaining strength in the late Triassic, when small arboreal insectivores, not so distant from the modern tree shrews (Tupaia), began to branch out in many directions, indicative of the great divisions of modern mammals, such as the clawed mammals, hoofed mammals, and the race of monkeys or Primates. In the Upper Cretaceous there was an exuberant radiation of mammals, adaptive to the conquest of all sorts of haunts, and this was vigorously continued in Tertiary times.

There is no difficulty in the fact that the earliest remains of definite mammals in the Triassic precede the first known bird in the Jurassic. For although we usually rank mammals as higher than birds (being mammals ourselves, how could we do otherwise?), there are many ways in which birds are preëminent—e. g.: in skeleton, musculature, integumentary structures, and respiratory system. The fact is that birds and mammals are on two quite different tacks of evolution, not related to one another, save in having a common ancestry in extinct reptiles. Moreover, there is no reason to believe that the Jurassic Archæopteryx was the first bird in any sense except that it is the first of which we have any record. In any case, it is safe to say that birds came to their own before mammals did.

Looking backwards, we may perhaps sum up what is most essential in the Mesozoic era in Professor Schuchert's sentence: "The Mesozoic is the age of reptiles, and yet the little mammals and the toothed birds are storing up intelligence and strength to replace the reptiles when the cycads and conifers shall give way to the higher flowering plants."

Stage-Notes

"New Toys," although a failure in other cities, is a failure in New-York, also, and is to be thrown away for good at the end of the week. . . . Godfrey Tearle, brother of Conway Tearle, is to be in the London production of Frederick Lonsdale's "The Fake," one of the plays mentioned for Lowell Sherman's use on this side.

Miss Katherine Cornell, who so far has been a most successful New-York actress in plays that fail, has been put into the principal woman's rôle of "The Outsider," the imported piece about a crippled girl who insists on treatment by a doctor not recognized by the medical profession.

George Arliss is coming back from London, where he has had high success in "The Green Goddess," and is to star here, his manager states, in "a répertoire of his former successes," whatever that may mean.

Robert Emmet Keane, a popular chatter-man of the two-a-day, is to have the principal rôle in "Across the Street." . . . Daniel Kusell, once a Chicagoan, has made a play from James Oliver Curwood's story called "The River's End."

through many years of further adventure among the players.

Repairing the Plays on the Fly.

Owen Davis is rewriting the portions of "Peacocks" that don't click; and that, too, is a sensible proceeding. Rewriting is a process which accounts for a reasonable number of the successes in any season. . . . There is "The Best People," for an example within reach. The play was a waif and a cripple when it was hurriedly housed in the Illinois in mid-Autumn to take up three weeks left open by the withdrawal of another piece. When I saw it in its first week, repairs were in progress while the performance was going on. This line, that exit, such an inflection, a new gesture: these were being tried, observed, kept in if effective, thrown out for something else if they didn't register. It goes tonight into its seventeenth week, and is still among the best-sellers of a season none too good at the Chicago box-offices.

The author and the management were still tinkering "Spring Cleaning" when it was put on the train for New-York. Although a first-night hit here, there were passages where the audience was patently let down; and the play was not among the sure things until these spots had been vitalized. When Mr. Lonsdale, the author, couldn't hit upon the remedial lines and action, he sensibly stepped aside, and permitted Mr. Selwyn to try, just as Mr. Gray, who wrote it, allowed Mr. Hopwood to serve as garage-man and gag-master for "The Best People." . . . There was "Disraeli," a first-night failure if ever Chicago saw one: the play had been ticketed for the storehouse and oblivion when the eminent Louis Napoleon Parker, realizing that revision couldn't add to the disaster, consented to a trial of suggested alterations, with the result that he drew handsome royalties from the piece for five years, and George Arliss was established among the de-facto stars.

O'Neill's Black-and-White Play.

The second number of the Mencken-Nathan magazine, the American Mercury, contains Eugene O'Neill's "All God's Chillun Got Wings," the play about miscegenation with which he seems headed for a measure of trouble. It is not much of a play in the reading; and I don't think it will be better in the acting, no matter how good the acting may be. Mr. O'Neill, who is credited by his cult with feeling deeply everything he writes for the stage, may feel deeply about the matter of marriage between whites and blacks; but the impression I take from reading his text and elaborate stage-directions is that he is sincere only in the hope that he will make a fuss with the play.

The weakness of the piece even as thesis is that the white girl who becomes the wife of a New-York Negro is an ignorant, forlorn outcast, the discarded pet of a crooked pugilist, and ready for the river when her black admirer offers marriage. The Negro is prosperous, well-bred, educated, aspiring, and a progressive thinker. Although white, she is his social inferior even in the early scenes, when they are shown as children playing marbles. The match is not there, and it is not honest drama: O'Neill dodges the issue he pretends to be taking up. After some make-believe violence, the play fades out as the black husband, surrendering his ambitions for himself and his people, dedicates his life to caring for the half-witted wife, who has set herself to defeating his plans for betterment.

Better reading is to be had from another playright in "Husbands and Lovers," nineteen dialogues by Franz Molnar, whose "The Swan" is one of the enduring successes of the season in New-York. They have been translated delightfully by Benjamin Glazer, who made the adaptations for this country of that play, of "Liliom," and of "Fashions for Men," a good Molnar comedy which reached Chicago last season as "Peter and Paula." Each of the dialogues is in essence a drama: the slightest of them are rich in suggestion and implication. Not even Schnitzler of the Anatol sketches has turned out anything in kind more stimulating and suggestive than these conversations by the Hungarian dramatist, whose repute as a wit and a thinking cynic is on a foundation of proof. . . . And nearly all the sketches are suitable for stage-performance.

THIS-AND-THAT

That Miss Ina Claire's manager hopes to send her hither in "Grounds for Divorce" is still indicated; but, as yet, no theater is named for her use. . . . A bulletin from his manager says that Lew Fields will act in the Princess on April 20 in "The Jazz King," which is, so far, without a public hearing.

"We Moderns" is to get a New-York hearing next week. . . . James Dale, who was so good in the rôle of the determined Jew in "Loyalties," and Miss Gilda Leary go into the parts acted here by Clarence Derwent and Miss Flora Sheffield.

Ernst Toller's "Masse Mensch," which has been among the post-bellum sensations of the German theaters, is to be put on by the Theater Guild as "Man and the Masses." . . . "The Show-Off" is enough of a success in New-York to warrant the management in selling seats sixteen weeks ahead.

"The Woman-Hunter," frequently mentioned in recent weeks as a Chicago possibility, is to be taken off for rewriting. . . . Joseph Santley says he will give three prizes, the highest being $500, for the "three best plays written by American actors."

Mrs. Fiske's new play is called "The Boys," is the dramatization of a story by Mary Brecht Pulver that was in the Saturday Evening Post, and is by Miss Ida Ehrlich. . . . "The Fool" is to be staged in London, with Owen Nares, that city's most popular leading-man, in the title-part.

The success of one of André Charlot's unpretentious London revues in New-York has sent American managers scurrying to hire English comedians and soubrettes. None of the three stars of the Charlot piece possessed a reputation on this side before coming over, about two months ago. They are Miss Beatrice Lillie, Miss Gertrude Lawrence, and Jack Buchanan.

William Farnum, who has been in the movies so long that not many recall his high popularity as an actor in mélodrama, is returning to the stage. . . . So, also, is Elliott Dexter. And Miss Ethel Clayton. And Lew Cody. Each is going into the two-a-day with a short play.

Miss Elsie Janis is going to Paris to act the title-rôle of "Sally" in French. . . . She has been getting $3,000 a week in the two-a-day.

J. M. Barrie is said to insist on a boy for the title-rôle of "Peter Pan" as a movie, although the part has always been acted by a girl on the stage.

Miss Edna Aug, long in retirement, is back in public as an impersonator. . . . Paul Dickey, having written a play called "Bunk," changes its name to "The Back-Slappers" to avoid explaining that it has nothing to do with the novel of the former title.

A Long Play by Dunsaney.

"If," a success in London three seasons ago, is to be staged in this country. It is the first long play by Lord Dunsaney, whose one-act pieces were in great vogue for a time. . . . Laurence Grossmith is mentioned for the principal rôle, acted in London by Henry Ainley.

Will Marion Cook plans a revue, called Negro Nuances, with his own music to a libretto by his wife, known to theater-goers as Abbie Mitchell. The scheme of the piece carries the Negro from Africa through the days of slavery to the present time. . . . Cook, long an industrious and literate worker in the music of his race, is to have an opera of his composition mounted in Paris.

Miss Jane Eagels, who acted in "Rain" all last season in New-York, is to remain there in the play until the end of this season, at least. "Rain" is said to be as popular as in the beginning of the run, although there was a heavy drop in attendance when illness took her from the cast for a time. . . . The piece, with her in it, is tentatively booked for September in the Harris.

"The Pearl of Great Price," an allegory-play by Robert McLaughlin, is to have Miss Helen Ford, of the musical comedies, as its principal actress. . . . Mr. McLaughlin is the Cleveland theater-manager who wrote "The Eternal Magdalene," in which Miss Julia Arthur once acted here.

Mrs. Carter is expected to put aside "Stella Dallas," said to be a success wherever shown, until next season, and go out into the smaller cities for a clean-up with "Lilies of the Field," acted here in Powers' two years ago by Norman Trebor.

EACH HEADS A NEW CAST TONIGHT

MISS OLGA STECK
[White Photo]

MISS JUDITH ANDERSON
[Floyd Photo]

MISS STECK is a well-known soprano of the lighter musical pieces, and is remembered in Chicago for appearances in a number of them. She was the prima-donna a year ago in the engagement of "In the Springtime of Youth," in the Illinois, with George MacFarlane, Harry K. Morton, and others. She returns as the singer of the title-rôle in "Little Jessie James."

Miss Anderson has renown hereabout solely for her acting a year ago in support of Frank Keenan through his long engagement in "Peter Weston." She comes back as principal actress in "Patches."

New Playbills

OPENING TONIGHT.

"Silence" [Cohan's Grand]: A melodrama by Max Marcin, author of "Cheating Cheaters" and "The Nightcap," which is a topic of warm praise in the newspapers of Detroit and Cleveland, where it has been experimentally acted. The story is of a bad man's self-sacrifice in behalf of his daughter, who has been raised in ignorance of her origin. Miss Phœbe Foster, John Halliday, Miss Lillian Kingsbury, and Carl Anthony are well-knowns in the cast.

"Little Jessie James" [Garrick]: A musical comedy by Harlan Thompson and Harry Archer, which has been running since mid-August in New-York City. It is celebrated as the abode of the one of the season's song-hits, "I Love You!" Gregory Kelly, Miss Olga Steck, James B. Carson, Miss Madeline Fairbanks, Roger Gray, and Miss Martha Throop are of the company, which has been organized for Chicago. A Paul Whiteman band is among the enticements.

"Patches" [The Playhouse]: A comedy by Joseph H. Graham about a wise and good newsgirl who is ready when needed by others. The play has been acted in some of the eastern cities, and is described by its sponsors as "another 'Peg o' My Heart.'" Miss Judith Anderson, Miss Aleen Bronson, and Alphens Ethier are of the cast.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

Tony Sarg's Marionettes in a "The Chinese Willow-Plate Story" [The Playhouse]: Repetition of a successful experiment by the puppet-master in the field of shadowgraphed pantomime. This is one of the most delightful entertainments yet devised by Mr. Sarg, and repays attendance for its novelty and its beauty. The score is by Victor Herbert. A third performance will be on Tuesday at 4 o'clock in the Studebaker.

MONDAY, MARCH 10.

Otis Skinner in "Sancho Panza" [Powers']: A play by Melchoir Lengyel dealing with the Barataria incidents in "Don Quixote." Mr. Skinner has been lauded for his acting in the title-rôle wherever he has appeared, the opinion being that he has not been nearly so good in anything else since "Kismet."

Miss Margaret Anglin in "The Great Lady Dedlock" [Blackstone]: Paul Kester's play based on Dickens' "Bleak House," the production of which is postponed from this week.

Harry Lauder [Great Northern]: The singing Scot in a six days' engagement—the last he will have here, the management states, in at least two years.

APRIL 7.

The Moscow Art Players [Great Northern]: The famed Russian actors in their répertoire.

Stage-Notes

"A Man Called Grant" is the name of a new play by Edward Rose. . . . James K. Hackett, who was put into the Legion of Honor after he acted Macbeth in Paris, is having trouble with the players selected by the Actors' Equity for his support in the rôle in New-York.

The anti-vivisectionists, as an organization, are said to be financing "The Cloak of Science," which is meant to be their kind of propaganda. . . . George Arliss, who is ardent on the subject, thought of acting in it before good-luck struck him in the form of "The Green Goddess."

Ida Rubinstein, who is eager to come to the United States, is acting the Sphinx in a new play in Paris. . . . Another new piece there is called "The Bearded Lady."

Elsie Ferguson Wastes Good Performance on Futile Play

about having her own way, both with men and empires, it may be, but still kind and not at all the kind of person history and the herd have painted her.

"It is unanimously supposed that Cleopatra was a slave to her lusts," records Mr. Weigall. "Yet what was there beyond the ignorant and prejudiced talk of her Roman enemies to give a foundation for such an estimate of her character? She lived as Caesar's wife for some years. After his assassination she married Antony and lived with him until the last days of her life. There is not a particle of trustworthy evidence to show that Cleopatra carried on a single love affair in her life other than the two recorded so dramatically by history, nor is there any evidence to show that in those two love affairs she conducted herself in a licentious manner."

Quite Without Guile.

Now, knowing Miss Cowl, you should be able to visualize the Cleopatra she has brought to the stage to square with that printed guide to character. She is a nice, flapperish little queen, bobbed and black as to hair, lithe and graceful as to body, gorgeous in her colorful Egyptian robes, petulant in anger, cooing and sweet in love. Enthroned at the death scene, after the wiggling asp has found her soft white flesh and the pleasant release of death has molded her fair features into an impressive mask, she presents a picture of striking beauty.

But she is never—at least, is not to me—such a Cleopatra as should impress you with the regal and sweeping majesty of one who might wreck empires or turn great military idols into amorous weaklings. There is naught of sophistication in her study, or of guile, or ambition, and little of physical force. Age cannot wither her because, in this instance, age has seemingly never touched her. Nor custom stale an infinite variety she does not possess.

It is a pleasantly conventional dramatic performance, rising to its most effective dramatic moment in the messenger scene. Here the tigerish queen receives the man come t oreport to her Antony's marriage to the washed out Octavia. She pleads for his news and beats him when she gets it. The death scene, as noted, provides a picture, and is also beautifully played. But for the rest there is not much to talk about.

Rollo Isn't Antony.

Which is not altogether the actress' fault. The play itself has comparatively little to offer her. There is really more drama in Antony's tragedy than in Cleo's. And the force of the romance is quite as dependent upon the lover as upon the queen.

Now it happens that Miss Cowl, either out of a star's sense of loyalty or a woman's mistaken belief that a good Romeo would naturally make a great Antony, has cast Rollo Peters as the Roman. And Rollo looks and acts much more like a boy scout with whiskers than like any Antony you ever have seen or dreamed of.

Thus in place of glorifying Egypt's passion for him, he makes it seem a little foolish. Being small, his spread eagled pomposity with his generals, any one of whom is more commanding than he, is immediately disillusioning. And the general effect is one of the play's being dragged down to this Antony's commonplace stature in place of being brought up to the heroic level of its tragedy and romance.

Otherwise the support is competent and distinguished in at least one instance. Louis Hector plays a fine Enobarbus. Dennis King also gets considerable out of the messenger bit.

Tale of the Asp.

This is the first revival of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" seen in New York since the opening of the New theater in 1910. It was then played by Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern and scored a magnificent failure. Both players were considered pretty awful by the reviewers, and the public, suspicious from the first of the millionaires' theater, would have none of the production, for all its reported gorgeousness of setting.

Years before that Cora Urquhart Potter and Kyrle Bellew were a minor Broadway sensation in the play, largely because society was interested in looking upon the then sensationally exploited Mrs. Potter.

This week there has been much retelling of the incident of the asp that was imported, according to Maurice Barrymore, especially to lend atmosphere to Mrs. Potter's death scene, but which, upon reviewing the situation the opening night, turned vegetarian and started back for Italy, thereby all but ruining the premiere.

Fanny Davenport played the Cleopatra of Sardou, and is credited by those ancients whose memories are detentive as being striking as to beauty and dramatically impressive as a queen of designing intrigues, state and amarous.

In the '70s both Agnes Booth and Rose Eytinge played the serpent lady. But we can find no others of record. Few have cared to assume, probably few have dared assume, the handicap the long heralded Cleopatra beauty puts upon her portrayers, particularly when the other rewards promised are so meager.

He Wants Mixed Cast.

We are on the verge of what promises to be a sensational muss in the theater. Eugene O'Neill has a short play, written in connected scenes, as he wrote "Emperor Jones," called "All God's Chillun Got Wings." The heroine is a white girl brought up in a black and white neighborhood in a large city.

As a child one of her favorite and most sympathetic playmates was a young Negro. Later, after she has lived with and been deserted by a white prize fighter and life has used her pretty shabbily, she agrees to marry the Negro, now become a young law student of promise and fine principles.

They are married, go to France to live, and apparently all is well until homesickness drives them home. Back in America the girl feels the string of the community's censure, and loses her mind in trying to adjust herself to the life of her husband and his relatives.

It is Mr. O'Neill's decision that "All God's chillun" can only be properly played by a mixed cast of white and black actors. The girl to play the heroine has already been engaged. She is Mary Blair, at present playing a small part in "Fashion," and she will consider it an honor, she says, to play opposite Paul Robson, a Negro leading man who has been engaged for that part, even though she may be called upon to pretend, at least, to kiss his black hand.

If the cast goes through as it is being engaged it will be practically half black and half white. The O'Neill defense will be that the theme is miscegenation is treated entirely from an intellectual standpoint and that he has been particularly careful to avoid physical contacts in the drama.

The production is just reaching the rehearsal stage, and is not scheduled for performance until late in March. About that time begin to look for sensational attacks by klansmen and others and indignant replies by colored folk and white radicals.

More of This Anon.

On behalf of my moving picture friends I take pleasure in spreading the report that David Wark Griffith has gone and done it again. His "America," a story of the country's upheaval through the revolutionary war, is spoken of as a second "Birth of a Nation," with the ride of Paul Revere the most excitingly dramatic incident the screen has offered its Mae Tinees in seasons and seasons.

It fair knocked 'em here the opening night, and as the crowd of cinema celebrities poured into the lobby there were as many crushed shirt bosoms and heavy necklaces as ever the drama has stirred to excitement. We have seen but a short half reel so far, but when we see the rest of it more shall be told about it in this column.

See you tomorrow!

Voice of the Movie Fan

An Unexpected Pleasure.

Dear Miss Tinée: I would like to compliment the director—or whoever was responsible—for making "The Virginian" so true to the book. I went to see it expecting to be disappointed, but came away delighted. Of course, some incidents had to be omitted, but what was there was like the book.

I didn't think before I went that I would care for Kenneth Harlan in the lead, but I thought he did well, and the parts of Steve and Shorty were well played, as well as Molly.

One critic said, "It is just another western and lacks action."

I don't see how any one could say such a thing. It is as different from the usual run of westerns as a good book is different from a trashy one, and I, for one, was glad there wasn't the usual stuff of holding up some saloon, shooting up the town, etc.

It seemed to me the incident of the interrupted wedding in "The Call of the Canyon" spoiled an otherwise fine picture. There was no such incident in the book, and it would have been much more unusual and fine if they had followed the book in that particular. An interrupted wedding seems like cheap melodrama. I thought the scenery was beautiful, however, and every one well chosen for the parts.

Directors have shown lately that they can put a book on the screen and have it satisfactory. Why don't they always do it? If a book isn't suitable for screening as is, why use it at all?

G. C. S.

Bursting Into Print.

Dear Miss Tinée: After reading the kick by "Daily Reader," I feel called upon to burst into print in your defense, hoping the kicker will read this.

I have not always agreed with your reviews, but as regards Joseph Schildkraut I wish to state I felt just as you did while viewing "The Song of Love." And I was not blind either, nor were the people around me who criticised him severely.

I think Valentino is the finest young actor we have on the screen today, and I have traveled all over Europe and have seen some mighty fine photoplays. I know of no actor who needs so few subtitles. The slightest change of expression, a twitch of the lips, will convey the thought he is trying to put across. His many friends are anxiously waiting to welcome him back.

M. R.

Likes Money's Worth.

Dear Miss Tinée: Tell me, please, just what is the matter with F. W. T., the de luxe program hater? If one can see at popular prices the best feature pictures, a good comic—good for both old and young—a good travelogue, showing places that most of us will never get to see, and topics of the day, good music, both orchestra and organ, why should we condemn it unless we are wont to condemn things when we think we get more than our money's worth? And how many of us do any condemning on that basis?

I say that such a program is broadening and I am thankful to see that most of the public seems to enjoy it, for how often do we have to wait in the lobbies of the theaters because so many of us enjoy such shows that they are crowded!

Who would care to sit through a whole evening of jokes as F. W. T. has suggested, but how many of us are there who do not appreciate a few of them at a time?

To close, Miss Tinée, do not go after these people, as F. W. T. suggests, for in all probability they give us varied programs because they know we like 'em. F. W. T.: Everybody is queer except me and thee, and sometimes I think that thou art, and this is sure one of those times.

SIWEL.

For Richard Dix.

Dear Miss Tinée: Just a word or two of praise for Richard Dix. If there really is a sincere actor on the screen it is Mr. Dix.

I have just witnessed "The Call of the Cañon," which, in my opinion, is one of the best pictures ever produced. The scenes, acting, direction, and photography are simply marvelous.

Why can't we have more pictures like the aforementioned? I can think of none which held my interest as did "The Call of the Cañon."

Aren't Lois Wilson and Marjorie Daw just too sweet? Honest, Miss Tinée, I could rave about this picture forever.

EIGHTEEN.

ASK ME! ASK ME!

WALLIE: I don't imagine a real actor worries any more about his makeup than the man who delivers the coal worries about an occasional smudge or two. It's all in the day's work. No makeup—no movie. Coal—smudge. Salary? The man who delivers the goods right is the man who gets the dough, and the man who gets the dough ISN'T the man who believes that the signs of honest toil are a disgrace. I'll be glad to send you a printed list of producing companies if you care to send me a stamped and self-addressed envelope for same, repeating your request.

H. H. D.: That's a comfortable way of looking at things.

FRANCES C.: Write to your favorites in care of the Metro studios, Hollywood, Cal. Opinions differ.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN

BY GENE MARKEY

FOR a week we have been rushing around New York; and to discover the mad capital all over again, after an absence of several months, is a pleasant, if somewhat turbulent, experience. The two outstanding disadvantages of New York are: first, that it is too far from Chicago; second, that in New York one can scarcely avoid lunching with famous persons. Celebrities are as common in New York as white socks in Chicago, and each day at luncheon at the Coffee House, which is, with the exception of Chicago's Cliff Dwellers, the most interesting club in America, there assembles informally a greater array of famous names and faces than one may encounter anywhere else in the world. For the most part they are the men who publish books, who write books, and who have books written about them; and, oddly enough, there is much talk of books up and down the long table.

Miss Edna Ferber's new novel, "So Big" (Doubleday, Page), is receiving tremendous acclaim here. Sometimes we think that Chicago is the last place to appreciate Chicago books, but if it fails to read "So Big," it will have missed the greatest book of Chicago ever written.

By this time, no doubt, TRIBUNE readers will have seen a fine review of it by Miss Butcher, so we shall not attempt to set down the story, which is of Selina Peake, daughter of a gambler, one of the most amazing women of modern fiction, who fared forth in the '90s to teach school in a Dutch settlement west of Chicago, where she married a Dutch truck farmer, and settled down to a life of the soil, and to the rearing of a son. Dirk, the son, for whom his mother's burning ambition was to make him an architect, forsook the thin years of an architect's apprentice, and, lured by a lovely lady of Lake Shore drive, became a gilded bond salesman, a power in the financial world, and the darling of Lake Forest.

That is a meager sketch of the story; but "So Big" is a superb novel, rich in humor and observation, and proceeding at a swift pace that never for a paragraph slackens. There is tragedy here, as sharp as anything the European novelists have ever done, yet more palatable, and heightened by Miss Ferber's humor. It is this last quality that may prevent some critics from acknowledging the merit of the book: humor is something they will not stand for, and that is why they hang their encomia upon the Dismal Danes and the Melancholy Muscovites. If Miss Ferber lived in Poland, these solemn clowns would utter a deafening blast of applause. But, be that as it may, "So Big" is an achievement, and possesses more than a touch of greatness.

Shortly after the war there came from London a book, "Set Down in Malice," by Gerald Cumberland. Brentano has recently published a similar work by this author, entitled "Written in Friendship," wherein several dozen British celebrities are betrayed in brief, reminiscent essays. Mr. Cumberland has evidently devoted much time to going about and getting himself introduced to the great and the near great—then hastening home and writing about them. He tells, in a rather entertaining fashion, what William Butler Yeats said to So-and-So on such-and-such an occasion, and what Max Beerbohm did not say; but the "rapier of Cumberland's humor," as set forth on the jacket, seems to us more of a lath sword.

The other day we made a caricature of Oliver Herford, who still retains the championship belt as New York's most quoted wit, whereupon Charles Hanson Towne seized the drawing and wrote beneath it:

"The face that launched a thousand quips."

Gilbert Frankau has written a new novel, "Gerald Cranston's Lady" (Century), which tells the story of a London financier who marries a wife with social position: a fair exchange, he thinks—his money for her title. Mr. Frankau is one of those authors who always sit for portraits and photographs in hunting attire; and doubtless the impressive picture of him in his pink coat has sold many a copy of his books.

Booth Tarkington's "The Midlander" (Doubleday, Page) has won a more marked popularity here in the east than in the midwest whereof it is written. Though it seemed to us not such a great novel as "Alice Adams," nor so entertaining as "The Magnificent Ambersons," yet it is a fine piece of work. Mr. Tarkington is, after all, our most consistently capable novelist, and we cannot conceive his writing a dull or an unworthy book. Like many a play which is not ballyhooed by the critics, "The Midlander" deserves attention. And that reminds us, there is an excellent, intimate piece concerning Mr. Tarkington, written by Russell Doubleday, in the current International Book Review. It will interest many of his admirers to know the sort of life he leads, both in Indianapolis and in Maine, and the sort of rooms in which he does his writing, seated at a drawing board, entirely surrounded by sharp pencils.

There has been since Poe no more picturesque literary figure than Robert Louis Stevenson; and there have been more people eager to reminisce about him than there were ladies in the Original Floradora Sextette. A new biography, "The Life of Robert Louis Stevenson," by Rosaline Masson, has been published by Stokes, and the vast congregation of Stevensonians will find it a complete and competent work. Miss Masson has set forth an authentic history in brief of the Stevenson family, and follows from babyhood the colorful career of R. L. S., with admirable sympathy for its various phases. It is a large volume, replete with unpublished anecdotes and photographs, and, unlike most serious biographies, seldom dull.

If that remarkable book, "Talapagos: World's End" (Putnam), had been written by anybody but the renowned (and believable) naturalist, William Beebe, we should have been inclined to shout "Munchausen!" For his adventures with strange and friendly monsters, reptiles, and birds on those desert islands of the South Pacific are almost as incredible as they are fascinating. This imposing volume, with its gay array of colored plates, is one we can recommend without reserve; it is quite the most unusual chronicle of a scientist's exploits we have ever chanced upon, and the more delightful because Mr. Beebe's is not the pompous, pedantic style of a scientist: he writes humanly and entertainingly, and you will believe what he relates of these giant lizards which appear for all the world like dragons and prehistoric monsters—because he produces actual photographs of them. This is a book well worth looking into, and to any reader who finds it disappointing and not up to our recommendation we will award a handsomely framed newspaper picture of Leo Koretz.

For over a year now F. Scott Fitzgerald has been quietly at work on a novel, which should be an indication that it will be a good novel, for young Mr. Fitzgerald writes brilliantly. Because his last one did not win any Pulitzer prizes or Chautauqua medals, there have been those scoffers only too ready to proclaim that Fitzgerald's star was set, that he had blown up, that he was finished.

As a matter of fact, it was not at all unusual that the first sky high fire of enthusiasm about him should have burned down somewhat; for no young writer in the history of letters has ever been able to maintain, without a break, the tremendous fame that Fitzgerald achieved in the first year of his writing. Two new younger generation idols have popped up in the last few months—Cyril Hume, author of "Wife of the Centaur" (Doran), and Richmond Brooks Barrett, age 22, author of "Rapture" (Boni & Liveright). We shall watch with interest what their second novels bring forth, and if either of them excels Fitzgerald's, we shall be much surprised. Being a seven day wonder in literature is only a bit more difficult than being a six day bike rider on the saucer track: they do not all finish, but we have an idea that F. Scott Fitzgerald is going to write a magnificent novel one of these days.

Compton Mackenzie, whose novels have, one after another, given us more enjoyment than the novels of any present day Englishman, has written the second of the trilogy which began last year with "Altar Steps"; and to those who may have felt after "The Vanity Girl" that a gifted novelist was going the way of the potboiler, this new one, "The Parson's Progress" (Doran), will come as a pleasant surprise. It is a well wrought novel, the story of a young Anglican clergyman, Mark Lidderdale, who proceeds from a small parish in rural England to London, where he preaches in the slums of the East End. All along, this earnest minister has engaged in a great spiritual struggle to find God, and his character is one of the most memorable that Mackenzie has ever done. After the slums, Mark Lidderdale goes back to the country for his health; then follows an appointment to a fashionable church in London, where he becomes one of a number of clever curates; but the frivolity of his fashionable congregation makes him wish himself back once more among the poor. He faces another religious and physical breakdown, for throughout his career as an Anglican priest he has been groping toward a true belief. The novelist has presented a fine, fair picture of the Anglican church, with no attempt to take sides, in its favor or against it, and the problems that have come up continually since the Oxford movement are deftly dealt with. At the end Mark Lidderdale, himself doubting the dogmas he preaches, is awarded a vacation, and departs for the Bay of Naples, where he finds spiritual peace. In many ways "The Parson's Progress" stands above anything Compton Mackenzie has written.

Yesterday Don Marquis, relating some of Oliver Herford's jokes, told how not so long ago Carolyn Wells sent Mr. Herford some poems, intended for "Life." Receiving no reply, after a time she wrote to find out what he intended to do with them, whereupon Mr. Herford remembered that he had left them in another suit of clothes. "Dear Carolyn," he wrote to her, "your poems are at my tailor's, being cleaned and pressed."

* *

Fences and Fords have almost done away with romance in what is left of the cow country; although last summer we discovered a forgotten corner of it in what is known as the Buckhorn valley in Colorado, near the Wyoming line, where ranch life exists as it used to before Zane Gray began to write about it. Out there people are more interested in western stories than you would imagine; they seize each new one with avidity, and are eager to read real stories of their west. Owen Wister's "Virginian," they will tell you, still remains the best of them; and Eugene Manlove Rhodes has written some that they accept. Philip Ashton Rollins' source book, "The Cowboy," is held in high esteem in every ranch house from Pendleton to the Mexican border. There are three new westerns that appear to be going well here in the east: "The Scalp Lock," by Dane Coolidge (Dutton); "The Call of the Canyon," by Zane Gray (Harper), and "Dan Barry's Daughter," by Max Brand (Putnam). After we read them we are going to send them west and get a real opinion of their value.

Movie Fans' Kick Korner

Its Object—Objection.

Something Is Wrong.

Dear Miss Tinée: Undoubtedly there is a multitude that agrees with you. I, too, have complimented you many times upon your fearless methods and fair reviews—but of late something is wrong with your column, a subtle something which permeates the whole article. My friends agree with me on this—and perhaps there is a solution.

The writer is in the advertising game and perhaps knows mob psychology from the experience such work as yours and publicity work brings. So kindly accept this in the spirit in which it is written.

Don't you think any critic who works for the public's favor should be interested in reviewing and seeing a movie as the public at large would see it and think of it? Of course, you know of the average low mentality of the laymen. Yours naturally is above that level—perhaps too far above it—and your criticisms are up as high as all that; too high for little me and the movie loving brothers and sisters to understand.

You speak too much from a personal standpoint. Either you like Gloria or you hate Fairbanks—never mind what the fellow sitting next to you desires—and, by hickory, you say so, like the wonderful Joan of Arc you are.

Pardon the irony—but often when you think unfavorably of those whom you tell about, you introduce a pulsating tint of sarcasm. Of course, the lambs follow you. But the wolves—well, perhaps do as I.

This epistle is utterly selfish. Before I see a picture I like to know its real number. Advertising has too many possibilities always to truly tell of the worth of the advertised. That may be one of the reasons your column exists. Thus we depend upon you for the real dope before we waste an hour in the theater. But you tell us what you liked or didn't like—and I'm afraid the majority of us get nothing at all from your printed words, even though we read between the lines.

Many times, when you class a picture as poor I find it worth while. And so do a multitude of others—sometimes these others pack the house featuring the play for weeks at a time.

The W. G. N. has our confidence. Won't you come back to earth, too?

I would be willing to bet that either you are intensely interested in some form of fiction writing or—well, head above the herd, if you understand me. Fiction writing calls for one's personal imagination—the author's lovely word pictures and all that—and perhaps that accounts for the you in your criticisms.

Won't you put me and the rest of us between the lines when you next start out to enjoy yourself? Please don't misunderstand me. We're all for you! But a little you and a big, overweening, egotistic, self-conceited us. Of course, wave your own flag—but don't obstruct the view. Once again, please pardon the irony.

But we're going to keep the Missouri eye upon you. A. B. D.

[Editor's note: Not being clairvoyant, I can only see pictures through my own eyes as I—Big "I" or little "i"—suit yourself—see them. Here's printing your letter, however, and giving you your say-so. You can write! Why don't you try your hand at fiction. My stories always come back.]

Neglect of Details.

Dear Miss Tinée: A few weeks ago I saw a picture bearing the name of "The Age of Desire." I should like to call attention to an obvious, and I think stupid, discrepancy in its production.

The story is about a woman who deserts her 5 year old son so she can marry a millionaire. Later, when the child has grown into a man of at least 20 years, she meets him again. Of course, this is only a small part of the plot, but it will serve my purpose.

Now, assuming that the time of the end of the play is to be the present, the year of the mother's marriage would be about 1908, yet the styles of dress in what was supposed to be fifteen years ago were the modes of today—as far as I am a judge of styles—and the millionaire had the habit of taking the mother out riding, while he was courting her, in a 1923 model automobile, and even I can tell the difference between a car built in 1908 and the latest product of the automobile manufacturers.

I have noticed this peculiarity in many pictures. By peculiarity I mean disregarding of fashion of periods unless they are quite remote. One would imagine that when a producer decides to make a picture and spend at least $20,000 on it he might avoid the silly incongruities mentioned in the above paragraph.

By the way, I like subtitles written in the past tense. What are your preferences, if any? JOHN.

[Editor's Note: Depends on the picture and the way the subtitles are written.]

Advice Well Meant.

Dear Miss Tinée: I have never seen a picture so long and drawn out as "The Pied Piper of Malone." I have just advised a friend not to see it. Most of the reviews praised it. Why, it was one of the worst pictures I've ever seen.

While I'm writing, I want to say that last year I saw William Russell in "Boston Blackie," and I like it. Did you? I wish W. S. would stay young. He used to be my favorite actor. Ramon Novarro is now. Isn't he wonderful? Valentino gets my goat—perhaps because I hate him. Maybe you agree with me. I think he's absolutely homely.

Well, I've probably bored you enough, but I'd like to advise every one else to save the money they were going to spend on "The Pied Piper." Also, I'd like to advise girls who are contemplating shingling their hair not to do it. I've had mine done, and I'm sorry. B. L. S.

Seventy-five Cents Gone.

Dear Miss Tinée: Last week I went to see "Woman to Woman." Disgusted? Well, nothing else but. I was actually so disgusted that I laughed throughout the entire picture, until I discovered that the 75 cents had gone to waste, and then I decided it wasn't so funny.

Tell me, why didn't they get some girl who could dance? Why, Betty Compson is no dancer. And, not only that, but the whole film was dumb. Many a play has been hopelessly written, but "Woman to Woman" was hopelessly rotten.

That's all I have to say, just now, but please print it, because if any of your fans say they liked it I have a fine line to spill. S. I.

First and Furious.

Dear Miss Tinée: I want to kick. I felt like screaming while looking at "Woman to Woman." Of all the goofy pictures, that was the worst. Where in the world did they get so many hams and where did Betty Compson learn to dance? She ought to get her money back, because as a dancer she'd make a good dish washer. And that kid—such a mess—he was certainly the kind that only a mother could love. As for Clive Brook—blah!—of all the boobs he's the worst. So much for the cast.

Who wrote such a story? Why all the agony about the first wife giving up her child to the second wife? The first wife was the only one who had any claim—and, anyway, I should think any husband would be glad to get away from such a homely person as the second wife. The whole thing was ridiculous, idiotic, impossible. I was sure glad when Betty died—she should have done it sooner. The whole picture should have died before it was born.

This is my first kick, but that picture got on my nerves so that I have to do something about it. Don't suppose you will ever see this letter. M. R.

New Liquid Dissolves Teeth Stains

Whitens Dull Yellowish Teeth in 3 Minutes—New Safe Way

Never before has it been so easy to acquire clear flashing white teeth! For scientists have discovered a new harmless treatment which dissolves teeth stains instantly, giving dull, dingy teeth a charming new whiteness and lustre.

This new treatment, called Bleachodent Combination, consists of a safe, mild liquid which curdles or loosens the staining substances on the teeth—and a new kind of paste which gently removes the softened stains, and if used daily prevents the formation of new stains. Bleachodent Combination does not affect the enamel as its mild ingredients are especially designed to act only on surface stains, not on enamel itself.

No matter how dark, stained or dingy your teeth may be, you will be astonished at the results brought by the very first application of Bleachodent Combination. Tobacco and other stains disappear almost "while you wait." If you want sparkling, white, pearly teeth—the kind every one admires—get Bleachodent Combination today. Money refunded if not delighted. Costs only a few cents at all good dealers, such as: Public Drug Co., Geo. H. Porter, Buck & Rayner, [illegible] Drug Co., Walgreen Co., and leading druggists wherever this paper is sold.

of Gallagher and Shean, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Chaplin. As soon as Mrs. Chaplin recovers from an attack of influenza she is going to arrange for a series of home dinners for her pretty guest.

Mickey Neilan had the influenza last week, too. Blanche nursed him well. He and Blanche are making "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" on the Goldwyn lot. Mickey's assistant director came back from England, where he shot some exteriors for the film. Mickey asked him if he had seen Thomas Hardy while he was there.

"Sure," said the A. D. "I saw him like you told me to, but he sure is a lightweight."

So much for art and letters.

Another Famous Birthday.

Feb. 22 was the date of another famous birthday. Mildred Davis Lloyd had a birthday dinner, and the family from both sides were there, brother Gaylord, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd, Mildred's little brother, and her mother and father. Harold gave Mildred a beautiful bar pin encrusted with diamonds. And flags were out all over Los Angeles to celebrate the day.

Mildred, you know, is planning to get a brand new $400 exemption for Harold next year.

Uncle Sam also will get the shock of his life when Doris May, Gladys Walton, Leatrice Joy, and Mrs. Earle Williams will also claim a baby exemption. Now, what do you make of that?

The prize winning engagement rumor this week mentions Agnes Ayres and Ricordo Cortez. Agnes was escorted places for a time by a publicity man at Lasky's studio, Jimmy Fidler. Mae Busch has forsaken another Lasky publicity man, but she will not say who gave her the big new diamond. Hollywood sleuths say Glass, meaning, of course, Gaston, not the diamond. But Mae indignantly denies.

Buster Keaton's baby remains unnamed. Connor and Norman are in the balance. Connor combines Constance and Norma's name, but Norman is strongly favored.

Aunt Norma and Uncle Joe Schenck arrived in town on Thursday after a delightful vacation in Palm Beach. Joe Schenck has joined the circle gastronomic, composed of the wealthiest cooks in Los Angeles. He is the originator of a wonderful dish christened "printemps poulet à la Norma."

Destitute in London.

Hal Wilson, veteran actor in Hollywood, has had a letter from Florence Turner, once the biggest picture star, saying she is destitute in London. The Catholic Motion Picture guild, that numbers Ethel Clayton, Jackie Coogan, Edna Murphy, and other stars among its members, is planning to give a big benefit dance for her some time this month.

Miss Anita Stewart and her mother are here on a visit from New York and old friends are giving them welcome.

The opening matinée of Duse's performances brought out many of the screen select. Charlie Chaplin and Eric von Stroheim wrote articles in the dailies here; Charlie's was in free verse. Mabel Normand came up the aisle weeping loudly into her lace handkerchief; her ermine lined cloak slipping off her shoulder. Pola Negri signified her gratefulness for Duse's art by trying to sign her leading man to play opposite her, Pola. Bill Hart took his manager, "Scoop" Conlon, to show him some "real acting."

Chief Standing Bear was Bill's guest this week. He came, he said, "to share a little happiness." There isn't a great deal of happiness just now for Bill. His contract with Lasky is all wrong; his divorce has gone wrong. Just one little bit of consolation—a little lacy valentine that said, "To Daddy."

NOW-AND-THEN

MISS TENNY HILSON.

She is general understudy of all the feminine rôles in "Give and Take," and longs for the chance to speak the lines she has studied. As all the rôles are regularly played by Miss Nellie Burt, she is agreeable to stepping aside now-and-then to relieve Miss Hilson's longing. You are likely to find the latter in all the feminine rôles any night you visit the La Salle.

piano and four for violin, with no symphony, no opera, no oratorio, no piano piece or song.

Of the musicians recorded, eight are composers, seven pianists, three each conductors and organists, and one each an educator, "publicist," singer, and violinist. Among the names one finds Leopold Auer, Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, John Alden Carpenter, George W. Chadwick, Charles M. Courboin, Vincent d'Indy, Clarence Eddy, Amelita Galli-Curci, Percy Grainger, Josef Hofmann, Josef Lhévinne, Giacomo Puccini, Cyril Scott, John Philip Sousa, Siegfried Wagner, and Owen Wister, who is the "publicist," and several others. Mr. Wister takes advantage of his calling not to confine himself to ten. He names sixteen. As a matter of fact, several others protest at being held to such a narrow compass.

Siegfried Wagner says he would name all the sonatas and all the quartets by Beethoven. Cyril Scott delivers himself thus: "I could not presume to say what are the ten greatest masterpieces in music. The conception of what constitutes a masterpiece changes with each generation. Nationality has also something to do with the matter. Octogenarian lovers of music in England would say that 'The Messiah' is a masterpiece. No doubt it is; but I know of no contemporary composer who wants to go to hear it. An Italian once confronted me with the works of Bellini, and referred to them as the greatest Italian masterpieces. They bore me stiff. I told him so, and he was horrified. I could multiply instances of the diversity of tastes which go to show there is no criterion. God only knows and he won't tell."

Most of the answers are so correct in tone that no one's feelings need be outraged. Nearly all of the masterpieces were composed before 1850. Beethoven leads the list of composers, with thirty-six answers, Wagner following with thirty-three, but of individual works "Die Meistersinger" is at the head with fourteen, Bach's Mass in B minor second with ten, and Beethoven's Fifth Symphony ties "Tristan and Isolde" for third place with nine.

Only a few cared to dignify a piece of light music with the position, which would seem to be a curious blind spot on the part of the others. Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Sousa are among the few. Mr. Carpenter has a taste for the Mass in B minor, the Seventh Symphony, "Die Meistersinger," "Pélléas and Melisande," and "Boris Godunoff," but he also includes the Gilbert and Sullivan "Pinafore" and Irving Berlin's "Everybody Step." The last, he explains, is arbitrary: half a dozen others by the same composer might be substituted. Mr. Sousa names three symphonies, Beethoven's Fifth, Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique," and Rubinstein's "Ocean," but he also includes Dukas' "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," Johann Strauss' "Blue Danube," Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," and, with characteristic courage, his own "Stars and Stripes Forever."

What is your favorite masterpiece, or set of them? This department is not often able to discover any particular reaction for music as such among concert attendants. Reactions are chiefly for performances. One frequent reaction is a stern reproof by mail when the department has not been sufficiently laudatory over some artist or other. The more important fact, the music, and how it has been handled in performance, is seldom mentioned.

Enter Further Opera.

Though the Civic Opera company decreed that Puccini should be out of the running this season, Chicago is not to be entirely deprived of Puccini's juicy melodies. The San Carlo Opera company, a prosperous ambulatory organization, will make its first Chicago visit at the Auditorium late in March and present "Madama Butterfly," "Tosca," and "La Boheme," together with such other works as "Aida," "Rigoletto," "Martha," "Il Trovatore," and "Carmen." Among the announced singers are Tamaki Miura, Alice Gentle, Bianca Saroya, Anna Fitziu, and Consuelo Escobar, who at one time and another have helped to make opera seasons enjoyable at the Auditorium or at Ravinia.

A New American Opera.

"The White Bird," an American opera, will have its first performance on any stage at the Studebaker on Thursday afternoon. It is a university product, with book by Brian Hooker of Yale and music by Ernest T. Carter of Princeton. The performance will be under the auspices of the Opera in Our Language Foundation, Inc.

Advance publicity on the performance, what there has been, has taken the contentious tone of propaganda rather than the milder aspect of description. The music department of this paper is without information on the participants, except that Leroy M. Wetzel will conduct and Charles T. H. Jones will be the stage manager. In place of a cast of principals, one reads: "If we are to educate Americans in the fine arts, and they prove themselves of ability, we must demonstrate our much vaunted spirit of fair play, and remove the stigma, if such a thing exists. Otherwise, I suggest that we close all departments of fine arts, devote ourselves exclusively to trade, and leave art to others."

The story of the opera would seem to be founded upon some newspaper items of a few seasons ago. The scene is in the woods—in this case, the White mountains—and a wife, who has become a subject of dispute between her husband and his guide, is killed by gunshot. Mr. Carter will be present at the performance.

Here and There in Music.

Two church choirs will present special music at 4:30 this afternoon. "The Mystery of Bethlehem," by Dr. Healey Willan of Toronto, will be sung at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, with George Gordon Beck, baritone, as soloist, and Emory L. Gallup as organist and choirmaster. The first Methodist Episcopal church of Irving Park will present "Olivet to Calvary," by J. H. Maunder, under the direction of Robert Gomer Jones. The soloists will be Mrs. Noble W. Cain, Eulah Cornor, William Davies, and Dr. Howard Lagerquist.

Quite a bit of unusual music is listed at different times during the week. It will begin this noon, when Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Crawford will inaugurate an era of organ music from two consoles at the Chicago theater. The program will be a series of organ duets, diversified by a piano group played by Jan Chiapusso. Later in the afternoon two famous artists will appear, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink at Orchestra hall, and Fritz Kreisler at the Auditorium. At the same hour there will be a recital at the Studebaker by Frederic Lamond, Scotch pianist, who played here as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra twenty-one years ago in one of the Beethoven programs conducted by Theodore Thomas. Mr. Lamond enjoys great fame in Europe as an interpreter of the classics. Next door, at the Playhouse, Marie Sidenius Zendt, a Chicago soprano of more than common accomplishments and voice, will give a song recital.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra schedules a children's program on Thursday afternoon, with an entire Saint-Saëns program. The principal number will be the "Carnival of the Animals," once played at a Ravinia concert under the direction of Louis Hasselmans. The piano soloists here will be Rosalind Kaplan, 10 years old, and Howard Feiges, 12.

The subscription concerts of Friday and Saturday will have Jacques Gordon and Alfred Wallenstein as soloists, in the Brahms Concerto for violin and cello. Mr. Stock also announces Brahms' "Academic Festival" Overture, Goldmark's "A Negro Rhapsody," which would seem to be new, and presumably from the pen of Rubin Goldmark, and a series of selections from "Tristan and Isolde."

Gali De Mamay and her ballet company will appear at Kimball hall at 2:30 this afternoon. The event is named as an anniversary concert celebrating the first year of the ballet company in America.

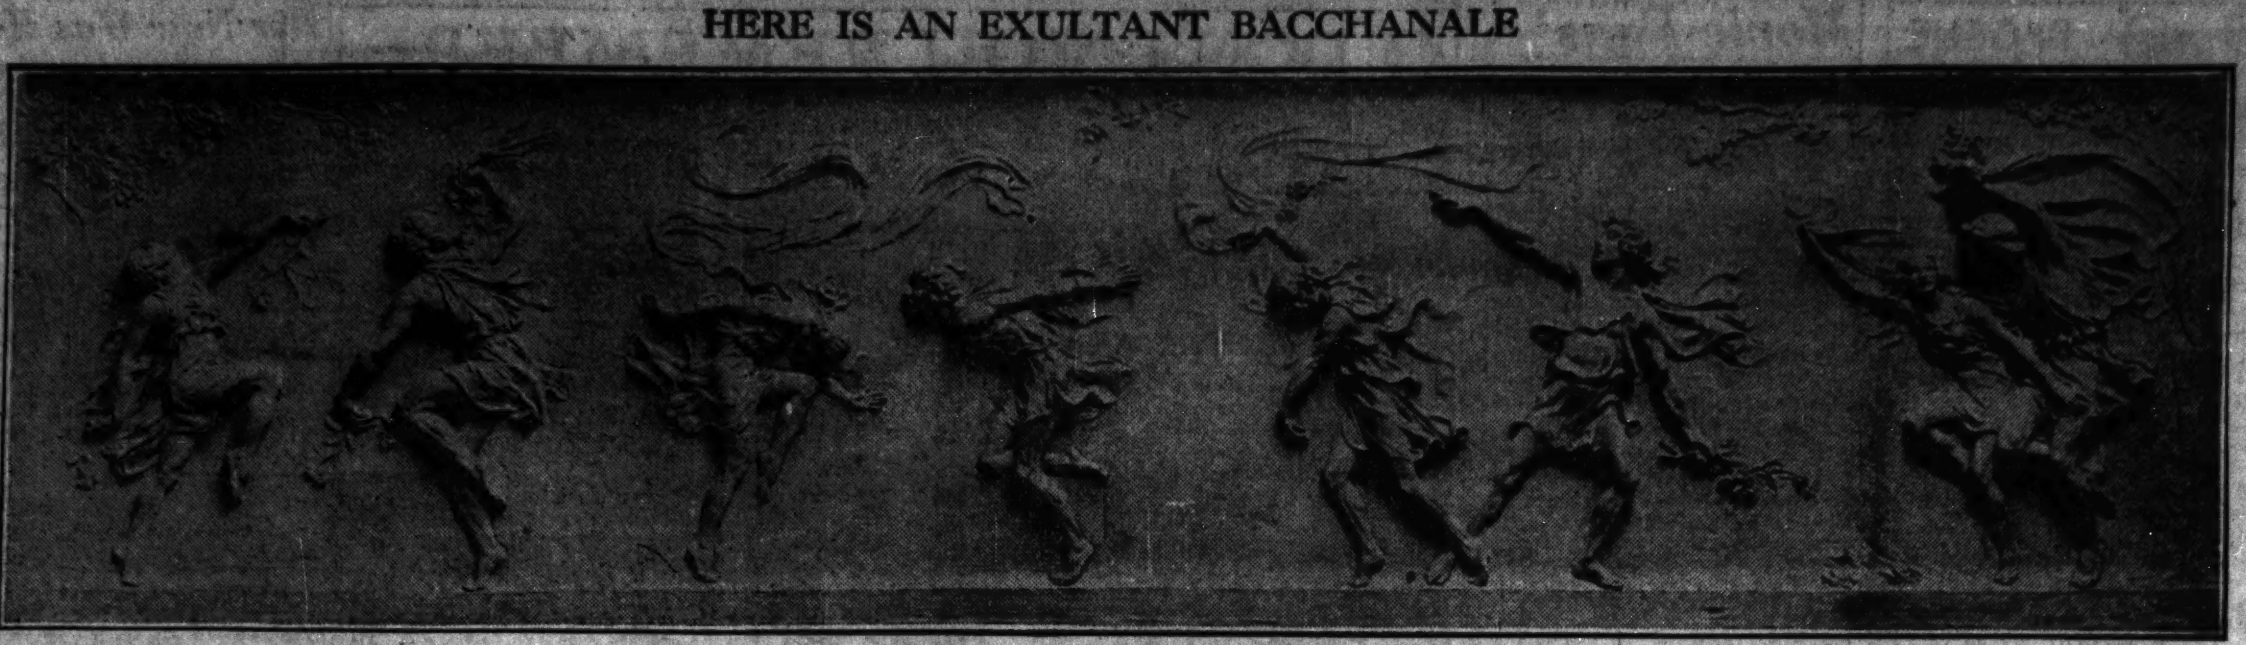
Within the last couple of weeks Chicago audiences have had a chance to hear some music of the newest, among other works Leo Sowerby's "King Estmere" and Igor Stravinsky's "Song of the Nightingale." Both have been interesting, Mr. Sowerby's even exciting. It is a fair question if the Sowerby piece does not stand a better chance of long life, even with the technical handicap of needing a pair of pianists like Guy Maier and Lee Pattison for its proper projection. Its abundant high spirits and really fine melody give it its chance for favor. Stravinsky is, of course, a specialist on color and modern counterpoint, but there would seem to be danger that his fondness for color runs away with his sense of rhythm and melody. Mr. Sowerby, who will be back from Rome in a few months, is at work just now on an elaborate choral piece for double chorus, soloist, and orchestra.

HERE IS AN EXULTANT BACCHANALE



PAVLOWA first became sensationally known to American audiences through the divertissement that she and her dancing partner performed to the music of Glazounow's "Bacchanale." This was a decade ago, and it has since remained one of her most favored offerings, one that is announced for several presentations during her season of the next two weeks at the Auditorium. The exultant expression of spring and youth portrayed in this widely famous dance has been embodied in the frieze, pictured above, in which Malvina Hoffman has represented statically four of its constantly shifting poses. Pavlowa's companion in the dance this season will be Laurent Novikoff, whose is both agile and personable.

DUETTISTS

MR. AND MRS. JESSE CRAWFORD.

Organ duets are rare enough in music, but this pair of artists will play a recital upon two consoles of the great organ at the Chicago theater this noon. It is a still more unusual combination.

Laura Lewis liked to play hookey, but had difficulty, because every time she was absent from school her teacher sent a note to her mother.

One day she decided to try again and from a drug store telephone booth she called her teacher and, disguising her voice, said, "I am calling to tell you that Laura Lewis will not be at school today."

"Who is speaking?" asked teacher.

And poor Laura Lewis, to the unexpected question, answered, "This is my mother." S. P.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

Chicago's Famous African Explorers, the Herbert Bradleys, Perch Lovely Garden on Roof of Their Apartment

By Mme. X.

LAST week I wrote lamenting the fact that Chicago had few gardens and, as far as I knew, no roof gardens such as a few New Yorkers have created on the tops of some of their sky scrapers. Hardly had my typewriter tapped out my lamentations than I was made acquainted with a Chicago roof garden which even in its winter mantle of snow drifts has a delightfully attractive quality.

It is the creation of Mrs. Herbert Bradley, the famous African traveler. It is on the roof of her duplex apartment at 5344 Hyde Park boulevard, and must be, when the summer comes, a place wherein to woo the poets, birds, and bees. It is encircled from June to September by a hedge of soaring and fragrant sweet peas planted in boxes mounted on the parapet, an arrangement which secures a certain amount of privacy. Below these are other flowers growing in formally laid out rows. A pillared pergola in one corner makes a charming outdoor sleeping room. Box and bay trees punctuate the garden and it is a retreat that anyone might envy.

Opening from it is one of the most interesting rooms in Chicago, a unique and wonderful shrine to the Bradleys' hunting trip a year and a half ago in the heart of central Africa. It is filled with trophies gathered there, skins of many of the wild animals they encountered in their remarkable and interesting wanderings in the dark continent; baskets, fine and rare, made by natives; curious pottery, spears and shields; mounted heads of [illegible] and lion, spreading horns, the foot of an elephant serving as a waste basket.

And among the most wonderful of the many treasures there are some bronzes of Carl Akeley's. One is a group of three elephants, two tuskers helping a huge wounded one, holding him up between them with their shoulders, tusks and trunks. It tells in bronze of an incident that happened to Mr. Akeley himself while hunting elephants. He wounded the biggest of a herd whose companions immediately came to the aid of their stricken leader and carried him in this fashion until another bullet felled him entirely, whereupon they made off into the jungle.

Suggests the Dark Continent.

The other piece of sculpture is one of the most impressive things I have ever seen. It is the life size head and shoulders in bronze of a huge gorilla. Massive and brooding, it dominates the room, suggesting that dark, savage continent as no other image could. It is fearful; it is tragic; the eyes of the visitor return to it continually while inspecting the rest of the collection of Africana. Did the likeness of Charles Darwin ever seem to you to resemble somewhat that of a fine old ape?

The taxidermist, Carl Akeley, has become one of the great animal sculptors of today. It is owing to this extraordinary talent that we have at the Field museum the finest set of mounted wild animals in the world. He has given life, reality, drama to the groups he has mounted for the museum, instead of merely stuffing the hides in the customary manner of taxidermists.

The Bradleys brought home with them an interesting collection of photographs of African scenes, and some still and some moving pictures. Many of these were taken in what they call the "gorilla mountains," because they found there many of this species. The film depicting a family of these haunting first cousins of ours rambling around or sitting deep in pensive musing in a massive tropical tree is extremely curious and remarkable. There are several photographs of a monster gorilla which they killed that fill the spectator with a mixture of horror and pity—it is so like an ugly man in a huge fur coat and with fur mittens on his big hands, while the expression on the hideous face is one of deep and reproachful weariness and melancholy. He weighed 350 pounds and measured over seven feet from tip to tip of his fingers, when his hairy arms were spread out.

Africa casts a spell over many who visit it, a spell from which it is hard to escape. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley have not sated their appetite for its adventures and excitements, and are setting forth again in June to roam those dense forests, climb other unexplored mountains, and hunt the wild animals that live in those fierce jungles. Africa, however, will be only a step in a trip with which they expect to belt the globe. They will take in India, Siam, Java, Sumatra, Borneo, remote regions in China and so homeward by the Pacific. Harry Bigelow of the University of Chicago will accompany them.

Nor is this the only Chicago party to contemplate penetrating the remoter regions of Africa. Henry J. Patten and his nephew, Jack Patten, are also setting forth in November for Uganda, the Congo, Tanganyika, and the East African highlands. By the way, what used to be called British East Africa is now dubbed Kenia from the mountain of that name. It is not impossible that Dorr Bradley and his daughter, Miss Eleanor Bradley, may join the Pattens in the trip. John Mandeville, Marco Polo, and the rest of those early wanderers and adventurers would feel quite at home in a group of touring Chicagoans.

Adventure in Shops.

Hunting wild beasts in out of the way lands is not the only road to adventure and excitement. Some people find these nearer home. Two of the most attractive women in the young married set, Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, are planning to embark on a venture which as an experiment promises to be interesting to all of us. Mrs. Linn sailed a fortnight ago to join Mrs. Clow, who has been spending the winter in France. The two will ransack Europe to find novelties and choice objects d'art for a shop which they propose to open here next autumn.

There is to amateurs a fascination about keeping a shop and selling things to the public at large which not even mah jongg can rival. How to lure, to hold, and finally to sell to the coy purchaser is a subtle problem which, if successfully solved, gives a satisfaction not equalled by the average occupations of the well to do class to which these two enterprising and delightful women belong. They will be watched with much interest by their friends and contemporaries.

The experiment has often been tried by fair members of the British smart set. It has not, however, been what you would call a durable enterprise with most of them. The novelty wears off pretty soon. Dark and rainy days come, when potential customers stay at home and business seems not only dull—it seems impossible. It is in this direction of day in and day out toil that the difference between the professional and the amateur is most striking. I am not prophesying any such moments for this young and interesting enterprise.

I have merely wandered far away from my subject into the land of conjecture, and am simply discussing the difference between the honest-to-goodness-earn-my-living-or-die shopkeeper, or any other mortal engaged in working for daily bread, and the lighthearted, well-to-do folk who want a new outlet for their abilities and a fresh sensation such as can no longer be got in the flowery paths of social life. There is no spur like necessity, no enduring inspiration like the knowledge of the inevitability of the rent collector, the butcher's and baker's bills, to whip genius and perseverance into action. It is almost impossible for an amateur to accomplish the same type of work as that done by a professional.

The Guide with Vision.

But to return to our muttons, my job being merely to chronicle the doings of the socially prominent—this should be said about our local [illegible]: They are by long odds the livest wires and the most interesting of their kind to be found on this hemisphere. And at the head of the procession are the two chic and charming young women who are embarking on this shopkeeping enterprise and who will give Chicago buyers an opportunity to acquire French novelties and frivolities. Mrs. Linn is, moreover, not an entire novice at this sort of thing; she established and founded during the war a smart little dressmaking establishment, called The Bandbox, whose profits were devoted to helping support the Red Cross. Chicago's beau monde owes Mrs. Linn many original ideas—among others, the Casino, which she evolved from her inner consciousness some twelve years or so ago. Once the idea was imparted to her friends and contemporaries, it was eagerly taken up and enlarged in scope and value, with the result that it has become famous from one end of the country to the other as a unique and most attractive institution.

Mrs. Linn was also the originator and founder of the Junior league. In short, it seems that every time she returns from her excursions to other more important centers of civilization she throws into our midst a new and captivating idea, to be worked out by her slower, less imaginative fellow citizens, while she dashes on to explore fresh fields and pastures new.

Prof. Robinson, in his "Mind in the Making," says the human race is being dragged reluctantly up its steep incline by a few eager, ardent souls who have the vision to see the goal ahead, a vision denied the great mass of us. Mrs. Linn is one of these. The least we can do is, as far as possible, to make the task easier to these scattered and valiant guides and indomitable spirits. Let us not pull too hard on the lead lines, and let us strive to recognize the daylight when we see it, not think it is merely electric light. By so doing we may make easier the weight on the ropes by which the few super men and women are dragging us upward. An open mind, a tolerant attitude, and a kindly disposition are the many directions which they have for life as it is today.

The young are not to be left behind these days by their enterprising elders. Two members of the debutante set, both most popular and attractive, daughters of well known families, are at the moment acting as clerks in one of our largest retail shops. One is selling hats and the other children's garments. They walk to work in the morning—if they get up early enough—and drive home in a smart limousine at the end of their day of toil. They profess themselves as delighted with their experiment so far. The cry of the day for the American woman and girl is Occupation—with a capital O. The word lackadaisical has become

THE VOGUE FOR BLACK SATIN
with Touches of Lace—a Charming One
$45 to $95, up to $175

PRE-EMINENTLY among the most fashionable modes this Spring is the black satin frock, simple in line, and the lace trimming gives the black and white effect which is a dominating one this season. It also adds a feminine touch that is most appealing. Numerous new styles interpret the beltless vogue in varied fashion.

The first model sketched is black satin with lace yoke and lace trimming down the front, a version of the beltless frock.
Priced $65
WOMEN'S—FOURTH FLOOR.

The second gown is black satin with simple yoke of white lace and a tunic and bow at the side which makes it interesting.

SMART SPRING MILLINERY
Clings Closely to the Small Head

The model sketched has a milan crown with taffeta brim, and its maline folds add unusual smartness. $25.

Closely resembling the cloche, with slight variations, the small tailored hat holds supreme. In many combinations of straw and fabric, Milans, Bangkoks, felts and Leghorns, with black and white the favorite for Spring. These models range in price from $10 to $25.
MILLINERY—FIFTH FLOOR.

SPRING WRAPS
In Black and White or Black and Red and Many New Colors and Color Combinations
$65—$125—and up to $250

THESE warm wrap-around Coats welcome the chill winds of early Spring. The softness of the new models, light in weight and beautifully silk lined, are lavishly fur trimmed or plain, but always slim and straight. Smartest when they are black and white, black and red, or gray, as the model sketched, or one of the other new color combinations. The materials are Juina, Tanya, Maflada, Curleen plaid, Twills or Silks with furs, Ermine, Baby Cross Fox, Leopard, Grisette, used as trimmings.
WOMEN'S—FOURTH FLOOR. MISSES'—THIRD FLOOR.
The gray model sketched is Striped Karo Cloth with turnover collar and revers of Grisette. $125.

THE MASCULIN TAILLEUR
The Favored Street Mode
$45 to $75

THIS season dictates a tremendous vogue for the smart Tailleur, and Stevens presents all versions of the correct suits. Versatility and smartness favor the new hairline stripe fabrics, Oxfords, Coverts and Twills especially, while the faultless tailoring follows the severe mannish lines.

The smart model at the right is a navy twill double breasted O'Rossen suit. $75.
WOMEN'S—FOURTH FLOOR.
MISSES'—THIRD FLOOR.

THE CORRECT TAILLEUR BLOUSES
Show Variation in Both Color and Cut
$6.50 to $18.50

THE new tailored mode requires the well tailored blouse finished in the correct lines. Whether it is gay crepe, adding a bit of color to the dark suit, or white, carrying with it the smartness of the black and white note that is accented this season, it is boyish in its simplicity always.

Crepe overblouse with convertible collar and mandarin sleeve with fastenings of large colored ball buttons. A French tab monogram in contrasting color, $18.50. White, Reseda Green, French Tan.

Nature Study to Be Discussed at I. F. W. C. Luncheon

By Kate Webber.

ONE of the most interesting of the club luncheons that always come with the spring season will be the annual affair of the conservation committee of the Second district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held on Thursday at 2 o'clock in the Wedgewood room at Field's. Various phases of nature study will be discussed by well known educators.

Mrs. Walter W. Seymour will respond for the state, Mrs. Thomas P. Casey for the district, and Mrs. Maurice H. Lieber for the department of applied education. Other speakers will be Prof. Elliott Downing, University of Chicago; George Brennan, principal of the Van Vlissingen school; Miss Ida Nighell, principal of the Bryant school, and Jesse Smith, principal of the Elm Place school of Highland Park.

Following the program a pageant, "Skyland," will be presented. It was given first at Ravinia park and later was repeated in Lake Forest, Winnetka, and at the Municipal pier. The parts are taken by small children, who depict in their parts the method they pursue in their study of the stars.

The conservation committee of the Second district has only to do with the conservation of our natural resources—the preservation of natural beauty spots, the planting of trees, and the creation of town, city, and state parks.

While the members are vitally interested in all national conservation measures which come up, their chief aim is the achievement of some concrete piece of work for the state each year.

For three years the committee conducted bird house exhibits. Last year it coöperated with the Wildflower Preservation soicety, and with the combined efforts of the two the wild flower bill was passed, and became a law in 1923. This bill has been given all possible publicity, copies having been carried to florists and persons to whom the knowledge of its contents would prove interesting. Club women throughout the state have been asked to help the Wildflower Preservation society enforce the law.

This year the committee has been making a survey of the schools to ascertain the amount of nature study being taught. Mrs. John Sherman, chairman of applied education of the G. F. W. C., is in charge of a campaign of which this survey is a part. Many interesting reports have been made, not all of them favorable, however, owing to overcrowded conditions in the schools and lack of time.

The object of the campaign is to have nature study made a part of the regular school course, and the child given full credit for his work along this line. It is a fact that a knowledge of these things is one of the strongest influences for good which can be brought into the life of a child.

Mrs. Theron Colton is chairman of the conservation committee, and her aids throughout the state districts include Mrs. Delevan Cowles, Miss Kathleen Alford, Mrs. Edward Eagle, Mrs. O. A. Carlsson, Mrs. Nicholas Schnack, Miss Anna Genegheimer, Mrs. A. Prosser, Mrs. Homer Norton, Miss Sybil Hendricks, and Mrs. O. A. Carlsson.

MRS. A. STARR BEST.
[Moffett Photo.]

Mrs. A. Starr Best is president of the Drama club of Evanston, which organization has taken a box for the actors' fund benefit to be held on the afternoon of March 14 at the Auditorium theater. Women's clubs throughout the city are lending a helping hand to this theatrical charity, the proceeds from which will go toward the funds used in caring for sick, infirm, and disabled members of the profession.

The University of Chicago Alumnae club will have its annual evening meeting on Tuesday at 8 o'clock at the College club. Miss Marion Stein is chairman of the program, which will include a talk by Dean Ernest Hatch Wilkins, who will have for his subject "Humanizing the College."

Mrs. O. A. Carlsson is chairman of the annual luncheon of the conservation committee of the second district, I. F. W. C., to be held on Thursday at Field's. Today's club columns contain an account of the committee's past work and future plans.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS.

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, former president of Amherst college, will address an open meeting of the Chicago Woman's club on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Studebaker theater. His subject will be "The College of Tomorrow." Today at 3 o'clock Mrs. S. S. Frackelton will give a number of oriental legends before the Sunday Open Door. There also will be music. Tomorrow noon the study class of the education and philosophy department will meet for luncheon, and Mrs. Herbert Y. McMullen will speak on "Some Fundamental Ideas of Modern Physical Science." On Tuesday morning the book review will meet at 10:30 o'clock to discuss Joseph Conrad's "The Rover." On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock a program will be given under the auspices of the art class. The French study class will meet at 4 o'clock on Wednesday. The public speaking class will meet on Thursday at 11 o'clock, with Prof. Bertram G. Nelson as leader.

On Thursday a luncheon will be given in the clubrooms, at which the speaker will be Mrs. Hamilton Wright of Washington, D. C., who was appointed by the council of the league of nations as an expert member because of her knowledge of the international narcotic problem. Mrs. Wright is a world recognized leader in the fight against the drug evil, and has visited the orient, Europe, and the near east, where she has been influential in checking the growth of opium.

On Friday at 12:30 o'clock a luncheon will be given under the auspices of the international relations committee. Miss Lydia M. Schmidt, recently returned from abroad, will speak on "The British Labor Party."

The Woman's City club has received a helpful memorial of their member and director, the late Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick. In recognition of her belief in the high standards of citizenship for which the club stands, and to aid in promoting the work she had so much at heart, Mr. McCormick has donated a fund which is known as the Harriet Hammond McCormick lectureship. By means of this fund the club is enabled to invite distinguished speakers of national reputation to appear before the club from time to time. The next lecture will be delivered tomorrow at 2 o'clock in the club lounge by Miss Helen Fraser of England. Her subject will be "Art and Citizenship." All members and their guests are invited. The board of directors and chairmen of committees of the club will meet at 10:30 tomorrow, and at 4 o'clock the Forty-second-Thirty-second ward branch will meet with Miss Mary Rozet Smith, 12 West Walton place. Mrs. Maurice Lieber will discuss "Our Emblem of Freedom: The Ballot." The class in parliamentary law will meet at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening and at 7 o'clock the citizenship school will take up the subject of "The State and the Schools." There will be a meeting of the Thirty-eighth ward branch at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Advent. Mrs. R. W. Irwin will speak on "Task of the Voter." On Tuesday at 10:45 o'clock the citizenship study course will cover the "state executive department." Louis Emmerson, secretary of state, will speak at 11:30 a. m. to the Tuesday morning citizenship class. The municipal citizenship committee will meet at luncheon on Tuesday at 12:30 and at 2 o'clock the Park Ridge branch will meet with Mrs. William Lutz, 329 Lake avenue. "The Task of the Voter at the Coming Election" will be discussed by Mrs. R. W. Irwin. The monthly club meeting will be held in the clubrooms on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the police, police stations, and jails committee, Miss Jessie Binford, chairman. Jail problems will be discussed by speakers of note.

There will be a meeting of the Fifth ward branch on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Hyde Park hotel. The citizenship lesson will be "The Courts and Their Work." After luncheon Dr. William A. McKeever will address the class. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Nineteenth ward branch will meet with Mrs. H. M. Tolles, 10561 Longwood drive. A motion picture film, "The Gift of Life," will be shown in the club lounge on Friday at 11 o'clock by the social hygiene committee, Dr. Rachelle Yarros, chairman. At 2:30 the Homewood branch will meet to hear Mrs. R. W. Irwin discuss "The Task of the Voter." "The Cost of Government" will be the subject of the citizenship school discussion Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the club lounge. Mrs. Walter F. Dodd will speak. There will be a meeting of the Twentieth ward branch at Henry Booth house on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. R. F. Schuchardt will speak on "Vocational Schools."

Judge Mary Bartelme, an honorary member of the College club, will be the club's guest at tea on Friday at 4 o'clock. Miss Helen B. Cox and Miss Viola Merriman will be hostesses. On Saturday at 2:30 o'clock the College club players, under the direction of Miss Gloria Chandler, will present three one act plays in the lounge. The titles are "Finders Keepers," by George Kelly; "Two Slatterns and a King," by Edna St. Vincent Millay, and "Addie," by Stuart Young. The cast includes Miss Chandler, Mrs. Charles M. Sloan, Mrs. Adolph Hartmann Jr., Mrs. Chase W. Love, and Miss Carolyn Barr. Tea will be served following the plays.

The Central Council for Nursing Education will hold its annual meeting on Thursday at 2:30 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club, 606 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. George W. Dixon will preside, and there will be reports from Miss Evelyn Wood and Edwin G. Foreman Jr., executive secretary and treasurer, respectively. The speakers will be Miss Sophonisba P. Breckenridge and Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern. Officers for 1924 will be elected.

Dr. Icy H. Detwiler will be hostess at the Wednesday afternoon tea to be held at the headquarters of the National Woman's Party, 844 Auditorium hotel. Miss Rebecca Hourwich will speak.

Richard Henry Little of THE TRIBUNE will speak at the meeting of the Illinois Woman's Press association on Thursday evening at the Chicago Woman's club. Mrs. Robert Blue is chairman of the contributors' section, under whose auspices the evening's program will be held.

Miss Harriet Monroe, Miss Clara E. Laughlin, Vincent Starrett, Walter M. Hill, J. Christian Bay, Richard Henry Little, and Haridas Mazumdar of India will be guests and speakers at a luncheon and symposium tomorrow at the Chicago Woman's Aid. Tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday, from 10 until 3 o'clock, members of the aid will register for active service during the coming year. On Tuesday morning Miss Ethel Coe will give a lecture on home furnishing and decoration. At 2 o'clock Shaw Desmond, the Italian publicist, will speak on "Is European Civilization Doomed?" The legislative study class will meet on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, with Mrs. George W. Plummer as speaker. In the afternoon the mothers' club committee, in coöperation with the better films committee, will present a motion picture program at the Goethe School Mothers' club. A new study class will be formed on Thursday morning, when Mrs. Irving L. Stern will speak on "Women and Finance."

The Woman's Roosevelt Republican club will hold an afternoon meeting and tea on Tuesday at its clubrooms, 333 North Michigan avenue, at which Alexander McCormick, former president of the board of county commissioners and former alderman of the Sixth ward, will speak on "Issues of the Election." Mrs. Tiffany Blake will preside, and at the tea following the meeting Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mrs. Thomas O. Wallace will pour. Miss Helen Gilbert will be the hostess of the day.

Reciprocity day will be observed on Tuesday by the I Will Woman's club, when a luncheon will be given at the Morrison hotel. A program of readings and music will follow the luncheon.

There will be a meeting of the Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at Central branch, Y. W. C. A. An evening of American folk songs and customs of the American Indians will be given.

"Literature and the Movies" will be the topic of discussion at the meeting of the Daughters of the Renaissance in Washington hall, State-Lake building, on Tuesday afternoon.

At the regular campaign meeting of the Brownleigh club to be held at the clubrooms on Thursday evening an Italian dinner will be served, followed by informal dancing.

MRS. ELLA HAYDEN WARE.

Mrs. Ella Hayden Ware is the newly elected president of the alumni association of the International College of Music, Expression and Dancing, which will give a dinner on Thursday evening following the performance of "The White Bird" by Ernest T. Carter. Mr. and Mrs. Carter will be guests, and there will be a program.

The monthly board meeting of the I. F. W. C. will be held tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock at 127 North Dearborn street.

Arthur C. Lueder will address the Protestant Woman's Service club on Wednesday, and there also will be a musical program.

Mrs. H. A. Hoenig of 1401 Olive avenue will be hostess for Stonewall chapter, U. D. C., on Thursday at 12:30 o'clock.

A meeting of the Daughters of Indiana will be held on Tuesday afternoon at Recital hall. Luncheon and a round table will precede the regular meeting. Mrs. T. J. Jackson is in charge of reservations.

At the meeting of the Bookfellow circles on Tuesday evening the study of Lew Sarett's Indian poems will be made. The free verse group of Friday will study the poetry of Maxwell Bodenheim.

A card party for the benefit of the funds of the Mount Sinai Service club will be given on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. M. Koolish, 6018 Kenmore avenue.

The junior Hadassah and other groups of Chicago will hold a joint meeting today at 2:30 o'clock at the Congress. Mrs. Alexander Dushkin will speak and there will be music.

The American salon, of which Mrs. Jean Van Vlissingen is president, will have its first informal assembly today from 4 until 7 o'clock at 550 Surf street.

"The School of Democracy," conducted under the auspices of the Illinois Woman's Democratic club by Dr. Margaret Schaffner, will meet in room 1116 North American building tomorrow from 3 until 5 o'clock. Mrs. Edward J. Fleming will be the speaker. There will be general discussion of topics of the day, after Mrs. Fleming's talk. Those interested are invited.

A meeting of the Lorraine J. Pitkin association will be held on Thursday at 12:30 o'clock at the residence of Miss Juliet Lane, 131 North Mason avenue.

The Illinois Woman's Athletic club is giving a farewell party in the old clubhouse at 820 Tower court tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. This meeting is for members only and is the last to be held before the wrecking of the present building and the subsequent erection of the new seventeen story clubhouse on the site opposite the old landmark known as Chicago's oldest water tower on North Michigan avenue. A novel program is being planned under the committee, of which Miss Thirza Riggs is chairman. The monthly business meeting at 7:30 will precede the program.

The Prairie State club will meet for luncheon and cards tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Blackstone.

Former Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas will speak at the afternoon meeting of the Chicago Woman's Ideal club on Thursday. Mrs. Frank M. Fulton, president, will give an illustrated lecture on Europe. The parliamentary law class will meet in the morning.

The literary round table of the Chicago Culture club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel La Salle, with Mrs. Charles B. Ingram in charge of the program.

A luncheon and program meeting of the [illegible] Woman's club will be held on Wednesday at 12 o'clock at the Morrison hotel.

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans

"I NEVER used to think that Mrs. Flint had any particular executive ability," observed the chairman of the ways and means committee, as she visited with the charter member in the club parlor, "but since she's been acting president our club machinery has gone more smoothly than it ever has before as long as I remember. We are accomplishing things, too."

"I've been thinking the same thing," agreed the charter member, "and wondering just how she gets results without the display of authority that so often accompanies the holding of office."

"For one thing, she never interferes with the details of the work of her chairmen and officers. It's results that interest her and not whether the work is being done this way or that."

"Mary Pipps, our first president, would take work out of the hands of her chairmen and do it herself if it wasn't being carried on to suit her," recalled the charter member. "Things just had to be done her way."

"That's the quickest and surest method of killing initiative and self-development," argued the ways and means chairman. "Mrs. Flint shows her wisdom by keeping her hands off of responsibility that doesn't belong to her. She always gives her coworkers an opportunity to manage their own problems. If it's necessary she will take hold and push or pull, as the case may require, but she does it so quietly you hardly know what she's about until she's all through. She seems to sense just the right time to help and just the right time to stop helping."

"A president has to keep all of the wheels of her organization in motion. She can't afford to concentrate long on any one of them," concluded the charter member.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

MISS RUTH BARTELS.
[Daguerre Photo.]

Miss Ruth Bartels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bartels of 7035 Ridge boulevard, will be married to Stuart K. Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Fox of 5837 Kenmore avenue, on Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Orrington hotel in Evanston.

MISS MARIE WEST.
[Seigo Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. P. F. West of 7835 South Park avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter Marie to Martin M. Philbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Philbin of 7809 Rhodes avenue.

quite obsolete. Perhaps it would never have come into use had our ancestors granted women liberty of action in all the many directions which she has now.

Arriving at the Goal.

A new enterprise which is beginning to make headway after some years of struggle is the Illinois Women's Athletic club. This organization, which has been in existence some years, is now about to carry out its long deferred plans to erect a skyscraper clubhouse on its property on the corner of Pearson street and Tower court, a stone's throw from the waterworks tower and crowded North Michigan avenue. This building is to be both a clubhouse and an office building. It is designed to be one of the finest and most modern of clubs and at the same time provide an income for itself by the rental derived from several floors of up to date offices and from other enterprises under the same roof, such as a thoroughly modern and well equipped Turkish bath establishment, a fine and spacious ballroom, and other similar institutions to minister to the wants of the race as at present manifested in this prosperous land of ours.

The club itself will occupy the top seven floors of the building, which will be seventeen stories high and, if one may judge from the plans, will be a good looking structure and a great addition to the new Chicago growing up around the old waterworks tower. This once soaring and formidable index finger of masonry pointing heavenward will soon begin to look an insignificant little finger in comparison with its neighbors. Nevertheless, it adds much to the picturesque and interesting look of that stretch of Michigan avenue, recalling, as it does, other days and other people. I hope no future commissioner of public works will have a brainstorm which will seek the destruction of this ancient and quaint monument of the past, as was almost its fate six or seven years ago, when this column sounded the tocsin that aroused the public to hold the hand of the would-be destroyer of Chicago's past, as represented by the venerable tower, and so granted it a longer life.

The nearby Illinois Woman's Athletic club will, when finished, be one of the buildings to dwarf it. This club is on the point of arriving at the goal it has been seeking ever since it bought the lot on which it purposes to build; that is, it plans to put up what will be the last word in clubs, resting on a substructure which will also be the last word in office buildings. Besides lobbies, lounges, offices, sitting rooms, a library, smoking rooms, dining rooms, tearooms, cardrooms, and so on, there will be thoroughly modern Turkish baths, a great number of bedroom suites, a roof tennis court, a gymnasium, and, on the top of the structure, a generous sized swimming pool, arranged so the sun can shine on it—not sunk, as so many of its kind are, in dusky and subterranean depths.

Extending Its Membership.

Financially speaking, the club expects to be founded on as firm a foundation as it will be architecturally. It is now extending its membership to 2,000. Its president is Mrs. D. F. Fesler. The two vice presidents are Mrs. Bessie Bragg Pierson and Mrs. J. M. Seifert. Mrs. Carlotta L. Schrieber is corresponding secretary, Mrs. Adaline H. Schall is recording secretary, Miss Mary E. Luce is treasurer, and Mrs. Gertrude Garland is assistant treasurer. The rest on the board of directors are the Mesdames William R. Cleff, E. R. Fifield, Claude Hopkins, Emily D. Parish, Charles S. Peterson, Burton Secord, Grant Williams, and Kerney Spencer. Mrs. William Severin bears the title of founder president. There are eight standing committees and an advisory board of men which consists of Thomas R. Gowenlock, chairman; William Tracy Adams, Charles W. Folds, and Charles S. Peterson.

I forgot, in enumerating the attractions of the club, the fact that it will have what I fancy is rather a unique department—namely: a nursery with regular attendants, so that no mother need be kept at home by maternal duties. She may bring and check her infant at the club, thus accustoming the child early to club life, as well as affording the mother that freedom of action so necessary to the clubwoman of today.

Among the members who have recently joined the club are the Mesdames Joseph G. Coleman, Ogden Armour, Russell J. Matthias, R. R. McCormick, Heaton Owsley, J. M. Patterson, Frederick H. Rawson, George Halleck Taylor, William A. Yager, Philip Wrigley Jr., and Miss Muriel McCormick.

It sounds like an attractive proposition, this club housed in the top seven stories of the seventeen story building and thence surveying the earth, lake, and sky in every direction. It excites the imagination, viewed both from inside and outside, and should prove an inspiration to its members.

Looking at the Dark Side.

That old saying that every cloud has a silver lining can sometimes be read the other way round, so that every bright ray of light and happiness has its dark and sinister side. Take that beguiling and much discussed Chinese game, as wily and fascinating as the country from which it came, mah jongg. It seems to be a fact, if one may judge from a couple of articles in the Journal of the American Medical association of the issue of Feb. 9, that it has devilish perils of a most peculiarly repulsive kind. Little do those who toy with the fantastic tiles and call out "pung" and "chow" realize that at that moment they may be catching dermatitis venenata from the lacquer on the boxes. It appears that the Japanese who make the lacquer which gives the high polish to the boxes holding the sets use the Jap equivalent of our poison ivy, the rhus triocarpa, or the rhus semelata, or some of the many other kinds of rhus, all of which are capable of infecting whoever touches them, if he or she happens to have sensitive skin. This poison spreads to other parts of the body with most distressing, painful, and disfiguring results. Curiously enough, it is the expensive sets that are dangerous, not the cheap ones, as the latter are not adorned with the lustrous lacquer which is made from the deadly rhus family.

The scientific account of this hitherto unsuspected source of misery bristles with such fearsome terms as erythema, pruritus, edematous, eczematoid ringworm, ichthyosis, and such terrifying words. How would you like to have "desquamation" set in? It sounds nasty, doesn't it? Well, we were luckily poor and economical when we bought the set used now by the X family, so expect to go on braving desquamation and the rest of the unpleasant possibilities of a game of this Chinese sport still with the hope some time of declaring heavenly twins or getting a hand entirely composed of winds and dragons. The envy we have occasionally felt when we joined in games played with mah jongg sets that cost anywhere from $75 upward will now dissolve into a terror because of the possibility of acquiring a lively case of dermatitis venenata from handling the gleaming, glossy boxes which house the lovely tiles and the fascinating money.

North Shore Concerts.

The north shore, that pleasant district that lies between Evanston and Lake Bluff, is a land whose inhabitants are interested in many things besides cabbages and kings. Each settlement has its woman's club, its community house, its Ravinia committee, and other sources of inspiration and pleasure. It also has some institutions in common, such as the North Shore Theater guild. A new enterprise to be shared by several of these enterprising suburbs is just being founded. It was decided upon at a meeting called at the residence of Mrs. Amuel B. Spach of Kenilworth a fortnight ago. Howard Wells is president, Walter Marx secretary and treasurer, while the board of directors consists of Mrs. Amuel B. Spach, Mrs. Philemon Kohlsaat of Winnetka, Dr. Harrison Mettler of Winnetka, Mrs. Homer Cotton of Evanston, William Barnes of Evanston, Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart of Kenilworth, Albert Aleson of Glencoe, and Miss Helen Sears of Kenilworth.

The plan is to give four Sunday afternoon concerts during the season in a hall easily accessible to six adjoining suburbs—Glencoe, Hubbard Woods, Winnetka, Kenilworth, Wilmette, and Evanston. Chamber music is one of the choicest forms of musical enjoyment. Some of the best compositions by the great composers have been written for this kind of concert.

Celebrities in Our Midst.

It seems to be the migratory season for foreign notabilities and they are roaming about this land of ours in a detached fashion, for none of them seems to have much to do with other contemporary notabilities. It certainly adds much to the color and variety of our local social gatherings to have in the offing some one or other of these celebrities. It gives us more the cast of the big metropoli of the globe. In London, for instance, it is a matter of course to meet at a dinner or other entertainment of a social character one or more fellow guests who have achieved fame in some line, in science, or politics, or art, or literature, or travel. That is what gives London society its cosmopolitan tone.

Here last week Chicagoites have received and entertained two visiting women, each with her claim on our attention. Mrs. Rosita Forbes has been heralded for many months. Her adventures in the heart of African deserts have been the theme for many journalists before she herself took up the task of relating them in book

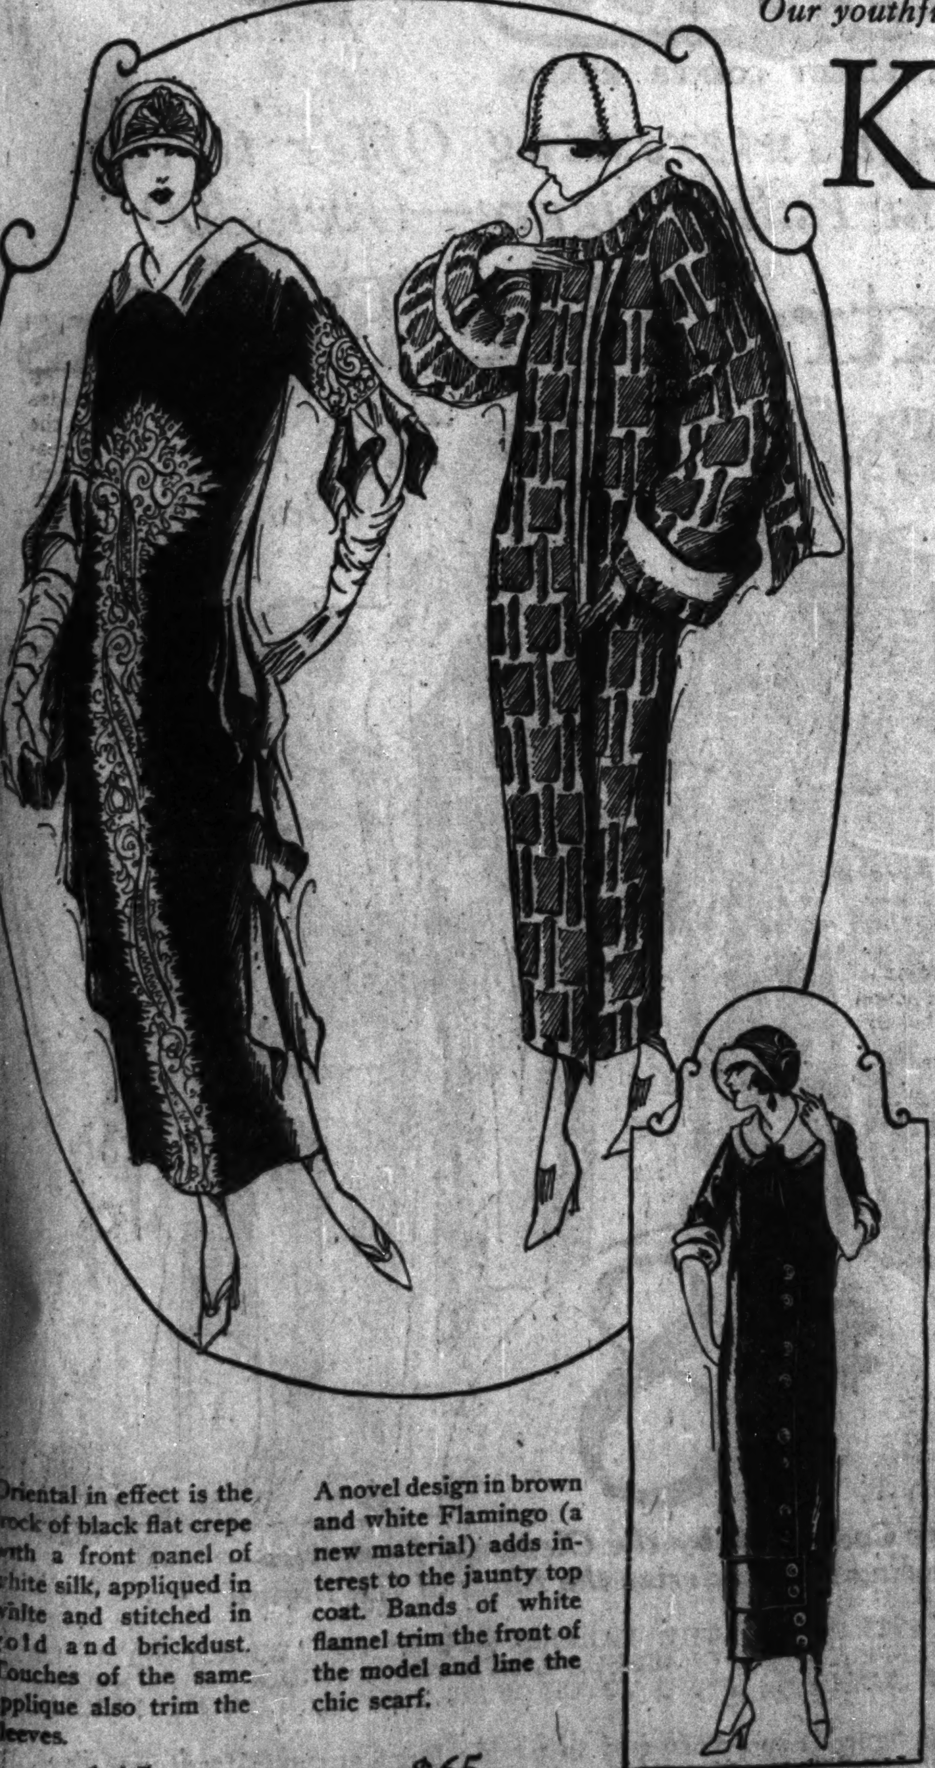
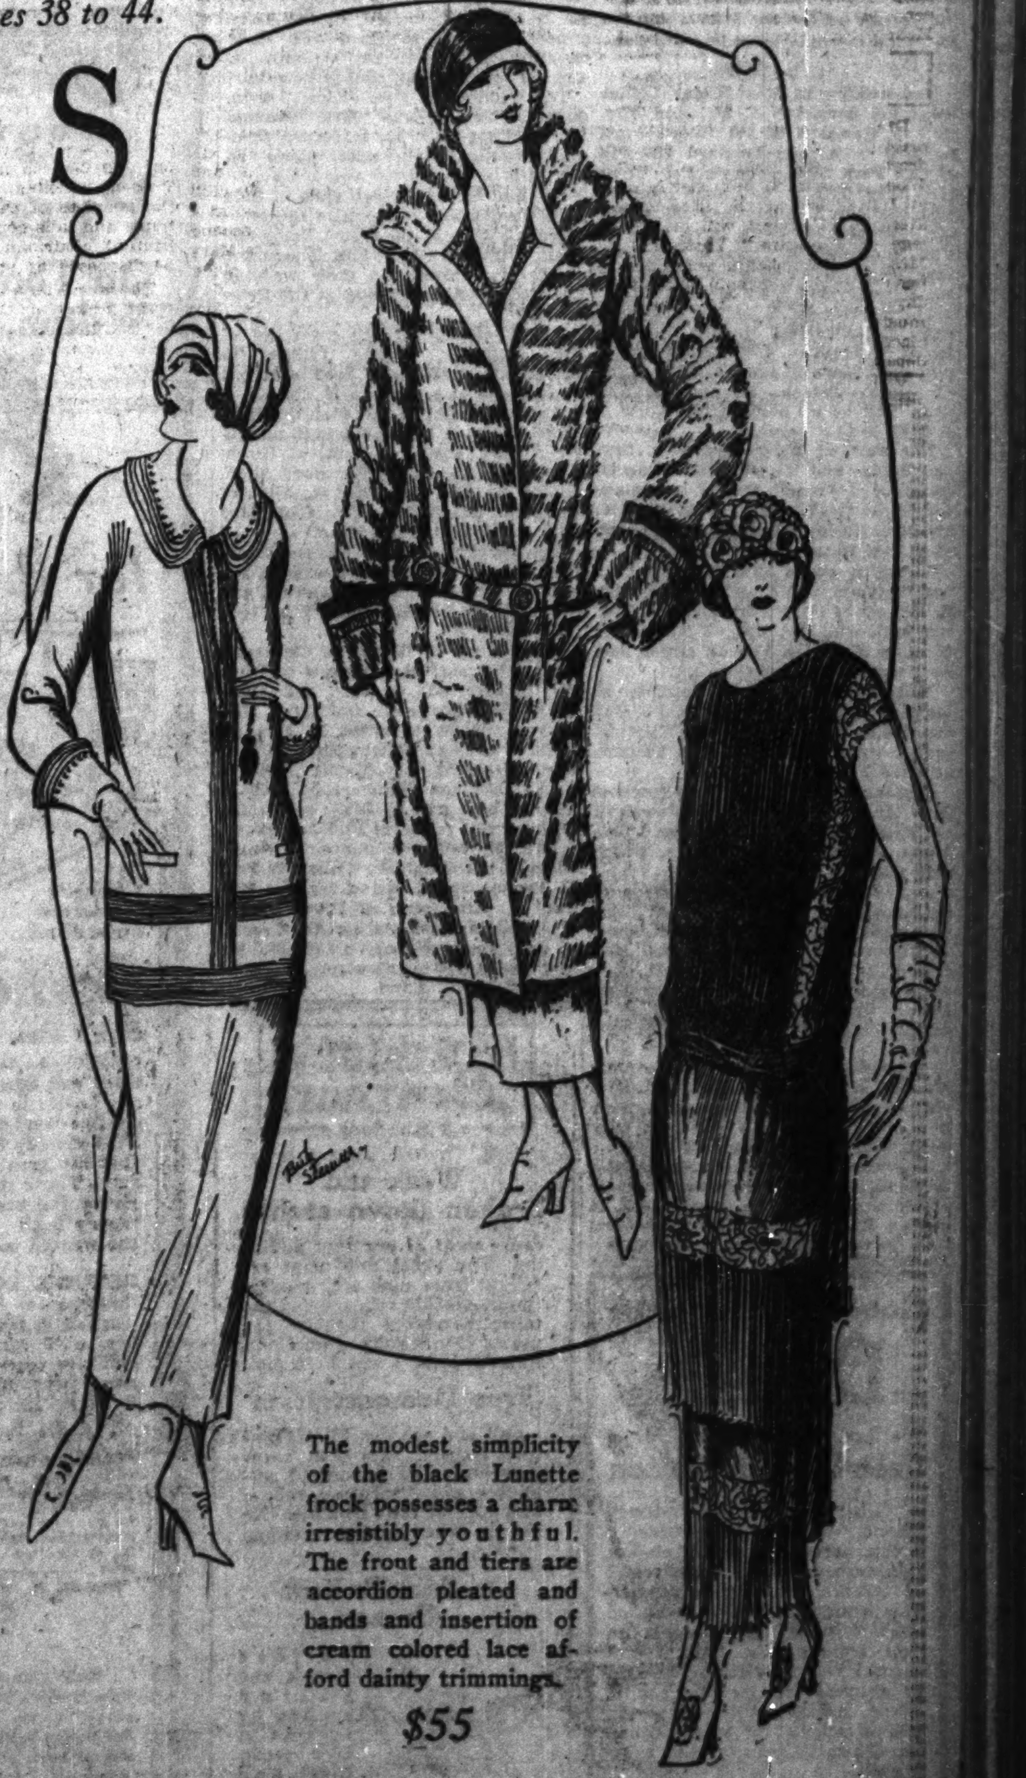
KERMANS

An Endless Variety of Fashions and Fabrics for Spring
$45 to $65





Variety adds zest to the task of selecting new apparel for Spring. There's a mode for every fancy in the diversity of styles, fabrics and hues. And, as one would expect, the cleverest frocks, gowns and wraps for every occasion, will be found at KERMANS.

Here are frocks whose pleasing informality attract the young woman of athletic inclination—models for afternoons at Mah Jong or Bridge—coats that give "chic" to the wearer and yet enable her to defy the stormiest March gale that blows.

If one will but read the descriptions of these modes—and then see them personally—they will instantly realize how striking is their character, their authentic styling, and perfection of details.

The low pricings will command further attention.
$45 and $55 is considerably less than one usually pays for modes of such evident worth. Yet these are only a few of the many incomparable values presented at KERMANS.

Oriental in effect is the frock of black flat crepe with a front panel of white silk, appliqued in white and stitched in gold and brickdust. Touches of the same applique also trim the sleeves.
$45

A novel design in brown and white Flamingo (a new material) adds interest to the jaunty top coat. Bands of white flannel trim the front of the model and line the chic scarf.
$65

Quite the Vogue for wear under the top coat, and for "coatless" wear later on, is the Chinese frock of black silk crepe. White silk collar and cuffs and large pearl buttons add to the youthful effect.
$55

The slender miss who wears the two-piece Boy Dress delights in its ease of line. This model is fashioned of Faille crepe in the popular cocoa shade and is finished with pin tucks and Bramley collar and cuffs.
$55

The swagger coat is of tan lambs' wool with deep, rolling collar and wide cuffs. The revers are faced with duvetyn in the new brickdust shade and the lining is of the same attractive hue.
$55

The modest simplicity of the black Lunette frock possesses a charm irresistibly youthful. The front and tiers are accordion pleated and bands and insertion of cream colored lace afford dainty trimmings.

form and from the lecture platform. She is a most attractive and alert young woman of far more than her share of good looks. Just how such an "easy to look at" mortal of the gentler sex traveled through those passionate lands among these wild tribes without more serious damage than a broken foot and dislocated finger is either a tribute to African gallantry or to the protecting properties of the yashmak, or veil with which most Moslem women shield their faces and which she wore in her long treks across the burning sands into hitherto unpenetrated parts of the Sahara desert.

She tells her story well, and arouses the same sort and quality of enthusiasm that her countryman, Maj. Vivian Gilbert, kindles in his delightful talks on his experiences in the British army, especially in the campaign in the Holy Land, and in his other lectures, such as "On Both Sides of the Footlights" and "English and American Humor."

Countess an Artist.

The other of these two fair visitors is Countess Mira Skarbek de Korzybska of Warsaw. She is herself of Scotch birth and ancestry, but seems more Polish than Scotch, so thoroughly is she merged in her husband's life. He is a writer on abstract science, who claims to have gone farther even than Einstein himself in solving the eternal riddle of what it's all about, this remarkable and fantastic thing we call life (the phrasing is that of this p. p. p., not the count's). His book, "The Manhood of Humanity; The Science and Art of Human Engineering," is said by Prof. Cassius J. Keyser of Columbia university to be "a book that is worthy of the times. Physically it is not large, but spiritually it is great and mighty—great in its enterprise, in its achievement, in the implications of its central thought, and mighty in its significance for the future welfare of men, women, and children everywhere throughout the world."

The countess herself is an artist. She has developed the art of painting on ivory far beyond its long accepted miniature style, and in both water colors and oils makes portraits on the pure, soft ivory foundation just as if she were laying the colors on canvas or wood, with what is said to be striking success. Among the well known Americans whose portraits she has painted in this way are Mrs. Joseph Leiter, whom she depicted with the Leiter children; Mrs. Edward B. McLean; the daughter of Mrs. George Widener, Miss Diana Widener of Philadelphia, and Mrs. George Gould. Some of those who have sat for her in England are the Duchess of Connaught, Princess Patricia, Marchioness Curzon of Keddleston, Countess Drogheda, Lady Robert Manners with Betty, and Mrs. Arthur Wilson of Tranby Croft. Countess Korzybska is planning to make a long stay in Chicago.

MRS. HERBERT JAMES STOTTER.
[Ray Huff Photo.]

Miss Beatrice Rothschild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris M. Rothschild of 1019 Hyde Park boulevard, was married to Herbert James Stotter on Feb. 12. Mr. Stotter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Stotter of Cleveland.

WEDDINGS

No wedding or engagement announcement will be published in The Tribune unless it bears the signature, address, and telephone number of a parent, either of the bride or the bridegroom. Announcements should reach the society editor not later than the Thursday morning preceding the Sunday they are to be printed.

The wedding of Miss Hildur Louise Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Swanson of 911 Buena Park terrace, to Arthur Leonard Elworth of Oak Park took place on Feb. 27 at the Holy Trinity Lutheran church, with the Rev. J. Allen Leas officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Elworth have gone to Florida on their honeymoon and upon their return will reside temporarily at the Schenley hotel, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The marriage of Mrs. Florence Sullivan, 5503 Everett avenue, to Mr. James V. Sullivan, 4840 Michigan avenue, took place Thursday, Feb. 28, at St. Thomas church. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will be at home after April 1, at 7128 Bennett avenue.

The wedding of Dr. Lawrence Howard Roblee and Miss Beatrice Angela, daughter of Francis Angela, took place quietly at the Drake on Feb. 16. Dr. and Mrs. Roblee will reside after March 15 at 4440 Beacon street.

The marriage of Miss Virginia Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Harper of Davenport, Ia., and Burton Mills Smalley, son of Mrs. J. B. Smalley of 5718½ Beacon street, has been announced.

Miss Gladys May Cooper daughter of Howard T. Cooper of Harvey, Ill., was married on Feb. 18 to William Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Thomas of 11126 Vernon avenue.

The

of Beauty Culture and Artistic Hairdressing

EVERY woman should equip herself to make an independent living. This applies to the woman of means as well as to the young girl who knows full well that she must become an EARNER the moment her school work is finished.

How frequently we find women, who have been reared in luxury, thrown suddenly upon their own resources without any idea as to how they should support themselves.

Our course in Beauty Culture will solve the problem for any intelligent woman who is willing to try. The demand for Dainty Beauty Shops is growing and the field will never become crowded. Women of refinement cannot do without the care of the Beauty Culturist.

Hair Dressing

This course includes Shampooing, Glinting, Bleaching, Dyeing, Scalp Massage for the beauty of the hair, Clipping, Singeing, etc. Also lessons in all the new fashions, as well as fancy hairdressing.

Marcel Waving and Water Waving

We give the pupil a special teacher who will continue with the course until the subject has been mastered.

Scalp Treatments

for the woman who wishes to specialize in scalp treatment, we have a very comprehensive course which includes the Hot Oil treatment and Hot Oil Shampoo. This treatment can be made a means of securing a clientele which will continue the treatments until they have proven results.

The E. Burnham Diploma

The E. Burnham diploma has come to be recognized as a stamp of approval. It typifies scientific training, and practical knowledge.

Our graduates are fitted to take all State Board examinations.

Manicuring

Includes the care of the hands and the shaping and care of the finger nails, the removal of white spots and corrugations, the cultivation of "crescents" and how to keep the nails lustrous and pink. The tapering of the fingers, the moulding of wrists and arms to give graceful lines.

Permanent Hair Waving
Lenthéric Process

WE WANT every Hairdresser in this country to come to us for instructions in this work. We will teach them all the new ideas which we have learned by experience in Permanent Waving.

Day and Evening Classes

Classes are held daily from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. including Saturday.

For those who cannot attend the day classes, there are Special Evening Classes from 6:30 to 9.

Facial Massage

Includes Complexion Beautifying, Treatment for Sagging Muscles, Treatment for Puffiness around the eyes, and Crows-feet, Treatment for Blackheads, which also includes the Ozone "Pack" Treatment, reducing of Coarse Pores and Treatment for Wrinkles; including the Vibro-Electric Method. Also the Contour Mask Treatment.

Electrolysis

In this course we teach the permanent and painless removal of superfluous hair, warts and moles. This is work with the Electric needle. It is a very important branch of Beauty Culture and one which is very remunerative.

Hair Cutting Course

This teaches the bobbing of hair for little girls, also shingling for boys, and the cutting of fringe bangs for ladies and children, and the new "Rose Petal" Bob.

Swedish Movements

This includes a course of anatomy and lectures in the value of these scientific treatments as an aid to health and beauty, also form development and reduction. Our instructors are graduates of Christiana and Stockholm Institutes.

Body Massage

This includes manipulations of the muscles for the relief of rheumatism and other pain and to improve circulation.

Electric Light Baths

This is a very fascinating course and teaches the toning of the system by the eliminative process.

Turkish Baths

This course teaches, besides body massage, the salt glow, the correct method of bathing, also the value of HYDROTHERAPY in maintaining health and vigor as well as suppleness of body.

CALL or WRITE FOR DETAILED INFORMATION

School of Manufacturing

We teach the manufacture of all kinds of hair goods—switches, braids, puffs, curls, etc. This is a very practical course and is profitably used in itself or in connection with general beauty culture.

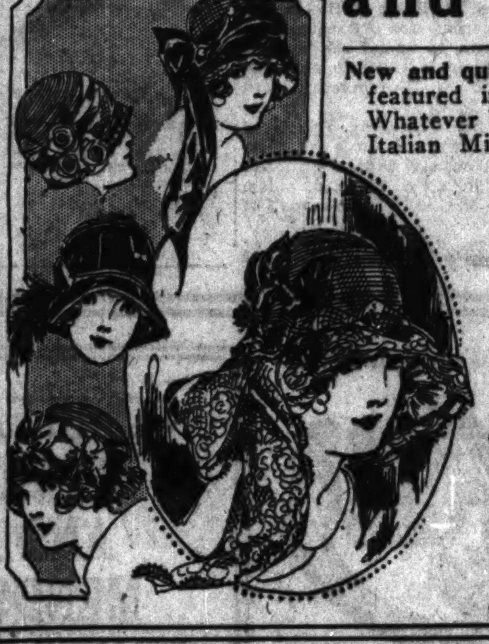
Millinery for Spring that's New and Distinctive

—Sixth Floor—State Street—



New and quite distinctive modes for Spring are featured in this special group for Monday. Whatever your preference, whether for an Italian Milan, Swiss hemp, Timbo, Tagel or fancy straw, or whether you have in mind a cleverly fashioned silk and straw or a soft French felt hat, you will find it here in a wide variety of styles and colors.

The cloche, either with a tiny rim or rimless as is now the vogue—the up-curved brim, mushrooms and other charming effects, all are included in this group.

Trimmed charmingly with burnt goose, beautiful ornaments, lace in various ways, flowers in fresh, springlike colors, browns and tan, Chinese red, Copenhagen blue, etc.; worth fully a third more; specially priced for Monday at $5

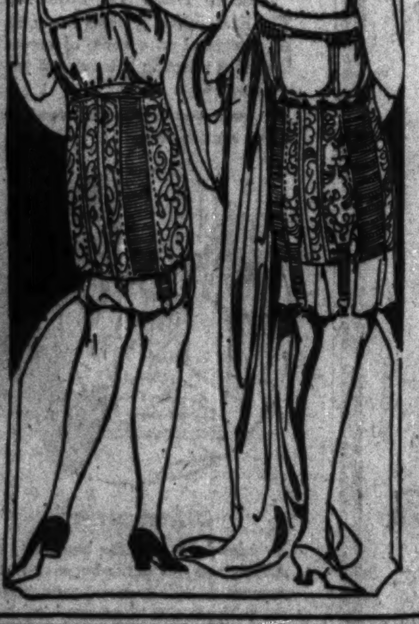
Prominent Stage Folks All Wear Corsets. Do You?

—Third Floor—Dearborn Street—



Corsets are again of supreme importance to the well dressed woman. Every smart woman today, be she 16 or 60, must have the straight figure together with a free, easy grace, a litheness of motion that were formerly the attributes of youth only, and to acquire this figure and grace she must be corseted and, of course, corseted correctly and comfortably. For women have learned that going without corsets make the figure heavy.

Your figure is the first thing that most people notice. Many women have found that the "Binner Corset" gives them an appearance of slimness far beyond that of any other corset. Wear the corset that suits your own type of figure best. With so many styles in Binner Corsets to choose from, we know full well we can fit your figure properly and accurately.

We feature the model with the diagonal steel over hip that gives such long, slender lines to the woman who is over stout in lower hip. We are also showing many new low bust models that are cut low above the waist in the back. Also the semi-elastic Binner that sets low down on the figure, as low as the petticoat.

We recommend for the tall, long limbed, plump figure a splendid model of Binner Corset made expressly for this type—comes well down on the figure, takes wonderful care of large thighs at the lower end. The ungraceful lump of flesh that now disturbs will disappear and curves, long and slender, will take its place. The bust is extremely low, with elastic inserts to control the diaphragm; cut quite low in back above the waist line; sizes up to 36, at............................ $10

Don't fail to see our displays of the Binner "Closed Back" corsets that set low down on the figure and therefore give that flat youthful look the younger set all admire. Sizes to 36 at... $10 and $12

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Special Services in All Churches to Observe Lent

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

NEXT Wednesday, Ash Wednesday in the church calendar, will mark the beginning of Lent, which is constantly growing in acceptance as a time of special religious devotion in all churches. A letter from Archbishop G. W. Mundelein defining the obligations of Lent as it pertains to fasting and the abstainence from amusements and worldly pleasures and the performance of pious works, will be read today in all Roman Catholic churches. Episcopal and Lutheran churches recognize the entire Lenten period and will devote themselves to special services. Other Protestant churches, while not observing Lent as one of obligation, regard the period as specially adapted to religious activity and will thus observe it.

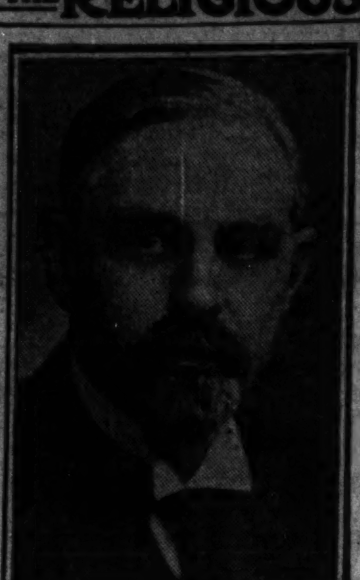
Lenten noonday meetings under the auspices of the Episcopal Church club will begin on Wednesday, 12:10-12:30, at the Garrick theater. The speaker on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday will be the Rt. Rev. James Wise, bishop of Kansas.

The Rev. Duncan H. Browne, the new rector of St. James' Episcopal church, Cass and Huron streets, will begin his pastorate with services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. on Ash Wednesday. Dr. Browne comes to Chicago from Denver, Colo., where he was dean of the cathedral.

What has been known as the West Division institute at 1838 West Division street will be given the name Laird Community house at a dedicatory service today at 3 o'clock. The change of name is in honor of the Rev. George B. Laird, pastor of the Norwood Park Presbyterian church, who founded the West Division institute thirty-three years ago in a dance hall back of a saloon while he was a student at McCormick Theological seminary and was in charge nine years. Addresses will be given by the Rev. Mr. Laird, the present pastor; the Rec. Benjamin Heideman, and the Rev. Henry Seymour Brown. An enlarged program will be immediately put on for the Laird Community house.

The Lamon Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Lamon avenue and Ferdinand street, the Rev. W. H. Tope, pastor, will dedicate today a new $40,000 community house adjoining the church. Bishop Thomas Nicholson will preach at 11, former pastors will speak at a community meeting at 3 and the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of First church, will preach in the evening. The Rev. F. D. Stone, district superintendent, will assist. Extensive improvements have been made in the parsonage and a complete heating plant for all the buildings has been installed.

Dr. Ernest Lyman Mills, who has for several years represented the Methodist Episcopal church in Germany and elsewhere in Europe, will speak this morning at 11 o'clock in the St. James church, Ellis avenue and 46th street, and describe conditions as he saw them.



THE REV. WILLIAM E. BARTON, D. D., LL. D.

Dr. Barton became pastor of the First Congregational church, Oak Park, twenty-five years ago yesterday. Next Sunday and the week following, the event will be duly celebrated. Dr. Barton will preach a twenty-fifth anniversary sermon in the morning, and in the evening a community service will be held at which representatives of various Congregational organizations will speak.

On Wednesday evening, March 12, an anniversary banquet will be held. On Sunday, March 16, the Rev. Cornelius E. Dickinson, D. D., first pastor of the church, will preach. Oak Park pastors of neighboring churches will speak in the evening. Dr. Barton was born in Sublette, Ill., educated at Berea and Oberlin colleges, and came to Oak Park from the pastorate of the Shawmut Congregational church, Boston.

Dr. Barton is the author of many books, including the life of Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross, and several on Abraham Lincoln. "The Wit and Wisdom of Safed the Sage," a series of quaint parables about Keturah, his wife, and himself, has been widely printed in religious papers of several denominations. Dr. Barton was moderator of the National Council of Congregational churches in 1921-'23, and attended eleven national council meetings as a delegate. His eminence as a writer, ecclesiastical authority, and successful pastor is nationally recognized.

The Nazareth Lutheran church, West 60th street and South Spaulding avenue, the Rev. Herbert Kohn, pastor, will began a "Week for the Public" series of addresses this evening at 8 with Jean M. Bailey, educational secretary of the Walther league; tomorrow the Rev. Edwin Moll, former captain of the Anzacs in Palestine; Tuesday, the Rev. B. von Schenk, St. Louis; Wednesday, F. Oberschulte, St. Paul; Thursday, the Rev. Ben Maurer; and Friday, the Rev. E. F. Schuler, both of Milwaukee. Dr. W. C. Kohn, president Concordia Teachers college, will be in charge.

Congregation Beth Jacob, 44th street and St. Lawrence avenue, will hold inauguration services today at 2 p. m. for their new rabbi, Dr. Irving M. Levy. Several speakers will take part.

Miss Jane Addams will speak at 7 o'clock on "My Experience in Japan During the Earthquake," and Dr. Hugh Black of New York will speak at 8 on "The Church and the Modern World" at the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee will preside at 7 and Elmer T. Stevens at 8. David R. Forgan will read the scripture lesson.

The fifty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Salem Augustana Lutheran church, 74th street and Calumet avenue, will be celebrated today with social and religious meetings. Sunday school, 9:30; preaching by the pastor, Dr. L. G. Abrahamson, 10:45; social hour, 4:30; festival program, 7:45. Dr. Julius Lincoln and Sweden's consul in Chicago, Carl von Dardel, will speak. Music by male chorus from south side churches. Salem church now has property valued at $75,000, and $50,000 for a new auditorium will be solicited by a personal canvas this week.

The St. John's Lutheran church, Forest Park, will dedicate today its new $80,000 parish house. The Rev. M. Wagner is pastor. Prof. Gustave Elfrin will speak at 2:30, and the Rev. Leo Schmidtke at 7:45. The parish house contains a gymnasium and rooms for various church societies.

The Rev. John A. McClorey, S. J., of the University of Detroit will begin next Friday evening at 7:50 a series of six Lenten lectures in the Holy Family (Jesuit) church, 1084 Roosevelt road. The general title will be "The Unknown God," and answers will be given to objections raised to the doctrine of the divinity of Christ, including the virgin birth. Father McClorey would be especially pleased to have those attend who may have been disturbed by the recent controversies between modernists and fundamentalists.

The Thoburn Methodist Episcopal church, 64th and South Paulina streets, will begin today a campaign for $80,000 for the erection of a new parish house on the opposite corner from the present church. The lot, valued approximately at $7,000, has been donated to the church by John Bain, on condition the community house will be built. The Rev. John H. De Lacy, D. D., pastor of Thoburn nearly fifteen years, has led in the accumulation of property valued at $140,000.

The Northern Baptist Theological seminary at 3040 West Washington boulevard will have an informal inspection of its new dormitory, Wilkinson hall, tomorrow. The Baptist Ministers' association will meet there in the morning. Dr. Edwin Charles Dargan will speak at 10:30 and at 7:45 in a series of lectures on the Wilkinson foundation. Other lectures will be given Tuesday at 10:30 and 3:15 and Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. Dr. George W. Taft, president of the seminary, will be in charge.

The choir of the Irving Park Methodist Episcopal church, Keeler avenue and Grace street, assisted by special soloists, will sing Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" today at 4:30.

ART AND ARTISTS

Children's Exhibit Feature This Week at Art Institute

By Eleanor Jewett.

In the first place let us state that David Brcin, whose sculpture "Fantasy" was reproduced in this department two weeks ago, really has another name, which for some obscure reason was not rendered to him in the picture's caption. David Brcin is now, as he was christened, John David Brcin. Likewise, let us clear our conscience in the case of Bertha E. Jaques, the etcher. Miss Jaques is Mrs. Jaques—though when it comes to matters literary or artistic, the fact of marriage seems of comparatively small importance.

This week it is the children who are given first place in matters of interest at the Art institute. In the far end of Blackstone hall an exhibit has been arranged of work done by pupils of various Chicago public schools. The work runs from the kindergarten cutouts to the excellently spirited renditions of Chicago's early history by eighth grade youngsters. Between the extremes lies the vast extent of time covered by the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh grades.

Children's exhibits are always surprising affairs. Their work is always so much better than you expect. In this case expectations that are aroused by the kindergarten pictures are amply fulfilled in the older children's drawings, paintings, and handicraft. A case of beautiful lamp shades would do credit to any worker. They surprise one by their deftness of execution, exquisite coloring, and diversity of design.

Bead bags, wool work, and stitched cloths, leather work, desk sets and boxes, innumerable specimens of the smaller crafts are to be found, all well done. The smaller children are extremely successful in their handling of clay. There is a case of clay work by pupils of the first and second grades, where, monarch of all he surveys, stands a majestic snow man surrounded with little clay children. "Playing with our sleds" is another timely and spirited interpretation wrought by the child sculptors.

It is startling to find work not unlike some of our modern painters in this exhibit. A group of drawings, made by eighth grade pupils, showing houses, is amazingly similar in kind to paintings by Anthony Angarola, to mention but one well known name. The same bulky sincerity characterizes the children's and the artist's work. The houses are similarly definite; they are straight, blocky, square cut, and incredibly solid. Their lines of demarcation are as emphatically set as the cool, veracic lines of the Pyramids or Sphinx.

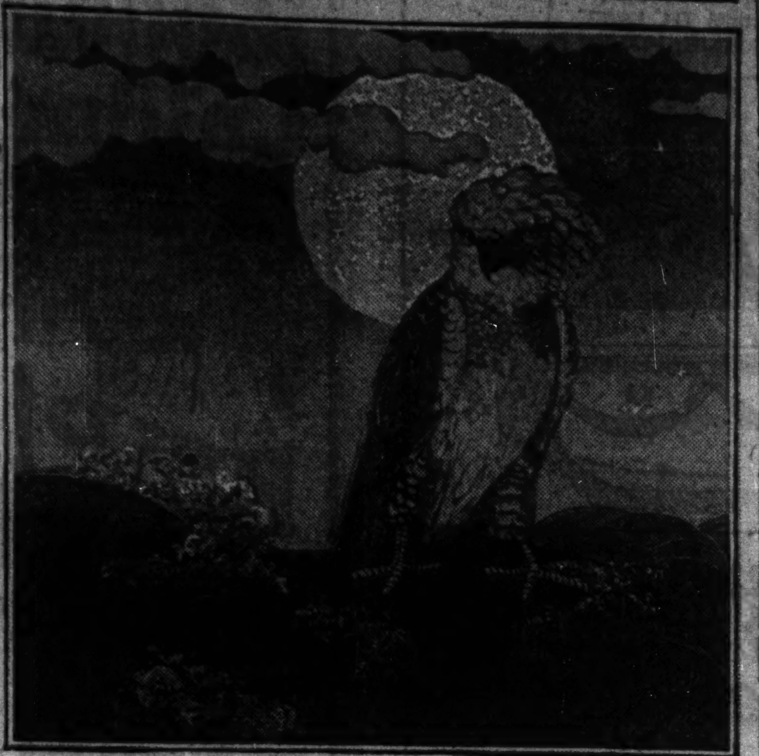
It is a compliment to both children and Angarola that this should be so. Simplicity is often lost with practice, and sincerity overlaid by vain teachings. To depict the truth as the truth appears to you is a great achievement.

The silver medal of the Chicago Society of Artists has been awarded this year to Frederick F. Fursman for his two paintings in the present exhibition by Chicago artists at the Art institute. The pictures are character studies of residents near the painter's summer studio at Saugatuck, Mich., and are, respectively, "Annie Heuer" and "Charley Billings." The medal is given to "the artist who presents the most artistic work in any medium," and was established in 1903. Since then it has been given each year to a leading painter of Chicago.

To return for a moment to the Gilbert Stuart portrait, it is one of the four standing portraits made of Washington in his prime. It was painted for Gardner Baker, an art collector of prominence in his day. At his death his collection was dispersed, and the portrait of Washington was purchased eventually by William Tweed, known as the "Boss" of Tammany Hall. It hung in Tammany Hall for many years, but was recently bought by a New York art dealer. The officials of our Art institute are eager to acquire it for the museum's permanent collection. To that end, as has been announced, a fund is being raised for its purchase.

It may prove possible to copy the painting in colors and sell the prints for 50 cents each, the amount raised being turned into the purchase fund. The New York owner of the portrait is offering it to the Chicago Art institute for $75,000. Some of this amount has been given; it is sincerely hoped that the entire sum will be forthcoming to the end that Chicago may possess this splendid piece of Stuart painting.

The Art institute intends to set apart a gallery exclusively for the showing of portraits of artists. The portraits are those belonging to the institute and they have increased in number year by year until now there are enough of them to make an important group. Director Harshe has set aside a room where they will be installed. Several of the portraits are self-portraits, among them being those of Eastman Johnson, George P. A. Healy, Walter Shirlaw, John Jackson, and Lucien Simon. There are also the portrait of Edouard Manet painted by Fantin-Latour, Claude Monet by Albert Andre, Auguste Renoir by Albert Andre, Frank Currier by Frank Duveneck, Charles H. Woodbury by Hermann Dudley, and Henry O. Tanner also by Hermann Dudley Murphy. A bust of Frank Duveneck by Charles Grafly will also be placed in this gallery.



"Harpy Eagle," by Irving K. Manoir. This bird is possibly the most imposing feathered individual to be met with in the exhibition by artists of Chicago and vicinity, in the east galleries of the Art institute. It is an unusual piece of work and almost magnificent in its sumptuous simplicity of line, color, and composition. Paint is not generally handled in this way, and the uniqueness of the method lends an impressive solemnity to the portrait. One might mistake the eagle for an owl, but never for a mediocrity.

The Mardi Gras festival given by the students of the Art institute art school was an inspiring spectacle and netted $3,000 for scholarship funds for the institute.

Nell Brooker Mayhew has returned, after an absence of several years, from California with an extensive and lovely exhibit of color etchings dealing with the missions, for which that beautiful state is justly and architecturally famous. They are being shown in room 444 of the Auditorium hotel.

Two hundred and fourteen etchings for a total of $2,825 have been sold in the Chicago Society of Etchers' exhibition now being held in the Art institute print galleries. The tiny etchings of a dimension of three inches, suggested by Bertha E. Jaques as a novelty and an experiment, have proven extremely popular. The tiniest of these tiny etchings is one by Lee Sturges; etched on the surface of a penny, stands in clear relief a twisted pine against the entire Rocky mountain range.

The eighth annual exhibition of the Society of Independent Artists to be held in New York, March 7 to 31, will be the greatest show of the society since 1917. Seven hundred artists have registered, and more than 1,500 works of art will be shown. As usual, the paintings will be hung in alphabetical order, the artist's initial deciding his position on the wall.

An exhibit of paintings and sculpture by eminent Jewish artists will be held in the music room of the Jewish People's institute, 1258 West Taylor street, beginning Feb. 25 and continuing until March 5. Among the artists represented are Emil Armin, Mikles Gaspar, Todros Geller, Erich Goldberg, Samuel Klausterner, David Kovesi, and Morris Topchefsky. At least three of these names are familiar as exhibitors at the Art institute and the Palette and Chisel club.

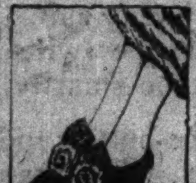
Fur Buckle Last Word in Footgear

Talk about buckling down to business! The fair and weaker sex is certainly strong for it just now, to say nothing of buckling down to teas and luncheons and other festivities. Buckles on one's hat, buckles on one's sleeves, at one's collar and on one's belt, and buckles on one's shoes are the thing, and to her who can think of a new kind go the laurels.



The latest word in slipper buckles is to have them made from fur to match a fur coat or choker, whichever the weather man sees fit to call out. A pair of square squirrel buckels adorned dull leather colonial pumps the other day, worn beneath a voluminous squirrel cape and new, small spring bonet. The effect was fetching, and the wearer admitted she had caught the trick in Paris a wee short time ago.

Other recent buckles for slippers are monogramed—O, the feminine failing for personal initials—with the letters cut right into the center; others are of the type known as fancy, with colored enamels on gilt backgrounds reminiscent of the showy belt buckle so much in demand fifteen or more years ago, that adorned slim, unboyish waists, giving a trim, Victorian finish to a street outfit.

And then there are the always present and always right cut steel or dulled silver buckles that are the rightful heritage of the colonial. Other buckle whims come and go, but these go on forever. So it seems inevitable that the password of the footwear world will be, for some time to come, "Buckle, buckle, who has the buckle?"

Ward & Bohlman:

"O, I'm not anxious to be an actor. I'd rather be a movie star."

"A movie star?"

"Yes, I want to be a film star."

"O, you're bad enough, all right, but you've got to have some romance about you to be a film star."

"There's been a great deal of romance in my life. All my life so far I've been a daily help, and during the war I was a window cleaner. Now I am an orphan."

"Now you're an orphan? Well, before you can succeed as a film star you must get divorced first."

"But I can't do that. I've never been married."

"Never been married That's awful. There is no romance about you."

"But my mother doesn't live with father, if that will help me any."

"Your mother doesn't live with your father? Well, that's a little encouragement."

"And they ain't really my mother and father because they both died before I was born."

"Well, what's your name?"

"My name is Stanislaus Ichbamoliski Jr."

"Good gracious, you don't expect me to call you Stanislaus Ichbamoliski?"

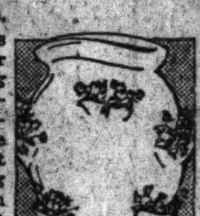
"No, you won't have to call me at all."

"Won't have to call you, why?"

"Because I have an alarm clock."

Strawberry Jars Go to the Garden

Although a strawberry jar sounds indigenous to a pantry or jam closet, its real habitat is a garden. Just lead a true garden lover past one of these novelties, and observe his reactions. After casting a longing eye in its direction and wrinkling his nose, he will probably set about figuring how he can obtain one, and where it will show to the best advantage.



They are big earthenware jars, about eighteen inches in height, and gracefully rounded. Each has six or eight little curved ears protruding from, and still a part of the surface, in which the strawberry plants are put, as well as in the generous mouth of the jar itself. Thus the plants are nourished by the same earth and waterings, and yet each has its own diminutive plot in which to grow.

Some of the jars are left the natural earthen color. Others are stained to match the predominating garden note.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

THE STUDIO OF

is being continued under the direction of Mrs. Cuttriss Warde [Camille Muori], formerly prima donna soprano "The Bostonians," English Grand Opera Co., etc. Special attention given to pupils desirous of studying for operatic and concert work and a thorough training for students in all forms of dramatic expression and the production and development of the "voice supreme" in singing and speaking. Correct breath control, the foundation of tonal beauty brought to its highest development and the student is made to understand the "why" of each step in the course of training. Professionals following successful careers at home and abroad are graduates of this school, which has a brilliant record of twenty-five years standing. Studio 922 North Clark-st., 10 minutes from loop. Phone Superior 5047.

TO THE VOICE STUDENT

Why spend money studying with broken down singers who could not save their own voices, for lack of knowing how to produce the correct tone, when you can go to a real voice builder who will guarantee to give you a good singing voice if you have a good ear for tone and can make a sound on pitch? 40 years' experience in tone building in Europe and America. I can restore voices lost through wrong tone production, which is the cause of hoarseness, loss of voice, and tremolo. Voices tested free at my studio. Address Y 401, Tribune.

A BETTER SALES OPPORTUNITY.

We have men in this organization who are making big money week in and week out.

If you can sell we have an attractive sales proposition for you. Your earning power is limited only by your own ability and your desire to work.

We are leading in subdivision work in Chicago. We own and offer the best property that can be had. We are about to open several new subdivisions in the direct path of the city's progress.

This work is pleasant. It is profitable. We have men who are making between $500 and $1,000 per week. These men are workers. Others can do the same.

We make special and very attractive arrangements to men who have automobiles.

If you want to get in the class of our big money-makers, see our sales manager — Ohio-st. entrance, second floor.

A REMARKABLE JOB.

$200 Weekly and Upward.

U. S. government reports show that the product that our electric device produces exceeds in food value most any confection being sold. Merchants write us that our product pays better than any line in their place of business. We sell our product on a guarantee of sales insuring the merchant 100% on his investment in less than a year. Last week some of our salesmen earned more than $200 in a single day. We want salesmen who can spend two or three days here with us and can finance themselves in the field for one week. Producers earn more than $1,000 monthly. We have the best selling proposition on the market. Territory fast being taken up. Call personally.

CAN YOU MEET PEOPLE?

We are in a position to take on several new salesmen. Previous sales experience either in investment or insurance lines would be an asset but is not necessary. We present in an entirely new manner—to men in business as well as to the average wage earner—a savings program which allows him to save for himself in the future through weekly or monthly deposits in the Illinois Merchants Trust Company, and at the same time by his first deposit in the bank to provide for the future welfare of his business or his family if he should die—because the first deposit in the bank places in force a life insurance policy which will pay in case of his death more money than he would save in a period of 25 years. The supply of prospects is unlimited, for there is no one who cannot save at least a few dollars a month under our plan.

This is a dignified, profitable, permanent connection for the right men. In Chicago it is identified with one of the largest financial institutions in America, and you need not be afraid to call back again to see your clients. The fact that we already have quite a large number of depositors in Chicago alone shows its appeal. We will work with you and give you the daily personal instructions necessary to present the proposal effectively. Let us explain our plan to you and show you what some of our men are doing with it each week and you can judge for yourself the opportunity it holds for you.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

SALES EXECUTIVES — WE HAVE TWO openings that offer decided opportunities to men who are ambitious and want to succeed. We want men who will take a real interest in their work, who are anxious to get ahead and who are willing to pay the price of success, which is hard, steady, and consistent work. The men we want are between 25 and 32 years old; they have had sales experience, and are interested in selling. While selling experience is essential we must have a combination of sales, executive and general business ability that perhaps is not ordinarily found in men as young as we want. Such men do exist. We have found and are developing a number of them and need two more now. We are a financial institution of national prominence, closely identified with one of the largest and foremost manufacturing concerns in this country, and are engaged in promoting the sale of their product both through the extension of credit facilities and the training and developing of their dealers along very unusual lines. Applications must be typewritten; they must state age, nationality, educational qualifications, business experience in detail, your present earning capacity, and why you are interested in making a change. They will, of course, be treated as confidential. Address A P 34, Tribune.

SALESMEN—AMBITIOUS YOUNG MEN can enter the bond business with an established

SALESMEN. WE INVEST $100—ONE HUNDRED—$100

In each and every salesman we employ that develops leads and furnishes co-operation on a definite plan that insures earnings from $400 to $800 monthly, we start you only after you have convinced us you have the ambition and ability to make good; then we go the limit in backing you up. We will risk $100 on you, teach you our methods, furnish a successful producer to help you close your first orders, and when you qualify, the position is permanent; life insurance, real estate, security and specialty salesmen will find this an exceptional opportunity, but ambitious men without any selling experience make good under our training. Special proposition to men owning their own autos. Ask for Sales Manager, PHELPS-HENDRICKSON CO., third floor, Majestic Bldg., 22 W. Monroe-st.

STORY OF A SALESMAN'S SUCCESS.

A salesman, 32 years of age, came with us a little over a year ago to take up a new line of business—a line against which he had been prejudiced but which he knew carried great rewards for the successful. His earnings last year were $3,600, carrying a future income of nearly $3,000, total $6,600. At his present rate he will easily double these returns this year.

We are enlarging our organization to prepare for an enormous expansion of business during the next few years; we have positions for two good salesmen with successful records; under our method of instruction failure is well nigh impossible if they will pay the price in hard work.

Liberal drawing account against commissions.

This offer will be open during the next week; only applicants of unquestioned integrity and with high grade references will be considered.

Come and talk it over with R. H. OLIVER, Suite 615, 11 S. La Salle-st., Chicago, any time before 1 o'clock.
W. W. WILLIAMSON, Chicago Manager,
Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co.,
Hartford, Conn.

SUCCESSFUL SALESMEN.

Are the opportunities in your line increasing or diminishing?

Would you be interested in a new connection with a business which today is firmly established and is expanding rapidly?

We are one of the best known La Salle-st. bond houses dealing in the highest grade, nationally known securities. We offer an exceptional opportunity to a man between the ages of 25 and 40 who has proved his ability to sell a high grade competitive article and has the capacity for hard work. This man should now be earning approximately $5,000 or better.

If you can fulfill the above requirements, write us in detail about yourself. If, after an interview, we are confident that you can succeed in the bond business, we will carry you financially until your worth to our sales organization can be demonstrated. Address O L 360, Tribune.

Our Guests Stay "On and On"

Perhaps it's because of the big, light, airy, tastefully decorated rooms that look out on beautiful trees and the lake.

Perhaps it's because of the cheery lobby and the good, solid, neighborly people that linger to chat a moment going in and out.

Perhaps it's because of the complete, unobtrusive maid service that is daily manifest.

At any rate, the people who come here usually stay. They feel at home—always. To such permanent guests we are glad to make concessions, although transients, of course, are always welcome.

Come in and see our 2, 3, and 4 room suites; some as low as $115, others up to $250; all beautifully furnished and with big, roomy closets. Rental includes heat, light, gas, linen, and laundry and maid service.

Ideal at any time, especially summer. Lake only 2 blocks away; bus stops at door. L and surface lines within 5 minutes' walk.

Sheridan Beach

Sheridan-rd. at Chase-av.

A MOST DELIGHTFUL HOME.

The SHERIDAN BEACH HOTEL is something more than an apartment building or hotel. It has the substantial atmosphere of dignity and the permanence lacking in the ordinary hotel, and the smooth running and unobtrusive service lacking in the usual apartment building. Truly, the SHERIDAN BEACH has been called "a community of homes without the hotel atmosphere."

Located on the shore of Lake Michigan, in beautiful Rogers Park, the SHERIDAN BEACH will commend itself to the man seeking a home environment. The private bathing beach, a beautiful solarium, furnished as an Italian garden; an open air garden; an inclosed lounge on the roof are at his disposal. All this is 25 minutes from the loop on the Evanston elevated [Jarvis-av. station].

Attractive suites, overlooking the lake, of from 1 to 5 rooms are now available. Maid service, gas, electricity, ice, linen and laundering are all furnished. SUBSTANTIAL REDUCTIONS IN RENTS ARE OFFERED FOR TERM LEASES.

Come in and let us explain to you how really inexpensive it is to live at this beautiful hotel.

Satisfactory references will be required.

THE SHERIDAN BEACH is under the personal management of Mr. Robert H. Borland. PHONE SHELDRAKE 7600.

We offer for sale on the Co-operative Ownership Plan individual 4, 5 and 6 room apartments in Crandon Arms, with heated garage if desired; located in the heart of the South Shore Country club district. These new, modern apartment homes may be acquired by the purchase of an equity in the entire property and building, ranging from $3,700 to $6,000. Convenient terms if desired. A small safe investment in this new, modern, well located building and ground enables you to occupy the apartment you select at operating cost instead of rental. The monthly operating cost is enough less than the rental value to save your investment about each seventy-two months you own the apartment. Adequate provision is made for owners to sell their interest in the property or to sublease their apartments. The building is under construction and will be ready for occupancy April 15. The apartments have been especially designed for homes. The unusual size of the rooms, closet space, light and air will attract you. Apartments may be selected in the order applications are received. Well worth your while to investigate. Come to the building. Owners on premises every day including Sunday.

SHERIDAN-LAKE APARTMENTS NEW AND EXCLUSIVE

The Sheridan-Lake Apartments, 3730-3740 Sheridan-rd., are now ready for inspection. They consist of six and seven room apartments, with three baths and large reception halls—all outside rooms. The location is where Sheridan-rd. turns west at the north end of Lincoln Park. It commands an unobstructed view of the lake and the park. A list of families that have signed leases is available. They are prominent in the business and social life of the city. This apartment building is beautiful and distinctive and possesses many superior advantages, having elevator service, private garages, and a large private playground. Motor busses, the L and street car lines are close at hand. The rentals are very reasonable considering the high type of apartments. Immediate inspection is advised. See Mr. Brooks on the premises.

Distinctive Apts. in Lincoln Park District at Unusually Moderate Rentals

THE Pine Grove

2828 Pine Grove-av.
[illegible] north of Diversey-pkwy.

Commodious 2, 3 and 4 rm. unfurnished apts., with ample closet space, beautifully decorated, in a high grade fireproof bldg. with elevator service and free gas, electricity, refrigeration and [illegible].

Maid service, which is optional at a small cost, will eliminate the necessity for an additional maid's room.

The apts. can be had at astonishingly moderate rentals, considering the type of building and its surroundings. 2 rms. as low as $100.00. 3 rooms as low as $115.00. 4 rms. as low as $175.00. Since so many of these apts. have been rented we urge an early inspection.

Our agent is always at the building and he will be pleased to show you around.

WHAT ABOUT IT?

Two executives of a life insurance company, one president, one general secretary, [illegible] vice president, four attorneys, two [illegible], a real estate broker, a general contractor and a manufacturer of equipment for [illegible] are a few of the substantial group of tenant owners in the Lockler. It must [illegible] that we have a genuine value, [illegible] location, sound financing and proper [illegible] organization or these people would not have purchased, for it is their business to be acquainted with these matters.

A [illegible] apartment with two baths in a [illegible] and sound proof building across [illegible] Yacht Harbor at a cost of less [illegible] feet of the land on which it stands [illegible] and we believe it should in[illegible].

[illegible] $240 instead of $175 a month to occupy a home several of interest to them. It should [illegible] to you. They also pay $34 on the mortgage but this is just like putting the money in a savings bank account except it pays 6% interest.

Thomas Edison said it takes ten years to have the people accept a perfect demonstrable fact, but this is not true as applied to the Lockler, for we have only two apartments left. You won't know if you don't see, and if you don't see it soon, it will be gone.

North American Building

State and Monroe-sts. Diagonally Opposite the Palmer House.

Neighborship with the most eminent firms in a variety of activities, such as leaders in important merchandising lines, insurance companies, publishers, advertising agencies, is a privilege enjoyed by the tenants of the North American Building.

In addition, a thoroughness of service is furnished in keeping with this high type of tenancy, yet the rentals are moderate; for instance—

Private office with reception room, $83 per month.

A large display room with two private offices, $125 per month.

Corner suite with light on three sides, suitable for five large private offices and large workroom, $250.

An exceptionally attractive corner suite, high up, overlooking the lake, with unobstructed light, which can readily be divided into six light offices and clerical rooms, $425.

The North American Building has the most convenient and accessible location in the Loop. Before closing a lease elsewhere we invite your inspection of these spaces.

VACANT—NORTHWEST SIDE.

AND NOW WE OPEN

DEVON-CRAWFORD

Addition to NORTH EDGEWATER

Devon-av. on the north, we expect, will be 100 feet wide, and is the route of the proposed extension of the Devon-av. street car line. This tract offers a great advantage from an investment viewpoint. This is the only subdivision in this district which will allow the erection of large apartment buildings, zoned as a second volume district.

Here we can offer desirable building lots as low in price as balance $10 per month. This price includes sidewalks. Other improvements will be put in by special assessment. Application for these improvements will be made June 1, 1924. There will be business districts on Devon and Crawford-avs.; good business corners are available, also good apartment corners. It is within the limits of Chicago, and in the direct path of intensive building activities. Good transportation is within 4 blocks of this property. The Crawford station of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway is on the property. Further transportation and development plans seem to assure steadily increasing values. Now prices are low—this property is offered at winter prices. Warm weather usually brings increased values in subdivision properties.

$950.00

$240.00 DOWN

This Is the Opening Offer

AN OPPORTUNITY

The small investor can afford. No secret lies in the fact that vacant property usually increases in value along a convenient transportation extension. The secret lies in the understanding of the details connected with a new development. During my experience I have sold property in the path of most all of the developments caused by transportation conveniences during the last ten years. The Dempster Terminal is my latest. Prices are varied enough to suit your pocketbook. No interest or taxes the first year. Write at once for complete information regarding latest developments in this town. Address J X 270, Tribune.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

6 room residence; $6,500; and only a few hundred dollars starts you; small monthly payments like rent; own the kind of home your family will be proud to live in. Everything that goes to make an ideal home will be found in Park Ridge; schools, churches, banks, theaters, transportation, and last but not least, "neighborly neighbors"; pick out a nice 50 foot homesite now. Northwestern trains provide unequaled transportation. Don't delay. Full information cheerfully given. Address G N 481, Tribune.

FIRE SALE!
$50,000 STOCK OF FINE FURNITURE

ONLY SLIGHTLY DAMAGED BY SMOKE AND WATER.

At 25% to 33 1-3% of Cost!

THE RECENT FIRE in our finishing rooms on the third floor of our four story warehouse and showroom caused a slight smoke and water damage to about ONE-TENTH [1-10] OF OUR STOCK.

A break in the hose caused a little water damage to a small part of the stock which the firemen could not get covered up in time.

WITH THE FAVORABLE SETTLEMENT with the insurance company we are now offering OUR COMPLETE STOCK AT 25 TO 33 1-3% OF ACTUAL COST.

HERE IS THE YEAR'S GREATEST OPPORTUNITY to buy high grade furniture at only a bare fraction of its cost. Such an opportunity will never come again. A complete selection to choose from.

CHANDLER 1922 TOURING.

This is the model with the famous Pike's Peak motor. Those who now own these models know that they can match this car with cars costing many hundred dollars more. Smooth and quiet in operation; power for creeping thru traffic on high with instant response for quick acceleration when needed. A demonstration will delight you. Of course, the body is roomy and comfortable. Carries either 5 or 7 passengers. Every detail of this car and its extra equipment are in almost like new condition. It was used very little. The owner turned it in on a new sedan.

SPECIAL PRICE—$1,175.

JORDAN 1922 TOURING.

This model MX 5 pass. car is reputed to be one of the most popular of this brand. It has always been exceptionally well cared for. It would be hard to figure where this car could be improved from its present condition. Newly refinished in maroon with all bright parts renickeled it presents almost a new car appearance. The mechanical condition is absolutely excellent; in fact, it is almost impossible to hear the motor at normal driving speeds. We have put a low price on this car to move it quickly.

SPECIAL PRICE—$850.

CADILLAC 1921 TOURING.

A late model V 59, just refinished in dark blue and black with a hair line stripe of ivory. It has some extra equipment which, with the good condition the car is in, will make it very attractive. Of course it has been priced for immediate sale.

SPECIAL PRICE—$1,100.

HUPMOBILE 1923 TOURING.

Here is a car in beautiful condition thruout. Every detail is in exceptional condition. Newly finished in the same color arrangement that is used on new Hupmobiles. This car is in condition to go into immediate service. We believe it to be an unusual value at our low price.

SPECIAL PRICE—$775.

CHANDLER DISPATCH.

A sport model for 4 passengers. An ideal medium weight car that has very attractive lines. It has been specially refinished in a blue devil blue with ivory striping. This car has been gone over very thoroughly by our shops and is ready for a full season's work. We have priced this car where we believe it should sell on sight.

SPECIAL PRICE—$450.

DORT BUSINESS COUPE.

A 1923 closed car with very comfortable seating. Large space for luggage inside at rear of seat besides a roomy space in rear deck. This car has been newly refinished in brewster green and black. Tires are excellent. The 4 cylinder motor is extremely quiet and smooth. This is a car suitable for hard work, and one which can be run at small expense.

SPECIAL PRICE—$490.

CLEVELAND DE LUXE SEDAN.

This 1922 5-pass. car has been gone over very thoroughly in our shops. Needless to say it runs very smooth and quietly. All Cleveland cars are noted for their reliable performance power and class. This car has individual crown fenders and polished aluminum steps. The body is refinished in maroon with black top and nickel radiator. The interior is a rich tan velour. An ideal car for all purposes, exceptionally easy to drive.

SPECIAL PRICE—$925.

MAXWELL 1922 TOURING.

This is one of the models that helped earn a good reputation for Maxwell. This car has disc steel wheels and is still in original factory finish. The car has a very presentable appearance. There are some extras. It is in condition to give a full measure of hard service. Must be seen to appreciate its exceptional value at our low price.

SPECIAL PRICE—$500.

CLEVELAND SPECIAL ROADSTER.

We have carefully gone over this car, putting everything in exceptionally good condition. The equipment consists of a good glass inclosure which gives the car all the comforts of a coupe, a heater, 5 tires and 5 wire wheels, motometer and bar caps. The body is newly refinished in light Packard blue with ivory stripe. It presents an unusually fine appearance.

SPECIAL PRICE—$425.

A SPRING SONG

THE DANGER LINE

Beautiful women must fight Acid Decay at

THE DANGER LINE

if they would keep their teeth and gums sound and attractive

MOUTH acids are relentless enemies of your teeth and gums, and of your general health as well. These acids are formed by the fermenting of tiny food particles left in the mouth after eating. They attack the surface of your teeth, causing Acid Decay—the beginning of tooth destruction and diseases of the gums.

Most serious at The Danger Line

The most serious Acid Decay takes place where the hard, protective enamel of your teeth stops and the soft, bony structure begins. This is The Danger Line. It is usually exposed in most adults' mouths by receding gums.

Decay begins easily here because your teeth are not protected by enamel. It spreads rapidly, causing abscesses at the roots of the teeth. The gums are affected. Poisons from abscesses and diseased gums are distributed throughout your body and undermine your health. Loss of teeth, rheumatism, heart-disease and other serious conditions are often the direct result of Acid Decay at The Danger Line.

Squibb's Dental Cream stops it

A remarkable achievement by the Squibb Laboratories now positively and safely prevents the danger of Acid Decay. It is the production by them of an ideal dental cream made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, pleasantly flavored.

Milk of magnesia, for generations, has been prescribed by dentists as the best neutralizer of mouth acids. But in its natural form it is not satisfactory as a dentifrice. Now, in Squibb's Dental Cream it is available in a convenient form—combined with every ingredient necessary to clean and polish the teeth beautifully.

Brings out beauty

Brushing your teeth with Squibb's Dental Cream protects them from Acid Decay at The Danger Line and elsewhere. It also relieves the sensitiveness of acid-eroded or otherwise decayed teeth. It is soothing to the gums. It safely removes the mucin which often discolors the teeth, keeping them clear, bright and attractive.

No other tooth-paste combines the same essentials. You can enjoy these advantages only by using Squibb's Dental Cream, made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. If your druggist cannot supply you, mail us the coupon on the left with ten cents for a generous trial size tube.

PILGRIMS!—A strangely significant mingling of new democracies and old aristocracies took place at the recent "Pilgrims' dinner" in London, tendered to Frank B. Kellogg, the United States' new ambassador to Great Britain, and Sir Esme Howard, Great Britain's new ambassador to the United States. Consider this group at the speakers' table—Ramsay MacDonald, ex-teacher, Laborite, and prime minister of Great Britain; the Prince of Wales; Ambassador Kellogg, from Minnesota; Lord Desborough, and Sir Esme Howard.

HILDA CROSSMAN

A thrifty step. There are hundreds and thousands of those who buy and wear Kayser full-fashioned thread silk hosiery. It wears because Kayser makes it of pure, lustrous silk and pure, unweighted dyes. Weighted dyes rot and kill fine silk, while pure dyes add lustre and life to the wear.

$1.65 PER PAIR AND UP

With Marvel Stripe, which adds wear by preventing garter runs; and SlipperHeel, which adds grace and charm to the ankle—$2.00 per pair and up—all weights—all colors.

You choose fine toilet soap for your hands ~

Yet in the dishpan they are exposed to kitchen soap an hour and a half every day

HOW many times a day do you wash your hands—ten—fifteen? Each time it takes you two or three seconds—and every time you wash your hands you use the mild toilet soap you like the best.

Then, when you do dishes what happens? You take your bar of kitchen soap—and in its harsh, drying suds you keep your hands an hour and a half every day! Much longer than you spend washing them with your fine toilet soap. Of course your hands get rough and red—show telltale signs of the dishpan.

Choose your dishwashing soap with the same care that you select your toilet soap and your hands instantly respond.

Use Lux for washing dishes. Lux won't dry out the important oils of your hands—oils that keep your skin smooth and supple. These pure flakes are as easy on your hands as fine toilet soap.

4 teaspoonfuls a day

Just toss a single teaspoonful of Lux into your dishpan. Turn on the hot water.

One teaspoonful for lunch or breakfast dishes—maybe two for the dinner dishes. At most only four teaspoonfuls a day!

Keep the big new package on your kitchen sink—then you won't have to bring the regular size Lux from the bathroom. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Rid your hands of that dishpan look

Polishing the Silver Spoon

SOME people are all for beauty unadorned. They forget that even silver spoons you're born with need polishing. Styles in beauty have changed, you see. There's more emphasis on good grooming nowadays. And so, across the dressing table questions arise. About the choice of powder, the use of rouge. About different lightings, different costumes.

All this has been covered delightfully in the little book, What Every Woman Does NOT Know, written by one of America's sanest beauty authorities. This book is free to every purchaser of Bourjois MANON LESCAUT* Face Powder. You can't fail to find it a handy addition to your dressing table.

Most druggists sell MANON LESCAUT. When you buy it, ask for a copy of What Every Woman Does NOT Know. If your druggist does not have MANON LESCAUT, ask him to order it. If you are not within range of a dealer's services, mail the coupon to us with $1.50 in check or money order. We will send you a full-size package of MANON LESCAUT and a copy of What Every Woman Does NOT Know.

THE Richardson Multicrome in Opal shown on the Colonial House designed for House Beautiful magazine by Henry Atherton Frost and Eleanor Raymond of Cambridge, Mass.

Newly created by Richardson

—an opal roof of exclusive beauty from blended colors in slate

An opal roof of a beauty hitherto unknown has now been created by Richardson.

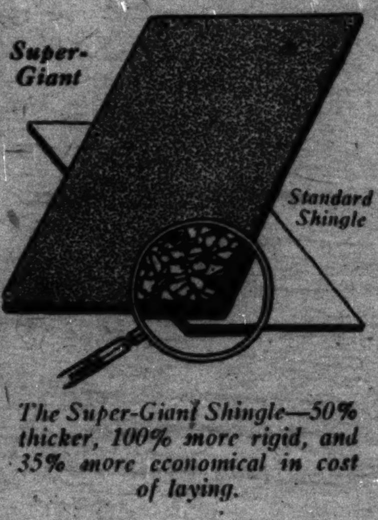
This roof is built from the new Richardson opal shingles, no two of which are alike. On each are blended the most beautiful Richardson colors in slate—weathered brown and jade green.

When these shingles are applied to the roof just as they come from the bundle, the result is a delicately mottled coloring like the play of light on a rippled mountain lake.

Both architects and home owners who have seen this effect agree that it is the most distinctive of the color combinations in Richardson Multicrome Roofs.

The Richardson Multicrome Roof

In addition to opal, the Multicrome Roof is laid in other pleasing color effects. The rare weathered brown, an exclusive Richardson color in slate, has proved especially popular when applied in combination with other Richardson shingles of jade green, tile red, or black pearl. In fact, there is a Multicrome Roof to harmonize with every color scheme, and to please every taste.



The Super-Giant Shingle—50% thicker, 100% more rigid, and 35% more economical in cost of laying.

The new colors, opal and weathered brown, are used only on the Richardson Super-Giant Shingle—famous for its beauty and economy.

With its inner foundation of Richardson felt, for fifty years recognized as the best; coated and saturated with Viskalt, the vacuum-processed waterproofing, 99.8% pure bitumen, the Super-Giant assures lasting beauty for your roof.

Prove the facts yourself

Go to your nearest dealer in lumber, hardware or building material, or to your contractor, and ask to see the color combinations in Richardson Multicrome Roofs. Also ask to see the Super-Giant shingle in weathered brown and opal. Note the rare color and larger size. Then compare it with other shingles—the difference will convince you.

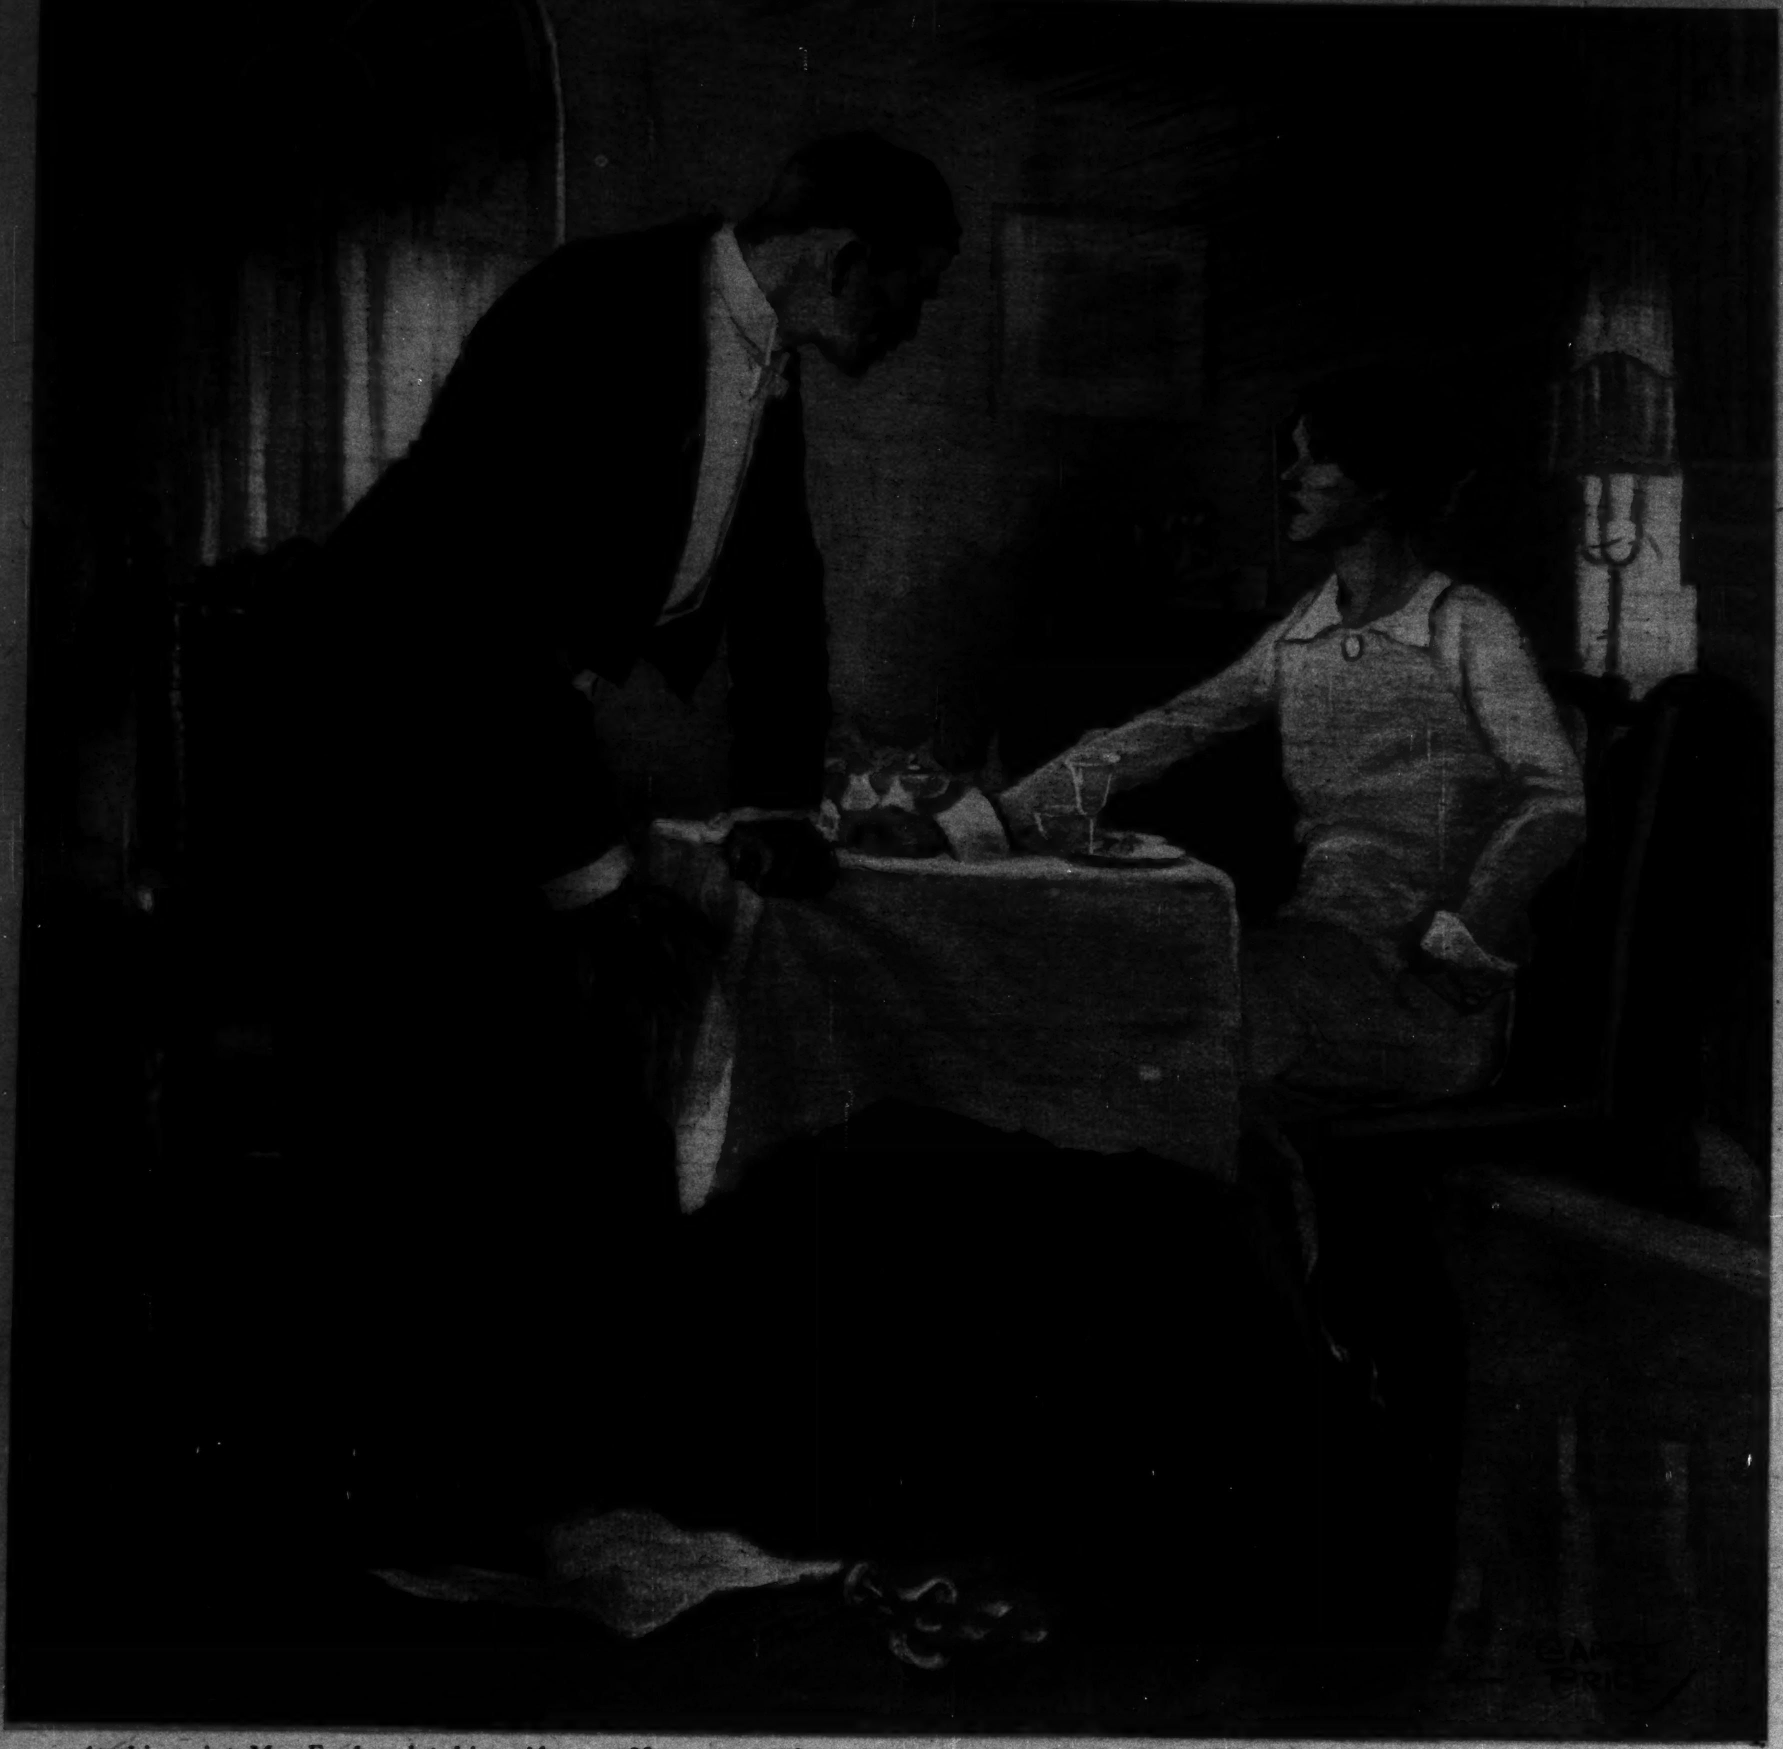
Chance and the Millionaire

By ARNOLD BENNETT



At this point Mr. Furber let himself go. Hammer and tongs were personified with astounding vigor in the little sitting room.

A New Tale of the Five Towns—How Ralph Furber, Parvenu, Turned Twice Away from Fickle Fortune; and How, Twice, the Jade Came Back and Smiled

BEFORE the war, before aerial mails, before emperors had been cast from their thrones, before gold had been superseded by paper, before empty dwelling houses had come to be as rare and precious as pearls, there was a row of sixty-one new small reddish houses on the east side of the municipal park of Bursley in the Five Towns.

Exteriorly they were all alike, except that thirty of them had the bay window to the left of the front door, while thirty-one had the bay window to the right of the front door. The street was not grand enough to look directly on the park, but the houses had long if narrow gardens at the back, with a fair open prospect of the colliery strewn moors which inclose the Five Towns. Interiorly many of the houses were alike, especially in temperament, but some were different; and the most different of all and the most individual, the most independent, the most efficient, the most successful, was number 41, inhabited by the Furber family.

Dinah, the elder daughter, aged twenty-eight, fair, buxom, placid, plain, was the housekeeper. She got up first, went to bed last, and received no salary; when she wanted a little money for clothes—she seldom wanted money for anything else—she had to ask for it, as for a favor. Mary, the younger daughter, aged twenty-five, fair, golden, slim, pretty, nervous, critical, too much aware of the frailties of human nature and the risks of being alive, was a dressmaker's assistant, and earned twice what she spent. Maidie, the cousin (really a second cousin), aged twenty-two, red haired, freckled, pretty, fiery, pugnacious, snub nosed, was a mistress in the board school at Moorthorne; she earned more than Mary and saved less; still, she saved.

Last of the young generation came Ralph, twenty-four, of medium height, stocky in figure, with brown hair and a stiff brown mustache. He was extremely uncouth, rather nervous, untidy, and amazingly rude. He lived in the house like a wild animal, quarreled fiercely with Cousin Maidie, and quarreled even with Dinah, who nevertheless was of a notably pacific disposition; also he had dark, suppressed feuds with his father; but he never quarreled with querulous Mary, though she made no attempt at all to placate him. Ralph was employed by the Five Towns Engineering Company, Limited, which manufactured machinery for th earthenware works of nearly the whole world and for many collieries. It was known and admitted that he was marvelous at machinery, and people said that he was, further, a considerable organizer and that already he had performed various beneficial wonders for the F. T. E. C. He existed solely for machinery, and was entitled to be called quite mad. He used the front room as a drawing office, and in such manner that the girls could not use it as a parlor without much preliminary straightening up and grave family complications.

And he had bought a small decayed steam engine and renewed its youth and erected it in a shanty indescribably constructed of odds and ends of wood, zinc, and iron in the garden. This engine actuated a lathe and other contrivances. When steaming it coughed a sort of hacking cough; and the neighbors complained of it and even invoked the power of the borough surveyor against it. Then you should have seen how a family apparently disunited can be united, welded, and riveted together! The family defended Ralph's steam engine, which in private the girls detested, with ruthless ferocity. Neighbors for forty yards on either side were alienated magnificently forever. The appeal to the borough surveyor failed. The family spat out triumph on the resentful defeated. The victorious engine continued to cough.

Over all the young generation stood the widowed Mr. Furber: a workman of the old Five Towns school, with a short iron filings beard and no mustache; a trade unionist but a conservative, despising all nonsense about democracy. He was senior warehouseman in an earthenware manufactory at Hanbridge, whither he went every morning by workmen's train from the station by the park. His uniform at work was shirt sleeves and a flowing white apron, and from an artisan's scorn of the jacket (apparel of clerks and other futile persons) he preferred to be in shirt sleeves even at home. Mr. Furber was a broad minded man. He visited church and chapel impartially, studying the variations of religious doctrine with a detached mind. He kept a first rate whippet and sometimes did a bit of coursing. But his chief delight was football, on which subject he was omniscient. He read the accounts of the matches every Sunday morning in The Sunday Chronicle and the accounts of the same matches every Monday morning in The Athletic News. Politics and crime he got from the evening Staffordshire Signal.

Father and son slept in the front bedroom. Dinah and Mary slept in the back bedroom. Maidie slept in the cellule (styled a bedroom) over the scullery.

Such was the industrious, prosperous, downright, stern, independent, metallic island home of the Furbers on the park mound above Bursley.

NOW, on a hot summer Saturday afternoon there was an astonishing knock at the front door of No. 41. Mr. Furber, for whom summer meant boredom through the absence of football, was reclining on his bed in meditation. Dinah was cleaning the kitchen. Maidie was in her room mending a glove. Mary was afield with a young man, for despite her hypercritical attitude toward life she had admirers to choose from—and she chose. Dinah opened the door, and when she opened it she blushed because the male visitor was obviously a swell and because her hair was in irons.

"Good afternoon," said the visitor. "Can I see Mr. Ralph Furber?" He had a London accent, which real Five Towners regard as affected and absurd, but which intimidates them. He did not say "Rafe"; he said "Ralf."

"I think he's in the engine shed," said Dinah, all of a flutter, wondering: "What's afoot with our Rafe?" She added: "If you'll step through."

The visitor stepped through. The whippet in his kennel growled.

"Ralph, you're wanted," cried Dinah, and left the visitor alone to face Ralph and the whippet.

In a few seconds both Maidie and Mr. Furber were acquainted with the remarkable and disturbing event. Maidie and Dinah were peeping out of Maidie's window. Mr. Furber was too proud and aloof to go downstairs; but he leaned on one elbow with ears cocked. The whippet had had a clout on the head from Ralph.

Fancy a swell calling to see Ralph! Ralph's importance was increased tenfold in an instant. The household, richly confirmed in its conviction of Ralph's unprecedented faculties, waited spellbound for the sequel of the visit.

And it indeed had to wait. It was still waiting at supper time, eight-thirty. The impressive visitor had stayed nearly an hour, and had then stepped through again, back to the front door, under Ralph's own guidance; whereupon Ralph had returned to the engine shed and been seen no more.

Supper took place in the clean and tidy kitchen, at the bare white deal table, under a gas jet. It began punctually, because both Ralph and his father were punctual persons with imperious appetites. They ate cold sausage and cheese and much bread, and drank a glass of beer apiece. The girls were content with nibbles of cheese and bread, and drank water, or milk, or milk and water. Mr. Furber and Ralph were in shirt sleeves. Dinah wore her housewife's apron. Maidie, as became a schoolmistress, had no apron. Mary, freshly arrived from the transaction abroad of affairs of the heart, alone was dressed up. Ordinarily Mary would have been in a brooding, withdrawn state of mind; but she was by far the most inquisitive member of the family, and her curiosity had now been stimulated almost to exasperation by the murmured news of Ralph's visitor.

However, she did not speak. Nobody spoke. It was not the Furber habit to converse at meals. Meals were for eating, not chatter. Unlike overcivilized and decadent people, the Furber family felt no awkwardness in silence at table; indeed, it scorned mere small talk as being insincere and affected politeness. Dinah, though she would gabble nineteen to the dozen in private with other girls, rarely said a word at meals. Mr. Furber was uniformly taciturn. And the most taciturn of all was Ralph, whom nothing but the need of something that he could not get himself, or the desire to carry on an altercation, could rouse into speech. None, not even Mary, dared cross-examine Ralph; being made of dynamite, he might have exploded and blown the entire house to bits.

But something was bound to happen that evening. It happened. Maidie, the red haired, failed first in self-control.

"Of course, we must be thankful if he leaves us even a crust now—with his grand friends and all!" she snorted, flushing and lifting her snub nose, as Ralph helped himself to two lumps of cheese when there were only two lumps on the dish.

It was as if she had put a match to a time fuse; all waited for the bang. But no bang followed. Ralph—sleeves rolled up, hastily washed face, black finger nails, rough hair—Ralph started and glowered, then checked himself. For once in his life he was genuinely anxious to communicate facts to his fellow creatures, and the opportunity had arrived.

"I never saw th' fellow before," he said with pride. "But his scheme is to set me up in business. There's a works for sale at Longshaw. He's ready to buy it if I'll take it on, and he'll find twenty thousand capital besides. And now ye know." He was careful not to look at his father.

"Well, I never!" gasped Mary.

"And what did ye say?" Maidie asked challengingly, dangerously.

"I said, 'Who're ye codding of, mister?' That's what I said. But he wasn't codding. He's going back to London tonight, and he'll come again next Saturday for my answer. That's how they do it, them folk! And so now ye know."

"And should you be the boss of a great big works?" Maidie demanded, with calculated incredulity.

"Yes, miss. I should be the boss."

With that Ralph suddenly rose, pushed his Windsor chair gratingly across the tiled floor, and passed into the front room. He was too excited and triumphant to remain another moment with the family. He could not bear the emotional tension of his triumph. The kitchen was scared by the unbelievable magnitude of the event. The meal abruptly ended. No one could eat any more.

"What about it, father?" Dinah asked mildly.

Mr. Furber finished his beer, got up, and went to bed, formidably mute.

THE girls retired into the scullery, out of earshot of Ralph, and chattered in whispers. They knew naught except what Ralph had told them, and yet they managed quite easily to find subject matter for more than an hour's glib, swift, dramatic discussion of the terrific situation.

When Ralph, last of all, went to bed, leaving the ground floor to dark night and the whippet (who slept in the scullery unless under correction for sins) he found that his father had not put the candle out. The ageing man, with heavy lower lip protruding, lay in wait for the son. He brushed his beard from the back of it upwards into the air and said:

"What didst say to that there gentleman as called?"

"Nothing," answered Ralph sullenly, flinging off his boots with noise. "I said as I should speak to you about it."

"And what need to speak to yer feyther about it? Haven't ye got th' sense to settle it for yersen? What dost want to go into business for? Ye're a workman and the son of a workman. I might ha' gone into business on me own. Many an offer I've had. Lots wanted to be partners wi' me. But would I? I've seen too many good workmen ruined by a bit o' capital. They think they're going to turn th' town upside down, paying wages and keeping books and fitting 'emselves out i' jackets and neckties, and going into th' saloon bar 'stead o' th' bar parlor. And in six months there's writs out against 'em. And then can they go back to an honest job? They canna, and they dunna, neither. Ye've got a good job at Fyden's. (Fyden's was the old name of the F. T. E. C. before it became limited and grand.) Ye mayn't think it, but I can see ye earning ten pun a week at Fyden's afore ye're thirty. Ten pun a week. And they'll give ye something for yer patents, too—they'll give ye a share. And no risk and no nonsense! And ye want to ask yer feyther whether we ought to chuck up a ten pun a week job for this skylarking wi' somebody ye've never heard of,—I wonder who's been stuffing him up with a tale about you, my lad."

The son listened grimly as he undressed with violent movements and draggings and pullings of serviceable raiment. The harangue continued. It was the dour, obstinate expression of dying ideals, of the artisan's deep and narrow pride and prejudice, of a conviction that labor had a prestige surpassing that of capital. And it had the authority of Mr. Furber's steady and successful life behind it, as well as the authority of a father whose glance for thirty years had been sufficient to put his household in a tremble.

Ralph's suddenly swollen pride was pricked. He saw that he was nobody after all—or almost nobody. The great offer of the afternoon might be marvelous, but it was silly—it was a flighty offer, the offer of a flippertigibbet in fine clothes. And also Ralph was secretly afraid of the fearful responsibilities which would attend on acceptance of the offer. And the habit of obedience to the respectable tyrant of the house was strong in him. Lastly, he began to feel extremely young and diffident. And he thought joyously what a "suck in" it would be for those chattering, hysterical girls when he told them that he should decline the offer. Those girls were no better than birds of the air. He would tell them curtly, savagely. He would take the starch out of them with six words.

"Well," he said at length sharply to his father, his nose in the pillow, "I don't know what ye're making all this to-do about. I'm not for taking it on, and I never was for taking it on. But I suppose I can mention it without having me head snapped off!"

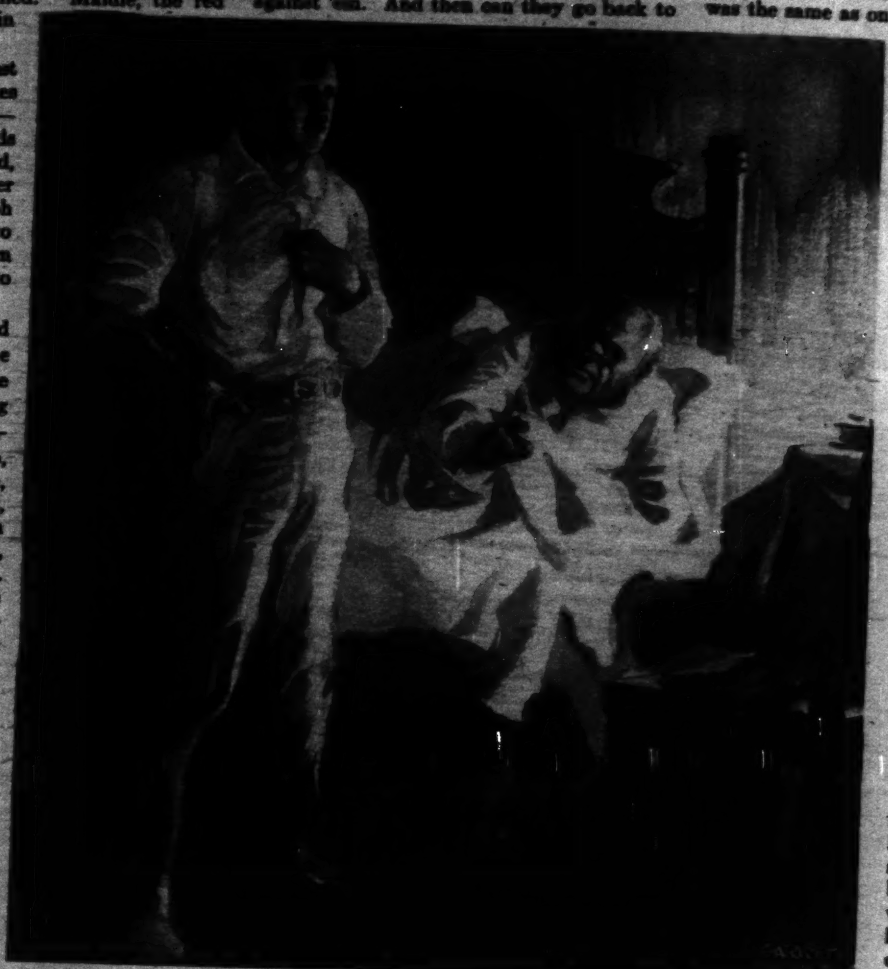
A daring speech! Also a lie! For he had certainly intended to accept the offer. He had had his head snapped off for far less in the past. But even Mr. Furber would think twice before attempting to snap off the head of a personage important enough to scorn such a dazzling offer as Ralph was about to scorn.

The next Saturday afternoon everything was the same as on the first Saturday. The warm, bright weather was the same. Ralph was working in his garden shop; though expecting a swell, he had from pride made no change in his habits or dress; swells, he decided, must take him as they found him; moreover, he was to treat the swell curtly indeed; he had a startler for the swell, who assuredly was not anticipating a refusal. Dinah was in her kitchen, but this time her hair was not in irons. Mary was afield in the land of tender sentiment. Maidie was in her bedroom mending not gloves but stockings. Mr. Furber was lying on his bed; he had come home an hour later than usual and had eaten no dinner.

The moment approached for the arrival of the swell. Dinah, to pass the time, had left her kitchen to see whether Mr. Furber was all right. It was as though the house itself awaited a crisis.

During the week not one word had been said by Ralph or Mr. Furber to any of the girls about the mighty twenty thousand pound offer. Nevertheless the girls knew that Mr. Furber had ordained its refusal and that Ralph would obey, and that nothing could possibly change his resolution, and that still he hated to give a refusal, and despised himself. The girls were profoundly disappointed. Maidie and Ralph had had a frightful quarrel because in quite another matter she had accused him of being a miserable coward—and he well knew to what she in her merciless feminine subtlety was referring. Those two had not spoken to each other for three days and were definitely in a state of exacerbated mutual sulks.

Ralph was all the more annoyed, therefore, when from his vibrating retreat in the garden he saw that Maidie and not Dinah was showing the swell through the back door; the girl must have taken Dinah's place simply from a mischievous desire to quiz the swell. A few seconds later—and before the stranger had reached the engine shed—



"What dost want to go into business for? Ye're a workman and the son of a workman. I've seen too many/good workmen ruined by a bit o' capital."

Ralph saw the back door open again and Maidie reappear.

"Rafe!"

He scowled.

"What is it?"

"I want you," cried Maidie in an imperious tone.

He would have liked to kill her, but the presence of the stranger prevented. He strode up the long garden, nodding brusquely to the astonished visitor and passing him without a word.

"What is it, you vixen?"

"Your father's just died, in his sleep."

He saw Dinah weeping in the passage behind Maidie.

"Wait a minute," said Ralph, and, turning, shouted to the swell:

"Hi!"

And then in a lower tone as they met: "Summat's happened in th' house. I can't stop to talk to ye now. But I'll take your offer. I'm ready to take it on—that is, if we can come to a proper arrangement."

Mr. Furber had been feeling queer for two days. He was late for dinner because he had been to see his club doctor. But he had confided in nobody at home.

Dinah and Maidie and Ralph stood in the bedroom together. Maidie was about to run for a useless doctor.

"What will Mary say when she comes home?" moaned Dinah, for Mary was passionately fond of her grim and taciturn parent, and she was highly sensitive; to see his body there on the bed might kill her. They were all three deeply shaken with emotion, and Ralph not least. But in his agitated heart Ralph could distinctly hear himself muttering to himself: "A near thing, that! A near thing, that. A very near thing."

MR. RALPH FURBER sat in his study on a Saturday afternoon reading a short letter. The study was a vast apartment, larger than the whole of No. 41 where his father had died, and it was furnished in mahogany and gilt and damask. Emperors had been cast from their throne; yet Ralph looked little older. He looked fiercer, and jollier.

The letter ran:

"Dear Ralph: We were all extremely disappointed that you did not come down for Mary's wedding after all, and I think you ought to be downright ashamed of yourself. Yours, Maidie."

Mr. Furber frowned and glanced out at the gardens which surrounded his mansion and the park which surrounded the gardens. She had a nerve, that young woman had! He was not accustomed to being written to in such a manner. He was acustomed to flattery and to his own way. He was an exceedingly wealthy person. He had made himself rich, and he had made others rich, too. He had not fought in the war, because the war cabinet would not let him fight; the war cabinet had other work for him to do, and the work was of such a nature that he could not help making money out of it, and a lot of money. As an inventor and as an organizer he had had no superior, and he had developed a talent for most profitably investing the money which the government compelled him to acquire. He was popularly classed a "profiteer," but he laughed at the epithet, knowing it to be unjust. Moreover, so far as he was concerned, people might call him what they liked—he did not care. He knew the reality of power and the value of his brain. He cared for nobody and nothing—except domination and the wonders of his brain.

Not quite true. He cared for the letter; the letter had pierced him like a dagger between two ribs. He ripped the letter to pieces and employed language unworthy of a gentleman.

A girl was standing near him with a notebook in her hand—one of his secretaries—but he behaved as though she did not exist.

"Anybody came yet?"

"Lady Eleanor Raysse and Sir Thomas Wrighton, sir."

These were the advance guard of his week end party; he had parties every week end. His invitations were seldom refused; and his curious deportment was cheerfully accepted by all because he was he.

"Tell that fellow Peter I shall want him to play squash rackets with me in half an hour." Peter was a professional in various games and attended to the athletic department at Wisden, and sometimes drove a car or groomed a horse.

"Yes, sir."

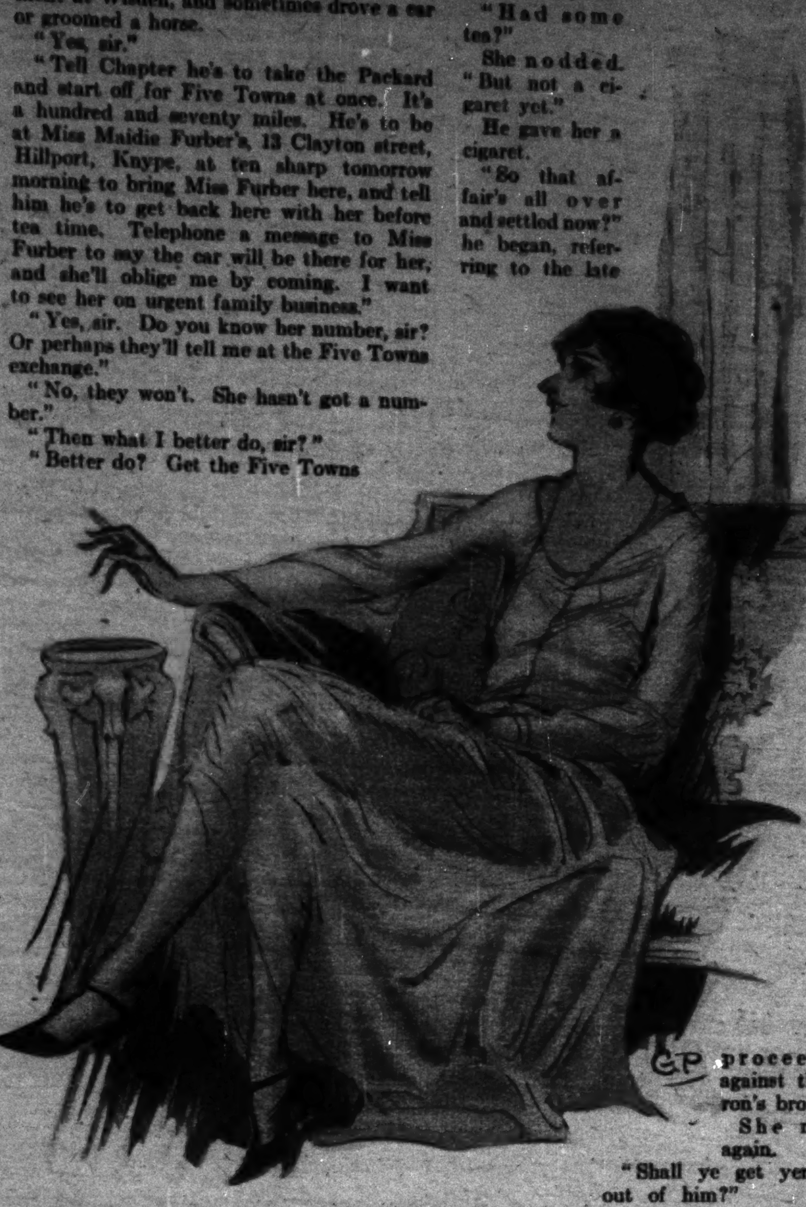
"Tell Chapter he's to take the Packard and start off for Five Towns at once. It's a hundred and seventy miles. He's to be at Miss Maidie Furber's, 13 Clayton street, Hillport, Knype, at ten sharp tomorrow morning to bring Miss Furber here, and tell him he's to get back here with her before tea time. Telephone a message to Miss Furber to say the car will be there for her, and she'll oblige me by coming. I want to see her on urgent family business."

"Yes, sir. Do you know her number, sir? Or perhaps they'll tell me at the Five Towns exchange."

"No, they won't. She hasn't got a number."

"Then what I better do, sir?"

"Better do? Get the Five Towns hotel. Get Old Dolci. Tell him it's me. and ask him to send a message over to Hillport instantly. Telegram wouldn't be certain to be delivered tonight. He'll do it. Compose the message and make him write it down at the phone."



Lady Eleanor was young, beautiful, and beautifully dressed.

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Furber never wrote anything himself, and rarely even signed anything. He hated composing, because he knew he did it badly and was apt to make a fool of himself thereby.

Lady Eleanor wandered into the room, although the room was his den. Mr. Furber permitted, even encouraged, his week end guests thus freely to wander about, on the understanding that they did not expect sustained attention until dinner. He had no objection to some of them listening—or pretending not to listen—while he transacted business.

"Come back as soon as you've seen to that car," he said to the secretary as she left the room.

LADY ELEANOR was young, beautiful. and beautifully dressed. She indeed had style, pedigree. She was the daughter of an earl, and she had married the brother of a baron. It was impossible that any woman should be as innocent as Lady Eleanor looked, and Lady Eleanor was not. She had seen life. She had in fact had to get rid of the baron's brother. She was now free again. Ralph, with his insight into human nature—of which he was secretly proud—knew that she would not be free for long. He admired her. She was so slim, so lithe, so elegant, so expensive. She had such a quiet, tranquillizing voice, and such a way of looking at a man—trustful, reassuring, appreciative of man's strength. It was after all rather wonderful to Ralph that such a jewel of a girl, who knew familiarly the whole of the great world, should be on familiar terms with him. Ralph, the brother of Dinah, who had married a jobbing builder, and of Mary, who had married a Prudential insurance agent, and whose father used to eat in his shirt sleeves in a house of which the rent was eight shillings a week! He took her soft hand somewhat violently, and she yielded it touchingly to his violence.

"Had some tea?"

She nodded.

"But not a cigaret yet."

He gave her a cigaret.

"So that affair's all over and settled now?" he began, referring to the late proceedings against the baron's brother.

She nodded again.

"Shall ye get yer costs out of him?"

"Heaven knows!" she exclaimed, with a sigh and a smile. "I hear he's off to Central Africa."

They sat down side by side on the blue sofa in the immense bow window.

"O, how lovely the garden is!" she murmured, turning her head. "It's so lovely it makes me want to cry. But I dare say that's only because I'm so exhausted after this affair." She laughed. What a voice! What a gentle laugh! You could scarcely hear it.

The secretary soon afterwards returned into the room. Mr. Ralph Furber did not move from the sofa. He continued to talk in a playful, rough tone to Lady Eleanor, and then suddenly he faced the standing, respectful secretary with her notebook and began curtly and rapidly to give her a long series of varied instructions, which she scribbled down, about the electric light installation, the purchase of treasury bills, his new suits, a hammock, champagne, a works dispute at Newcastle, etc., etc. He poured the orders out of his mind in a continuous stream.

"And tell St. John," he finished—St. John was his principal secretary—"tell Mr. St. John to draft that letter about the Charing Cross Echo. He's got the heads of it. I'll see it on Sunday morning. Tell him the figure's twenty-one thousand. Tell him to make it final, and I'll give 'em until Tuesday to decide."

The secretary departed once more, fully laden.

Lady Eleanor said:

"You know you'll never buy the Echo for twenty-one thousand. It's the oldest established evening paper in London, and Steinheil won't take less than twenty-six thousand. He might take twenty-five, but I don't think so. It's cheap at twenty-six."

"Cheap, is it? I know it's losing close on thirty thousand a year. And I'm to pay twenty-five thousand for the privilege of losing four hundred a week!"

"But you'd soon turn it into a paying concern. Besides, you want a daily! Owning a paper would round you off. I quite see that. You wouldn't get one that was paying its way for a quarter of a million. Everybody says it's dirt cheap."

Ralph seized Lady Eleanor's hand and looked her in the face loweringly.

"Listen to me, Lady Eleanor," he said, with a mixture of grimness, cynicism, and benevolence. "You're going to get a commission out of Steinheil if that paper is sold to me for more than twenty-one thousand."

"Why do you say such a thing?"

"Because it just came into my head, that's all. I shouldn't be surprised if he's offered you half of everything over twenty-one thousand. It's quite all right. Business is business." He laughed indulgently, as at a rather mediocre joke.

A deep blush spread over Lady Eleanor's cheeks and down to her neck and throat.

Ralph jumped to his feet.

"Then I guessed right," he exclaimed savagely, and then burst into a roar of laughter. "Listen here. I won't give Steinheil more than twenty-one. But I'll make you a present of two and a half thousand—for your trouble."

"You're terrible. You're the most terrible man in the world. I have to live. You know how extravagant I am. I can't help it, can I?" Lady Eleanor wept.

There was an irruption of guests into the room, headed by Sir Thomas. Lady Eleanor sprang from the sofa, threw her cigaret into a bowl, and rushed pell mell through the open French window into the garden. She was holding her hands to her face, and between her hands cataracts of laughter seemed to escape. But only Ralph knew that it was hysterical laughter.

"What's the fun, Rafy?" Sir Thomas demanded gaily.

"Go and change, Tommy," said Mr. Furber, "and I'll take you on at squash rackets for a fiver."

"BUT I thought you were ill!"

This exclamation came from Maidie as she stepped out of the Packard on the following afternoon, Sunday. The whole of the week end party was trailing into the house for tea, after various games and distractions. And the week end party seemed to Maidie to be alarmingly distinguished, smart, fashionable, Londony, and sure of itself. The women thereof intimidated her. Lady Eleanor, shining in white, instantly aroused in her an irrational, un-Christian, acute antipathy. The week end party thought that Maidie must be some secretarial messenger arriving with important news bearing on the host's private affairs, and it passed on through the inner and the outer halls into the big drawing room.

"Why did you think I was ill?" asked Ralph, ignoring completely all his other guests.

"Well, I couldn't think why else ye should send for me. I asked the chauffeur, but he didn't seem to know much about you. I certainly shouldn't have come if I hadn't thought you were ill."

"I wanted to see ye."

"O, my!" she murmured involuntarily, gazing at the formidable double staircase which rose grandly, bifurcating, out of the main hall. She was outfaced by the splendor, and the result of her fright was that she became brusque, hostile, and hedgehog-like. Ralph Furber reflected quickly.

"Which room is Miss Furber in?" he questioned the attendant butler.

"The Regency room, sir."

"Find Miss Hummel and ask her to go up there at once."

"Very good, sir."

Miss Hummel was the factotum secretary who took notes and whose entire existence was devoted to the great autocrat. He had decided that Miss Hummel and Maidie stood a chance of "getting on" together.

"Am I supposed to sleep here?" asked Maidie, in the glittering Regency bedroom to which Ralph had personally conducted her. She had never before had the opportunity of witnessing Ralph's way of life. She knew he was a millionaire, but she had not imagined the state of being a millionaire. She had the sensation of having stepped somehow into the unreal pages of a novel.

"But who were all those people downstairs?"

"O, just a job lot here for the week end."

"But who?"

He mentioned some names.

"Well, I'm not going to have my tea with them folk, and so you needn't think it, Ralph Furber!"

"All right, silly! All right!" he agreed testily.

In spite of his unique and disconcerting manners to friends, Ralph thought he had cast off most of his old Five Towns peculiarities. Perhaps he had. But in the presence of Maidie they all seemed to come back again. There she sat the symbol of the Five Towns, with her red hair, her freckled face, her snub nose, and her no-nonsense

The Great Foe of all teeth is that film

HERE is something all should know and that children should be taught.

Teeth are coated with a film—that viscous film you feel. It clings tenaciously, and no ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

That film is the teeth's great enemy, the cause of most tooth troubles. It soon becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. Then teeth become clouded and are constantly unclean.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles, local and internal.

Ways to combat it

Tooth troubles were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. So dental science sought for film combatants. After long research, two were found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods by many careful tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere advise this method. Now millions of careful people of some 50 nations employ it every day.

Also acidity effects

Certain people, it was found, are notably immune to tooth troubles. The reason was traced to the eating of much acid fruit. So Pepsodent embodies this principle of mild acidity.

Every use multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined results are bringing millions a new dental era.

This test will tell

Pepsodent proves itself, and quickly. Send the coupon for a ten-day tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will know in a week why everyone should use this method daily. Then tell the facts to those you teach. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

attitude. Dowdy, constrained, nervous, utterly provincial, she was yet sturdy enough in her mind to repudiate all "them folk" downstairs. So much so that Ralph actually felt somewhat ashamed of knowing them and having them in his house. He felt apologetic even for the house itself. He felt that in putting on grandeur he had somehow betrayed the rugged ideals of the Five Towns.

And she had only come because she had thought he was ill! The goods! The stuff! That was what she was, the vixen! Being a realist, he admitted to himself that if he persuaded her to go to the drawing room and be introduced to his job lot, he should be ashamed of her—do what he would. And yet he admired the girl, confound her! Miss Hummel appeared, and, worried, he left the two young women to make acquaintance.

"Mr. Furber's compliments, and he hopes you'll begin dinner without him, as he has just had an urgent message from town which must be attended to immediately." Thus the butler to the assembled drawing room when the dinner gong had sounded.

And upstairs, in a little sitting room which had somehow got mislaid among the bedrooms, Maidie and Miss Hummel were hovering expectantly round a table laid for two when Ralph, whom they were certainly not expecting, seemed to pounce tigerishly upon them, and at a hardly perceptible sign from him Miss Hummel departed, in search of another dinner elsewhere in the house.

"I'm going to eat up here with you," said Ralph.

"But what about the people downstairs?"

"Hang 'em! I've got to talk to you."

"D'ye always have dinner at this time?"

"Yes. Usual time."

"Ye know very well it isn't. And do ye always put on evening dress?"

"Well, it's evening, isn't it?"

"I don't think much of yer laundry. I could get up a starched shirt better than that myself."

"Ye think ye could?"

He winked as he examined her anew. It seemed to him that she positively had not changed. The same slimness, the same fresh, if freckled complexion, the same bright, girlish, bold, fighting, and yet innocent glance. Difficult to believe she was past thirty. He himself had changed. He was thicker, and looked more than his age. How different she was from the women downstairs! He thought, in his instinctive partiality for the place of his origin:

"There's something in her that the others haven't got."

Before the parlor maid who served them could bring the finger bowls he abruptly told her to go, partly because he feared Maidie might silently and witheringly sneer at the notion of him, Ralph Furber, employing finger bowls. He thought of the old suppers in the parlor of the cottage by the municipal park.

"SO ye think I ought to be 'downright ashamed' o' myself," said Ralph, quoting suddenly from her letter to him.

"Mary was most frightfully hurt, and shamed, too. As if you despised her. Too grand, now, to come to your own sister's wedding! And crying off at the last moment, too!" Maidie's voice was hard, and the glint of her eyes was hard. None of the ladies downstairs would have dared to stand up to him as Maidie was doing. Not one! They all, whatever their lineage, kotowed to him when it came to the point. He saw that Maidie would need handling.

"Listen here," he said, subduing his natural harshness of tone. "I sent for ye because I was anxious for ye not to think wrong about me. I——"

"Yes," she interrupted him, in quite her old manner, "that's just like ye, that is. You think every one's at your beck and call, you do. You always did. And I'm brought all the way down here to be put in my place and made to feel small. You're a snob, and you know it, but you want to make us believe you aren't. Well, you can't do it."

Mr. Furber achieved marvels of self-control.

"Listen here." His voice sank nearly to a murmur. "I'm telling ye I really couldn't come. I've got important interests. Very important. I sh'd doubt if you realise how important——"

"I don't care what your 'interests' are. You haven't got any interests as important as Mary's wedding was to Mary. She expected to be married ten years ago, and she ought to have been. Run after as she was! And at last it comes off, and you were to give her away and all. And you threw her over and she has to be given away by that stupid old Ezra." Ezra was Dinah's husband. "And it was a scandalous shame. You're the head of the family still, even if you do have lords and ladies and things at your precious week end parties. I suppose you'll say you gave Mary a thousand pounds for a wedding present. If I'd been her I'd have ripped the check in half and sent it back to you in an unstamped envelope. That I would! You're a disgusting snob. And you think everybody's afraid of you and you can do what you like and we shall all lick your boots. Not a bit of it, my lad! And I'll thank you to send me to the station early tomorrow, as I'm going back by train, if you please. You aren't the only independent person in the world."

At this point Mr. Furber picked up his glass and dashed it on to the carpet, water and all. He let himself go. Hammer and tongs were personified with astounding vigor in the little sitting room. A report of the dialogue between the hammer and the tongs would not be edifying, but it constituted a great scene in the finest traditions of the Five Towns. It was interfered with by the sound of the gramophone from the hall. A fox trot. The week end party was solacing itself for the absence of the host in a dance. Silence fell between the second cousins. Then Mr. Furber left the room. Leaning over the rail of the corridor, he saw the heads of the dancers below. Lady Eleanor ran up to him and leaned over by his side.

"I know you hate me," she said in a low, poignant tone, while maintaining a vague smile for the benefit of the upward public gaze. "I know you've done with me. But if you only knew how I——"

"I don't hate yer," he answered. "I admire you for that commission idea. Business is business. Don't forget I'm a business man myself. Why shouldn't you have made a bit out of the sale of this paper? You shall. Go downstairs again now."

"But I must talk to you tonight. I must explain myself. You must let me defend myself. Meet me in the kiosk at eleven. I'll slip out. I shall expect you."

She glided down the stairs. He watched her. She was indeed highly ornamental. What an ornament for a rich man's home! How intensely feminine!

"She's got me," he reflected. "She was going to make a commission out of me. And I've forgiven her, and she's got me. Kiosk, eh!"

It was a relief to him to admit to himself that he was at last caught.

"Anyhow, she adores me."

His ears caught a strange sound. It came along the corridor as from a distance. It reminded him of the distant gigantic breathing of the great blast furnaces over at Cauldron in the Five Towns. Only it was very faint. He went towards it. It came from the little sitting room. It was Maidie sobbing with singular regularity. Her auburn head lay on the table and her arms round it, amid the débris of the meal. He shut the door and approached the auburn head anxiously, hoping that he alone had heard the sound. "This is the second woman I've reduced to tears today," he thought grimly. He bent over Maidie. She ceased to cry. Her eyes glistened wet.

"Here, listen here!" he said. "I was wrong not to go to the dashed wedding. But you've been saying a lot of wicked things. And ye know ye have. Very unjust. But ye can't control yerself. Never could. And why aren't you married, I should like to know! Fellows are afraid of you. But I'm not. I'm not. At least I don't think I am."

She smiled pitifully.

"Now why am I kissing her?" he asked himself as he kissed her. No, she did not draw back. She let him kiss her fair and square. And the terrible strangeness and mystery of destiny shook him. For he was a man who could comprehend and appreciate big things.

"A near thing, that!" he said to himself. "An hour later, half an hour later, and I should ha' been——"

Thus he reflected as he went out to give exactly two minutes to Lady Eleanor in the kiosk. He was armed now against the weapons of Lady Eleanor in the summer night.

On the first day of his ownership of the Charing Cross Echo appeared therein an announcement of his marriage (ceremony strictly private) to Maidie Furber, daughter of the late, etc., etc.

The Affair at Othman's by Will Payne

INSTALLMENT III.

An Assignment from Frederick Othman.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

FREDERIC OTHMAN is a man of some mystery, living in New York in a house of forbidding aspect, and a good deal talked about since the murder on his doorstep, some months before, of a Russian who had called on him. Othman is rich and a devotee of beauty—particularly of Titian's "Daphne," which he owns. He shows traces of oriental origin—"Turk" Othman, folks call him. To him, one night, comes

NELSON BARLOW, a young society wastrel who has forged and embezzled under circumstances that put him in Othman's power. In a moment of drunken indiscretion he has revealed that he "has something" on

STAMFORD MARSDEN, his friend and a business man of reputed probity. Othman demands that, as the price of his help, Barlow tell what he knows about Marsden. Barlow narrates a story, stumbled upon by accident, of a girl abandoned years before in a Maine village, and a supposedly illegitimate child. Othman thereupon announces that he is in love with

FLORA MARSDEN, Stamford Marsden's daughter, and is determined to marry her. He is handicapped socially, and promises to help Barlow and make him rich if he will bring about the match. Barlow agrees, proposing that Othman win favor by rescuing Marsden's unsuccessful shipping business. Othman goes about his courtship skillfully, not only with generous financial aid to Marsden but also with contributions to Mrs. Marsden's pet charities and a suave way of making himself agreeable to the girl, who has already announced her blithe intention of marrying for money. All of which is infinitely depressing to PHILLIP KENDALL, a distant cousin of the Marsdens', who is earning a precarious living as a reporter and is hopelessly in love with Flora.

IN raincoat and cap, hands in the coat pockets, Kendall trudged dourly across City Hall park in a sodden snow that might at any moment turn to rain. At Brooklyn bridge he took the subway to Forty-second street, then tramped up Fifth avenue in the murky slop, growling to himself. For this was the sort of assignment he especially detested, the sort that had brought him half a dozen times almost to the point of throwing up this 'prentice work of newspaper reporting. Perhaps he would have thrown it up, only good old Pat Cullen, the city editor, let him off from this sort of thing whenever he could, at the same time assuring him philosophically that he was an idiot for having such a thin skin as to mind it.

"Nothing at all personal about it, son," said the philosophical Pat. "Personally, you wouldn't want to see the lobster any more'n he wants to see you. Personally, you'd tell him to go to hell as cheerfully as you'd take a drink when you're dry. You go to see him as the Evening Forum—not as the Hon. Phillip Kendall, descended from William the Conqueror and ascending to the heights of Parnassus. You go not as a person but as a newspaper; and if the pup doesn't treat you right, put in any nasty little dig about him you can think of. I'll print it."

Kendall realised the soundness of the philosophy, yet unreasonably hated this sort of assignment. At the door of the club he presented his card and named the member he wished to see. At once he felt himself invested with an air of suspicion. He was waved over to sit on a marble bench, in his dripping hat and coat, while inquiry was made in the recesses of the club. This was half-past one. Sleek members were coming in to luncheon, shedding their coats and hats, chatting as they moved across to the elevators. Sometimes they glanced casually at the wet figure on the bench. Silly, of course, to have that feeling of being an intruder; not only silly, but contemptible. He was there on business for his employer, just as many of those sleek members went about on business for their employers. The member for whom he asked was in no hurry about making up his mind whether or not to see him. The reporter waited a quarter of an hour without a sign, and he was looking diagonally across the lobby.

"Well! Hello there. Kendall!" said a friedly voice. Here was Nelson Barlow standing over him, smiling, holding out a hand. Barlow was without hat and overcoat; had evidently just come in for luncheon and recognized him sitting on the bench. From several former meetings he had a tolerant liking for this genial, amusing man. He explained why he was there.

"O, yes; Michaels; he comes here often," Barlow commented cheerfully. "Probably they'll find him for you. I haven't seen you for some time." He sat down on the marble bench, crossing his long legs, clasping his hands over an upthrust knee, ready for a sociable little chat.

Barlow did most of the chatting—genial and amusing. His experienced eyes twinkled at the young man with a shrewdly humorous appreciation. "Haven't seen you at Marsdens' lately."

Kendall mumbled something about having been busy.

Barlow chuckled, as much at himself as at anybody else, it seemed: "Probably it's just as well. I haven't been going there so much myself lately." He chuckled again. "There's been quite a clearing out, in fact. The little fish always scatter when a big fish appears. There's a whale swimming in those waters now—Frederic Othman—small fry clearing out." Humorously musing, he looked over at the fresco a moment. "Well, there's money enough, Lord knows. Tops seem much taken with him. I'm betting it'll be a match. I fancy he pulled Stam's shipping business off the rocks. It was practically gone up three months ago. Takes a long bank account to swing a shipping business through now." He looked around at the young man, smiling more broadly. "I could have given 'em my blessing, but that doesn't keep a man out of bankruptcy court." He glanced at the clock. "I've got somebody waiting for me upstairs. Why not take lunch with me here tomorrow?"

"A reporter on an afternoon paper doesn't lunch—except on business," Kendall replied.

"Well, some other time, then," said Barlow, genially, and stood up. He nodded down a good-natured adieu and strolled over to the elevators. A club servant slid up to say: "Mr. Michaels is at lunch now. He will see you if you come back at half-past two."

Kendall stumped out of the club to telephone Cullen for instructions. He wouldn't have asked the club the small favor of using its damned telephone. But by the time he found a telephone it didn't matter in the least; he would as soon have gone back to the club as not; nothing of that sort mattered. For by that time it had got through him, like a sword: Flora Marsden and Othman!

He was pondering it in a sort of appalled misery. Othman—of course, he had saved the family fortune, the shipping business. They were paying by selling her. Probably they didn't really know. Certainly gentle Mrs. Marsden didn't know. Above all, it was impossible that Flora herself knew. Handed over, her eyes blindfolded.

There was an insatiable urge to see her. Certainly it would do no one any good. What could he say? What business of his was it? Saying anything would be the rankest impertinence. All the same, as though he had learned that she was about to die, there was an insatiable urge to see her.

His lodging, only a bedroom and bath, on Ninth street, was fairly within a stone's throw of Washington square, and that made it all the harder, because she was so near—three minutes' walk. So near! He pondered it, in misery, till past midnight. She had met Nelson Barlow at the Ritsel for tea. Perhaps she would go to tea with him. But if she did, what could he talk to her about? Now that he had kept away from the house so long, and now that he had this thing of Othman in his mind, the simple business of seeing her assumed huge difficulties. If he went to the house, what could he say? How ask her to meet him? Yet that urge to see her persisted.

RATHER miraculously, when he called the next afternoon she was at home alone. But still more strangely, although he was in the same room with her, it was purgatory. She called him "Phillip," although almost from the first she had cousinly called him "Phil." She didn't once bubble at him; the sparkle was all gone. She was gracious, for how could she help being that? But subdued, quite grave—talking soberly of serious topics. He thought he bored her. As he muddled doggedly on with it, she seemed farther away from him than she had ever been after his first call as a stranger. She seemed to be taking her state and measuring off great social distances between the daughter of Stamford Marsden and the young man from Indiana who happened to be a remote relative. But he had never been more keenly aware of her rareness and charm. So much vivid beauty and grace, being sold to a Turk!

The dull call came to an end. She held out her hand and said a conventional, gracious thing.

"But I keep track of you all, all the same, at second hand," he replied; "through the society columns. I see your name often—and Mr. Othman's." Even as he spoke the words a secret monitor told him, "Why, that's utterly asinine!"

She seemed to feel some slur, and remarked coolly, "Yes; he's interesting." The tone was a rebuff. So much beauty and grace being sold to a Turk!

He looked a picture of dogged misery, and blurted stupidly: "The man's just swine, Flora. I know it." Idiotic as a slap in the face!

She turned pale with anger and lifted her chin, eyes darting fire at him; but her voice was subdued as she replied: "You don't know him. We do, and think highly of him."

Stupidly, helplessly, he repeated: "The man's just swine. I'm sorry."

Somehow he got himself out of the house. It could not have been done worse; yet, finally, he had to do it. She was being carried away triumphantly before his eyes. He had to throw the first stone he could get his hands on—knowing it would do no good. As he stalked purblindly up the avenue toward his lodging it came to him that this was finis so far as Flora Marsden was concerned; he could never see her again. How like an idiot and a blackguard he had behaved!

Flora Marsden was distrait that evening. Abruptly and unexpectedly to herself, she made a confession to Nelson Barlow, with a faint smile, like one speaking out of a day dream: "Phil Kendall called this afternoon—to tell me Mr. Othman is only swine."

Barlow smiled with humorous indulgence and commented, "A neighborly message!" But in fact he did not take it as lightly as that. There was something wrong. His comedy had prospered for two acts; but there it stuck. With an author's clairvoyance he could see that it was not progressing to the dénouement. Othman felt that also, and chafed. But they had another expedient in reserve.

Therefore, about three o'clock of the third afternoon following the disastrous call on Flora, when Kendall's work for the day at the Forum office was practically finished and, in a low mental state, he was glancing over his day's story in a copy of the paper that was still damp from the press, an office boy notified him that Mr. Cullen wished to see him. He stumped indifferently down the local room to the besmudged and belittered throne of the room's potentate. The city editor looked up from under his green eye shade and gave him a terse instruction:

"The old man wants to see you." But there was something in the look, or the air, which conveyed a half hidden significance.

Every newspaper office has an old man, or the boss. The Forum's old man was Arthur Murray, editor in chief—rosy, chubby, hair thin over his noble dome, and a mustache that seemed to have been originally of some other color and to have faded to this bedraggled, toneless yellow; a taciturn man with a stony air. Murray motioned to a chair beside his desk and frankly studied his employé for a leisurely moment before speaking:

"I want a man who won't crack under strain; a man who'll stand without hitching when a fire engine goes by. It's a matter of honor—my honor and the paper's honor. I've picked you."

Naturally Kendall felt flattered and embarrassed, and could only mumble, "I'll try to deserve the compliment."

The taciturn editor continued: "You know where Frederic Othman's office is. Go down there and see him at half-past three. Say I sent you. It's a confidential job, Kendall. A few careless words scattered around may blow us all up; so don't scatter any. Othman practically owns this paper now. He's got something he wants you to look up. Of course, he's the boss. Whatever he wants you to do, go ahead with. If it's going to keep you away from the office, just telephone Cullen when you'll be back. It's your assignment from the paper, too, you understand. If you please Othman, it will be a good thing for all of us here. He'll explain what he wants."

Murray's hard eyes followed the young man out of the office. Kendall went in astonishment; an assignment from Frederic Othman! He had no reluctance about it, but a rather lively curiosity. To Othman, of course, he would simply be a reporter from the Forum—an automaton to which the name Kendall happened to be attached. As Phillip Kendall, he hated Othman; as reporter, he was curious to see what Othman looked like, to hear what he talked like. He did not try to conjecture what Othman might be wanting of him—some reporter's job, no doubt; getting some information.

KEEPING to the strict letter of the bond, he said nothing to Pat Cullen, but left the office to stroll a few minutes, until it should be time for him to walk down Nassau street, cross Wall, and, with a minute's further walking, go up twenty stories in an elevator to Othman's office—the office named in the telephone directory, for there were a dozen other hives, such as the Bullion bank, Amalgamated Munitions, Manifold Trust, where he was quite at home.

Kendall entered a small anteroom where a heavy-shouldered young man sat at a desk. The man took his card, pressed a button, handed the card to a boy. Promptly a private secretary appeared, smiling, and led Kendall across a larger room with desks for four typists, on through the secretary's office, at the farther side of which he threw open a door with a silent and smiling invitation to enter. Kendall found himself in a simply furnished room, well lighted by two broad windows that overlooked the harbor, with its busy shipping. A dark, heavy-faced man behind the broad desk looked up with a perfunctory little bow, yet there was no ill nature in his businesslike air. He picked up the reporter's card as though he had not noticed the personal name on it before, and said, "Mr. Kendall?" with a slight motion toward the chair at the end of the desk. Then he coolly studied the caller a moment, as though mentally appraising the article which Murray had sent him.

"What did Mr. Murray tell you?" he asked.

"Nothing, except to come here. He said you would tell me."

"It's a confidential matter, Mr.——"—his eyes shifted quickly to the card again—

"Mr. Kendall. I asked Mr. Murray if he could send me a young man who could be depended on to the limit." He made the statement so composedly that no one could have taken offense at it, and added: "Any little carelessness will spill the beans. You may know I have an interest in the Forum?"

"So Mr. Murray said."

"Yes." Othman took a moment for reflection, like one who must proceed with care, and with the tip of a finger touched a hair of his thick black mustache. The action, with a slight drawing of the lip, displayed a bit of his white, even teeth. His dark eyes fixed gravely upon the caller, he went on quietly and with a complete assurance, like a man serenely conscious of his own power: "I have an interest in Mr. Stamford Marsden, too." The eyes seemed to hold Kendall in a grip. "Mr. Marsden is in the shipping business. Probably you've heard the name. The shipping business is in a bad way now. Mr. Marsden's business is in danger of bankruptcy. I mean to pull it through. I have some shipping plans of my own that it fits in with."

Again he lightly touched a hair of his mustache, his eyes holding. "You see, Mr. —Mr. Kendall, if you and I are to work together, I propose to put all the cards on the table. Otherwise, I wouldn't want to work with you at all. I might simply tell you to do certain things and let you guess as to why I want them done. But I'd have to tell you something; and if I'm going to tell you anything, I'd rather tell you everything. I've found it pays. I've had a pretty extensive business experience. I'll work in the dark or I'll work in the daylight; but I don't like twilight—working with a man who's got one foot in and one foot out. If he's coming in at all, I want him to come clear in—or stay clear out. So, I'm telling you the story from the start." He said it in an oddly impersonal way, as though he were stating a problem in arithmetic.

"Newspaper offices are great whispering galleries. I'm going to pull Mr. Marsden through, but it takes some watching out. A month or so ago I told Mr. Murray that if he heard anything about Stamford Marsden I'd like him to let me know it. What I had in mind was something affecting his business, you understand. There was a certain situation at that time. I wanted to know if any gossip was afloat. So I spoke to Mr. Murray about a month ago. Well, yesterday Mr. Murray brought me a letter. You may as well read it."

He opened a dawer and took out a large, stout yellow envelope that looked familiar to Kendall because its upper left hand corner bore the sprawling red return card of the Evening Forum. From that envelope he took another, of ordinary letter size, which he handed across the desk. It had been opened, but Kendall examined its exterior a moment; an ordinary, cheap, white envelope, such as one can buy anywhere at ten cents a package. The cancellation of the two-cent postage stamp showed it had been mailed in New York. It was addressed, in typewriting, "Editor of the Forum, care The Evening Forum of New York, New York City, N. Y." In the lower left hand corner "Confidential" was typed in capital letters and underscored with a heavy line of red ink.

It struck Kendall that the typing had been done by an inexperienced hand. The periods were driven half through the paper, as though by a clumsy touch. He drew out the enclosure—a single sheet of cheap white paper, with a message in the same typewriting:

"Editor of The Forum: I see by your society column today Frederic Othman entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stamford Marsden 'and daughter,' as though he had only one daughter. He has another daughter, born in lawful wedlock which a marriage certificate will show. He committed bigamy and abandoned his lawful daughter.

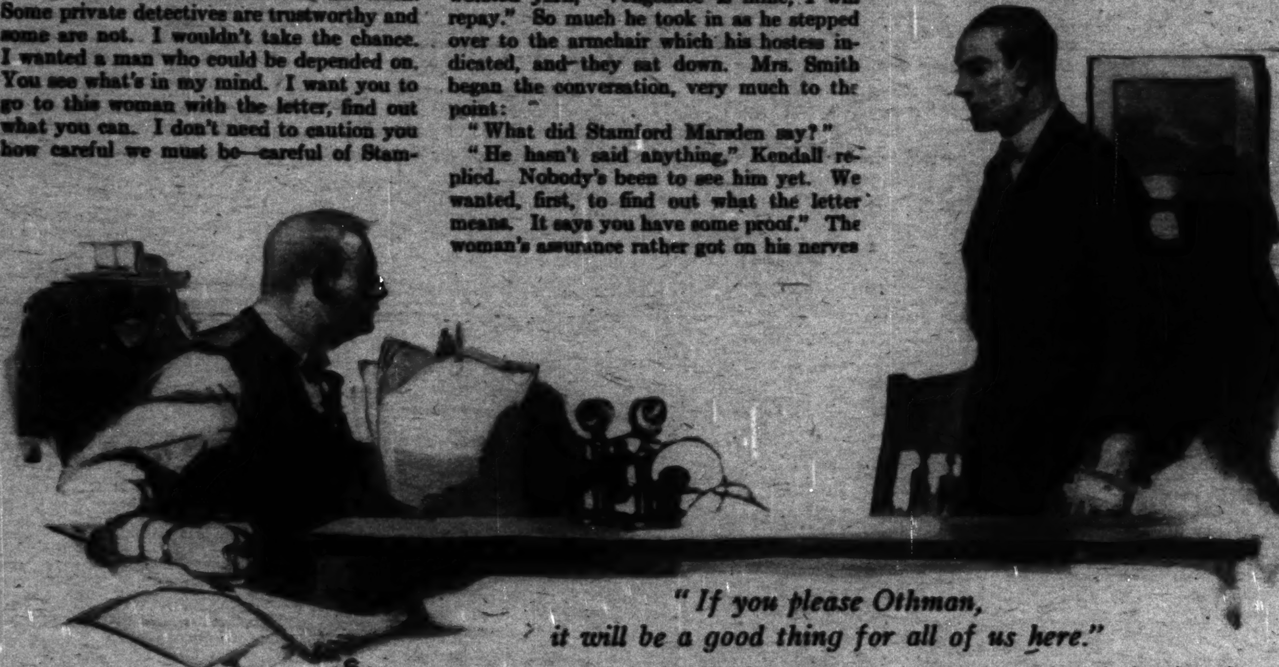
"None are so Blind as those who Will Not See. Do not you be blind, Mr. Editor. Mrs. Josephine Smith, 166 Forty-fifth Street, third floor back, is in possession of facts.

"Your Sins Shall Find You Out.

"A MAN WHO KNOWS."

Kendall's eyes clung to the paper a moment after he had finished reading; he then looked blankly up at the man behind the desk.

"What do you make of it?" Othman inquired.



"If you please Othman, it will be a good thing for all of us here."

"Blackmail, I suppose," Kendall answered. "Probably written by this woman whose address is given."

"Exactly," said Othman, as though the answer pleased him. "I thought so, and so did Mr. Murray. But there's a question. A blackmailer would hardly begin by writing an anonymous letter to a newspaper. As I see it, if this woman wrote the letter, she's already been after Mr. Marsden, and Marsden has told her to go to the devil—or, at any rate, he hasn't satisfied her. So she writes this letter, supposing Murray will send a reporter to see Marsden about it and that will frighten Marsden. Yet it seems to me that would be a risky thing for a blackmailer to do—letting a newspaper in on it. Doesn't it strike you that a blackmailer would hesitate to do that?"

"Well—it would be unusual," Kendall admitted.

"It looks so to me." Othman seemed perplexed: "And then that biblical quotation—bunk—for effect, maybe. On the other hand, it may be a crank—somebody who's cracked and has got hold of some gossip and built up a theory, as cracked people do." He thought it over a moment.

"Well, there are the facts, Mr. Kendall. When I mentioned Stamford Marsden to Mr. Murray, I didn't think of anything like this. But here it is. Naturally I want to handle it carefully. I wouldn't hand this over to the police, or to a detective agency. I know nothing about Stamford Marsden's younger days. Maybe they were like the younger days of plenty of other men who are born to a fortune and social position and so on. Being born with a gold spoon in your mouth is apt to make you careless. For all I know, there may have been something—back in those younger days—that would give a handle to a thing like that. In that case, putting this letter into hands that were more or less slippery would just get another blackmailer on his track. Some private detectives are trustworthy and some are not. I wouldn't take the chance. I wanted a man who could be depended on. You see what's in my mind. I want you to go to this woman with the letter, find out what you can. I don't need to caution you how careful we must be—careful of Stamford Marsden and his family. Report to me, please. If you telephone here or to my house, you can get an appointment almost any time. I will make whatever report is necessary to Mr. Murray." He turned to his desk. His business with Kendall was finished—coolly, efficiently, like a machine; so he turned to the next piece of business.

RIDING up to Grand Central station in the subway Kendall was forced to make the reluctant admission that, while Frederic Othman might be a swine in certain respects, there were other respects in which he gave a good imitation of an honorable man. He had spoken quietly and courteously enough—but that heavy jaw and a certain undefined air of force! Having seen Frederic Othman face to face, he hated him more cordially than ever. But what could lie behind this strange letter?

The first thing that lay behind it was a dingy brick residence which had been converted into a building of little two and three room flats, with a second hand book shop on the ground floor. An oak door with a small, square panel of glass in the upper part gave on to a tiny vestibule in which a row of letter boxes showed that seven tenants were nested somewhere upstairs between the narrow walls. A plain printed calling card stuck in one of the boxes read "Mrs. Josephine Smith." He pressed the button above that card and soon heard the answering click of the electrical mechanism, operated from upstairs, which unlocked the inner door. Opening the door, he climbed two long, narrow flights and went to the end of the hall. Mrs. Smith's card, companion to the one in the vestibule, was pinned to the doorjamb. He knocked.

A tall, thin woman opened the door, swinging it wide with a certain boldness, as though to advertise that the occupant of this small rear flat had nothing to hide and defied the world to imply the contrary. Her dark, lusterless hair was drawn severely back from her full brow in a style that comported with the austerity of her plain black dress. Were her eyes gray? At any rate, she seemed an intelligent woman of a high strung, nervous temperament, her long, thin hands indicating that. He had vaguely expected to find a slinking, slippery, frowsy person. Mrs. Smith was quite the opposite. She looked him full in the eye, and his first impression was that, at any rate, she was not in the least afraid.

"Kendall is my name," he began; "a reporter from the Forum. The editor received a letter that gave your name and address." He proffered the letter.

Mrs. Smith drew it from the envelope, glanced at it, looked him full in the face again, frankly taking stock of him, and said, "Come in."

He stepped into a little sitting room. Behind it there would be a cubby of a bedroom, or perhaps two such cubbies, a tiny bath, a tinier kitchenette. The furniture had no particular character beyond a certain decency; but two touches distinguished the habitation from a thousand or ten thousand, others in the city. There was a large, black framed steel engraving with the title "Ecce Homo," and there was a framed text, worked in cardboard with red worsted yarn, "Vengeance is mine, I will repay." So much he took in as he stepped over to the armchair which his hostess indicated, and they sat down. Mrs. Smith began the conversation, very much to the point:

"What did Stamford Marsden say?"

"He hasn't said anything," Kendall replied. Nobody's been to see him yet. We wanted, first, to find out what the letter means. It says you have some proof." The woman's assurance rather got on his nerves. At any rate, she was evidently a person with whom one need not be over-reticent; so he asked plumply, "Didn't you write the letter yourself?"

Perfectly unabashed, she considered it a moment, studying his face, and replied, "Yes, I wrote it."

The boldness of the reply startled him. Already he was secretly bristling with antagonism as he got a fuller impression of this woman. That full brow, with the dark hair combed severely back, and the sallow, unhandsome, but striking face above an austerely black dress—there was something in it vaguely reminiscent of the Inquisition. If the dress were a black robe, one could imagine her supervising the application of thumbscrews. He saw she had once been—not pretty, certainly, nor even handsome, but a striking looking woman and would be a striking looking woman still if dressed to advantage.

"What are the proofs?" he asked.

"Do you know Stamford Marsden by sight?"

"Yes."

She arose silently, stepped over to a door, and disappeared, closing the door behind her—something grim and portentous about it. He was fairly prepared to see her return with a black robe and hood on. What she did return with, however, was a photograph in a narrow silver frame which she handed to him, standing over him as he examined it. The photograph was faded and had evidently been taken many years before. It showed the bust and head of a smiling young man. The mustache was smaller and silkier, the face, with its generous nose and strongly carved chin, was much younger than now; but Kendall recognized it beyond a doubt.

"Is that Stamford Marsden?" she challenged.

"Looks like him," the reporter admitted, with a sinking heart.

"Let him acknowledge his daughter and support her as he should," she announced, as though she were delivering judgment. She recovered the photograph and returned to her chair; and there bluntly stated her case.

"In 1898 I kept a boarding house in Greenwich, Conn. The building was torn down years ago. I owned a small two story dwelling back of the boarding house, on the rear of the same lot, that I made over into two flats—one upstairs and one downstairs, four rooms each. In May this man—" she lifted the photograph—"and a young woman came to look at the top flat. It was vacant, and there was a for rent sign in the window. They gave the names of Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, and rented the flat and stayed in it more than a year. The man was away from home a good deal, going back and forth to New York, they said. He was not at home in March, 1899, when his wife gave birth to a baby girl, but he came a few days later and stayed about a week, as near as I recollect it. He went away then, and that's the last I saw of him. His wife was in low spirits after the baby came. I began to suspect he had deserted her. She never said anything about him, and I didn't try to pry into her affairs. She had money and paid the rent promptly. But one day I did ask her if she was married, and she showed me a marriage certificate. Then in June, of a sudden, she packed up and left. This photograph had stood on her bureau. Some way, in packing up, it fell down behind the bureau. I found it there after she'd gone.

"I never saw her after that. But that same fall I saw a picture of young Stamford Marsden in a New York newspaper in connection with an account of his wedding. I recognized it. My husband passed away that winter. I sold my Greenwich property and came to New York and lived with my sister for a while. My brother-in-law was cashier in a steamship office on lower Broadway. One day he pointed out Stamford Marsden to me on the street. It was the same man."

She paused a moment, compressing her lips. "I went to Ohio in the spring, and next year married a clergyman, the Rev. Edmund Wesley Smith. We went to California after a few years. Mr. Smith passed away there, leaving me in comfortable circumstances. I remained on the coast more than ten years, and then came back east. I didn't know at the time why I was keeping this photograph all that while. But I know now there was a leading of Providence in it. By the same leading, knowledge came to me that this man's unacknowledged daughter was living in Nero, Maine, under the name of Marie Marsh. I waited a good while, making sure of my ground. But I am sure of it now. I would not have written that letter if I had not been sure."

THREE-QUARTERS of an hour later Kendall tramped down the two flights of narrow stairs, sick in mind. It was then six o'clock, and he plodded along, deliberating somewhat as a man might deliberate over the choice of committing suicide by poison or by hanging. He hated going to Othman with this mess, or to anybody; he told himself it was late, Othman would have left his office: at any rate, it might as well go over till morning. But there was a simple question of duty. He was under Othman's orders, and Othman had mentioned calling up his house as well as his office.

Finally he turned in at a drug store, consulted the telephone directory, entered a booth. The message that came back was: "Mr. Othman will see you here at the house. He will be obliged if you will come at once."

"Be there in ten minutes," Kendall replied; and tramped on to Fifth avenue, turning north in it. He, too, had often noticed that uncommon facade, blank in the lower story, with a Byzantine suggestion in its windows. He stepped into the tunnel-like driveway, mounted the stone steps, pushed the bell button. An English looking butler opened the door, heard his name, and admitted him. A brisk young footman took his coat and hat and led him upstairs to a spacious library at the rear of the second story, where Othman was waiting for him.

The rich air of the house was not lost upon Kendall. Here wealth lived, amply; of course, women liked these things. His own modest bedroom and bath on Ninth street came to his mind by way of a shattering contrast. The master of all this greeted him amiably and supplemented the greeting with: "Well, what did you find?"

"That woman—Mrs. Smith—wrote the letter," Kendall replied. He mortally hated repeating the story. But it was so clear and simple a question of professional obligation that there was no way out of it, and he met the obligation squarely, rehearsing all that Mrs. Smith had told him.

"I don't exactly make her out," he added, pondering. "She seems to be the pious pest kind; religious fanatic—married to a clergyman." He gave a sour little laugh. "They must have made a sweet pair! Her object appears to be moral retribution—looks upon herself as the chosen instrument for teaching him that the wages of sin is death. That was all I could get out of her." He looked perplexedly at his host. "You can imagine a woman of that kind getting hold of some evidence and writing that letter. But it may be blackmail for all that. She showed me this photograph I speak of. It does look decidedly as Mr. Marsden must have looked twenty-five or so years ago."

"You know Mr. Marsden by sight, then?" Othman asked.

"O, yes; I've seen him," Kendall answered. But his bond seemed to require no further explanation on that point. "And her story is circumstantial enough. Only she side stepped telling me how she knew that this girl who, she says, is Marsden's daughter, is living in Nero, Maine. She said the knowledge had come to her. I tried to get some details as to how it came. And she said, 'You can go there and see for yourself if you want to.' There seemed no point in pressing her any further, as she was inclined to make a mystery of it. Maybe she only wanted to impress me with the hand of providence idea; make me see it as a sort of mysterious revelation."

Othman touched a hair of his mustache, thoughtfully. "An odd story, certainly. And this place—what did you say the name of that town in Maine is?"

"Nero," Kendall answered.

"I wonder if there is any such town," Othman speculated. "We can easily find out. And she says this woman at Nero—this hotel woman—is getting money from Marsden?"

"That's what she says. Her story is that when the child's mother died the hotel woman, Mrs. Kate Chadwick, took the child and has brought it up as a sort of informally adopted daughter, but making the girl work her passage all the same. Her point, to put it in a nutshell, is that Mrs. Chadwick gets blackmail from Marsden and keeps the girl in ignorance of her parentage."

"Do you think that could be true?" Othman asked in a slightly shocked tone.

"I shouldn't think so, from all I've ever heard of Marsden," Kendall answered, dully.

"No, I shouldn't think so," Othman commented, thoughtfully. "A young man and a pretty girl—of course, any one can understand that. And if a man finds himself in a devil of a mess he may take high handed courses to get out of it." He mused over that a moment and threw it aside with, "Well, we're not Mrs. Chadwicks—or Mrs. Smiths, I should say. We're not required to sit in judgment on our neighbors' conduct. This may be a devilish delicate thing to handle. Here's this woman—and if she's really got something it may be mighty ticklish. How did you leave it with her? What did you tell her finally?"

"I told her I was going to look it up and that I would come and see her again."

"Good!" Othman commended. "That will keep her quiet for a while, at any rate." Kendall felt again that sort of inscrutable compulsion which the other man's dark eyes seemed to convey, a look of assured power. The same assurance was stamped on his face with its heavy jaw—a formidable animal that would have its way and knew it.

"It's a difficult case," Othman went on, his voice, although low and composed, with a certain grating note in it. "Ten to one this woman you've been to see is really after money—taking this religious pose in order to get more money finally. Even if she's got some such idea as she suggests—retribution and so on—it's a hundred to one she'll take money finally." He grinned, faintly. "They mostly do, finally. You think she's got brains?"

"Yes, I think so."

"Well, if she's got brains and is playing a fine game it means she's after a high stake." The grating note in his voice turned harsher, like a command. "I don't want her to go to Marsden. As I told you, Mr. Kendall, Marsden's shipping business is tied up. If he gave this woman any large amount of money he'd have to come to me for it. I don't want him to have to do that. It would humiliate him afterwards. That's what I want to avoid. Mr. Marsden's been under a heavy strain lately. I'm going to pull him up on his feet and give him a better opportunity in business than he's ever had before. But I want him to be all himself—not distracted now. I don't want anything humiliating to him in our relationship. Understand?"

Kendall nodded, his eyes downcast.

"So I want to handle this business myself, with your help. I'm telling you all about it so you can act to the best advantage. We must keep it away from Marsden because he's in no position to stand this jolt. If I undertake to see a man through I see him clear through, Mr. Kendall. This may all be a fake. This woman showed you an old photograph that she may have got hold of somewhere, and she told you a story; it may be a fake. But we've got to be just as careful as though we knew it was true. You get the point. I suppose I needn't say that this is something much above ordinary newspaper work and I'll see that you're well paid."

Kendall's self-respect quivered. Hiring himself out to Frederic Othman personally was somehow so different from hiring himself professionally to the newspaper which Frederic Othman owned! He hated the suggestion and itched to fling it back. But his common sense realised that Othman, after all, was merely talking business to a young man of whom he knew nothing except that he was a reporter on the Forum. He must keep in mind always that to Othman he was simply a reporter. And, above all, here was a case which did need delicate handling on behalf of the Marsden family. So he only mumbled, with a touch of impatience:

"It's really an assignment from the paper, Mr. Othman—my expenses and salary are all I expect."

"Well, we'll see to that later," Othman replied. "First thing is to get the job done. Strikes me you best go up to this town in Maine—Nimrod—and see what you can find out there. You needn't bother about the newspaper until you're done with this."

So, it seemed, whether he liked it or not, he was to become Mr. Othman's personal employé—one notch above his valet.

We Grow New Hair

in 90 Days—Stop Falling Hair

or Your Money Refunded—Written Guarantee

This is to offer you new hair—lustrous, beautiful, attractive—or money refunded.

It offers, too, to stop falling hair.

If we fail, the treatment costs you nothing. Your own dealer gives the guarantee. Hence you assume no risk.

More than 300,000 women have made this test. Results are amazing. The charm of wonderful hair is now available to almost any one who chooses to have it.

Why 6 Women in 8 Have Dull, Unattractive Hair

Science has made many amazing discoveries. It is now known that hair roots seldom really naturally die. They can be revived in many cases—given new life.

We have proved that in our own experience by regrowing hair on 91 heads in 100.

The method we use is new. Two years of exhaustive experiments were spent perfecting it.

Now many world-great dermatologists employ the ingredients. Some charge as much as $300.00 for a similar basic treatment.

Falling hair; dull, lifeless hair; hair without sheen or lustre—6 women in 8 have it.

We have demonstrated that the reason for most of it is a very simple infection. An infection of the scalp oil, Sebum. This new way quickly overcomes it. It starts to act almost instantly. The effect is soon marked.

The Infected Sebum in Your Hair

Sebum is an oil. It forms in the glands at the follicles of the hair. Its natural function is to lubriate the hair.

But frequently it becomes infected. It cakes on the scalp, clogs the follicles and plugs them. Go to the mirror. See it on your scalp, either in the form of oil or, when dried, as dandruff.

Germs by the millions breed in it, then feed upon the hair. Soon your hair begins falling. You note, too, how lifeless it appears. In a short time all the natural lustre and beauty are gone.

But—remove the infected Sebum and the hair reverts back to the softness and brilliancy it displayed when you were a schoolgirl.

The Van Ess treatment accomplishes that result. We know you will doubt it. So we guarantee it.

New hair grown in 90 days. Falling hair stopped. Your own dealer gives you our guarantee with a 90-day treatment. If we fail, your money will be refunded by us, without argument.

We urge you to give this new way a fair trial. It is folly not to test it; for remember, you take no risk.

Go today to any drug or department store. Obtain the Van Ess 3-bottle treatment. With it you will get the guarantee.

Note This New Way

It Massages the Treatment Directly Into the Follicles of the Hair

You can see from illustration that Van Ess is not a "tonic." You do not rub it in with your fingers. Each package comes with a rubber massage cap. The nipples are hollow. Just invert bottle, rub your head, and the nipples automatically feed lotion down into follicles of the scalp where it can do some good. It is very easy to apply. One minute each day is enough.

The CRUISE of the SPEEJACKS

Photographs Taken by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Y. Gowen, Former Chicagoans, During Their 38,000 Mile Journey Around the World in a 98-Foot Gasoline Yacht.

PRIMITIVE, but ingenious, nevertheless, is the steering gear with which his majesty the camel is maneuvered by those who know him best. A loop over the nose, a bit of rope through a nostril, and the ship of the desert is all set for cruising.

THE ZOO CUTOUTS

INSTRUCTIONS

Take a scissors or knife and cut out the six pictures below. First cut on the line on the extreme outside edge, being careful not to cut into picture. Next cut on the line A-B-C. Then fold on dotted lines, bending background back until top edge and bottom edge come together. Then insert pin as shown and animal will stand. (See illustration opposite.) If you wish you may paste the pictures on cardboard before cutting out; or you may copy or trace the pictures on a separate sheet of paper or cardboard, color them up and make your own cut-outs.

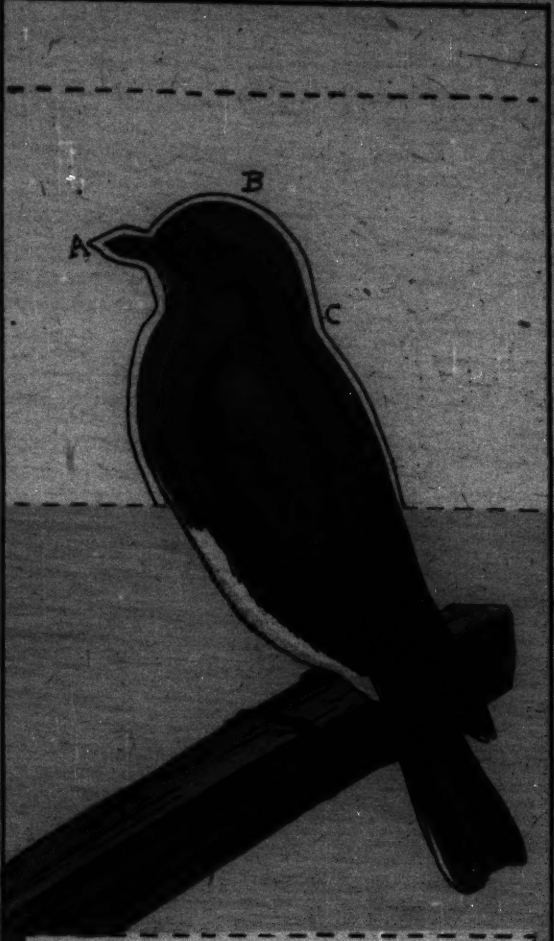
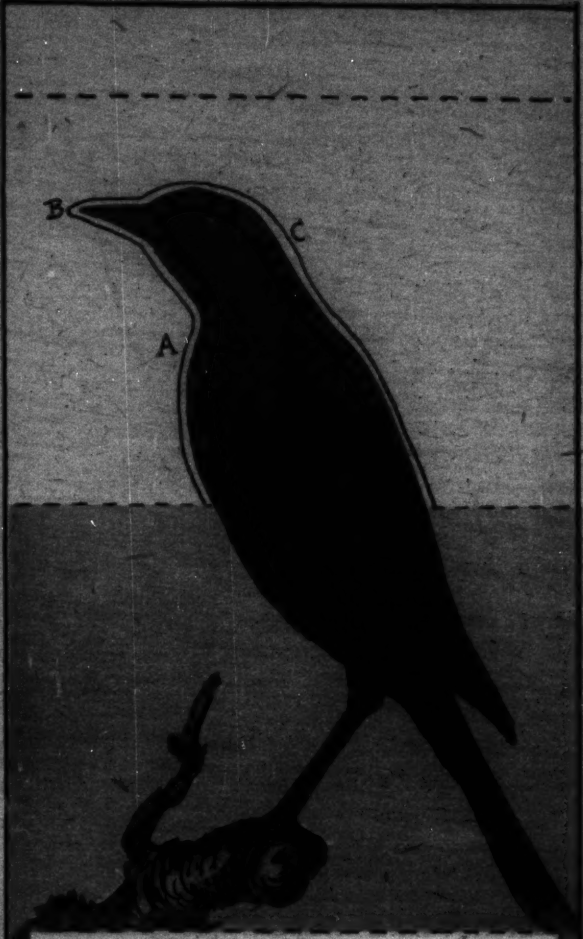
The Song Sparrow twitters endlessly!
A wee philosopher is he!



"Bluebird for happiness" we say.
He shooes old winter on its way.



Bronzed Grackle's known as "crow."
"Caw! Caw!" he says, you know.

At a distance the Purple Grackle looks black;
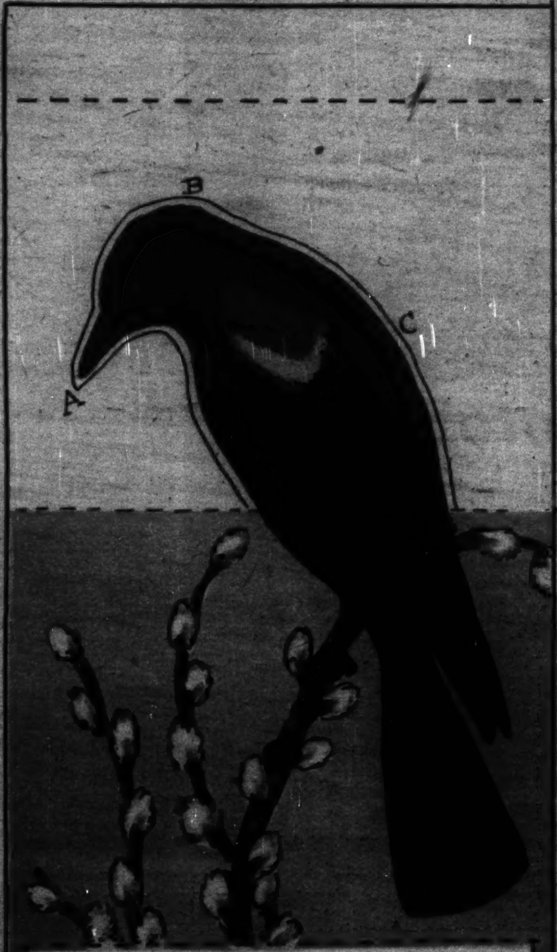
He loves rich cornfields to attack.



On prairies lives the Red Winged
Blackbird—
There his sweet song may always be heard.

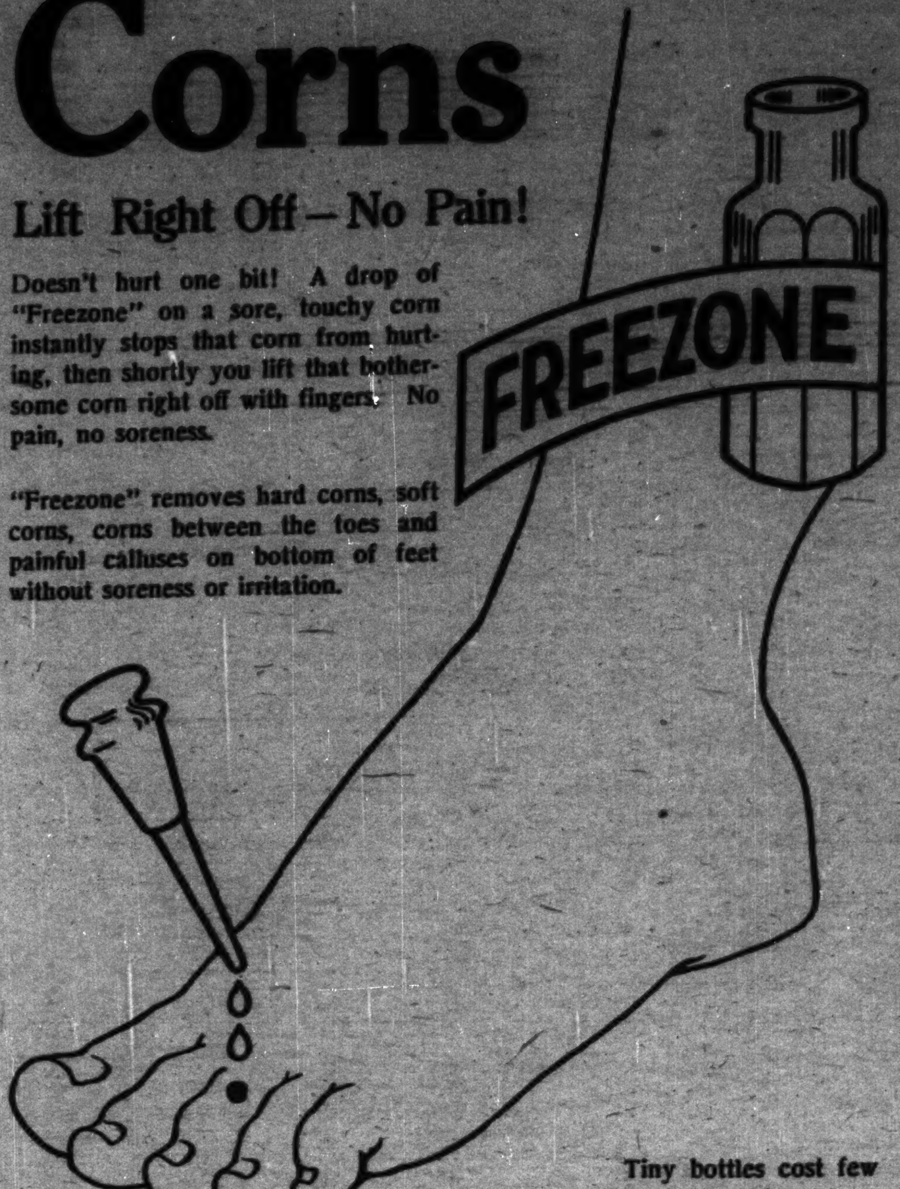
Fox Sparrow, shy, with touch of red,
In marshes makes his home, 'tis said.



Corns

Lift Right Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! A drop of "Freezone" on a sore, touchy corn instantly stops that corn from hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn right off with fingers. No pain, no soreness.

"Freezone" removes hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes and painful calluses on bottom of feet without soreness or irritation.

Keep back the acids of decay —by stimulating the natural cleaning processes

Five minutes after you brush your teeth, the destructive mouth acids are forming on the enamel.

The natural cleaning processes of the mouth which should keep them back, no longer work as Nature intended them to.

* * *

But Pebeco overcomes this difficulty. It gently stimulates the mouth glands to flow more freely. This healthy increased pouring-out of fluids neutralizes the acids as fast as they form.

Pebeco cleans your teeth thoroughly and at the same time re-vitalizes your whole mouth—stimulating the natural cleaning processes to keep your teeth safe.

Restores Hair Color Yet Not a Dye

Thousands of men and women in America have found in Nourishine a genuine tonic which harmlessly restores the hair to the original color whether, black, brown or blond. Nourishine CANNOT cause the hair to streak, become brittle or to split. On the contrary it revitalizes the hair, promotes its growth, cleanses the scalp, stops itching and UNFAILINGLY BANISHES DANDRUFF.

Remember that Nourishine is a tonic—not a dye—and that the ONE LIQUID RESTORES THE ORIGINAL COLOR WHETHER BLACK, BROWN OR BLOND. It is as easy to apply as so much water. It contains ingredients known by all scientists as beneficial for the hair and scalp. It restores the color evenly, naturally.

Whether you have gray hair or not, use Nourishine to banish dandruff and to promote the growth of the hair. This truly wonderful tonic feeds and nourishes the follicles, thus re-establishing healthful conditions.

Whatever you have tried, try Nourishine. You will find it pleasingly different. $1.25 per bottle, all drug and department stores or by mail postpaid.

Blackheads

Keep your skin free from blackheads by this treatment

Perhaps your skin is especially susceptible to blackheads.

If so, you must use a special method of cleansing, in order to overcome this trouble.

Follow this treatment, to keep your skin free from blackheads:

EACH night before retiring, apply hot cloths to your face until the skin is reddened. Then with a rough wash-cloth work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the pores thoroughly, always with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with clear hot water, then with cold. If possible rub your face for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

Within a week or ten days you will be surprised to see how your skin has improved in clearness.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today at any drug store or toilet goods counter. A 25-cent cake lasts a month or six weeks for this treatment and for regular toilet use.

Guard Your Breath

Bad odor kills every charm

Always carry May Breath with you. Before any close contact, eat a tablet to be safe.

Many factors cause offensive breath, yet the offender rarely knows it. Cigars or cigarettes may cause it, decaying food between the teeth, affected teeth or gums. Or it may come from the stomach, caused by some disorder, or by certain foods or drinks.

Be your sweetest, look your best, and that bad odor may kill every charm.

OVER THE SIDE TO RECONNOITER in the recent war maneuvers near Porto Rico. The rather strange looking contraption is a marine corps seaplane being launched from the United States transport Sirius for a flight over Culebra island. In this mimic warfare the marines landed 2,000 men in the face of the "enemy" in the record time of six hours.

LANDING 3,000,000 POUNDS OF STORES in six and a half days was another achievement of the marine's expeditionary force during the southern war game. This picture, which gives an idea of the impressive extent of the operations, shows a part of the landing stage which extended from the shore to the transport Sirius in the harbor.

Why no other pancakes can have that famous Aunt Jemima flavor

THAT Aunt Jemima Pancakes do have a distinctive and wonderful flavor is evidenced by the fact that more than five hundred million of them were eaten last year.

For many women can make pancakes that brown nicely, that are sometimes very tender and fluffy, as healthful pancakes must always be. But no one can match the Aunt Jemima flavor. Even in the old-time South, in the land of good cooks, that was generally admitted. Guests of Colonel Higbee, Aunt Jemima's master, frankly told him as much.

And so it was that, years later, a representative of a milling company, having once tasted some of Aunt Jemima's pancakes, returned to Louisiana to buy her recipe. Successful then, though many others had met with stern refusals while her master lived, he persuaded the old mammy cook to sell it.

With the attempt to prepare this recipe in ready-mixed form, Aunt Jemima's secret came out!

What Aunt Jemima's secret was

It was found that Aunt Jemima didn't use ordinary flour for her pancakes; she used a special kind, an exceptionally fine grade of wheat flour. And that she mixed with it smaller quantities of other flours seldom found in the stores today—these and other materials all exactly proportioned.

Today we mill especially for Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour the special flours Aunt Jemima used, and we mix in the other ingredients exactly as she did according to her secret recipe.

More than that, between the mixing machines and the packaging room at the Aunt Jemima Mills, there's a kitchen. As the flour mixture goes through, our cooks take some out, and every five minutes they make pancakes. This to make doubly sure that we have retained in Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour the old-time Southern flavor.

With Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour you can also make delicious waffles and muffins very easily. The recipes are on the package

Today you get it so easily—just add water or milk, mix and bake

Now there is only one way to get the famous Aunt Jemima flavor in pancakes; but it's an easy way. You just add water (or milk, if you wish) to Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour, beat a little and whisk the batter onto a hot griddle. (Follow recipe on the package.) You get perfect pancakes every time—the same tender fluffiness, the same rich color, and most important, the same distinctive flavor that Aunt Jemima got.

Tomorrow morning let the aroma of sizzling Aunt Jemima pancakes bring your family to breakfast on the run. How fast those cakes will disappear and how the smile on each face will broaden! Yet what an easy breakfast it is to make.

Special offer

In return for this coupon and 6c in stamps or coin (to cover cost of special packaging and mailing) we will send you a sample package of Aunt Jemima Prepared Buckwheat Flour, a sample package of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour and an interesting folder, "The Romance of Aunt Jemima," with recipes for special pancake treats. If you want the jolly Aunt Jemima family of 4 rag dolls, too—all in bright colors, ready to cut and stuff—send 30c in stamps or coin.

We want you to compare Aunt Jemima pancakes with your own or with any others you've ever tasted. Compare them for color, texture, ease of making and especially for flavor. We're confident you will always want these pancakes with the old-time Southern flavor.

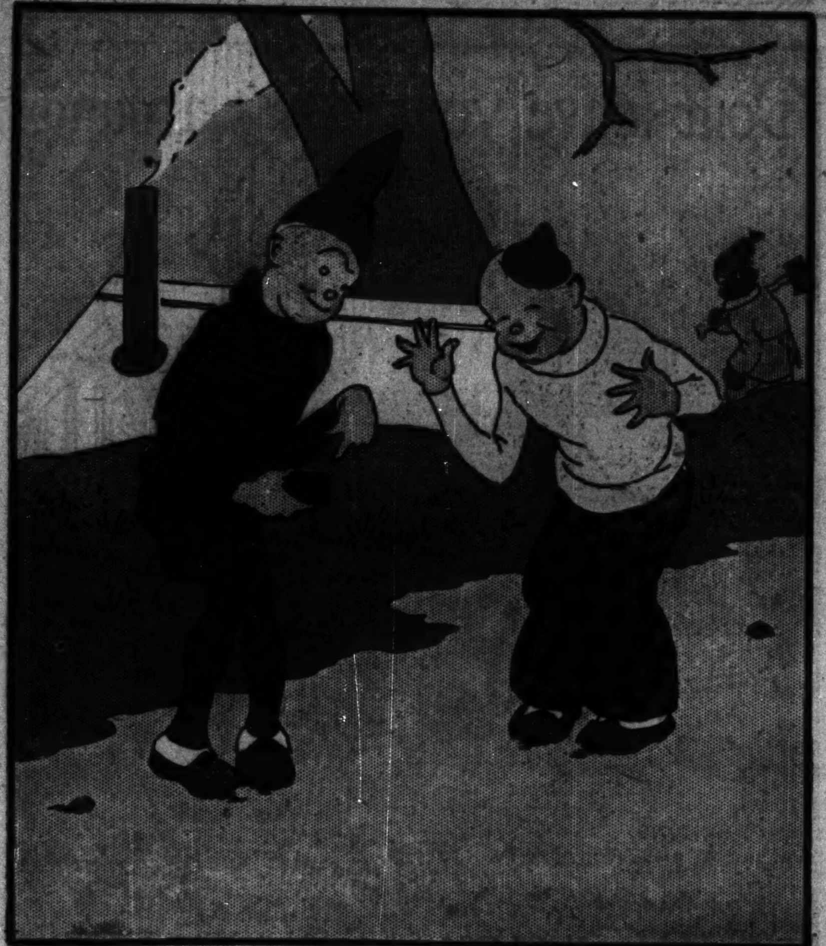
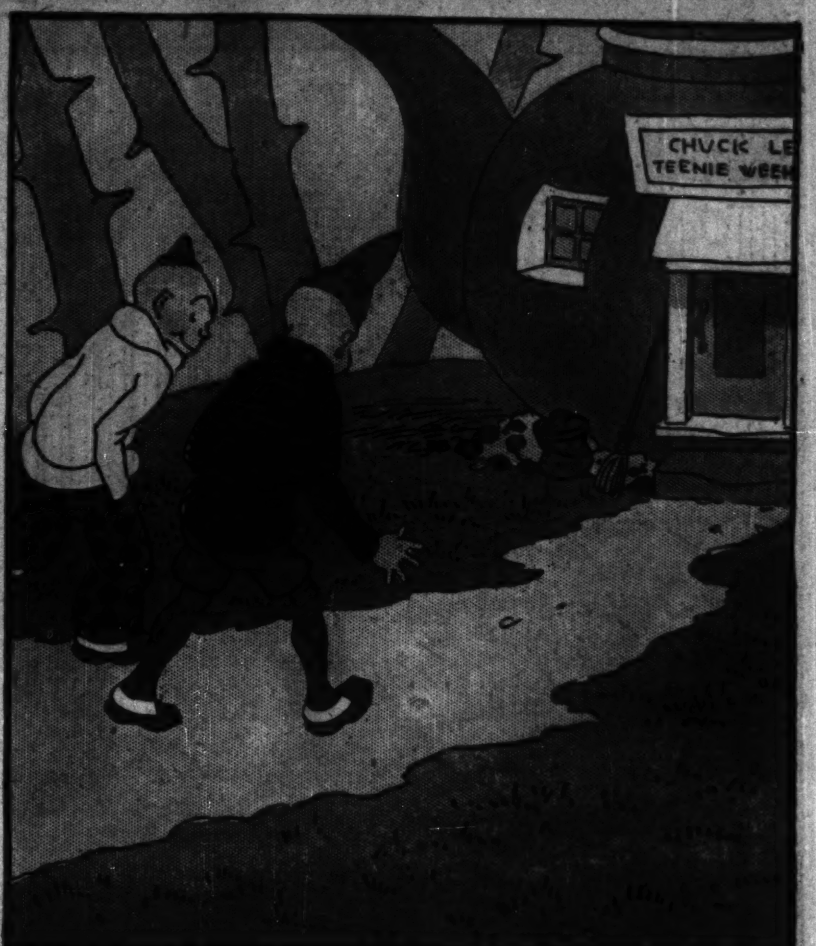
THE DUNCE COULD THINK UP THE WORST TRICKS TO PLAY ON FOLKS. HE WOULD SOMETIMES SIT FOR ALMOST AN HOUR WITH HIS BROWS ALL PUCKERED UP, PLANNING SOME FOOLISH JOKE ON ONE OF THE UNSUSPECTING TEENIE WEENIES.

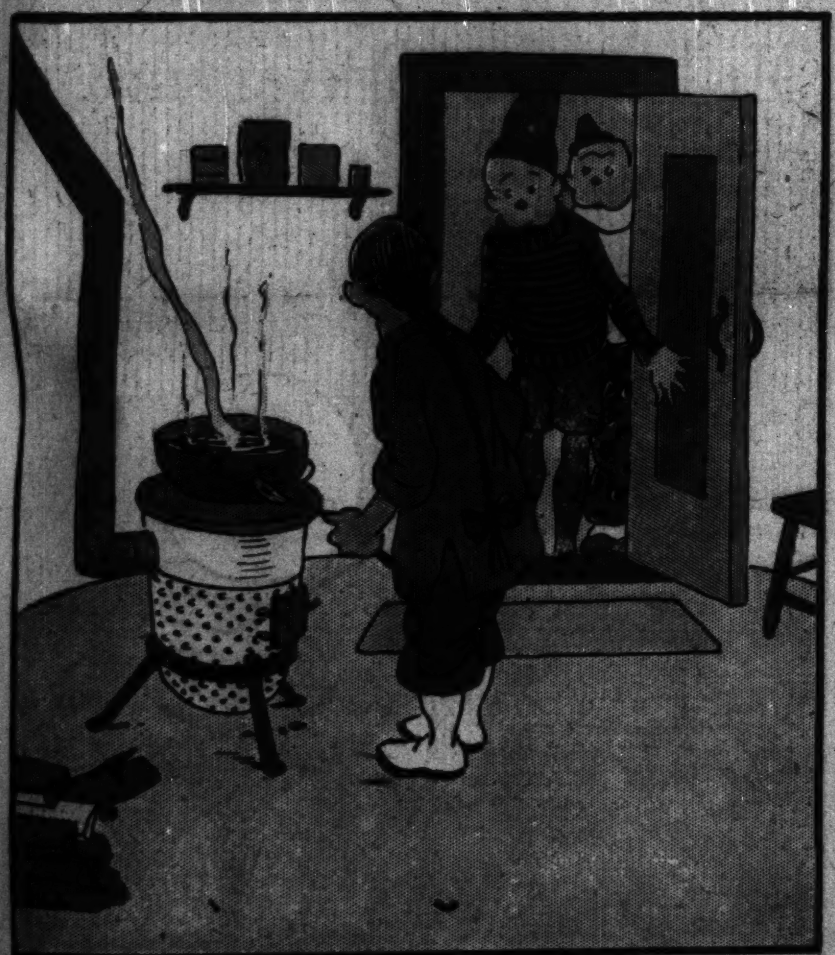


ONE DAY HE PLANNED A JOKE ON THE CHINAMAN AND HE TOOK THE CLOWN INTO HIS CONFIDENCE. "I'VE GOT SOME CAYENNE PEPPER IN THIS BOX—WE'LL GO OVER TO THE CHINAMAN'S LAUNDRY AND PRETEND THERE'S SOMETHING IN IT THAT SMELLS GOOD—HE'S CURIOUS, AND HE'LL WANT TO SMELL TOO."

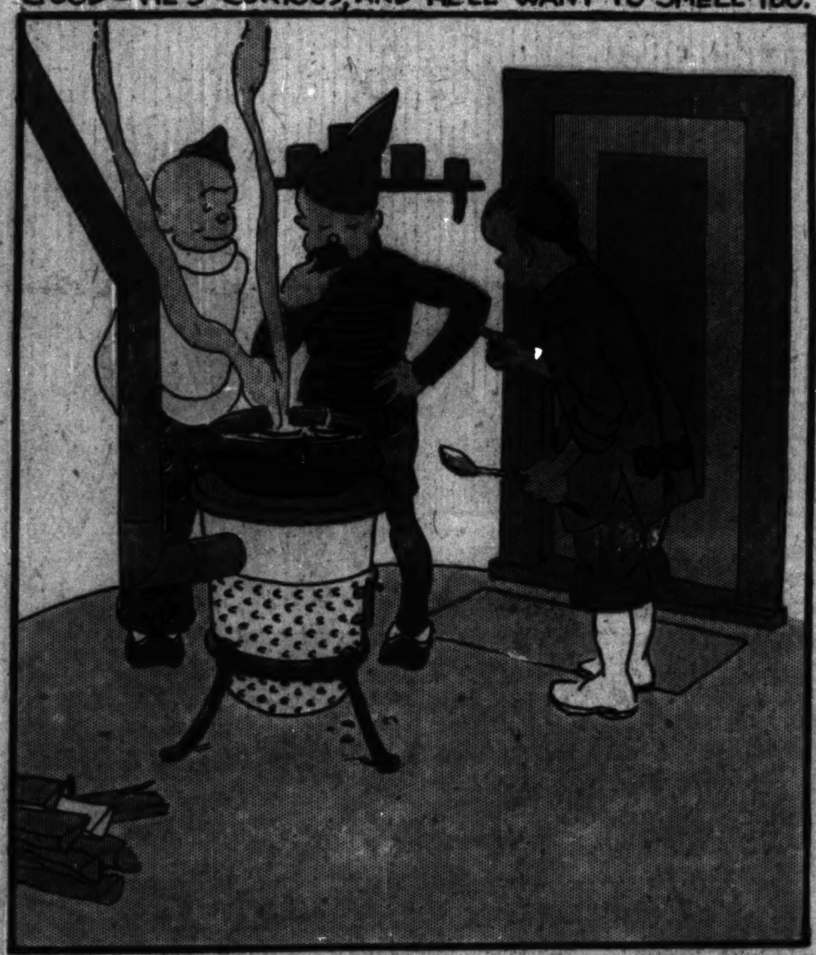


THE TWO TEENIE WEENIES CHUCKLED TO THEMSELVES AS THEY MADE THEIR WAY OVER TO THE CHINAMAN'S OLD TEA POT WHERE HE RAN THE TEENIE WEENIE LAUNDRY.

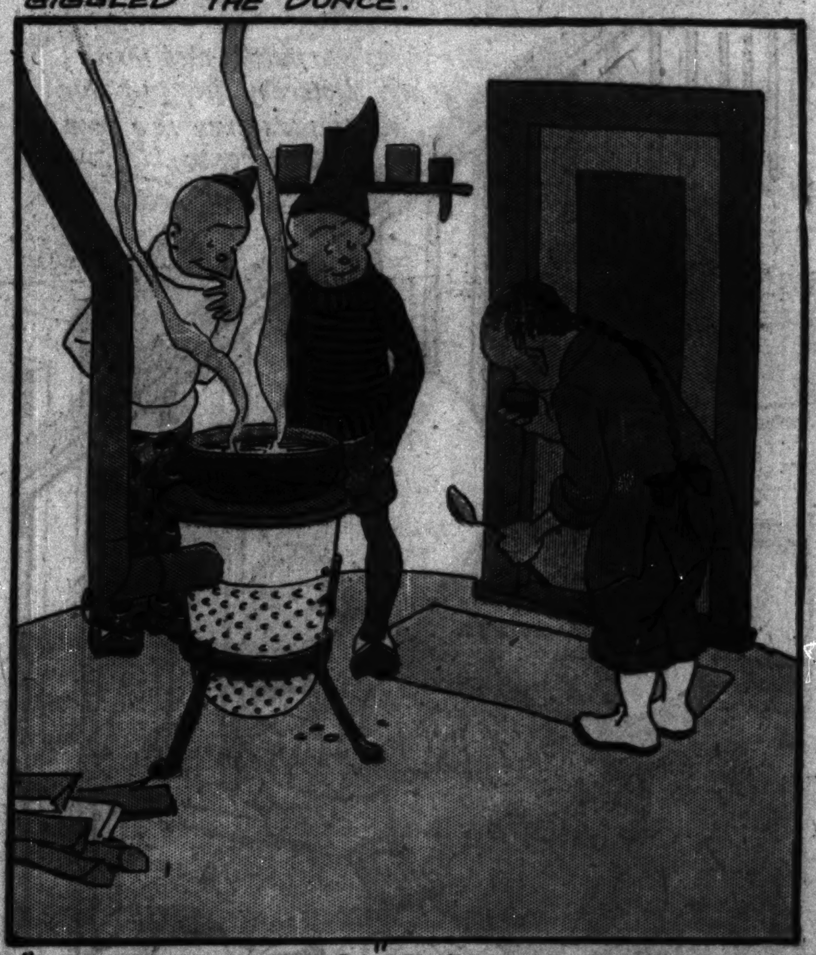
"I'LL BET HE SNEEZES HIS FOOL HEAD OFF," GIGGLED THE DUNCE.



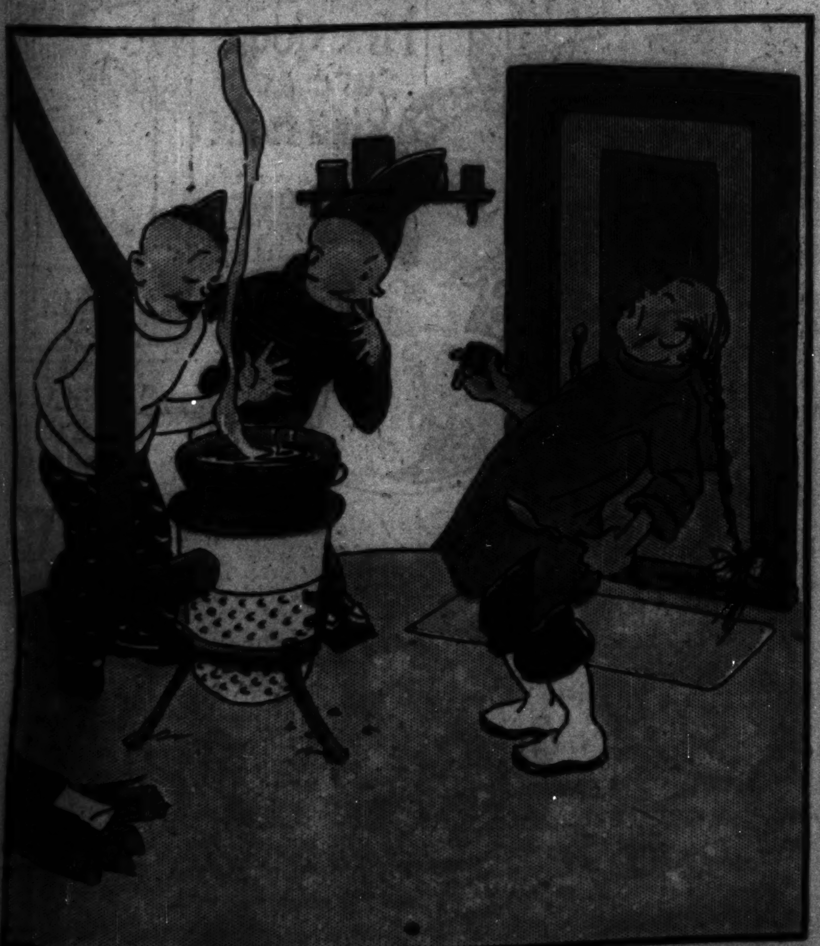
"COMIE LIGHT IN," ANSWERED THE CHINAMAN WHEN THE TWO TEENIE WEENIES KNOCKED AT THE LITTLE DOOR. THEY STEPPED INTO THE OLD TEA POT AND FOUND THE CHINAMAN BUSY COOKING A POT OF SOUP ON HIS TINY THIMBLE STOVE.



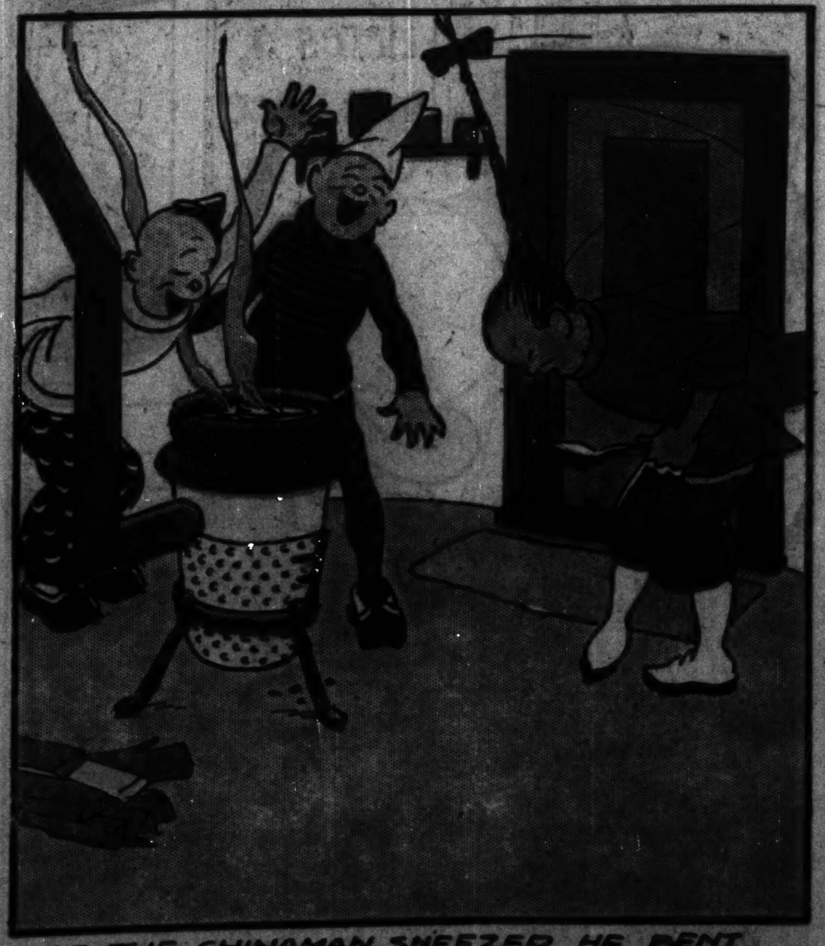
WHEN THE TWO TEENIE WEENIES HAD TALKED TO THE CHINAMAN FOR A FEW MINUTES, THE DUNCE TOOK OUT THE BOX OF PEPPER AND PRETENDED TO SMELL IT WITH MUCH PLEASURE. "WHATIE GOT?" ASKED THE CURIOUS CHINAMAN. "OH JUST SOME RARE OLD PERFUME," SAID THE DUNCE INDIFFERENTLY.



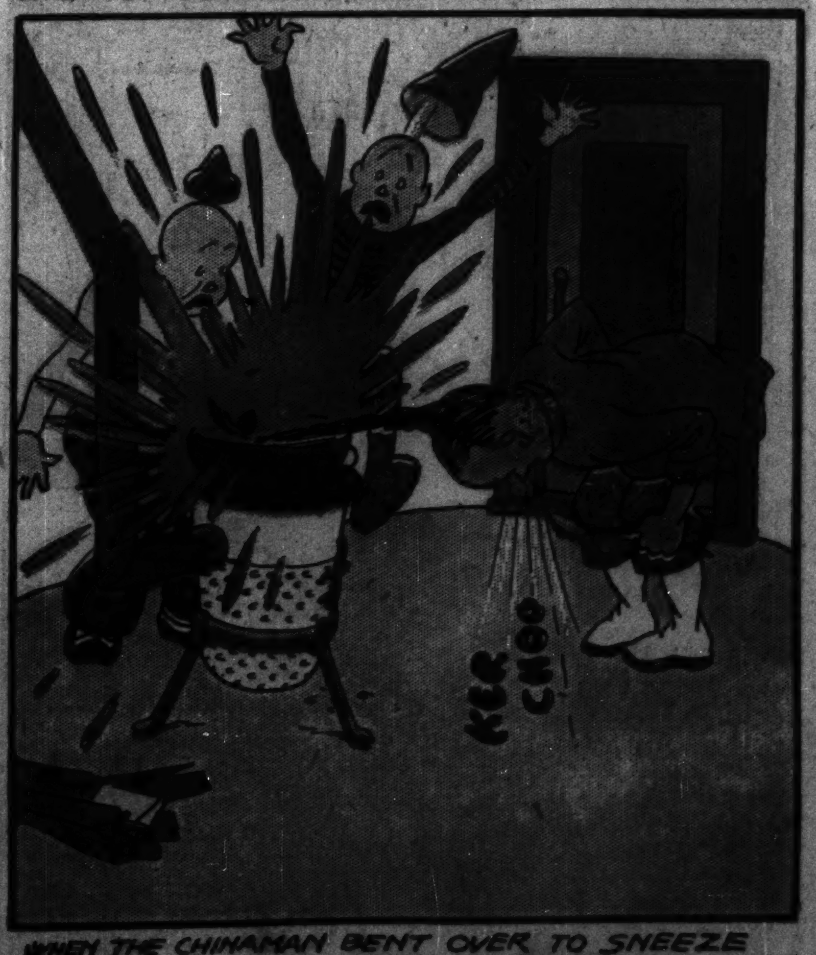
"LETIE ME SMELLIE?" CRIED THE CHINAMAN. "ALL RIGHT," SAID THE DUNCE HANDING THE BOX TO HIM. "YOU'LL HAVE TO TAKE A DEEP SMELL IF YOU WANT TO GET THE FULL BENIFIT," AND HE WINKED AT THE CLOWN, WHO WAS BITING HIS LIPS TO KEEP FROM LAUGHING.



THE CHINAMAN PUT THE BOX OF PEPPER TO HIS TINY NOSE AND TOOK A LONG DEEP SNIFF. "OGGIE," GASPED THE CHINAMAN AND THROWING HIS HEAD BACK HE MADE READY FOR A MIGHTY SNEEZE.



AS THE CHINAMAN SNEEZED HE BENT FORWARD AND HIS LONG QUEUE FOLLOWED IN THE AIR LIKE THE TAIL OF A KITE. THE TWO TEENIE WEENIES BURST INTO LOUD SHOUTS OF GLEE, BUT THEY LAUGHED TOO SOON, FOR—



WHEN THE CHINAMAN BENT OVER TO SNEEZE HIS QUEUE SWUNG HIGH OVER HIS HEAD AND CAME DOWN WITH A SPLASH, RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE POT OF SOUP, SPLASHING THE HOT STUFF ALL OVER THE DUNCE AND THE CLOWN. SERVED THEM RIGHT.

WELL, SKEEZIX, HONEY, IT'S TIME FOR YOU TO GET READY FOR BED.
NO SKEEX WANT TO TAY UP AN PLAY.
IF YOU'LL PUT YOUR BLOCKS AWAY NICELY AND WILL GET UNDRESSED WITHOUT MAKING ANY FUSS UNCLE WALT WILL TELL YOU A STORY.
SURE!
UNCA WALT TELL SKEEX TORY BOUTA BEAR.
ALL RIGHT. HERE GOES. ONCE UPON A TIME A POOR MAN AND HIS WIFE LIVED ON THE EDGE OF A DEEP DARK FOREST.
THEY HAD A LITTLE BOY WHO WAS ALMOST ALWAYS A GOOD LITTLE BOY AND HE ALMOST ALWAYS OBEYED HIS PARENTS. HE WAS TOLD EVERY DAY HE COULD PLAY ANYWHERE EXCEPT THAT HE NEVER COULD GO BEYOND THE BIG BLACK WALNUT TREE THAT STOOD AT THE EDGE OF THE FOREST.
ONE DAY A LITTLE GIRL WHO LIVED IN ANOTHER HOUSE NEAR THE EDGE OF THE FOREST CAME TO PLAY WITH THIS LITTLE BOY. THEY PLAYED ON THE LOGS AT THE BACK DOOR FOR HOURS. THEN THEY SAT DOWN AND BEGAN TO WONDER WHAT WAS BEHIND THE BIG BLACK WALNUT TREE THAT STOOD AT THE EDGE OF THE FOREST
AND THEN THE LITTLE BOY AND THE LITTLE GIRL FORGOT WHAT THEY HAD BEEN TOLD AND WENT AROUND THE OTHER SIDE OF THE BIG BLACK WALNUT TREE. "WHY IT'S JUST THE SAME AS IT IS BEHIND ANY OTHER TREE," THE LITTLE BOY SAID. "I GUESS MY MAMA AND DADDY DIDN'T KNOW THAT."
AND THEN THEY SAW A LITTLE GREY RABBIT SITTING UP ON HIS HAUNCHES AND BLINKING AT THEM. HE STARTED BOBBING AWAY AMONG THE MAY-APPLE LEAVES AND THE CHILDREN LAUGHED AND RAN AFTER HIM. THEY RAN AND RAN AND RAN. SUDDENLY THEY STOPPED. "WE MUST NOT LOSE SIGHT OF THE BIG BLACK WALNUT TREE," THEY SAID. "THERE IT IS," POINTED JEAN, FOR THAT WAS THE LITTLE GIRL'S NAME. SO ON THEY WENT AFTER THE LITTLE GRAY RABBIT.
"NOW WHERE IS THE TREE?" ASKED SKEEZIX, FOR THAT WAS THE LITTLE BOY'S NAME. "THERE," SAID JEAN. "BUT THERE IS ANOTHER AND ANOTHER AND ANOTHER," SAID SKEEZIX. AND SURE ENOUGH, TO THE SOUTHWEST AND TO THE NORTHWEST AND TO THE EAST, THE SOUTH AND NORTHEAST AND ALL THE DIRECTIONS BETWEEN THERE WERE BIG BLACK WALNUT TREES AND JEAN AND SKEEZIX WERE LOST!
"GRR-R-R" SAID A DEEP GRUFF VOICE BEHIND THEM AND A BIG BROWN BEAR SLIPPED OUT OF A HOLLOW TREE. "IT'S LUCKY FOR YOU THIS IS THURSDAY AFTERNOON," HE GROWLED. "WHY?" THE CHILDREN ASKED. "BECAUSE," SAID HE, "ON THURSDAY MORNING I EAT A COW AND A CALF AND A PIG AND A HALF AND I'M NOT HUNGRY ON THURSDAY AFTERNOON."
"THEN SHOW US THE WAY OUT OF THE FOREST," THEY BEGGED. "NOT UNLESS YOU WILL COME AGAIN ON SOME OTHER DAY THAN THURSDAY," SAID THE BEAR. "THE FIRST TIME WE WANT TO DISOBEY OUR PARENTS WE'LL COME BACK," THEY PROMISED. SO THE BIG BROWN BEAR LED THEM TO THE FIRST BIG BLACK WALNUT TREE THAT STOOD AT THE EDGE OF THE FOREST.
BUT THESE TWO LITTLE CHILDREN FOOLED THE BIG BROWN BEAR. THEY NEVER DISOBEYED THEIR PARENTS AGAIN AND THE BIG BROWN BEAR WAITED AND WAITED AND ONE THURSDAY WHEN HE COULDN'T GET ANY COW AND A CALF AND A PIG AND A HALF HE STARVED TO DEATH AND THE CHILDREN AND THEIR PARENTS LIVED HAPPY EVER AFTER.
NOW I GUESS IT'S TIME FOR MY LITTLE BOY TO BE IN BED
NO! TELL ME AGAIN, UNCA WALT!
